PREFACE.

THE name of LOCKWOOD is of very ancient origin. Lockwood is mentioned in Domesday Book, which dates it back over eight hundred years.

A place of the name in Staffordshire, England, is celebrated for the medical quality of the water of its springs.

There was also a town of Lockwood in Yorkshire, England. In the reign of Edward III. one John Lockwood was attached to the royal party, fought at Naseby, and was there wounded, 1327–1377.

In 1392 the name of John Lockwood is mentioned. In 1470 the Lockwood estates passed to the Henshaws by marriage. In 1530 Dews Hall, County Essex, and Gayton, County Northampton, Rev. Richard Lockwood, Rector of Dingley, in said Northamptonshire, had a Coat of Arms granted to him: "Argent, a fesse between three martlets sable." The martlets indicate that he was the fourth son.

The writer was told more than twenty-five years ago, by that greatest of all American antiquarians and genealogists, the late Samuel G. Drake, Esq., of Boston, Massachusetts, that "Antiquarian labors are labors of love."

In December, 1858, the Hon. Edward Everett stated in an address: "I have never known a person whose self-reliance was of so austere a cast that he did not take pleasure, when it was in his power to do so, in tracing his descent from an honored line."

The undersigned has, for forty years, taken a great interest in genealogical researches, and has prepared family records for several New England families.

In 1877 he turned his attention to the name of Lockwood. In 1881 the "Lockwood Historical and Genealogical Society" was formed at the Astor House, in the city of New York, with Mr.

Amos. D. Lockwood, of Providence, Rhode Island, as its President. That excellent gentleman was very much interested in the object of the work of the society, but, unfortunately for it, died before its work was completed.

Circulars were sent, with direct questions to be answered; and they were very generally promptly replied to. A large correspondence ensued. Letters came to me, with the circulars filled up, from almost all the States in the American Union, and finally letters and records came to hand from England, Scotland, and even Germany.

Such an amount of information was collected that it surprised the subscriber and many of his friends.

In January, 1888, Messrs. John W. Lockwood and E. Dunbar Lockwood contracted with me for the Lockwood papers, and arranged with the subscriber to complete the records. Both these gentlemen reside in the city of Philadelphia, and it is to them that the descendants of Robert Lockwood are indebted for a work that will compare favorably with its kind among the over six hundred family records already printed in the United States.

It is impossible for me, after twelve years of labor on the Lockwood family history, to make personal mention of the parties to whom I have been greatly indebted for assistance; all have done nobly. They have cheerfully, promptly, and warmly replied to my interrogatories, and have offered to render any further assistance in their power.

To my friends, bearing the honored name of Lockwood, I respectfully return my heartfelt thanks for aid in this work.

FREDERIC A. HOLDEN,

Cor'g Member of the New England Hist. and Gen. Soc.;
The Rhode Island, Connecticut, Minnesota, and Wisconsin
Hist. Socs.; and New York Biog. and Gen. Soc.
Also, the Pilgrim Society, at Plymouth; and Author of several Genealogies.

INTRODUCTION.

In 1878 Mr. F. A. Holden commenced to compile the "Lockwood Genealogy," and called upon the writer for information; but he had little to give, except that contained in the Family Bible, as his life had been a busy one, spent at a distance from most of his relations, and he had never met ten persons named "Lockwood."

Some months later, researches were made in the Pennsylvania Historical Society by the undersigned, with the result of discovering that the early Colonial and Revolutionary histories and manuscripts were full of the good work done by descendants of Robert Lockwood. An examination of this Family History will show how honorable that work was.

Meeting with success, the researches have been constantly continued, each new discovery increasing the desire to secure further information.

In 1881, the Lockwood Historical and Genealogical Society was formed, which collected a number of family records, but after a few months the enthusiasm of its members abated, the funds gave out, and the work was stopped. Thus the matter remained until January, 1888, when the writer and Mr. John W. Lockwood, of Philadelphia, purchased from Mr. Holden all his papers, and arranged with him to complete the work for publication, while the undersigned renewed his search in the various historical and biographical societies for additional information, and much of the early Colonial and Revolutionary history of the family has been obtained as the result of a careful reading of a large number of works relating to the early history of the Colonies, etc., and the examination of valuable papers in the Pennsylvania Historical Society, and elsewhere.

Interesting historical facts, occupying but a few lines in this work, have been brought to light by many hours of careful reading of ancient works either not indexed at all or only partially so.

Such, in a few words, is the history of this work. It is the first effort of the writer in this particular line, and would have been a failure but for the thorough and conscientious work of Mr. Holden, who has a well-earned reputation as a genealogist, and to whom the family are greatly indebted for his untiring industry. It is also due to Mr. John W. Lockwood to say that, while unable to give his personal attention to the work, the family is under great obligation to him for his very generous contribution towards the expenses of the publication.

The writer realizes that errors must have crept into this work. The information having come from numerous sources, and so many discrepancies having been found between the dates given in family Bibles, on tombstones, church and court records, it has been difficult at times to determine which is correct.

It was not believed that this volume would exceed five hundred pages, but so much valuable information has been discovered lately that it has grown beyond our wishes or expectations. It was the intention to give a list of the descendants of Robert Lockwood who served as soldiers in the late war, but this Genealogy having assumed such vast proportions, and the time, labor, and expense required to examine the hundreds of volumes published on the war, have forced us to leave that work to some future compiler.

While we are indebted to many persons who have aided in this work, we are especially under obligation to Messrs. F. D. Stone and John W. Jordan, of the Pennsylvania Historical Society; to Wm. H. Lockwood, Esq., of Hartford, for generous contributions of plates of various kinds; Jeremiah Colburn, Esq., and the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, of Boston; the Executors of Rev. Edwin Hall, deceased; Prof. H. P. Johnston, of New York, editor of "Connecticut in the Revolution;" Justin Winsor, Esq., of Harvard College; Messrs. D. Appleton & Co.; Admiral D. D. Porter; the Sherman Publishing Company, and Prof. John Bach McMaster, for favors shown or information given.

LOCKWOODS IN ENGLAND.

No effort has been made by the compilers to obtain information in England as to the ancestors of Robert and Edmund Lockwood (who came to America in Gov. Winthrop's fleet), but an examination of such English works as were accessible in this country, gives some information as to their origin, and such extracts are printed, so that those who feel an interest in their English descent may have a basis from which to trace their line.

The Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica, vol. i. p. 182, gives the pedigree of the Lockwoods for six generations, and it is also given in Part ii., p. 676, of the Visitations of Essex County, England.

Further references to the name may be found in Surtee's Society, vol. xxxvi., 107; Burke's Commoners, vol. iv., 81; Foster's Visitations of Yorkshire, 549; Wright's Essex, vol. ii., 400; and Morant's Essex, vol. i., 174.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT LOCKWOOD,

A. D. 1630.

ROBERT LOCKWOOD

came from England about 1630 and settled in Watertown, Massachusetts, where six of his ten children were born, and where their births are recorded. He was made a freeman March 9th, 1636–37. (Mass. Rec., I., 372.) He was executor of the estate of Edmund Lockwood, supposed to be his brother; see Appendix. About 1646 he removed from Watertown, Mass., to Fairfield, Conn., where he died 1658. (Bolton's Hy. Westchester Co., N. Y., p. 103.) He was made a freeman of Connecticut May 20th, 1652. (Trumbull's Conn. Col. Rec., I., 231.) "This Court Goun'r John Winthrop (of Conn.) presiding, doth confirme Mr. Gold to be Leiften't. Nehe. Olmstead and Robert Lockwood to be Sergeants at Fairfield." (Conn. Col. Rec., I., 299.) He was appointed Sergeant at Fairfield in May, 1657. (Rev. Bouton's Hist. Dis. in 1851, p. 59.) His name is recorded as a settler at Fairfield as early as 1641. (N. E. H. and G. Reg., 7, 157.)

The names and dates of the births of his first six children are printed in nearly all the early historical works of New England. An inventory of his property was made Sept. 11th, 1658, by Anthony Wilson and John Banks. He left no Will.

Aprile ye 30th, 1646, he sold to Bryan Pendleton all the land granted to him by the town, also four acres of remote meadow, bought of Mr. Bridge, except one acre of patch meadow, sold Sept. 29th, 1645, to Edward Garfield. Soon after this he moved to Norwalk, Connecticut. (Bond's Watertown.)

In 1650 Robert Lockwood, of Fairfield, deeded to Rev. John Bishop the house and lot which he had purchased of Elias Bayley, Rev. Mr. Denton's attorney. (Hy. Stamford, p. 50.)

Eleven Lockwoods had been graduates of Yale College in 1834. (Savage.)

NOTE: Edward Garfield, above mentioned, is said to have been the ancestor of James Abram Garfield, President of the United States. His widow, Susannah, was appointed administratrix. The estate was administered upon by her October 20th, 1658. The widow, Mrs. Susannah Lockwood, married Jeffrey Ferris, and died at "Grinwich," December 23d, 1660. (Hy. Stamford, Conn., p. 158.)

Town of Fairfield SEAL Connecticut

WILLIAM HILL,
Secretary.

I, Daniel Moloney, Town Clerk of the town of Fairfield, do hereby certify that the foregoing Inventory of Robert Lockwood, late of Fairfield, who died in 1658, is true and correct according to the Probate Records of this Town.

Attest:

DANIEL MOLONEY,
Town Clerk.

An inventory of the goods and chattels of Robert Lockwood, deceased, in Fairfield, Conn., taken September 11th, 1658, amount £467 3s. 0d., taken by Anthony Wilson and John Banks.

At a court held at Fairfield October 20th, 1658:

The widow Lockwood makes oath that the inventory of her husband's estate, taken by Anthony Wilson and John Banks, hath all her husband's estate included in it according to the best of her knowledge. The Court admits the widow, Susannah Lockwood, to be administratrix.

The deceased, having left no will, the Court orders as followeth, that the widow shall have a third part of said estate, and the children shall have the rest of the estate divided among them. Their names are:

1 Jonathan,	6 John,
2 Joseph,	7 Abigail,
3 Daniel,	8 Sarah,
4 Ephraim,	9 Mary,
5 Gershom,	10 Deborah.

The eldest son, Jonathan, is to have a double portion, only that estate which the said Jonathan received of his father before his death, being here made to appear to be £57 12s., is to be reckoned to be part of his double portion, and what the said £57 12s. falls short it must be made good out of the estate. The rest of the estate is to be divided among the rest of the children, only each of the sons are to have a third part more than each of the daughters. The sons are to have their portion at twenty-one years of age, the daughters at eighteen years of age, unless they marry sooner, then to have it at marriage. Deborah, being married, has received her portion of her father before his death. Mr. Ward and Alexander Knowles are appointed to be overseers.

Per me:

WILLIAM HILL,
Secretary.

Here follows the estate of Jonathan Lockwood received of his father before his death:

WILLIAM HILL,
Secretary.

Whereas Jeffrey Ferris stands engaged to pay unto ye children of Robert Lockwood, deceased, certain portions according to ye administration entered upon record by said Jeffrey, being now removed out of this jurisdiction, he desires to pay ye said legatees equally, and to be freed of his engagement in that line for ye future, provided he be paid. It is agreed with ye consent of the court that, upon estimate, ye said Jeffrey shall pay to William Ward and Joseph L. and Daniel L. or any of them. That such payments shall be recorded by the secretary, and what is so paid shall be esteemed received from ye said Jeffrey for ye said children's use, and when all ye legacies are so paid, the said Jeffrey and his heirs shall be quit from any further demand of the said legacies. And the said William, Joseph and Daniel, according to what they do receive, they are to pay it to the several children of the said Lockwood, deceased, according as they shall attain their respective ages, as in the former administration is recorded. It is agreed that what household goods that are left at Fairfield shall be paid at the same price as it was valued at in the inventory, and that it be settled.

Two men, indifferently chosen by them, are to appraise them. (Fairfield Records.)

Deposition of Susan Lockwood.

Susan Lockwood, wife of Robert Lockwood, May 13th, 1654, gave evidense in a witch case, at a court held at New Haven, Connecticut, and stated that she was present when goodwife Knapp was hanged for a witch. (New Haven Colonial Records.)

Elizabeth Brewster, goodwife Staples and goodwife Odill were also present, and examined the body of goodwife Knapp after she was executed, and stated that goodwife Lockwood was with them on that occasion.

Note.—Mrs. Susannah Lockwood subsequently married Jeffrey Ferris. "Mrs. Susannah Ferris, wife of Jeffrey Ferris, died at 'Grinwich' Dec. 23d, 1660." (Hy. Stamford, p. 158.)

A.D. 1650, Robert Lockwood, of Fairfield, deeded to Rev. John Bishop the house and lot which he had purchased of Elias Bailey, Rev. Mr. Denton's attorney. (Hy. Stamford, p. 50.)

JEFFREY FERRIS.

Made a freeman in Boston in 1635, came with the first settlers, is on the list of those who paid for the survey, and received ten acres at the first assignment of land.

Savage says he was from Watertown, Massachusetts, where he was made freeman, probably May 6th, 1635, whence he came to Wethersfield. He sold his lot in Wethersfield, of forty-five acres, to John Deming. He came with the first colony from Wethersfield, and in 1656 is one of the eleven Greenwich men who petitioned to be accepted under the New Haven jurisdiction. His will, found on the probate records at Fairfield, is dated January 6th, 1664. He wills to the four boys he brought up, £10 apiece, if they live with any of his children until they are eighteen years old, the money then to be put out for them until they are twenty years of age. His will names also his wife Judy, son James, son Jonathan Lockwood and Mary Lockwood, son Peter's three children, and son Joseph's two. Judy Bowers, his widow, receipts for her widow's portion, March 6th, 1667. His marriage contract with his wife Susannah, widow of Robert Lockwood, of date May 28th, 1661, pledges certain legacies to the children of Robert Lockwood, deceased, and mortgages his Greenwich lands and "housings." He died in 1666. The name Ferris is from Leicestershire, house of Feriers, from Henry, son of Gualchelme de Feriers, to whom William the Conqueror gave large grants of land in the three shires of Stafford, Derby and Leicester. (Hy. Stamford, p. 31.)

1. Lieut. Jonathan Lockwood (Robert), born September 10th, 1634, in Watertown, Massachusetts; died May 12th, 1688, in Greenwich, Connecticut, in his 54th year. Son of Robert and Susannah Lockwood. He signed a paper January 1st, 1657, at Easttowne, in the N. Netherlands, promising allegiance to the Dutch governor "so long as we live in his jurisdiction;" was of Stamford, Connecticut, October 16th, 1660, and resided there until 1665; when he sold his estate there and removed to Greenwich. He there became a freeman in 1670; was assistant in May, 1671, and in 1672, "one of the twenty-seven proprietors." He became a prominent citizen,* and represented the town in the Legislature four years. Up to 1688 Lieutenant Lockwood had been a leading influential man in the town. This year he died, and the people met in town meeting and passed resolutions deploring the loss of so valuable a citizen.†

12. Robert Lockwood.
13. Gershom Lockwood.
14. Joseph Lockwood
15. Still John Lockwood.
16. Sarah Lockwood, born ; m. Michael Lounsbury.
17. Abigail Lockwood.

Jonathan Lockwood's wife was named Mary Ferris, and Jeffrey Ferris in his will calls him "son Jonathan Lockwood." It is proper to state that Jeffrey Ferris married late in life Mrs. Susannah Lockwood, widow of Robert Lockwood, deceased. Susannah was Jonathan's mother, so Mr. Ferris was his step-father. But June 21st, 1687, Peter Ferris, Jonathan Lockwood (for his wife Mary), Joseph Ferris and James Ferris, being administrators of our deceased father Jeffrey Ferris's estate, sign their names as such, hence Mr. Ferris was Jonathan's father-in-law.

Documentary History of New York, Vol. 3, pp. 921 to 926. (Translated from the Dutch.) Journal of Capt. Lieut. Brian Nuton:

December 29th, Anno 1656. Capt. Lieut. Brian Nuton, with a Secretary and Commissary appointed by Heer Director General Stuyvesant, went in a boat to Oost-dorp in Weschester County, New York, on a mission. They landed, and heard an Indian call. On arriving at Oost-dorp, they requested that the inhabitants be summoned the next morning, but were answered: "'Tis our Sabbath morning; the Inhabitants will not come. We asked him to learn the opinions of the principal settlers at once, as we could explain our business in half an hour without hindering their service. Which he proceeded to do. But brought us an answer, No; that they were in no way so inclined. Although we would fain reach home by Sunday noon, we were obliged to remain there until Monday, as they would not be prevailed on to assemble on Sunday.

"31st ditto, Sunday. After dinner they went to the house to observe their mode of worship, as they had not as yet any clergyman. There I found a gathering of about fifteen men and ten or twelve women. Prayer was offered, a printed sermon was read, composed and published by an English minister in England; after another prayer, they sung a Psalm and separated."

The day following they met the people, told them of the election of three magistrates from the six named by them, etc., etc., and after some objections as given in full, "all the inhabitants then present offered to subscribe" to the writing then drawn up, "and it was signed as appears therefrom by fifteen persons," etc. "Six persons were gone from home, and one was sick," etc. "These are all the present inhabitants of Oost-dorp, but they told us that three or four families more would soon come." Then complaints were sent by the people to the Heer General and Council about the insolence of the Indians, and they had never been well supplied with arms, and were stripped of the few which they had, and requested "some muskets, powder, lead and match." And so, after taking "breakfast with Mr. Ferris, they left, passed Hell-gate, and landed at the Manhatans the 1st January, 1657."

The paper was signed as follows:

"This first January, Ao. 1657, In east towne in the N. Netherlands, Wee hose hands are vnderwritten do promes to oune the gouernor of the Manatas as our gouernor and obay all his magistrates and lawes that ar mad acordin to god so long as we liue in his Jurisdiction."

This is signed by fifteen persons, including

This was only three days before his death.

Mary Lockwood, of Greenwich, widow of Lieut. Jonathan Lockwood, about to marry Serjeant Thomas Merritt, of Rye, on the 5th day of June, 1696, made provision for her children by Jonathan Lockwood.

Thomas Merritt agreed to this on the 18th day of June, 1696.

2. DEBORAH LOCKWOOD (Robert), born October 12th, 1636, at Watertown, Massachusetts; daughter of Robert and Susannah ( ) Lockwood. She was married before October 20th, 1658, at which date she was twenty-two years of age. On that day the inventory of her deceased father's estate was probated, "at a Court held in Fairfield." In the action of the Court this language appears:

"Deborah being married hath received her portion of her father before his death.

"Deborah Lockwood, aged 17, in 1654, said in a Court held at New Haven, Conn., she was present when Goodwife Knapp was going to execution." (Vol. 1653 to 1665, N. H. Col. Rec., p. 83.)

Goodwife Knapp was hanged for a witch.

This Court was held May 13, 1654, and Deborah was seventeen years old the October before.

April 26th, 1654, Bethia Brundish, of the age of sixteene, or thereaboutes, maketh oath, as they were going to execution of goodwife Knapp, who was condemned for a witch by the court and jury at Fairfield, there being present herselfe and Deborah Lockwood and Sarah Cable. She heard goodwife Staplyes say, that she thought the said goodwife Knapp was no witch, and goodwife Gould presently reproved her for it.

Lieut. Gershom Lockwood married Lady Ann Millington, from England, daughter of Lord Millington. This lady came to this country in pursuit of her lover, a British army officer. Failing to find him, she taught school, and subsequently married Gershom Lockwood of Greenwich, Conn.

In 1660 her parents sent her a large oak chest, ingeniously carved on the outside, and strongly built; tradition says "it contained half a bushel of Guineas, and many fine silk dresses," etc., etc. This identical chest is now (1888) at Mr. Samuel Ferris's house in Greenwich, Connecticut. Lady Millington's granddaughter, Ann Lockwood, born 1713, married Samuel Ferris.

MILLINGTON.

It is said that Lord Millington had but two children, both daughters. The title may have become extinct in him, or gone to another male branch of the family.

A memorandum taken from the New York Observer in the year 1866, of a meeting held at the Society Library of New York city, says the foundation of the Library was in a great measure owing to a gift of books left by the will of the Rev. Dr. Millington, Rector of Stoke, Newington, London, England, to the "Society for the propagation of the Gospel in foreign parts," and by this society it was presented to the Public Library of New York, now known as the Society Library. Dr. Millington died about 1720, and his Library came over in 1729. He left no heirs, and his will gave other property or funds to this "Society" for missionary purposes.

NOTE.—Lieut. Gershom Lockwood and Rev. Dr. Millington died within about one year of each other; there has been a tradition in the Ferris family that the doctor was a near relative of Lady Ann Millington, and as he died about the time of her husband, who was 77 years old, he may have been her brother. (Editor.)

Gershom Lockwood married Elizabeth, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Montgomery) Townsend, of Oyster Bay, Long Island, New York. In the Townsend Memorial, pp. 87, 88, 91, and 132, I find the following:

John Townsend died in 1668, and, as he died intestate, his widow according to a prevailing custom divided his estate. "The 23d year of the reign of Charles II. King of England, and the tenth day of the fifth month 1671," i. e., July 10th, 1671.

In speaking of her daughter Elizabeth, she says:

"To my eldest daughter Elizabeth, although not above mentioned, yet she is to have with what she hath already received, £30, all at such pay as passes between man and man, after the rate of Indian Corn at 3 shillings a bushel, and wheat at 5s."

"2d. To the said Elizabeth or her husband, Gideon Wright, towards her portion, I give with what her father had before given her already, first two cows, 10 pounds, a young horse 5 pounds, a bed and furniture 10 pounds, 2 sheep 1 pound, 1 kettle 1 pound, in all £27, and Gideon her husband is to have £3 more, and that will be £30 in all."

"Elizabeth, daughter of John Townsend 1st, married Gideon, son of Peter Wright, and had eight children. After his death she married Gershom Lockwood, who came from Connecticut, and returned there after his marriage to her."

11. JONATHAN LOCKWOOD, JR. (Robert,[1] Jonathan[2]), born about 1663?, died November 9th, 1689, s.p., son of Jonathan and Mary (Ferris) Lockwood.

FAC-SIMILE OF THE ORIGINAL.

Abraham Davenport who wrote and signed this "Distribution," was born in 1715, and was sent to the Army under Washington, in 1776 to assist in "arranging it into companies and regiments, and to commission the officers appointed by the Assembly," was one of the Committee of Safety of Conn. in 1777, and of him it is related. "The 19th of May, 1780, was a remarkably dark day, candles were lighted, the birds were silent, and the fowls retired to roost. The Legislature was in session at Hartford, and a general opinion prevailed that the Day of Judgment was at hand." The House of Representatives adjourned, and a proposition was made to adjourn the Council, when Abraham Davenport replied:'

"I am against an adjournment. The Day of Judgment is either approaching, or it is not. If it is not, there is no cause for an adjournment; if it is, I choose to be found doing my duty. I wish, therefore, that candles be brought."

Still John Lockwood, June 26th, 1721, deeds to his cousin, Joseph Lockwood, Jr.

From life and letters of John Winthrop, by R. C. Winthrop, 1864:

"Adam Winthrop, 1574, married Alice STILL, daughter of William Still and sister of Dr. John Still, master of Trinity College, Cambridge, and afterwards Bishop of Bath and Wells, and the name of Still has been preserved in the Winthrop family since."

NOTE.—Robert Lockwood came over with the Winthrop Fleet, and it is probable that his son, Jonathan, named his youngest son, "Still John," after the brother-in-law of Adam Winthrop. The Welsh and English practice of reversing family names is a well-known fact. F. A. H.

At a Court of probate held in and for the District of Stamford, on Dec. 21st, 1758, Jonathan Hait, Esq., Judge, present: Then John Lockwood administrator on the Estate of Still John Lockwood late of Greenwich, deceased, having made a clear estate moved to this Court for an order of distribution of said estate, and it appears to this Court that there is dividable clear estate which is all real, of the said deceased £93,18*s.* lawful money, including £10,10*s.* which some of the children had received before, which this Court orders shall be distributed to and among nine of the children of ye said deceased, there being no widow:

To John, being the eldest son, a double share or portion which is £18,15*s.*7*d.*

To Gilbert, William, Abigail, Elizabeth, Mary, Susannah, Ann and Deborah, to each a single share or portion which is £9,7*s.*9*d.*2*qr.*

First to Gilbert £9,7*s.*9*d.*2*qr.;* to William £9,7*s.*9*d.*2*qr.;* to Abigail £8,5*s.*3*d.*2*qr.*, she having received £1,2*s.*6*d.* of her father in his life time.

To Elizabeth £3,7*s.*9*d.*2*qr.*, she having received £6 of her father in his life time.

To Mary £7,2*s.*9*d.*2*qr.*, she having received £2.5*s.* of her father in his life time.

99. EZEKIEL LOCKWOOD, 1710? m.

"Joseph and Robert were brothers; they transferred lands 1699 and 1713." (Fairfield Records.)

Col. Rec. Conn., p. 35, Oct., 1707. "Cost allowed Joseph Wakeman, agent for Fairfield, for his attendance on this Court upon the citation of Joseph Lockwood, is fourteen shillings."

Col. Rec. Conn., p. 368. "Upon the petition of Samuel Cooly, contra Joseph Lockwood, to have a cause removed out of the common pleas as not triable there, it being a matter of equity; It is considered and resolved, that the petition be not granted, because by the record of the case as defending in the common pleas, it did not appear but that the original plaintiff's replication to the plea of the defendant may bring it to an issue as will be triable in the common pleas. Cost allowed Joseph Lockwood, abovesaid, £1,10*s*.11*d*. Execution granted May 15th, 1716."

Col. Rec. Conn., p. 433. "The assembly granted petition of Samuel Cooly, who had bought land and a house in Milford of Joseph Lockwood, and paid £40 for the same;" the assembly ratifying the said lands to him.

Col. Rec. Conn., p. 140, Oct. 1727. "Upon the memorial of John Silliman, of Fairfield, guardian to Joseph Lockwood, of said Fairfield, minor, shewing to this assembly the circumstances of said Lockwood and praying the assembly, that there may be a disposal of the part of the lands of said Lockwood, to the value of sixty pounds to defray the charge of said Lockwood's sickness and desiring that a committee may be appointed to dispose of said lands." "This assembly have granted the prayer of said petition and that Capt. Moses Dimon and Mr. Andrew Burr be impowered and are hereby impowered, with the direction of the Court of probate in Fairfield County to execute deeds of conveyance of lands prayed for."

"May 1728. The assembly on a memorial showing the impotent estate and condition of Joseph Lockwood, Jr., of said Fairfield, appoint persons to sell so much of said Lockwood's lands as will amount to the sum of £30,17*s*.4*d*., to defray the charge that has arisen in supporting the said Lockwood."

Fairfield County, and Colony of Connecticut, in New England in America, Laboring under bodily indisposition, but of sound mind and memory for which Almighty God be thanked, and knowing yt. it is appointed for man once to die, and not knowing when it shall please God to call me hence. Do now declare my mind in this my last Will and Testament—as followeth:

I give my Soul into ye Hands of God my Creator, and the Lord Jesus Christ my all-sufficient Redeemer, and my body to the Earth decently to be interred according to ye discretion of my Executor hereafter named, having hope in ye Resurrection of ye Just, and touching ye Worldly Estate which ye Divine bounty hath been pleased to lend me, my last Will and meaning is yt. first my just debts and funeral expenses being paid.

Imprimis. I give and bequeath to my dear and loving wife Charity Lockwood the $\frac{1}{3}$ of my personal estate to be her own forever, and $\frac{1}{3}$ part of my Real Estate during her natural life, and also my wife to have ye $\frac{1}{2}$ of my dwelling house, Cellar and Barn, and which $\frac{1}{2}$ she pleaseth during her natural life.

Item. I give unto my loving son Daniel Lockwood that house where my said son now liveth, which I partly built, and ye lot where the house stands, with that lot adjoining called "Deborah's lot."

Also I give to my said son all my land lying in ye Northfield, also I give him a little belt of land of about Two acres and a hundred Rods. Also I give to my said son part of that land yt. lieth up by ye meadows or Nor-west from Jonathan Clason's to say ye one equal half of yt., that remains after Jonathan's Ten Acres is measured of which I shall after mention, to him, and also I give to my said son ye one-third of my Salt Meadow that lyeth in ye east field, and near a place called Lyon's Point; and to give a more particular account of yt. piece, Before mentioned, to say ye Two Acres & Hundred Rods it lyeth adjoyning to ye Northeast Corner of my Home Lot & is Bounded East on the field fence, West on John Scofield's lot, North on Buxston's and South in part on my lot and partly on Benj. Green's lot; all the above mentioned pieces of land and meadow, and House, with all the Rights, priviledges and appurtenances thereunto Belonging, after my wife's decease, given to my said son Daniel Lockwood, I say to him and his forever.

Item. I give unto my loving son Jonathan Lockwood, all my Land & Swampe up at Rattle Snake Rock, there being about 40 acres, and also I give to my said son Ten acres of land at a place called up by ye meadows, on Norwest from Clasons. I say my said son shall have all ye Plow land, yt. is what has been plowed and so in ye East part: Eastward to ye highway, to make the Ten Acres.

Also I give to my said son the ⅓ of my Salt Meadows in the Eastfield near Lyon's Point so called; and the reason why I do not mention that Land where my son liveth and that adjoyning, is because I have given him that already by deed of sale: this I give to my said son Jonathan Lockwood, I say to him and his forever.

Item. I give unto my loving son Edmund Lockwood all my land and meadow in ye South field and also all that Land that came to me of Brother Edmond's Estate, and I give to my said son my new dwelling House, home lot & Barn after my wife's decease to have the whole, I having given the one-half to my wife during her natural life. Also I give my said son the one-third of my Salt Meadow in the East field at or near a place called Lyon's point, I say I give it to my said son Edmund Lockwood to him and his forever. Also I give to my said son the one equal half of that Land or Swamp yt. lyeth up by ye Meadows after Jonathan's Ten Acres are measured off.

Item. I give unto my loving daughter Deborah now Deborah Webb, in addition to what I have already given her to make up the sum of £210, money, I say to her and hers forever.

Item. I give unto my loving daughter Abigail Lockwood £210, money, I say to her and hers forever.

Further My Will is yt. after my decease the ⅔ of my personal Estate that I have said nothing of: Now say yt. it shall go to make what I have given to my daughters, and if the ⅔ should make more than the £420 with what my daughter Deborah hath had already, that then the remainder shall be divided equally between my two daughters, and Further my Will is yt. if the ⅔ of my personal Estate should not make what I have above given to my two daughters: My Will is yt. my son Daniel Lockwood do pay to ye ¼ part, and my son Edmund Lockwood do pay ye other ¾ part till it makes to my two daughters as aforesaid—and that if either of my sons Daniel or Edmund should refuse or neglect more than two years after my decease and not satisfy or secure their sisters, Then my Will is yt. my Executor dispose of so much of ye land I have willed to him or them, yt. shall not comply with my Will herein to make up as above mentioned to my said two daughters.

And lastly—I do nominate constitute and ordain my said loving wife Charity Lockwood to be my sole Executx. of this my last Will and Testament hereby revoking and disannulling all and every former Will and Testament by me made, Confirming and Ratifying This and no other to be my last Will and Testament.

In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal ye day and year above said—

DANIEL LOCKWOOD [SEAL].

Signed, sealed, published pronounced & declared by ye said Daniel Lockwood ye testator to what is contained on ye preceding page, and on this page, to be his last Will and Testament in presence of us subscribers.

JOSEPH LOCKWOOD'S WILL.

In the name of GOD, amen!

December the 16th, A.D. 1748.

I Joseph Lockwood of Greenwich in the County of Fairfield, in the Colony of Connecticut, being in a week and low state of Body and daily expecting my death, but of perfect mind and memory, thanks be to GOD for the same, do ordain this my last Will and Testament, that is to say, principally and first of all I commend my soul into the hand of GOD that gave it, nothing doubting but that at the general resurrection I shall be raised Soul and Body, Through the Merits of Jesus Christ to glory, and as touching such of my worldly goods wherewith it hath pleased GOD to bless me in this life, I give Bequeath and Bestow in manner and form as followeth, vizt: after my just debts and funeral charges are paid, I give and bequeath my whole estate in the following manner:

I give to my 3 sons, vizt: Daniel Lockwood, Joseph Lockwood and Eliphalet Lockwood all my houses, buildings, lands and rights of lands, I have or ought to have in Greenwich aforesaid and elsewhere, to be by them equally divided, Respect to be had to the quality of the Land each shall have, and he that has not so good land as the other to have it made up in quantity, and if either of said sons should die, before he is 21 years of age, then ye other two, to have his share, or if two dies before they are of 21 years of age then the surviving one to have all my lands, and my Will is my said sons should Loveing agree in ye dividing my said lands, but if they can't agree, then my Will is that the Court of Probate for the district of Stamford, appoint two or three able men to divide my lands among my said sons, which division shall be binding and entered in the Probate records.

ITEM:—I give to my two daughters Sarah Mead and Abigail Adams, £10, old Tenor money to be paid by my Executors out of my moveable estate.

ITEM:—I give to Epenetus Webb, the child which Epenetus Webb had by my daughter Elizabeth deceased, £10, old Tenor money out of my moveable estate to be paid when the said Epenetus comes to be 21 years of age.

ITEM:—I give unto my daughter Hannah all the Pewter and Brass in my house, also two beds, and furniture, also 3 good cows, also all the money I have in Mr. John Lloyd's hands of Stamford, to be hers forever. What is due to the said Lloyd, I order to be paid out of the other part of my moveable estate, not yet disposed of.

ITEM:—I give all the remainder of my estate not before disposed of, to be equally divided between my 3 sons and my daughter Hannah Lockwood; And I do appoint my two sons Daniel Lockwood and Joseph Lockwood my Executors for my estate, and I do hereby utterly revoke all and every other and former Will and Testament, holding this my only Will and Testament.

In Witness whereof I have hereunto sett my hand and seal ye day and year before expressed.

The following article from the Brooklyn World, April 25th, 1888, is given in full.

IT WILL BE A MUTE WITNESS.

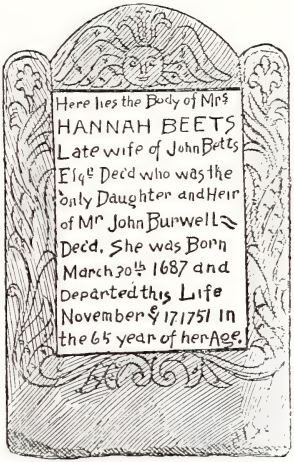
AN OLD TOMBSTONE MAY DECIDE OWNERSHIP OF LARGE ESTATES.

IMPORTANT LINK IN THE CHAIN OF EVIDENCE WHICH IS EXPECTED TO HELP IN RESTORING ENGLISH PROPERTY TO THE HEIRS OF HANNAH BETTS—ITS OWNERSHIP TO BE CONTESTED IN COURT TO-DAY.

The old tombstone, which about a month ago was unearthed by some laborers who were digging for drainage connection in the rear of Thomas Sisk's saloon, at No. 224 Franklin street, Greenpoint, and which excited so much wonder and curiosity at the time and still more interest later when an inkling of its history was revealed, is now to appear in an important role in a history which, if fully written, would read like a novel.

* Hy. Norwalk, 187.

THE WORLD has already printed the inscription in full, but so important a part does it play in what has since become known that a cut of the stone itself and the inscription thereon is here given.



THE OLD GRAVESTONE.

As to how the stone came to be in this place, where no cemetery ever existed, and how, instead of marking a grave it filled a grave itself, numerous theories were advanced, but the true story which will presently appear has not before been given.

When Mr. Sisk had deciphered the letters on the stone he came to the conclusion that he had a very valuable relic and placed it on exhibition in his saloon. Soon the little saloon was besieged with sight-seeing customers. Before many days one customer offered $55 for the tombstone, and a museum proprietor was willing to give $100 for it. But the possessor refused to part with it. Then Mr. William B. Winslow, Jr., of No. 172 Fort Greene place, visited the saloon, and told Mr. Sisk that he was a descendant of Hannah Betts, and that the stone was an important link in the chain of evidence which it was hoped would yet restore to her heirs a large estate in England. Mr. Winslow said that he would like to have the stone and would call again to arrange for its purchase. But just then he was called away to Philadelphia on business, and during his absence another heir of Hannah Betts, who had noticed the newspaper reports, decided to secure possession of the stone.

This was Mrs. Mary Field, an elderly lady, living at the corner of Greene and Clinton Avenues, who is a granddaughter of Hannah Betts's third son, Joseph. She applied to Lawyer E. F. Riley, whose office is in the Garfield Building, and strategy was resorted to by which possession of the stone was obtained. Certain other heirs, whose names are as yet withheld, signed over to Mrs. Field their interest in the stone, which they claimed belonged to the estate and not to Sisk, and then Mr. Riley took a mortgage on the stone from Mrs. Field for $50, payable on demand, and on the day following demanded the money. It was, of course, not paid, and Mr. Riley foreclosed. Constable Lyons then seized the stone, and despite the remonstrances of Mr. Sisk carted it away to Kerrigan's auction room, where it still remains awaiting the result of the legal fight which was at once begun by Mr. Sisk, through his attorney, W. F. Courtney. An action of replevin before Justice Courtney resulted in the stone being replevied. Mr. Sisk then offered bonds to secure Mr. Riley, and to-day proceedings will be heard before the Justice to prove the security. Bonds will probably be accepted, and then counter-bonds will be offered by Mr. Riley to secure Sisk and thus keep the stone where it is. The trial to determine the ownership will probably not take place till next week.

It has been claimed that Mr. Sisk is backed by certain heirs opposed to those who are represented by Mr. Riley, but anything definite on this score cannot be ascertained, though the history of the family, their fortune, and the tombstone suggests that there is a wheel within a wheel somewhere.

John Burwell came to this country from the parish of Bovington, Hemel Hempstead, in Hertfordshire, England, about the year 1685, and settled in Milford, Conn. His father had died in 1670, leaving him sole heir of large and valuable landed estates in Hemel Hempstead, and when John came to this country he left his extensive possessions in charge of his sister, Maria Burwell, who also lived in Bovington. Not long after he came to this country he fell in love with Hannah Lockward—now spelled Lockwood—who lived with her father, Gershom Lockwood, in Norwalk, and married her. Then he purchased some property in Greenwich, built a house and settled down. Two little girls were born to them. In 1689 he returned to England, taking his family with him, to see after his estate. In the spring of the following year he again sailed for America. This time misfortune overtook him. The vessel in which he took passage was wrecked and one of his children was lost, while he and his wife and the other little girl, Hannah, were saved. He returned to Greenwich, but shortly after, while on a business visit to New York, was taken ill with small-pox and, returning to his home, died from the malady on May 1st, 1690. His wife survived him and afterwards married a Mr. Hanford. The little girl Hannah now became the sole heir to the English estates, but the death of the father while the child was so young left no person to look after them, and they have never been recovered from their wrongful owners by the legal heir of John Burwell.

On April 15th, 1708, when Hannah had attained to womanhood, she was married to John Betts, of Norwalk, in which place they continued to live, and here nine children were born to them. They were John, Burwell, Joseph, Silas, Sarah, Abraham, Hannah, Timothy and Gideon. Nearly all of the children eventually married, and some of them had large families. Burwell Betts, the second son, was married twice and had thirteen children. Sarah had nine children and John also had nine, one of whom, Elizabeth, became the mother of eight children. It will be seen from this that the heirs to-day must be quite numerous. The grandchildren numbered over fifty and the great-grandchildren over a hundred.

John Betts died in 1745, six years before his wife Hannah, whose tombstone forms the subject of the present controversy.

It appears that from time to time, ever since the death of Hannah Betts, in 1751, efforts have been made by the American heirs to secure their inheritance, but thus far without substantial results. One heir, an old lady now dead, once wrote to Queen Victoria, and received a reply from the Home Office saying that if the claim could be proved the heirs here would receive their rights. In the course of every twenty years, too, advertisements have appeared in American papers calling for the heirs of John Burwell and stating that an estate of several millions of dollars awaited them, but responses to these advertisements were never answered, and it was thought that the English holders sought only for information of the American heirs, the better to hold them off. At times the heirs here seemed to have labored under greater disadvantages because of forces at work among them which they could not overcome or quite place their hands on. It is said that certain heirs or representatives who went abroad at one time, returned well satisfied with their visit, but not inclined to push matters further, while the expenses of their trip seemed to have made no apparent impression on their resources.

In 1861 unusual steps were being made for the recovery of the property, and it was then that the tombstone was first brought forward in the proceedings. The body of Mrs. Betts was buried near Norwalk, but the report that the stone was stolen from there and that the body and the foot-stones are also missing turns out to be untrue. It was decided in the course of the proceeding that the headstone would be a valuable piece of evidence in proving the claim of the American heirs in England, and accordingly the stone was taken up, boxed for shipment and sent to New York. It was temporarily placed in the store of one of the heirs, Mr. Nathaniel Hillyer, now of No. 428 Broadway, but from here it mysteriously disappeared, and all search for it was unavailing. Again it appeared that English agents were at work. Twenty-seven years passed by, and not till the other day, when the digging laborers again brought the stone to light, was it heard of. Strange enough, only a few days before, an advertisement, such as had from time to time been published, appeared in one of the New York papers. It is understood that a great-great-grandson of Hannah Betts now lives in England and is interested in the estate, but in just what manner cannot be ascertained.

Owing to the general reticence observed on the part of all the heirs and those concerned who have been found, it has been impossible to learn just how many heirs there are at present, who they are, where they live or what relations they bear one another, either in kin or as regards the estate proceedings. In addition to those spoken of there is a Mrs. Peacock, an old lady who lives near Western Bay, L. I.; another old lady, ninety years of age, who lives up in the State somewhere; a young man who lives on Long Island, and an old gentleman who takes a great interest in the genealogy of his old family, but whose name or home has not yet been discovered by the WORLD reporter. There are also a number of heirs to the name of Burrell, Burwell and Betts. The name Betts appears to have been spelled at certain periods as though it were Beets, and this may account for the different spellings which occur on the tombstone. Among the Bettses are Mr. George Betts, of New York, and Fred. and Samuel Betts, both of the law firm of Betts, Atterbury, Hyde & Betts.

In connection with the tombstone the question which remains still unsolved, and which will probably remain so, is, how it came where it was found. At the time of the finding, no one in the neighborhood knew anything about it, and the oldest inhabitants were sure that there had never been a graveyard on the spot, and they did not remember ever having heard of any one by the name of Betts or Burwell as having lived in the county. It took only the newspaper notices of the affair to bring forward numbers who knew all about the stone previous to its disappearance from the New York storehouse. Mr. Sisk's friends now claim, however, according to Mr. Riley, that some six years ago the stone was left on the sidewalk of the property on which the saloon is located, and that after lying there some time it was buried in the backyard to get it out of the way. This story is scouted, and the explanation which seems most plausible is, that when the stone was so mysteriously made off with, it was thrown into the pond which in those days covered the ground in which it was found.

Its finding now undoubtedly means a renewal of the efforts on the part of the heirs to recover their English estates, and if reports be true, and their chances are what they appear to be on the surface, they will be abundantly repaid, even though they number among the hundreds, for the wealth of the English estates is rated to be almost fabulous. No figures are definitely stated, but one interested party volunteered to say, "Pretty close on to $90,000,000 I guess."

JABEZ LOCKWOOD'S WILL.

In the name of GOD, Amen. February ye 27th day anno Dom. 1733–4. I Jabez Lockwood of the town of Greenwich in ye County of Fairfield in ye Colony of Connecticut Yeoman, being now very sick and weak of body, but in perfect mind and memory, blessed be GOD for it, and calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing it is appointed for all men once to die, do ordain, make and appoint this my Last Will and testament, that is to say, first and principally of all, I bequeath and recommend my soul into the hands of GOD that gave it, my body to ye ground, to be buried in a Christian-like and decent manner, at ye discretion of my Executor, nothing doubting but I shall receive ye same again at ye general resurrection by ye Almighty power of GOD, and as for what earthly goods it has pleased GOD to give me in this life, I give bequeath and dispose in manner following to wit: After ye payment of my just debts which I order to be paid out of my lands.

Imprimis: I give and bequeath to my honoured and indergent father Gershom Lockwood, and mother Hannah Lockwood, during their natural lives, all my estate in Lands—and at their decease to be distributed equally unto my loving Brothers, their heirs and assigns forever.

Item: I give and bequeath unto my loving sisters all my estate in movables, to be equally distributed to them.

And I do hereby ordain, constitute and appoint my Honoured father Gershom Lockwood my Sole Executor of this my last Will and Testament to distribute and dispose of all ye premises in manner above, allowing ratifying and confirming this and none other to be my Last Will and Testament, utterly revoking and repealing all manner and other former Wills, Testaments and Leagicies Whatsoever, made at any other time or times Whatsoever, from ye beginning of ye world this day, by me.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal, ye day and date above written.

JABEZ LOCKWOOD [SEAL AND WAX].

Signed, Sealed, delivered, pronounced and acknowledged by ye said Jabez Lockwood in ye presence of us subsribers

PETER PALMER,
PAUL DUBOIS,
THOMAS ROBERTS.

At a Court of probate held in and for the District of Stamford on March the 22d, 1762, Jonathan Hoit, Esq., Judge, being present, then Gershom Lockwood brother and one of the heirs of Jabez Lockwood of Greenwich, Dec'd moved to this court for an order of Distribution of the Real Estate of the said deceased, and informed said court that his father Gershom Lockwood who was appointed Executor of the Estate of said deceased, was Dead, and that he never had his part of the estate of said deceased, and it appears to this Court that the Will of said deceased was exhibited in said Court on April 2, 1734, and said Gershom who is since deceased, declared his acceptance of said Executorship in said Court, and brought into said Court an Inventory of the Estate of said deceased on August the 6th, 1734, amounting to the sum of £1090,15*s*.0*d*.—Real Estate; and £230,8*s*.10*d*. Personal Estate, which Personal Estate by length of time is all wasted and gone, and said Executor never brought into said Court any account of debts due from the estate of said deceased, which was to be paid out of the Real Estate, and it being of so long standing that there was a Citation sent to the rest of the heirs to appear before this Court for to give reasons if any they had, why distributors should not be appointed to distribute said Estate, and there was one appeared and offered his reasons, which this Court Judged insufficient and is of opinion that distributors should be appointed to distribute the Real Estate of said deceased, etc., and this Court does appoint, desire and fully impower, Cap't Israel Knap, Peter

Mead Esq., and Lieut. John Mead, all of Greenwich to distribute said Real Estate according to the Will of the testator, and above order of Court. Test: CHARLES WEBB, Clerk.

"Abrm. Lockwood received said Guns and Accoutrements." (Copied in October, 1888, at Stamford.—F. A. H.)

There were two captains in the Revolutionary War, named Gilbert Lockwood, and they were both born in Greenwich, Fairfield County, Conn. The older Gilbert was sometimes called "Major," but generally Captain Gilbert Lockwood.

A letter from one of the older Lockwood's, in the city of New York, in 1878, informed me that Captain Gilbert Lockwood's house stood on or near the boundary line between New York and Connecticut; and he was frequently surprised while entertaining officers of the American Army, at dinner, etc.

Mrs. Hester Ferris, since deceased, stated to the writer in 1878 that she well recollected Captain Gilbert Lockwood, of Greenwich, he lived near her father's house, that he stood very erect, and was the father of Andy Lockwood.

Oliver Lockwood Ford went with me into the old burying-ground, at Greenwich, on a very cold day, he was then 91 years old, and told me anecdotes of Captain Gilbert Lockwood, and stated that he was buried near his son, Andrew Lockwood; the latter's resting place is marked by a substantial headstone.

Neither Captain Gilbert Lockwood, who was buried at Greenwich, nor his namesake whose grave is at Olive, Ulster County, N. Y., I am sorry to say, have gravestones.—F. A. H.

GILBERT LOCKWOOD, GREENWICH, CONN.

COPY OF THE WILL AND TESTAMENT OF DEACON PETER LOCKWOOD, 1775.

In the name of God—amen—this 26th day of August, A.D. 1775, I Peter Lockwood of Danbury in ye County of Fairfield being in a weak and low state of health at this time, but of a sound mind and memory—Thanks be to God therefor—and knowing it the Erevocable Decree of Heaven for Man once to die and not knowing how soon my Departure out of Time may be, Do in ye fear of God make and ordain, This my last Will and Testament, and first and Principally I Give and Recommend my Precious and Immortal Soul to God who Gave it, and my Body I commit to the Earth at Death to be Decently Buried at the Discression of my Executors hereafter Named, not Doubting but I Shall Receive the Same by ye power of God at the General Resurrection, and as touching such Worldly Estate as it hath Pleased God to bless me with in this Life, I Give and Bequeath in the following Manner and Form: first my Will is that all my Just Debts and Funeral charges be first Paid out of my Estate, as will ye Debt I owe my children for which I have given father Lambert a Note, as all the Just Debts, Imprimis.

I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Hannah the use of my Negro Man named Jeda on this condition only, that she doth not take the Negroes Pomp and Peg, which she once owned, which I Give to her over and above the fulfilment of the Jointer agreement I Entered into with her before Marriage, otherways I Give him his Time if he can support himself.

From all the Residue and Remainder of my Estate both Real and Personal of whatever nature or kind soever, to my Beloved children viz: Eliphalet, Lambert and Gould my sons, and Abigale, Hannah, Mary and Dolly my daughters, to be Divided among them in the following proportions viz: My said Sons to be Equall Except Eliphalet whom I Give Twenty Five Pounds Lawfull Money over an Equall Share with his other Brethren, as an acknowledgement of his being my Oldest Son, and my said Dafters also to be Equal with one another, but my said Sons Each to have Double or Twice as much as Either of my said Daughters and my Will is that what I have given to any of my children, shall be Reckoned and Computed to them as part of Portion in my Estate, always Provided and my Will is that my Young Sons Lambert and Gould Shall have Four Pounds Each in Consideration of Presents made them which I received, which I would Have Considered as a Debt Due To Them—and to my daughter Dolly the Sum of Ten Pounds in Consideration of the Things her Mother Left Over and above her Share.

and Lastly I Constitute and Appoint my Dutifull Son Eliphalet Lockwood to be the Executor of this my last Will and Testament—In Testimony whereof I have hereunto Sett my Hand and Seal—Day and Year First Before Mentioned.

PETER LOCKWOOD.

OBITUARY.

Deacon Nathaniel Benedict.

"Died in Norwalk, Connecticut, on the morning of the 2d of April, 1806, after a shock of the palsy, with which he lingered about 12 days, in the 90th year of his age. On the 3d his remains were followed to the grave by a large concourse of friends and relatives, among whom were his 12 surviving children, and many of his more remote posterity. He has left 91 grandchildren and 88 great-grandchildren, the whole number of his descendants now living being (191) one hundred and ninety-one.

"For about 32 years he sustained the office of Deacon of the First Congregational Church in that town. Deacon Benedict was one of those venerable personages by whom what remains of the pious habits of our forefathers, have been eminently exemplary, and years to come will feel its happy influence. Every morning and evening witnessed his devotion. His Sabbaths were faithfully appropriated to public worship and religious family instructions. An amiable, cheerful disposition, a sound mind, improved by a good degree of reading and much reflection, and adorned with a bright constellation of Christian graces, comprised his character. At his funeral an appropriate sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Burnett from Prov. xiv., 32d. 'The wicked is driven away in his wickedness; but the righteous hath hope in his death.'" (Manuscript at the time of his death, and Hy. Norwalk, Conn., 316, 317, 318.)

Uriah Rogers*, and Mr. Joseph Platt, a committee appointed to build said pew at ye Society' charge." (Hy. Norwalk, p. 158.)

137. Rev. James Lockwood (Robert,[1] Ephraim,[2] James[3]), born December 20th, 1714, at Norwalk, Conn.; died July 20th, 1772, in the 58th year of his age and the 34th of his ministry, at Wethersfield, Conn.; married, November 4th, 1742, to Mary Dickinson, daughter of the Rev. Moses Dickinson, of Norwalk, Conn.; she died December 23d, 1794, aged 74 years.

"The Rev. Mr. James Lockwood and Mrs. Mary Dickinson were married on the 4th day of November, Anno Domini 1742. By ye Revd. William Gaylord." (Wethersfield Record.)

He was the eldest son of James and Lydia (Smith) Lockwood. He graduated at Yale College, 1735, and was chosen tutor in the same institution two years afterwards, in which capacity he served one year. Having, in the mean time, studied theology and received a license to preach, he was called to succeed the Rev. Stephen Mix as pastor of the first church in Wethersfield, Conn. He accepted the call and was ordained on the 28th day of February, 1739.

On April 19th, 1758, the Presidency of the College of New Jersey having been vacated by the death of Jonathan Edwards, Mr. Lockwood was chosen to fill the place, but declined the appointment. In 1760 he was chosen a Fellow of Yale College, and continued to hold the office till his death. After the resignation of President Clap in 1766, the Presidency of Yale College was proffered to him, but he declined this also. The reason given for his non-acceptance of the Presidency of both colleges was the strong attachment to the people of his charge, and his consequent unwillingness to separate himself from them. He continued their pastor, greatly respected and beloved, till the close of life. He published a sermon on the death of Mrs. Jerusha Woodbridge, 1799.

Rev. Mr. James Lockwood delivered a political sermon to the citizens of Lebanon County, Conn., May 10th, 1759. (Conn. Col. Rec., vol. xi., p. 247.)

Eleazar May, 1756, a native of Wethersfield who graduated at Yale College, 1752. A Sermon at the General Election in 1763. A Thanksgiving Sermon for the Peace with France and Spain in 1763.

Dr. Trumbull mentions him as among the ministers most favorable to Whitfield's movements, and Whitfield made several visits there.

Rev. Moses Dickinson (father-in-law of the Rev. James Lockwood) was born in 1696, called from Maidenhead, New Jersey, and installed in 1727; died May 1st, 1778, in the 83d year of his age; having been pastor of the first church in Norwalk, Conn., nearly 51 years.

Mr. Dickinson graduated at Yale College in 1717.

INSCRIPTION ON MR. DICKINSON'S MONUMENT.

Beneath
this monumental stone lies interred
the body of the Revd. Moses Dickinson,
Late pastor of the First Church of Christ in Norwalk, who departed this life May 1st, 1778, in the 83d year of his age and 51st of his ministry in sd. church.
A man of a good understanding,
well informed by study,
Chearful in temper, Prudent in conduct, he came to his grave in full age like as a shock of corn cometh in his season.

Dr. Marsh, who succeeded Rev. James Lockwood in the pastoral office at Wethersfield, in the sermon which he preached at the installation of his son, pays the following incidental tribute to the memory of his father:

"May you continue throughout the whole course of your ministry strong in the grace which is in Christ Jesus; exhibiting to a great degree of eminence that spirit of wisdom and piety, benevolence and fidelity for which the ascended prophet, your excellent father, was distinguished. His praise is still in the churches and his name remembered in this vicinity with particular affection, honor, and veneration."

Rev. Ezra Stiles, D.D., for many years President of Yale College, wrote thus concerning Mr. Lockwood. (Sprague's Annals, vol. 1, p. 413.)

"He was a man of small stature, a good classical scholar, and ingenious in mathematics and philosophy, of a polite taste and a ready elocution; he performed the office of the ministry in the house of God and among his people with good acceptance.

"He was a man of caution and prudence and avoided intermeddling deeply with any of the religious controversies. This caution and wisdom, together with the goodness of his public performances, made the world think him a deeper and greater man than he really was. He was, however, an ingenious man, was formed for usefulness and was an honor to the ministry.

"He was a Calvinist, and more lately has been inclined to the new Divinity. He was a gentleman of sober deportment, carrying rather a grave severity in his countenance, and yet far from moroseness; there was vivacity in his manner; his cheerfulness was regulated by prudence and circumspection. He was one of those good-natured persons who, through proper cultivation, soon come to maturity. Besides the academic sciences, he applied to systematic theology, and Ridgley and Willard were his favorite authors.

"He spent his ministerial life in a large parish of perhaps 300 families, who are said to be as well instructed in religion as any church in Connecticut. He has had the prudence to lead that flock in great peace and love through his ministry.

"As a singular fact he preached and printed two election sermons, both of which I heard him deliver. I was intimately acquainted with him twenty-four years ago* and occasionally all along since."

James Lockwood, of Wethersfield, and on his declining to accept the office, proceeded at once to elect the Professor of Divinity, the Rev. Naphtali Daggett, D.D., President pro tempore."

Building Rev. James Lockwood's House by Subscription.

Mr. James Lockwood, of the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company, has come into possession of an ancient book, which is of special interest to him, as it records the subscriptions for building a house in 1767 for his grandfather, the Rev. James Lockwood, of Wethersfield. The book was recently resurrected among papers in the office of the Wethersfield Town Clerk. It is made of sheets of paper, legal cap size, ruled with black ink (yet of good color) and with a rough paper cover, upon which cover is written "Subscriptions for building an House for the Rev'd. James Lockwood." The accounts are in English money with regular debit and credit, each person being charged with his subscription and credited with cash, articles or work, the latter being rated at 94 cents per day. Some are credited with work on the building, either by themselves or their employés, including negroes in several instances. Captain Samuel Rose subscribed £10, and is credited with £5, 13*s.* 9*d.* for 32½ gallons rum at 3*s.* 6*d.* Captain Rose not having supplied all the rum he had promised, Mr. John Smith helped to maintain the spiritual enthusiasm in erecting the building by donating an extra gallon of rum —and probably better rum, for the committee gave him credit for 4*s.* for it. A number of the subscriptions were paid in part only. The reverend gentleman was a prominent divine in his day, and was at one time offered the presidency of Yale College, but did not accept. The house was nearly opposite the present Baptist church in Wethersfield. (Clipped from a newspaper, 1888.)

From Prof. F. B. Dexter's biographical sketches of Yale College, etc., from 1701–1745.

P. 538–539. James Lockwood "remained at college after graduation as a scholar on Dean Berkeley's foundation, and from September, 1737, to November, 1738, served as tutor."

"His declination in the latter case was nominally on account of age and infirmities and the difficulty of release from his church, but really is, as President Stiles was informed by the Rev. George Beckwith, from the want of an assured pecuniary support in the Presidency. He died, in office, in Wethersfield, after a long and painful decline, July 20th, 1772, aged 57½ years."

"He was married November 4th, 1742, to Mary, daughter of Rev. Moses Dickinson (Yale College, 1717), of Norwalk, who bore him six sons and six daughters, and died December 23d, 1774, aged 53. Two sons graduated at Yale College in 1766 and 1774, and one daughter married Simeon Belden." (Y. C., 1762.)

(among them a copy of Shakespeare of 8 volumes and 104 pamphlets.")

He published:

1. Religion the highest interest of a civil community and the surest means of its prosperity. A sermon from 1 Sam. xii. 14. Preached before the General Assembly of the Colony on the day of the anniversary election, May 9th, 1754. (New London, 1754, 16mo, pp. 50.)

Copies to be found in Connecticut Hist. Society, Hartford; N. Y. Hist. Society, New York; Union Theological Seminary, New York; and Yale College Library. In this he recommends the College for an appropriation from the Government.

2. P. 540. "Man Mortal—God Everlasting and the sure, unfailing Refuge and Felicity of His faithful people in all generations. Illustrated in a discourse [from Ps. xc. 1–3], delivered at Wethersfield, July 27th, 1755, being the next Lord's Day after the death of Hon. Col. Williams." (N. H., 1756, 8vo. 48, xv.)

Copies at American Antiquarian Society, Worcester; Boston Atheneum; Massachusetts Historical Society, Boston; New York Hist. Society.

3. "The Duty and Privilege of Gospel Ministers to preach among Mankind the unsearchable Riches of Christ. A sermon [from Eph. iii. 8]. Delivered at the ordination of the Rev. Mr. Eleazer May, at Haddam, June 30th, 1756." (New Haven, 8vo, p. 34.)

Copies at Book Publication Society; Connecticut Hist. Society; Union Theological Seminary; and Yale College.

4. "The tears of an affectionate bereaved people, wept over their faithful, deceased minister. A sermon [from Acts xx. 38]. Preached at Glastenbury, August 7th, 1758, being the day of the interment of Rev. Mr. Ashbel Woodbridge." (New London, 8vo.)

Copies in Boston Atheneum; Connecticut Hist. Society (imperfect).

5. "The worth and excellence of Civil Freedom and Liberty, illustrated, and a Public Spirit and Love of our Country recommended. A sermon [from Acts xxii. 28]. Delivered before the General Assembly, at Hartford, on the Day of the Anniversary Election, May 10th, 1759." (New London, 1759, 16mo, p. 36.)

Copies in American Antiquarian Society; Connecticut Hist. Society; Yale College.

6. "A sermon [from Ps. l. 14–15]. Preached at Wethersfield, July 6th, 1763, at a Public Thanksgiving, on account of the Peace, concluded with France and Spain." (New Haven [1763], 8vo, p. 35.)

Copies at Connecticut Hist. Society; Union Theological Seminary.

"Dr. Stiles writes to a friend, in 1767, on hearing that Mr. Lockwood was one of the candidates for the Presidency of Yale College.

"He exceeds them all in classical learning and is well qualified to make a good figure as President."

NEW HAVEN, January 31st, 1888.

E. DUNBAR LOCKWOOD, ESQ.

DEAR SIR: You will find in Professor Dexter's "Biograph. Sketches and Annals of Yale College," which may be seen at the Philadelphia and at the Pennsylvania Hist. Society Libraries, page 538, a sketch of James Lockwood and a list of his published sermons (6) and the libraries where they may be found.

We had three of them, but they are bound with other rare pamphlets and could not be replaced, and we shall not therefore feel justified in loaning them. They can of course be freely consulted here.

Samuel Lockwood published but one sermon, "Civil Rulers an Ordinance of God for Good to Mankind: A [Connecticut Election] Sermon, May 12th, 1774." (New London, 1774, 8vo, pp. 39.)

This we had, and a second copy is to be found in the library of the New York Hist. Society.

Very truly yours,

ADDISON VAN NAME,

Librarian, Yale College.

LIBRARY OF THE COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY,
PRINCETON, January 31st, 1888.

E. DUNBAR LOCKWOOD, 251 South 3d St., Philadelphia.

MY DEAR SIR: The passage in Green's Historical discourses referred to by W. B. Sprague in his Annals respecting which you make inquires is probably this: p. 327.

It is an extract from the records, dated 19th April, 1758.

"The presidentship of the college having become vacant by the death of the late president Edwards; the trustees after prayers and deliberate consideration do elect the Rev. Mr. James Lockwood, of Wethersfield in the colony of Connecticut to be the president of the college; and the clerk is ordered to write a letter to the said Mr. Lockwood, informing him of the said election, and requesting his acceptance; and Mr. Spencer, one of the members of this corporation, is desired to wait on the said Mr. Lockwood and deliver him the letter. It is ordered that the expenses attending the moving of Mr. Lockwood's family to this place, be paid by the treasurer."

Yours, respectfully,

REV. JAMES LOCKWOOD—1738–1772.

Sprague's Annals of the American Pulpit, vol i., p. 413. This was written by President Stiles, of Yale College. James Lockwood was the eldest son of James and Lydia Lockwood (Robert,[1] Ephraim,[2] James[3]), and was born at Norwalk, Conn., December 20th, 1714. He was graduated at Yale College, in 1735, and was chosen tutor in the same institution, two years afterwards, in which capacity he served one year. Having, in the meantime, studied theology, and received a license to preach, he was called to succeed the Rev. Stephen Mix, as pastor of the First Church in Wethersfield, Conn. He accepted the call and was ordained on the 28th day of February, 1739.

Mr. Lockwood's settlement occurred just before the commencement of the great revival of 1740. Dr. Trumbull mentions him among the ministers most favorable to Whitefield's movements; and there is a tradition at Wethersfield, that the great itinerant made several visits there, and that, as the meeting-house was inadequate to contain the multitude who thronged to hear him, he held a meeting, at least on one occasion, in the open air. There is no doubt that Mr. Lockwood not only fully sympathized with him, but co-operated with him to the extent of his ability.

In 1760, he was chosen a fellow of Yale College, and continued to hold the office till his death. In 1758, the Presidency of the College of New Jersey, having been vacated by the death of Jonathan Edwards, Mr. Lockwood was chosen to fill the place; but he declined the appointment. After the resignation of President Clap, in 1766, the same office was proferred to him in Yale College, but he declined this also. The reason given for his non-acceptance in both cases, was his strong attachment to the people of his charge, and his consequent unwillingness to separate himself from them. He continued their pastor, greatly respected and beloved, till the close of life. He died, July 20th, 1772, in the 58th year of his age, and the 34th of his ministry.

Mr. Lockwood was married, November 4th, 1742, to Mary, daughter of the Rev. Moses Dickinson, of Norwalk, who died December 23d, 1774, aged 54. One of his sons, "William," was born January 21st, 1753;* was graduated at Yale College, in 1774, was a tutor in college in 1779 and 1780; was ordained pastor of the church at Milford, March 17th, 1784; was dismissed on account of ill health, April 28th, 1796; was installed pastor of the church, in Glastenbury, in 1797, where he continued his labors till 1804, when he was obliged again and finally to withdraw from the ministry on account of bodily infirmity. He passed the residue of his days, at Glastenbury, greatly respected, and died, June 23d, 1828. He published a sermon on the death of Mrs. Jerusha Woodbridge, 1799. Dr. Marsh, who succeeded the Rev. James Lockwood, in the pastoral office, at Wethersfield, in the sermon which he preached at the installation of the son, pays the following incidental tribute to the memory of the father:

"May you continue, through the whole course of your ministry, strong in the grace which is in Christ Jesus; exhibiting to a great degree of eminence, that spirit of wisdom and piety, benevolence and fidelity, for which the ascended prophet, your excellent father, was distinguished. His praise is still in the churches, and his name remembered in this vicinity, with particular affection, honor, and veneration."

To the memory of the Rev James Lockwood
Late pastor of the first Church of Christ in Wethersfield;
Who, in the 34th year of his ministry and 58th of his Age, on the 20th of July, 1772,
Entered into the Joy of his Lord.
As a Tutor, and afterwards one of ye Corporation of Yale College, highly venerated and Esteemed;
as a minister of the Gospel, one of whose praise

141. REV. SAMUEL LOCKWOOD, D.D. (Robert,[1] Ephraim,[2] James[3]), born November 30th, 1721, at Norwalk, Connecticut; died Saturday, June 18th, 1791, at New Lebanon Springs, Connecticut, in the 70th year of his age, and the 43d of his ministry. Son of James and Lidia (Smith) Lockwood. Not long after he settled in Andover, he married at Andover, Connecticut, Anne May, of Wethersfield, Connecticut; she died March 7th, 1799, in the 76th year of her age. (s. p.)

Rev. Samuel Lockwood, D.D., of Andover, Connecticut, who graduated Yale College, 1745, and died June 18th, 1791. Seven others of the name had graduated at Yale in 1826.

He adopted and educated his nephew, a son of his brother, the Rev. James Lockwood, of Wethersfield.

An ecclesiastical society in Andover, Connecticut, was formed in 1747. In 1748 the parish voted "to hire him to preach as a probationer." He was ordained their pastor February 25th, 1749, O.S. The ordination sermon preached by his brother aforesaid, of Wethersfield. He continued in the faithful discharge of the duties of his pastoral office for a period of upwards of 40 years. In 1790 he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Yale College.

He regretted that it had been conferred upon him. He was however warmly attached to the college; was one of its Fellows from 1777 to 1791, and made a liberal donation in aid of its library and philosophical apparatus. In 1774 he preached the annual sermon before the Legislature of the state; a judicious, patriotic and well adapted discourse, and was printed.

In 1791 by medical advice he visited a mineral spring at New Lebanon, Connecticut, in the hope that the water might prove beneficial to him. But in this both himself and friends were disappointed; very soon the afflictive tidings came back to his people that he was no longer among the living.

His funeral was attended at New Lebanon, on Monday, June 20th, 1791, by a large concourse of people, including a number of the neighboring clergy; and a sermon was preached on the occasion by Rev. Mr. Benedict, from 2 Chron. xxiv., 15 and 16. His remains were carried to Andover for burial, where they still repose, in the bosom of his mouldering congregation.

The hand of affection hath inscribed on his tomb-stone the following epitaph:

"He was a firm advocate for the doctrines of grace and for evangelical purity of religion. He fulfilled the work of ministry with ability, zeal and faithfulness. To soundness in the faith he added exemplary piety and holiness of life."

It is stated that the Rev. Mr. Colton, a worthy but eccentric minister of the neighboring parish of Bolton, Conn., when he exchanged with Dr. Lockwood's successor shortly after his settlement, remarked in his sermon, with more frankness and possibly more truth than delicacy, "There is not another such minister anywhere in these parts as the one you have lost."

Vol. 14, p. 255. Ordered May, 1774, "That Eliphalet Dyer and Phineas Strong, Esquires, return the thanks of this Assembly to the Rev. Samuel Lockwood for his sermon delivered before the Assembly on the 12th inst., and desire of copy thereof that it may be printed." And on p. 192. "In 1789, Rev. Samuel Lockwood, D.D., gave £100 to the college for philosophical apparatus, and after his death the college received under his will £1100. Dr. Lockwood was a graduate of the class of 1745, and a member of the corporate board for fourteen years until his death in 1791." And on page 185. "In 1791, Rev. Samuel Lockwood, of Andover, Conn., gave $1122 towards a permanent fund for the library." (History of Yale College.)

Mention is made of "a gift by Rev. Dr. Samuel Lockwood, of Andover, of £336, 14*s*., and some time before of £100 to Yale College." (Historical account of the City of New Haven, Conn., pamphlets published in 1811 in Hist. Soc., Phila., Pa., vol. 4, p. 51.)

REV. SAMUEL LOCKWOOD, D.D., 1747–1791.

Sprague's Annals, etc., vol. 1, p. 465. Samuel Lockwood was descended from a highly respectable family, and was born at Norwalk, Conn., November 30th, 1721. He was the son of James and Lydia (Smith) Lockwood. He was graduated at Yale College in 1745. He pursued his theological studies under the direction of his brother, the Rev. James Lockwood, who had at that time been settled for several years as pastor of the church in Wethersfield.

ployed by that society as a candidate for settlement. He commenced his labors there about the beginning of 1748, when the parish voted "to hire him to preach as a probationer," they passed this additional, and, as it would seem at this day, superfluous vote, that "Mr. Lockwood may change with any orthodox minister to preach to us when he shall see cause." Having after the manner of those days undergone a long probation among them as a candidate, he was ordained as pastor February 25th, 1749, O. S., the church having been constituted on the preceding day. The ordination sermon was preached by his brother the minister of Wethersfield. He continued in the faithful discharge of the duties of his office upwards of forty years.

As he always lived in a retired country parish, there was little of incident in his history, and the little that there was has nearly all passed away with the generation that was contemporary with him.

In 1790 he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Yale College. It is said that he was not flattered, but pained by the honor, and that he expressed to some of his friends a deep sense of its worthlessness, and his regret that it had been conferred upon him. He was, however, warmly attached to the college, was one of its Fellows from 1777 to 1791, and made a liberal donation in aid of its library and philosophical apparatus.

In 1774 he was appointed to preach the annual sermon before the Legislature of the State, and though there is nothing in it to indicate remarkable powers of mind, it is, nevertheless, a judicious, patriotic and well-adapted discourse. It is the only acknowledged production of his that was ever printed.

In 1791 an enfeebled state of health obliged him to desist from his labors, and by medical advice he visited the mineral springs at New Lebanon in the hope that the waters might prove beneficial to him. But in this both himself and his friends were disappointed; for after he had been there a short time his disease assumed an aggravated form, and very soon the afflicting tidings came back to his people that he was no longer among the living. He died on Saturday the 18th of June, in the 70th year of his age, and the 43d of his ministry. His funeral was attended at New Lebanon, on the Monday after his death, by a large concourse of people, among whom were a number of the neighhboring clergy, and a sermon was preached on the occasion by the Rev. Mr. Benedict from 2 Chron. xxiv., 15, 16. In a letter addressed to his wife a few days before his death, he says, "Be not surprised that I tell you that you will see me no more in this world. I am very near death; a day or two more is all I can expect; I feel comfortably resigned and hope to sleep in Jesus; I recommend you, my dear, to the mercy of God in Christ Jesus as the only ground of hope. The Rev. Dr. Williams (of East Hartford) has been very attentive and exceedingly kind to me, as some little acknowledgement of it, I desire when you see this, that you will make him a present of my best boots and spurs, my walking staff and wig. He will pay my debts here, if my cash holds out, and take care of the rest I have here. My love to my dear people. I hope to meet many of them in Heaven as my crown and joy. I hope and trust that you will meet me in Heaven and part no more."

His remains were carried to Andover for burial, where they still repose in the bosom of his mouldering congregation. The hand of affection hath inscribed on his tombstone, "He was a firm advocate for the doctrines of grace, and for evangelical purity of religion. He fulfilled the work of the ministry with ability, zeal and faithfulness. To soundness in the faith he added exemplary piety and holiness of life."

I am not aware that there is any individual now living whose recollections of Dr. Lockwood are sufficiently intelligent and minute to form the basis of a faithful sketch of his character. But, as I was myself a native of the parish which was the scene of his labors, as there was an interval of only four years between the time of his death and the time of my birth, and as I was constantly conversant in the earlier part of my life with those who had grown up or grown old under his ministry, I feel that I shall be in little danger of mistaking materially in respect to the more prominent traits that distinguished him. I have always heard him represented as a man of commanding influence in the sphere in which he moved. His person, his countenance, and especially his piercing eye and strong intelligent expression, together with his general bearing in society, were all fitted to command respect. Though he was ready enough to unbend on all suitable occasions, and at weddings particularly was always a most entertaining and welcome guest, yet he never forgot the dignity of his office, or suffered his people to forget the respect that was due to it. He moved about among them, not only as a spiritual guide, but as a father caring for his children. In the things of the world—things pertaining to their ordinary vocations—he was wiser than they, and it was seldom that they appealed from his judgment or acted contrary to it. For their spiritual interests he evinced a watchful and exemplary regard. There were several seasons in the course of his ministry which were marked by special attention to religion and by considerable addition to the church, and at the time of his death no ecclesiastical society in the country was in a more flourishing state than that over which he presided. Without ever taking an active part in the political concerns of the country, he was in principle a decided Whig during the Revolution, and as his manuscript sermons still in existence show, preached not unfrequently what might be called highly patriotic discourses.

As a preacher he must have ranked much above mediocrity. His manner in the pulpit is said to have been marked by gravity rather than vivacity; and his sermons (as I know from the perusal of many of them in manuscript) were distinguished more for clear, strong, and well-digested thought than for beautiful conceptions or an attractive style. His own congregation, I believe, generally regarded him as scarcely having an equal in the pulpit: for I well remember that the highest expression of approbation that I used to hear from some of the old people in respect to any minister, was, that he preached almost as well as Mr. Lockwood. His orthodoxy was that of the Assembly's Catechism; and even the speculations of Dr. Hopkins, which had begun to divide the churches in his day, he looked upon with strong disapprobation. During the earlier part of his ministry, he was accustomed to write his sermons at full length, and read them from the manuscript; but after awhile he began to abridge, and continued to abridge more and more, until, before the close of his ministry, his whole sermon was not unfrequently brought within the limits of three or four small duodecimo pages; and he used to say that he could produce a sermon more satisfactory to himself in four hours, in the later period of his ministry, than in four days at the beginning.

In the neighboring congregations, and in the State at large, he had a high reputation, especially for integrity and wisdom; and, as an evidence of it, I remember to have heard that the Rev. Mr. Colton, a worthy but eccentric minister of the neighboring parish of Bolton, when he exchanged with Dr. Lockwood's successor shortly after his settlement, remarked in his sermon, with more frankness and possibly more truth than delicacy,—"There is not another such minister anywhere in these parts as the one you have lost."

Dr. Lockwood was married, not long after his settlement at Andover, to Anne May, of Wethersfield. They had no children. He, however, adopted and educated a son of his brother, Rev. James Lockwood, of Wethersfield, to whom he had been much indebted in the early part of his course. Mrs. Lockwood died March 7th, 1799, in the 76th year of her age.

Sunday, July 29th.—"Dined with Mr. Walker and set out immediately for Stratford. Bill at Blackleach's, 2*s*. 8*d*. Ferriage at Stratford ferry, 2*s*, Barber, 1*s*. Arrived at Stratford just as the bell began to ring. Put up my horse at Glinney's, next door to the Meeting House. My classmate, Buckingham, saw me as I rode up. He came to me and told me Mr. Lockwood was just going into the Meeting House, but he would conduct me to the pulpit, and begged I would preach for him. I excused myself, and insisted on the favor of taking a seat with him. He conducted me into his pew, which was not far from the pulpit, while Mr. Lockwood was reading the Psalm. As soon as he had done (I took care not to look towards him), but perceived a shuffling of his feet, and, casting my eye up, found he was making signs, but I was determined not to regard him, and apprehending I might have no notes in my pocket, he concluded it would be in vain. He did not fail, however, to give me a pretty smart scolding after meeting. This is a very large assembly; there are two tiers of galleries, and the house was very full.

The congregation appeared exceedingly well. Mr. Lockwood gave us a very pretty sermon. I am pleased to find that the reading the Scriptures as a part of public worship is universally practiced in this part of the country, which formerly was not the case," etc.

"After meeting Mr. Lockwood insisted that we should take tea with him, but Esquire Buckingham urged exceedingly that we should go to his house—however, he finally consented to go with Lockwood. We spent a couple of hours very agreeably. I then took my leave, though not without being exceedingly importuned to tarry the night. But I answered them the reason of my riding at all on Sunday was the absolute necessity of reaching home that week, which I could not possibly do unless I went as far as New Haven that night."

He left the bulk of his property to his elder son John. It sounds strangely to say 100 years after Daniel Lockwood's death that he owned slaves in Connecticut, but such was the case; it is stated on family tradition, that one of his slaves tried to get him into a lonely place at night in order that he might kill him.

GREENWICH.

Daniel Lockwood was a stanch Churchman, and as such obeyed the teachings of his mother, the Church, which interpreted literally the words "Fear God, honor the King," so when the Revolutionary War broke out he remained loyal to King George, although he took no active part in suppressing what from his point of view was rebellion.

His Presbyterian neighbors, however, were not so liberal-minded, and drove away his cattle, carried off his handsome looking-glasses with other household furniture, and even inflicted personal injury upon him, one of them, Captain Sam. Lockwood, breaking his teeth. Charles Lockwood, second son of Daniel, then a lad of 18, resented these indignities, and, arming himself with a stout stick, at once repaired to the house of Captain Sam. for satisfaction, and, finding him, said, "I have come to get a receipt for your knocking my father's teeth down his throat," and raised his club; at which the Captain retired behind a chair which he elevated. The descending club broke the chair into fragments. Then the Captain shouted at the top of his voice "murder," which soon brought in his Whig neighbors to the rescue. The young avenger of his father's wrongs, knowing that they were about to take him prisoner, retreated to a corner of the room and said, "Gentlemen, I have no wish to harm a hair of your heads, but by the living God the first man that lays a hand on me is a dead man;" at which the men, five or six in number, separated on either side and allowed him to pass through their midst out of the house unharmed. He soon after thought it prudent to go to Long Island, where he remained until the close of the war.

On the 25th of April, 1775, the General Assembly, of Connecticut, met; and laid an embargo on the exportation of wheat, rye, corn, and a variety of articles; and in consequence of the acts of violence, at Lexington, Mass., passed an act enlisting the militia of six regiments and companies, of 100 men each and appointed officers for the various regiments, with David Wooster as Major-General Commanding, and Israel Putnam, Second Brigadier-General. Samuel Lockwood was appointed Second Lieutenant of the 3d Company of the 5th Regiment, commanded by Col. David Waterbury. (P. 417, and also Conn. in Rev., p. 11.)

In an account of the death of General Montgomery, at the storming of Quebeck, December 31st, 1775, published in the New York Gazette, this passage occurs:

"The firmness of the indefatigable Capt. Samuel Lockwood (by whose vigilance both by night and day, with forty men and a twelve pounder, in a gondola, eleven armed vessels with General Prescott, one hundred and thirty officers and soldiers, and one hundred and thirty seamen were taken at Sorel)," etc., "has not only crowned them with honor as soldiers, but entitles them to the applause of their bleeding country," and "among those taken prisoners, December 31st, 1775, and not exchanged on May 18th, 1776, is Capt. Samuel Lockwood." (From Force's Annals, vol. 4, 4th series, p. 708.)

DEAR GENERAL: I beg leave to recommend to your particular notice, the following gentlemen who were taken at Quebec, and lately returned on their parole, viz., Major Lamb and Captain Lockwood, of the Artillery, Lieut. Col. Oswald, and Captain Morgan. The two last went with me from Cambridge. They have all distinguished themselves for their bravery, and attachment to the publick cause, and will, I make no doubt, be very useful hereafter and do honour to the commissions they may hold. If it is not inconsistent with your engagements, I beg they may be among the first who are exchanged. On the 3d, the enemy began to embark at Crown Point, etc. I am, with sentiments of perfect esteem and respect, dear General, your affectionate and most obedient humble servent.

B. ARNOLD.

His Excellency, George Washington, Esq., General, and Commander in Chief of the United States of America, Head Quarters, King's Bridge.

In Force's Annals, p. 1570. At a meeting of the Continental Congress, November 15th, 1776, a memorial was read from Samuel Lockwood, and referred to the Board of War (see page 1577). On November 20th, 1776, the Board of War, to whom was referred the memorial from Captain Lockwood and Captain Oswald, brought in a report which was taken into consideration; whereupon it was "Resolved, That such parts of the said memorials, as relate to their pay, be referred to the Board of Treasury; and on Thursday, November 21st, 1776 (p. 1578)," the Committee of Treasury reported that there is due to Lieut. Samuel Lockwood, for his pay as Assistant Engineer in the Army, in Canada, from the 5th of November, 1775, to the 18th of May, 1776, at 20 dollars per month, 128,60–90 dollars, and from the 19th of May, to the 5th of November, at 30 dollars per month, 167 dollars: the whole 295–69–90th dollars."

"Invasion of Canada, by Rev. Edwin M. Stone."

Capt. Samuel Lockwood, p. 31, 32, 34, 35, 91, 96.

From Capt. Thayer's journal, "taken prisoner at Quebec," p. 31, several times mentioned in this journal.

In Capt. John Lamb's Company. Prisoner, this was probably Capt. Samuel Lockwood, Greenwich, Conn. A sea-captain. He was a volunteer in the invasion of Canada. (P. 96.)

"Capt. Samuel Lockwood belonged to Greenwich, Conn. He did excellent service in capturing the fleet of Carleton, at Sorel, and was taken prisoner at the storming of Quebec. He was afterwards a Captain in Colonel Lamb's Regiment of Artillery." (P. 91.)

December 31st, 1775. At 10 o'clock we surrendered.

In the list of "Wounded and taken Prisoners," is CAPTAIN LOCKWOOD. Canadian expedition. Journal of Capt. John Topham. (Cowell's Sp., of '76, p. 349.)

Capt. Samuel Lockwood, of the Second Artillery, afterwards became captain of a whale-boat, in Long Island Sound. Moses Lockwood was a gunner with Capt. Samuel Lockwood, and lost his eye by an accident. He was a farmer from Lower Salem, Westchester County, N. Y.; and granted a pension in 1782.

"Four transports arrived at Elizabethtown from Quebec, October 5th, 1776, with (420) four hundred and twenty Americans who had been prisoners, in Canada, and among the officers from Connecticut, was Capt. Samuel Lockwood." (N. Y. Archives, p. 244. Hollister's Hy., p. 295, vol. 2.)

CAPTAIN SAMUEL LOCKWOOD.

"The Jarvis family were excellent and prominent people here, but their affections were with their king rather than with his rebellious subjects. When therefore it seemed necessary that his family should be sent over the line, CAPT. SAMUEL LOCKWOOD, of Greenwich, was appointed to execute the order. This he did with the ready zeal of a revolutionary patriot; and of course his officiousness alienated the two families. No royal Jarvis could thenceforth endure one of the notoriously rebellious Lockwood tribe. But the years roll on and work strange cures as well as aggravate maladies not to be healed. A grandson of the inexorable captain was won to a surrender by the maidenly graces of a granddaughter of the courtly royalist, and so far, at least, the old feud was healed as the family of our worthy citizen, Judge Ferris, will attest." (Hy. Stamford, pp. 214 and 215.)

In vol. 6 of the Rhode Island Historical Collections, Captain Thayer, in his journal, says:

"Among the officers that were taken at Quebec, was Capt. Samuel Lockwood;" and the journal of Col. John Topham says, December 31st, 1775, "The names of the officers killed, wounded and taken are—Killed: The brave Gen. Richard Montgomery, and others. Among the wounded and taken prisoners, Captain Samuel Lockwood, remarking, 'and here we spent a solitary New Year's Day.'" And subsequently says:

Captain Samuel Lockwood.

"January 5th, 1776. Seeing no hopes of relief, we unanimously resolved to make our escape, if possible; accordingly, we curried the favor of one of the sentinels, who we found willing to be of our party, having informed us of the situation of the garrison, the strength of our forces, and the General's name. In consequence, amongst the number of officers, Captain Lockwood and myself were pitched upon to make our escape. Accordingly, we sounded Joe," etc., who furnished them with clubs and countersigns, and they were to pass out of the chamber window, four stories high, "by means of our blankets. Mr. Lockwood, standing in the gangway to notify me of any persons coming, observed the officer on guard advancing towards us" where they were all locked in one room, etc., etc., and on the 30th, "to my surprise, Captains Lockwood and Hanchet were detected in inquiring of Joe some particulars concerning me and where I was, etc. The Captains were sent to accompany me, where we remained in the most lamentable situation until the 6th of May, etc., when they were sent back to their former prison," etc.

"The prisoners sent a petition to the British General, asking to go on Parole on June 7th, 1776, and Captain Samuel Lockwood, of Greenwich, Conn., signed among the others."

"New Haven, November 24th, 1779, Monday, sen' nit (Sunday night), two small privateers of 4 Guns, each commanded by Captains Lockwood and Johnson, ran into Oyster Bay under British Colors, where were four wood vessels under protection of a large 8 Gun Brig, who asked the privateers 'where from?' and on being answered 'from New York,' they were permitted to run alongside the Brig unsuspected; and boarding her, the crew were surprised into an immediate surrender without even firing a gun, though manned with 20 stout fellows; on which the other vessels also submitted, and were all brought out of port, destined for Norwalk or Stamford, but on being pursued by some armed vessels from Huntingdon Harbor, the Brig unluckily run on a reef of rocks near Norwalk Harbor, and fell again into the enemy's hands, who got her off and took her away. The other prizes got safe into port." (H. Onderdonk's Documents and Letters of Revolutionary Incidents of Queens Co., New York, p. 218.)

"Before September 14th, 1780, Captain Lockwood took from L. I. Cable and Ludlam." (P. 89.)

"Fishkill, December 9th, 1779. On the evening of November 4th, about 25 volunteers under Captains Hawley, Lockwood, and Jones, Lieutenants Jackson and Bishop, crossed the Sound from Newfield (since called Bridgeport) to Stony Brook, near Smithtown, and marched to the house of the Hon. Thomas Jones, Justice of the Supreme Court of New York at Fort Neck (Thomas F. Jones), where they arrived about 9 o'clock on the evening of the 6th—hiding in the woods by day. The whole distance was 52 miles. There was a ball in the house, and the noise of music and dancing prevented the approach of the adventurers being heard.

"Captain Hawley knocked at the door, and receiving no answer forced it open, and found Judge Jones standing in the entry. He told him he was his prisoner, and immediately conducted him off, and also a young man named Hewlett. A guard of soldiers was posted at a small distance from their road. When they came near the spot, the Judge hemmed very loudly, but was forbidden to repeat it. He did, however, but on being further threatened desisted. An alarm arose, which obliged the men to retreat rapidly, travelling thirty miles the same night, and to secrete themselves the next day, by which time the British Light Horse were near. The next evening they reached their boats, having taken two prisoners more, and arrived safely at Black Rock, Fairfield, Connecticut, on the 8th, excepting six men in the rear, who were overtaken and captured by the light horse. Judge Jones was taken to Middletown, and in May, 1780, was exchanged for General Silliman, a prisoner at Flatbush. Mr. Hewlett was exchanged for the General's son, one Washburn being thrown in as a make weight. After the exchange the Judge and the General dined together." (H. Onderdonk's Doc. and Letters of Rev'y Incidents of Queens Co., N. Y., p. 218; also Lossing's Field Book of Revolution, p. 852.)

Capt. Samuel Lockwood Commanded one of these Whale Boats.

The village of Stonybrook has one of the best harbors on Long Island. Near the village of Corum the British had accumulated a large quantity of forage for the winter of 1780, which was destroyed by Colonel Tallmadge. The plan of this expedition was approved of by a communication from General Washington.

"In pursuance of this communication, Major Tallmadge ordered the detachment to repair to Fairfield. Here being met by other troops, the party embarked, the 21st of November, 1780, at four o'clock P.M., in eight whale boats. The whole number, including the crews of the boats, amounted to eighty men. They crossed the Sound in four hours, and landed at Old Mans at nine o'clock. The troops had marched about five miles, when, it beginning to rain, they returned and took shelter under their boats, and lay concealed in the bushes all that night and the next day. At evening, the rain abating, the troops were again put in motion, and at three o'clock in the morning were within two miles of the fort.

"Here he divided his men into three parties, ordering each to attack the fort at the same time at different points. The order was so well executed that the three divisions arrived nearly at the same moment. It was a triangular enclosure of several acres, strongly stockaded, well barricaded, houses at two of the angles, and at the third a fort, with a deep ditch and wall, encircled by an abatis of sharpened pickets, projecting at an angle of forty-five degrees. The stockade was cut down, the column led through the grand parade, and in ten minutes the main fort was carried by the bayonet. The vessels near the fort, laden with stores, attempted to escape, but the guns of the fort being brought to bear upon them, they were secured and burnt, as were the works and stores. The number of prisoners was fifty-four, of whom seven were wounded. While they were marched to the boats under an escort, Major Tallmadge proceeded with the remainder of his detachment, destroyed about three hundred tons of hay collected at Corum, and returned to the place of debarkation just as the party with the prisoners had arrived, and reached Fairfield by eleven o'clock the same evening; having accomplished the enterprise, including a march of forty miles by land and as much by water, without the loss of a man. Congress passed a resolve complimentary to the commander and troops engaged in this expedition, which was said by them to have been planned and conducted with wisdom and great gallantry by Major Tallmadge, and executed with intrepidity and complete success by the officers and soldiers of his detachment." (Barber and Howe's His. Coll. of New York, p. 535.)

"Peleg Redfield served in the Connecticut Line, from 1780 until 1782, under Captain Lockwood, whose company formed part of General Waterbury's Brigade. He assisted in what defense was made to save New Haven from the marauding expedition under Tryon and Garth in July, 1779, and saw the flames arising from the burning of East Haven. While under Captain Lockwood's command he was one of a detachment which was sent out in January, 1780, with orders to cut off Delancy's dragoons, and a band of tories under Colonel Hatfield, who had their headquarters at Morrisania. Delancy and his dragoons were absent, but Colonel Hatfield and eleven tories were taken after a desperate resistance, with a large amount of booty. In 1781 his regiment lay at White Plains, in full view of the allied armies, and he saw them strike their tents for the purpose of joining Lafayette in the siege of Yorktown, while the brigade to which he belonged was ordered back to Connecticut to guard the coast from invasion and to watch the movements of the tories."*

DAVID LOCKWOOD.

It appears from a family record and living witnesses in April, 1818, that he was born June 21st, 1760, and died in New Milford, Connecticut, December 24th, 1841. Resided in Greenwich, Connecticut, during Revolutionary War. Enlisted by Lieut. Henry Waring in February, 1777, for three years, under Capt. Samuel Lockwood, who was succeeded by Capt. Stephens in the 2d Artillery, New York Regiment, commanded by Colonel John Lamb, and was discharged at Morristown, New Jersey, after three years' service. Samuel Lockwood, of New Milford, a son of his Captain, was a witness in 1819 when he applied for a pension.

In July, 1820, his family consisted of his wife, a son, Charles, aged about 16 years. Has had aid from his relatives, particularly Roswell Lockwood. Sarah Clason, born January 25th, 1762, appears to have been his wife. His widow, Sarah, lived in New Milford; states that her husband was taken prisoner while serving on board a whale boat, called also a gunboat; he was detained about three months, and afterwards served under Capt. Henry Waring in several alarms.

Hannah Ford, in 1844, of Greenwich, aged 75 years, states she was a neighbor of Daniel Lockwood's, and when about 11 or 12 years old, was present at his marriage at the house of Samuel Lockwood, his father, by Col. Charles Webb, of Stamford, then a Justice of the Peace. Samuel Lockwood, the father of Mrs. Ford, had the command of a gunboat stationed at Greenwich during the war, and she recollects with great certainty that her Uncle David was on a gunboat under Capt. Samuel Lockwood, after his marriage, and David was brother to Samuel.

Mrs. Ford further says: "My uncle, David Lockwood, accompanied my father, Capt. Samuel Lockwood, in the gunboat across the Sound to Long Island, to get my brother, who had been left there, at the time my Uncle David was wounded in the thigh by a musket ball."

August 15th, 1844, Mary Winas says her sister Esther Townsend, m. 1, Jeremiah Mead, m. 2, Timothy Lockwood by Elder Nathan Cole, a Baptist minister, at the town of South East, in Dutchess County, now Putnam County, in the State of New York. She subsequently m. 3, Levi Miller.

October 6th, 1844, Esther lived in Macomb County, Michigan, in the township of Washington, aged 83 years and 6 months. She was widow of Timothy Lockwood who enlisted in the army when about 17 years old. I have heard him often say he was in the battle of White Plains (that occurred October 28th, 1776), with the army at Valley Forge, and also that he was in a fort which was taken by the British (probably Fort Washington, which was captured November 16th, 1776) near New York, through the treason of the Adjutant of Col. Magaw's Regiment. Mr. Lockwood escaped from the fort and was not taken prisoner. I have heard him say that one Samuel Lockwood was his Captain, and that my husband lived at Horse Neck. I have heard him say that he was a drummer in Washington's Life Guard, and a drummer while at Valley Forge. My husband also enlisted in the navy sometime during the war, and sailed in the ship Trumbull on her first voyage. The Captain's name was James Nickerson. In the first engagement the ships were both almost reduced to wrecks. They separated, and the Trumbull went to Boston, I think, to repair; afterwards in that, or some other ship, he took two or three prizes. They took the prizes to Philadelphia where Mr. Lockwood was taken sick. I have also heard him say he was in the service the most of the time for seven years. I was married to Timothy Lockwood in January, 1784, the 13th or 14th day. I then resided in a town called Fredericksburg, which lay on Croton River about thirty miles above White Plains. My said husband died March 12th, 1813, in the town of Ments, Cayuga County, New York.

At Greenwich, July 18th, 1844, personally appeared Ebenezer Jessup in his 80th year, stated he was well acquainted with a man by the name of Timothy Lockwood in the time of the Revolutionary War, he was a drummer in a company commanded by Capt. Samuel Lockwood, and Henry Waring was Lieutenant.

At Greenwich, July 18th, 1844. Personally appeared Hannah Ford in her 76th year, and stated she was well acquainted with a man by the name of Timothy Lockwood in the time of the Revolutionary War, that he belonged to a company that her father commanded, viz., Capt. Samuel Lockwood. She thinks he served in said company as a drummer.

Timothy Lockwood, December 26th, 1781, was paid £21,4*s*.4*d*., and at that time was in a company commanded by Capt. Daniel Williams, Col. Albert Pawlings' Regiment. (U. S. Pension Records.) As per ctf. of State Comptroller, 189. Capt. EPHRAIM LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Jonathan,[2] Robert,[3] David[4]), born February 24th, 1738–39, in Greenwich, Conn.; son of Capt. David Lockwood. "Was made a Captain of the 3d Regiment June 25th, 1776." (P. 306.)

191. Commodore JOSHUA LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Jonathan,[2] Robert,[3] David[4]), born September 26th, 1743, in Greenwich, Conn.; son of David Lockwood of said Greenwich. (N. Y. Calendar, p. 632.)

Joshua Lockwood, of Poundridge, was chosen by the freeholders and inhabitants of Westchester County, N. Y., one of the committee for said county from the second Monday in May, 1776, to the second Monday in May, 1777.

In the course of the year 1782 John Matthews, Esquire, Governor of South Carolina, concerted measures with some of the citizens of Charlestown who wished to make their peace with their countrymen, for sending out of the British lines necessary clothing for the almost naked Continentals.

When their distress had nearly arrived to the point beyond which human nature can bear no more, Mr. Joshua Lockwood under the direction of the Governor Matthews brought out of Charlestown a large quantity of the articles which were most needed in the American Camp. This seasonable supply, though much short of their due, quieted the minds of the suffering soldiers.

Tranquillity and good order were restored in the Camp and duty was cheerfully performed. It is impossible to do justice to that invincible fortitude which was displayed by both officers and men in the campaigns of 1780 and 1781, etc., etc. (a long eulogy follows here of the soldiers and their sufferings). (Ramsey's History of South Carolina, p. 440.)

In a letter from Gen. Francis Marion to Col. P. Horry (Horry, MS.) dated Bacon Bridge, May 11th, 1782, he says:

"I sent you a letter by COMMODORE LOCKWOOD, informing that the British intend to go to Georgetown, under French colors and dress: you will I dare say, prevent their deception from taking effect," etc., etc. (Gibbs' Documentary History of S. C., 1776–1782.)

"The force opposed to the British fleet was the Bricole, 44 guns, Providence and Boston, each 32, and 6 others." (Ramsey's Hy. South Carolina, edition 1809, vol. 1, p. 323.)

NOTE.—Commodore Whipple commanded the American naval force in March, 1780.

Georgetown, June 29th, 1782, in a letter of Col. P. Horry to Gen. Marion, he says: Lockwood is here with orders from the Governor to load with rice for goods received; and as you want goods and they are present, I wish you may find it convenient to take them and make payment agreeably to the adventure. The boat awaits your answer. The captain has risked these goods (and without a pass) to serve us, and is willing to send you any quantity you may commission him for.

I am dear General your obedient servant,

PETER HORRY.

(Gibbs' Doc'y His. South Carolina, p. 244)

In a letter of Capt. Jacob Milligan to Gen. Marion, Georgetown, October 31st. 1782, he says:

"Sir.—I have [illegible] moment been favored with your Excellency's letter of 28th, instant, in consequence of which have made a seizure of a schooner from Mr. Lockwood, in Charlestown, deeply laden with tobacco, rice, etc., which was discharged from the sloop I mentioned to your Excellency I had seized before, and which I then cleared upon seeing a passport signed by the Governor," etc., etc.

HORRY MS.

COMMODORE LOCKWOOD TO GEN. MARION.

CHARLESTOWN, October 31, 1782.

DEAR SIR:

As it is the Governor's desire for the good of our country, I have made it my business to send out whatever I can send them, Dorchester way, without a pass, and one with the Governor's pass to Georgetown; but this day Daniel Shields appealed to me for a recommendation to you, for a pass to go with his schooner to Mr. Swinton's at Wappetaw. I know little of the said Shields, but am told he is a good coaster, therefore, must be of service to us, and doubt not but you will give him a pass to remain until further orders, as the Governor's passes run. Here is, also, a fine Virginia schooner, the Nancy, Capt. John Anderson, which wants a pass to Georgetown, and there to remain, which I shall be obliged to your Excellency for, by the bearer, as I have no opportunity at present to send to the Governor. The troops are to embark the 15th November, as Leslie says.

I am with great respect Sir, your most humble servant,

J. LOCKWOOD.

STAMFORD PROBATE DISTRICT.

On this 13th day of June, 1834, Personally appeared in open Court before the Court of Probate for said District now sitting—David Lockwood, a resident of Greenwich, in said District, County and State, aged Seventy years and upwards, who, being first sworn according to Law on his oath, makes the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the act of congress passed the 7th June, 1832. That he entered the service of the United States until the following named officers and served as herein stated, viz.: The fore part of October (he believes the first), 1778, he enlisted as a soldier in a company of State Troops, commanded by Capt. Granger, Lieut. Bulkley, for the term of six months and served for the whole time as a Private soldier under said enlistment in Fort Nonsence (as it was called by way of derision as declarant believes). The Fort was situated about three miles to the northwest of the village of Stamford, General David Waterbury had the command of the Fort at the time. He knows no person now living who served with him in the Fort. He was dismissed in April, 1779. The declarant was born in said Greenwich, July 6th, 1763. He has no record of his age, but takes it from his parents as they gave it to him when living.

WILL.

I, Ebenezer Lockwood, of Poundridge, in the County of Westchester and State of New York, Esquire, being advanced in age, but of sound disposing mind, memory and understanding, do this tenth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and nineteen, make and publish this my last Will and Testament in manner following that is to say: First. I order and direct that all my just debts and funeral expenses be paid and discharged.

Item. I give, devise and bequeath unto my son Ezra Lockwood, his heirs and assigns forever, two equal shares or tenth parts of all the lands and tenements I may die seized of.

Item. I give, devise and bequeath unto my son Horatio Lockwood, his heirs and assigns forever, two equal shares or tenth parts of all the lands and tenements I may die seized of. Item. I give, devise and bequeath unto each of my daughters Betsey Hunt and Ruhamah Read, one share or tenth part of my real estate, lands and tenements, and to their respective heirs and assigns forever. Item. I give and bequeath unto my daughter Hannah Osborn, the use or rents and profits of one share or tenth part of my real estate that I may die seized of during her natural life, leaving it to the discretion of my executor to give her the use or occupancy of said share, or to pay her the rents and profits thereof annually, and at her decease I order said share or tenth part to be divided among her several heirs or children in equal portions, unless it should in the opinion of my executors be thought most beneficial to sell the same and divide the moneys arising therefrom among her heirs in manner aforesaid, in which case they are hereby authorized to act as in their discretion they may judge best for the interest of said heirs. Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter Mary Thatcher, the use or rents and profits of one share or tenth part of my real estate (in the same manner and under the like conditions that I have given to my daughter Hannah, and at her decease I order the same to be divided among the heirs of my said daughter Mary in the same manner as herein directed to be divided among the heirs of my daughter Hannah. Item. I give, devise and bequeath unto my daughter Clarissa Richards one-tenth part of my lands as aforesaid to hold during her natural life, and at her decease I give, devise and bequeath the same to her children Betsey A. Cox and Ebenezer James Richards, or to the survivors of them and to their respective heirs and assigns forever. Item. I order and direct that my executors hereinafter named within some reasonable time after my decease sell and convey one equal share or tenth part of my real estate (and to dispose of the same at public or private sale at their discretion), and the moneys arising from such sale I order my executors to put at interest on good real security, and to apply the interest arising from said sum toward the support and education of such of the children of my son Ebenezer, deceased, as may be under the age of fourteen years, and I do hereby order my executors to pay the interest aforesaid annually to Sarah the mother of said children, or to my daughter Betsey Hunt whom I hereby appoint the Guardian for the purpose of receiving and applying the interest of said infant children for the purposes aforesaid at her discretion until the youngest of said children arrives to lawful age, at which time I order the said sum to be equally divided among all the children or the survivors of my said son Ebenezer, deceased, equally. Item. I order and direct that my beloved wife Sarah have a comfortable maintenance out of my estate, and that the same be furnished by my heirs and legatees in proportion as they may severally share in my estate, and I do give my said wife one cow, one bed and bedding for the same, and the use of so much furniture as my executors may judge necessary during her natural life in lieu of her dower in my estate. And as to all the rest of my estate whatsoever I give and bequeath the same in the proportion as they may receive of my real estate to my children and grandchildren after the payment of my just debts and the expenses of settling my estate. Lastly—I do hereby constitute and appoint my said daughter Betsey Hunt

Executrix, and my said son Ezra Lockwood, and my sons-in-law Samuel Read and Jesse Richards, and my nephew Ebenezer Wood, Jr., Executors of this my last Will and Testament, hereby revoking all former Wills by me made. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year first above written. EBENEZER LOCKWOOD [SEAL.]

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the said Ebenezer Lockwood as and for his last Will and Testament in the presence of us, who, at his request and in his presence, and in the presence of each other, have subscribed our names as witnesses thereto.

SKETCH OF MAJOR EBENEZER LOCKWOOD OF THE REVOLUTIONARY ARMY.

BY HIS SON JUDGE EZRA LOCKWOOD. WRITTEN PREVIOUS TO THE YEAR 1853.

Ebenezer Lockwood, late of Poundridge, in Westchester County, deceased, was born in Stamford, Conn., on the 31st of March, 1737, and was the fourth son of Joseph Lockwood who emigrated to Poundridge in the spring of the year 1743, and settled in the central part of the town (now village), on a right of land belonging to one of the original proprietors of the Stamford Patent, so called, and which fell within the jurisdiction of New York.

He continued on the farm with his father engaged in agricultural pursuits during his minority, but soon after engaged in various other pursuits of extensive usefulness.

Soon after the demise of his father, which occurred June 15th, 1757, the paternal patrimony, consisting of some four or five hundred acres, was divided between his older brother and himself, being the only surviving sons, which still remains in the possession of the descendants after the lapse of a century.

It was the circumstance of a pound being erected on that handsome ridge of land now owned by one of his sons, that gave to the town the name of Poundridge.

Tombstone of MAJOR EBENEZER LOCKWOOD,

At the age of 25 he was engaged in merchandise, and was appointed one of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace and one of the Quorum, which offices he held until the commencement of the Revolutionary War. At the breaking out of hostilities, to wit, on the 19th of October, 1775, he was commissioned a Major in the Regiment of Westchester County Militia, commanded by Col. Thomas Thomas, and was in active service during most of the campaign of '76, when the enemy took possession of the lower part of Westchester County.

In the month of May, 1776, he attended the Provincial Congress then sitting in New York, having been elected to that office on the third Tuesday in April previous for one year, and was in continued service from that period until the close of the war, either as Major, Member of the Provincial Congress, Committee of Safety, and other posts of active duty in favor of American Independence, until its final acknowledgment by Great Britain in 1783. After the Declaration of Independence he was elected a member of the Provincial Convention for forming a constitution of Government for the State, and as such aided in the formation and adoption of the first Constitution and was returned as a member of the Legislature for several years after the close of the war. Other stations of public employment also engaged much of his time and called him from the domestic circle at considerable sacrifice of interest and comfort. His unwearied zeal and activity in the American cause also was accompanied with much pecuniary loss and sacrifice of property. In the year 1779 when the whole county of Westchester was the theatre of blood, rapine and plunder, and life and property endangered from foes without and traitors within, his hospitable dwelling was opened as a military cantonment and rendezvous of Col. Sheldon's regiment of Light Dragoons. The regiment was engaged in frequent skirmishes with the enemy, and served as a protection to the Northern frontier from the incursions of the Tories and British from below the lines in the neighborhood of North Castle.

It was for the capture of this régiment that Sir Henry Clinton resolved on sending Col. B. Tarleton with a detachment of the Royal Dragoons of the 17th Regiment and a detachment of about 300 men on the night of July 2d, 1779.

The precaution of the Committee of Safety had placed a spy by the name of Luther Kinnicut in the enemy's camp below the lines, who on the day previous gave notice to Col. Sheldon of the intended attack in a short time, but did not know the precise day. The night proved stormy, and the torrents of rain which fell would have retarded the progress of a commander of less intrepidity than Tarleton. Sheldon apprehended no danger, on account of the storm. Col. Moylan's regiment was daily expected to join Sheldon, and had the junction been effected before Tarleton's arrival, from the well known bravery and courage of Moylan and his troops, the fate of Tarleton would not have been less disastrous than he received from the old Wagoner at the Cowpens.

Sentinels were placed about a mile from the Major's on the north and south roads leading to Bedford. The sentinels on the north road, at early dawn, descried a large body of Dragoons under rapid movement, who passed the junction of the road leading from Bedford to Poundridge and continued on toward Ridgefield. This mistake of the enemy in pursuing the Ridgefield road for half a mile or more, gave time for the vidette to return and give the notice. Sheldon, supposing that it might have been Col. Moylan's regiment who were expected, dispatched Major Benjamin Tallmadge with a small detachment to reconnoitre and bring back intelligence of the true state of things. About half way to the junction of the road, as Tallmadge ascended a hill where the road turned to the right, from the uneveness of the ground, an object could not be seen except at a very short distance ahead, and at this place Tallmadge met Tarleton under full charge, wheeled and returned at full speed with Tarleton at his heels; while Sheldon with his command were preparing to mount their horses which were tied to the fence on the east side of the road by the meeting-house. A general rout ensued, while Sheldon's regiment moved off down the road leading to Stamford for about three-fourths of a mile, then separated at the junction of the road leading to Canaan, with Tarleton's Dragoons harassing his rear, killing, wounding and taking prisoners some 18 or 20. The enemy lost one killed, four prisoners, and wounded uncertain, one horse killed and four taken.

Among the prisoners captured by Tarleton was Alsop Hunt, a son-in-law of Major Lockwood, who, after being rifled of a gold watch, money, and other things of value about his person, was carried to New York and lodged in the Provost prison.

The pursuit lasted about four or five hours, when Tarleton, being unable to overtake Sheldon, returned, burnt the Major's house with most of its contents, permitting one of his soldiers cruelly to cut and maltreat his wife, drove off his valuable stock of sixteen cows, burnt the meeting-house, and were about committing further outrages when the militia, under command of Major Leavenworth, began to approach and Tarleton fled with all the precipitation he came.

Major Lockwood, thus being destitute of a house or home, and apprehending further visits from the enemy, found an asylum for his family in the house of a friend in Ridgefield, while he continued in active service to his country in various stations of civil and military duty to the close of the war. Nothing disheartened by this reverse of fortune, he soon returned to his farm, converted a barn into a dwelling, was honored with the appointment of first Judge of the County Court, frequently elected to the Legislature from Westchester County, was intrusted with loaning the moneys of the State in the County, and other responsible offices.

When peace was established with Great Britain, the County, through the villany of Col. ———, was destitute of a Court house and jail. The location of a public building is always calculated to excite the interested feelings of different sections of the territory to be accommodated, and it was so with Westchester County. Judge Lockwood was one of the committee to settle this vexed question of locality, and through his influence, principally, the present arrangement of court houses was effected, which has proved to give general satisfaction for more than half a century.

About the year 1795 he retired from all public employment, and spent the remainder of his days in the circle of his family and friends until his death, 29th July, 1821, beloved and esteemed by all who knew him.

The New York Committee of Safety met at Fishkill, Tuesday, A.M., September 3d, 1776, Major Ebenezer Lockwood being present, at which a letter from Gen. George Washington was received, dated September 1st, 1776, in which he asked the Commissary to purchase cattle and aid to defend King's Bridge, when it was ——— "ordered, that Major Lockwood proceed immediately to West Chester County, or elsewhere, and endeavor to see Col. Smith and Col. Remsen in order to obtain intelligence from them of the state of their respective Regiments, and that he be empowered to order the said Regiments to repair to General Clinton's encampment, at King's Bridge, in case Col. Smith finds it impracticable, from the disposition of his troops or other circumstances, to transport them to Long Island, and that he inform Col. Smith, in confidence, that means have been devised, and are now actually carrying into execution, to give him assistance in opposing the enemy on Long Island."

And Resolved, "That Major Lockwood be empowered to impress horses wherever he may have occasion for the same to expedite his journey;" and after other resolutions the following was passed:

"Resolved unanimously, That it be recommended to the Committees of West Chester, Horse Neck, Stamford, and Norwalk, diligently to watch all boats passing from the main to Long Island, and to suffer no soldier belonging to any Regiment in the service of this State to pass over to Long Island armed, even though he should produce an officer's pass; and that Major Lockwood be requested and authorized to forward copies of this Resolve to the said Committees respectively, by Express, if he finds that Cols. Smith's and Remsen's Regiments are either dispersed or disbanded, and have received no orders to rendezvous on Long Island. At the same meeting a letter was received from Philip Livingston, Esq., one of the delegates to the Continental Congress, dated Philadelphia, August 30th, 1776."

Force's American Archives, p. 1563, vol. 1, 5th series.

September 3d, 1776. The Committee received a letter from General Washington, dated New York, September 1st, 1776, with important suggestions, and as a result thereof, "Major Lockwood was ordered to West Chester Co., or elsewhere, to see Cols. Smith and Remsen, etc., etc., and empowered to order their Regiments to repair to General Clinton's Encampment, at High Bridge, etc., etc., in case Col. Smith finds it impracticable to transport them to Long Island," etc., etc.

"Resolved, That Major Lockwood be empowered to impress horses, wherever he may have occasion for the same, to expedite his journey, and the same day the Committee on Safety received information that some of Col. Smith's and Col. Remsen's levies had dispersed and disbanded, etc. General Clinton was requested to inquire into the truth of such intelligence, etc., and to detain such militia, and Major Lockwood was requested to forward copies of this Resolve to the Committees of West Chester, Horse Neck, Stamford, and Norwalk."

The Convention met, Major Lockwood representing West Chester Co. The Commissary General applied to Congress for advice about 1200 Bbls. pork supplied to the Army. The matter was referred to a special committee, with Major Lockwood as Chairman, whose very lengthy report is given on page 220, in which occurs this sentence, "Your Committee, however, conceive it beneath the dignity of this State to demand any alteration respecting the price of said Pork, and have therefore agreed to the following Resolution:" "Resolved, That in the opinion of this Committee, the Auditor General repair to the Commissary General," etc., etc., etc., and then later on, "But as this Convention, zealous for the honor of the State and the success of the common cause, would carefully avoid every measure which might tend to impede the general service, embarrass the Commissary General in his department, or raise a suspicion that this Convention was capable of seeking an unreasonable advantage," your Committee, etc., etc., etc., recommend that they "be authorized to settle with the Commissary General on the terms he has himself proposed." At the same meeting (p. 221) a representation was made to the Convention, "that this State is indebted to Nicholas Bayard, Esquire, in the out ward of the City of New York, for the use of his House, for the security of the publick Records of this State," etc., etc., etc., "now being deprived of his whole estate by the enemy, payment thereof ought to be made," it was "ordered that Mr. Lockwood, Mr. Dunscomb, and Mr. Duane be a Committee to state and report the sum reasonably due from this State to Nicholas Bayard, Esquire, on the account above mentioned."

On October 17th, 1776 (p. 255), the Convention, Major Lockwood being present, passed a long resolution with reference to the action of the Continental Congress, for the sale and consumption of Bohea Tea, reciting that "many tea holders did, among other things, allege that they were fast friends to the American cause, and had been induced to import a more than usual quantity of that article, with a view the better to oppose and defeat the designs of the Ministry and India Company, in selling Tea in the Colonies, subject to duty," etc., etc., etc., "and the Continental Congress did grant the prayer of the petitioners," etc., etc., and "whereas, certain Tea holders now refused to dispose of their stock of Tea on hand, designing to postpone the sale thereof until such time as an artificial scarcity shall induce the women of this State to tempt them to vend it, by offering exhorbitant prices," and others "have sold Tea at double the price allowed by the Congress," and "said unjustifiable and mercenary practices have brought upon them the resentment of the people, and many riotous proceedings," etc., etc., this Convention for the reason aforesaid, etc., etc., etc., order the "Committees, etc., to take into custody, from every Tea Merchant, Shopkeeper, or other person," etc., "all the Bohea Tea found in their possession, over and above the quantity of twenty-five pounds respectively, and appoint some respectable person or persons to retail the same in small quantities, to any person that may apply to purchase the same, at the rate of six shillings per pound," etc., which was agreed to, and at the same meeting (p. 257) "a letter was read from Joshua Ambler, Chairman of the Committee, of Pound Ridge, in West Chester Co., dated the 15th inst., informing that there is danger of the prisoners of war going off to the enemy, as one of them is already gone to Long Island."

"Thereupon, Resolved, 'That Major Lockwood repair immediately to Pound Ridge and Bedford, in West Chester Co., to inquire into the state of the prisoners of war confined there, and if he should find it necessary, that he cause the privates to be conveyed under a proper guard to Woodbury, in the State of Connecticut,' and that the officers who are prisoners on parole to Danbury in the same State." "Major Lockwood to be furnished with the blank paroles, to be by him filled up for such of the said prisoners as are confined there on parole, the old paroles to be cancelled, and that Major Lockwood, at his discretion, settle with and advance to the prisoners the rations and other provisions allowed by the Resolve of Congress, as may appear to have been justly due to them."

Vol. 2, 5th series. DANBURY, October 22d, 1776.

Sir: Having received your letter of the 20th inst., with three officers, who, you inform us, are prisoners of war, and a copy of their parole; likewise we received them into our custody, and shall endeavor to conduct towards them, agreeable to the resolves of the Continental Congress in such case made and provided.

By order of the Committee of Inspection, for the town of Danbury, per Thomas Stevens, Chairman.

To Esquire Ebenezer Lockwood, at Pound Ridge, West Chester County.

From Force's American Archives, p. 254, October 17th, 1776, vol. 3, 5th series.

The Committee to whom was referred the claim of Mr. Nicholas Bayard, etc., reported the following, "that Fifty pounds be allowed him." On October 17th, 1776, Col. Lockwood was made Chairman of a Committee to which was referred the claim of Jeremiah Allen.

P. 273. On October 28th, 1776, the following is recorded:

Monday, P.M., October 28th, 1776.

Major Lockwood reports that, pursuant to the resolutions of this Committee, on the 8th inst., directing him to proceed to Poundridge and Bedford, in West Chester Co., and give directions relative to the prisoners of war at these places, he proceeded to Bedford aforesaid, and found it necessary to remove such prisoners of war as yet remained there. He then reports in detail the names of, and disposition of, certain prisoners and further that he had advanced monies to certain prisoners, and taken their paroles of honour, etc., etc., etc., and ordered the monies refunded, etc.

P. 275. On Tuesday, October 29th, 1776, the Committee of Safety ordered, "That Major Lockwood be requested to proceed immediately to West Chester Co., and make inquiry where the Records of the Town Clerk's Office of the City and County of New York, as also the publick Records of the Loan Offices, and Supervisors of the County of West Chester are deposited, and that he use his best endeavors to cause them to be safely conveyed to such place of safety as he shall judge prudent; and that this Committee will make provision for paying the expenses attending the same."

P. 322. On November 26th, 1776, the Committee ordered "that Mr. L'Hommediene and Major Lockwood be a Committee to inquire into the cause of the said Connecticut Troops (sick and destitute), and if Colonel Welch shall refuse to take charge of them, then to give proper orders for their relief."

And also on page 906, Force's Annals, same volume, the following letter from Major Lockwood to Pierre V. Cortlandt, Vice-President of the Convention:

"POUND RIDGE, November 29th, 1776.

"Sir: These are to inform you that I have been at Stamford this day, and was informed by several gentlemen that might be depended on, that there is but a few of the enemy's ships up the Sound, and them but small ones, thought to have no troops on board of them; and they think the enemy will not land there this year, except it be to plunder off some of their stock that may be down on their necks of land.

"There was landed from a brig and tender this day a number of men at Greenwich, a place about two miles below the post road, near Stamford, where (as was supposed) they thought to have taken off a number of sheep, but they were disappointed, for some boys drove them off, while the inhabitants fired on the enemy. The enemy soon returned to their ships. The enemy got off only four poor calves under the cover of their cannon. A poor bargain. The ships soon went up the Sound, to the East, out of sight. The men, both old and young, came down in large numbers when they heard the cannon, and from several miles back, and seemed to be in high spirits. So, on the whole, I think things appear more favorable than I expected in this part.

"Mr. Mills is to set out to come to you on Monday next. I hope to be with you about the middle of next week.

From your humble servant,
EBEN. LOCKWOOD.

Pierre V. Cortlandt, Vice President of the Convention, of the State of New York, at the Fishkills."

On December 11th, 1776, p. 370. General Morris was directed to repair to Philadelphia, and take his seat in General Congress, in order that Philip Livingston, Esq., may be enabled to visit his family, and Mr. Robert Harper, Wm. Harper, Major Lockwood, and Wm. Wisner be a Committee for the purpose of furnishing General George Clinton with ammunition and other necessaries for the use of his Brigade.

P. 371. "The petition of the General Committee of West Chester Co., praying for relief that Rogers with his rangers, may be drove off, etc., was read and filed." Ordered That the said Petition be referred to R. R. Livingston, Major Lockwood, General Morris, and Mr. Morris.

MICAH TOWNSEND,
Clerk of Committee.

P. 564, Calendar of Historical Manuscripts, etc., N. Y.:

The New York Provincial Congress order "That an expedition be made into the County of West Chester, New York, and that the Militia of said county be encouraged to join the Troops aforesaid with four days Provisions, for which purpose Major Lockwood be immediately sent among them and to concert a Place of Rendezvous for those who are willing to serve with secrecy and Dispatch. That such Militia be allowed Continental Pay and Rations; that the Commissary at Peekskill be requested to furnish such Rations, and in default thereof that the said Major Lockwood be impowered to appoint a Commissary for the purpose aforesaid." "That the said Major Lockwood be ordered to wait upon the said Commanding officer at Peekskill with a copy of these Resolutions and of the said Petition and also to concert measures with the said Stephen Ward and Col. Malcolm, and that he be furnished with the sum of five hundred pounds for defraying the incidental expenses of the said Expedition, and account therefor with this Committee or Convention."

"That a letter be written to Gen. George Clinton requesting the Regiments of Col. Malcolm and Col. Thomas for the purposes aforesaid, and that Major Lockwood wait upon him with the same." (See this letter, Journal Prov. Congress, 1, 749.)

"That Major Lockwood explain to Gen. Hatch the reasons upon which the Convention have formed this expedition," etc., etc.

"That he endeavor to obtain from Gen. Heath provisions, particularly Hard bread and whatever else may be necessary, etc., and that he apply to the Quarter Master at Peekskill for aid in removing Forage, etc., etc., and to the Commissary to purchase Cattle for use of the Army and that "he have power to devise and carry into execution any plan for obtaining ammunition and to make use of the lead and powder belonging to this State at Peekskill or this place."

"Ordered that the Treasurer of the State advance to Major Ebenezer Lockwood the sum of five hundred pounds for defraying the incidental expenses attending an intended Expedition under the command of Col. Malcolm against Major Rodgers, his Rangers and other the enemy's Troops in West Chester Co., and for bringing off the forage, grain, cattle, etc., from such parts of the said county as are most exposed to the enemy, pursuant to Resolutions passed this day."

White Plains, April 9th, 1776.

Gentlemen:

I received yours, dated April 1st, and observed its contents; shall stop buying myself. John Thomas, Jun'r, and Ebenezer Lockwood have bought about 1000 barrels of pork, and it is repacking; the peas are delivered in store at Peekskill, and beg you to inform me if you choose the peas to lay in store at the landing, or to be carted back in the country. We have also 600 barrels of flour.

The pork is stored on Cortlandt's Manor, Bedford and North Castle.

GILB. DRAKE.

To the Committee of Safety, New York.

Journal Provincial Convention, N. Y., vol. 1, p. 521:

July 11th, 1776. Major Ebenezer Lockwood was on the Committee to inquire into the truth of the charge that the troop of horse of Westchester Co. have refused to furnish their quota of men to reinforce the Continental Army at New York.

P. 522, July 12th, 1776. Mr. Jay, Major Lockwood, Col. Drake and others were on Committee "to call out the militia, sending such expresses to the forts in the Highlands, and all such other measures as they shall think necessary."

P. 529, July 18th, 1776. Col. Hoffman and Major Lockwood were a Committee to hear and examine two prisoners later taken by Major Graham.

P. 593. Major Lockwood informed the Committee of Safety August 27th, 1776, that the enemy's ships are at White Stone.

P. 691. Major Lockwood's long report which is given in detail (October 28th, 1776), relating to the removal of prisoners of war from Salem and Poundridge, and a list of cash advances made by him with resolutions to reimburse him.

P. 729, December 2d, 1776. The Committee of Safety received "a letter from Major Lockwood, giving intelligence of the enemy in the Sound, which was read and filed."

P. 830, March 11th, 1777. "Major Lockwood, 1st Major of the 2d regiment of militia in Westchester Co., delivered in a roll the names of the persons in Westchester Co. who have taken the oath or affirmation of allegiance before him, in obedience to the resolutions of the Representatives of this State of the 27th of December last."

P. 844, March 21st, 1777. "The House having received information that a party of the enemy have penetrated into Westchester County and taken prisoners and carried off one of our advanced guards, and several of the inhabitants of the said county, and the members of the said county being desirous that Major Lockwood should repair to the said county and inquire into the circumstances of the same.

"Resolved. That Major Lockwood have leave of absence to repair to, and to inquire into the state of Westchester County, and that he report the same to the House as soon as possible."

And, also, "That three blank commissions for the subalterns of the Poundridge company be delivered to Major Lockwood to be by him filled up with names of such persons as shall be chosen."

Journal Provincial Convention, N. Y., vol. 1:

P. 817, March 22d, 1777. The Convention "directed Major Lockwood to inform Mr. Leake to withhold the purchasing of any more shirts."

P. 892. Major Ebenezer Lockwood was present in the Provincial Convention April 20th, 1777, and voted for the Constitution or plan of Government of the State of New York, having participated previously in the debates on it.

Mrs. Ebenezer Lockwood.

The Magazine of American History (1879, p. 685) published a history of the Skirmish at Poundridge, Westchester County, New York, of July 2d, 1779, when the enemy burned Major Ebenezer Lockwood's house and also the meeting-house, and would not suffer his family to take anything away. He was very obnoxious to the British, and forty guineas had been offered for his head. "In this connection the following incident is related: The soldiers, upon entering Major Lockwood's house, said to his wife in an insolent manner, 'Where is that damned rebel?' Mrs. Lockwood, who was a good Christian woman, replied, indignantly, 'Rebel! you are the Rebels; for you are rebelling against the King of Kings!'" (Also see Lossing's Field Book, etc., p. 831.)

"Old Poundridge, April ye first day (1760), at a town meeting held at the house of Ebenezer Lockwood, in said Old Pound in Westchester County, under the province of New York, the freeholders, inhabitants and residents proceed as follows, first by major vote Joseph Lockwood to be town clerk."

April 20th, 1776, Ebenezer Lockwood was moderator of meeting in Westchester County, New York, and Joseph Lockwood was clerk.

Bolton's History of Westchester, p. 12, vol. 2. "July, 1779, in a skirmish between the Americans and the enemy under Lieut. Col. Tarleton at Poundridge, Major Lockwood's house was burned, and it appears that one of the principal objects in this sudden foray of the enemy was the surprisal of Major Ebenezer Lockwood, for whose head forty guineas had been offered, but a spy gave notice of the attack and the Major was on his guard."

NOTE.—"The British would not suffer the family to take anything away." (See N. Y. Journal, Holt's account of the action.)

From Bolton's History of County of Westchester, N. Y., published in 1881. This later edition has full line of Ebenezer Lockwood and some others, a number of pages, and differing somewhat from the earlier edition. See, also, p. 109 of the appendix.

Col. Tarleton's attack on Poundridge in July, 1779, had for its principal object the capture of Major Lockwood, for whom a reward of fifty guineas was offered.

The British troops went to Major Lockwood's house, and meeting his wife, who was a good Christian woman, asked her "Where that d—d rebel was?" She replied, "You are the Rebels, for you are rebelling against the King of Kings."

There were several accounts of the skirmish:

1. Tarleton's report to Sir Henry Clinton.

2. Extract from a letter of an officer of Col. Sheldon's Regiment.

3. Holt's account, published at Poughkeepsie, in the New York Journal of July 5th, 1779.

4. Extract from a Journal kept by Major-General Wm. Heath, dated July 2d, 1779.

5. The sketch of Major Ebenezer Lockwood also contains a history of the affair, in Bolton's Second Edition of the History of Westchester County, in the chapter on Poundridge.

"At the declaration of independence, 4th July, 1776, the patriotic fires in the hearts of our fathers was fully kindled; committees of inspection were appointed, gunpowder was carefully husbanded, a magazine to keep the warlike stores belonging to the town, ordered to be erected, 'on the hill between Rev. Mr. Leaming's house and Ebenezer Lockwood's.'" (Rev. Mr. Bouton's, His Discourse on Norwalk, 1851. From pamphlet in Hist. Society, Philadelphia, p. 41.)

CAPT. NATHAN LOCKWOOD.

A Revolutionary Incident.

"An amusing story is among the traditions concerning one Nathan Lockwood, of Poundridge, New York.

"Nathan was captured by the British, and while in prison was taunted by one of his fellow townsmen who was a Tory. In due course of time Nathan was released and went home. Instead of stopping to see his family, however, at Poundridge, although it was in the night time, he went several miles further to the house of his Tory friend. He called him up, and after giving him a sound threshing went home to see his family."

Nathan Lockwood was Ensign in 1782, Westchester County, New York.

THE HONORABLE SEC'Y OF WAR:

SIR: Sometime in the year 1814, My Brother Nathan made application for a pension for wounds received in the Revolutionary War, through the medium of the War office. Silas Bowker who was appointed by his Honor, Judge Talmage to take the evidence and transmit the same to the War Department in the above case, informed me sometime sence that he had executed it.

That I, or My Brother may be informed in the above case, I have thought proper thus to address you.

Your Humble Serv't,
STEPHEN LOCKWOOD.

Nathan Lockwood of the Town of Poundridge, Westchester County, N. Y., May 22d, 1828, is now in his 75th year. His family consists of himself, his wife and three children, and one grandchild. He says he is a cripple and has been so fifteen years. He states that he enlisted under Capt. Jonathan Platt, of Poundridge, in 1775, for a term of 9 months, in a regiment commanded by Col. James Holmes, in the service of the United States. He was present and engaged in the taking of St. Johns in Canada, in the fall of 1775. He was honorably discharged at Ticonderoga. He afterwards enlisted under Capt. Samuel Delavan, in 1778, for 3 months, in regiment under Col. Thomas

Thomas, in United States service. He was taken a prisoner by the British commanded by Major Campbell (who was killed in the engagement at Eastchester, in Westchester Co.), and taken to New York and put into a sugar house, amongst other American prisoners, and kept there 13 months. Olford Lockwood, being duly sworn, says that he resides in the town of Cairo, of Greene Co., State of New York.

May 16th, 1854, he was 63 years old; says his father died September 26th, 1844, he was executor of Nathan Lockwood's estate, who was his father.

His father told him he was a Revolutionary soldier four or five years. That he obtained a pension for wounds received while in the army. He was badly wounded, and taken prisoner by the British troops to New York and was there imprisoned three or four months and exchanged. Have heard my father say that he served one or two years guarding military stores near Peekskill, that he served at White Plains, Bedford, Horseneck and Rye; he always understood that most of his father's service was in New York State.

Mary Lockwood, widow of Nathan Lockwood, is his second wife, and stepmother of this deponent.

Of Mrs. Elizabeth (Webb) Lockwood, who died at Ashtabula, Ohio, May 9th, 1860, aged 89, 1, 23, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Lockwood) Strong, her granddaughter, writes from Millington, Tuscola Co., Michigan, February 16th, 1888.

"I have her looking-glass, that she said was her grandmother's. All who have owned it, except my father, were named Elizabeth. I think Colonel Webb was her brother, instead of her cousin. I remember she told me that she saw her brothers pursued by the British troops into a field of grain, whither they went to hide from the sight of their pursuers. Whenever the Red Coats found a man they cut him down with their swords. Her brothers escaped, as they were not discovered by the enemy. I was a little child when she told me this story, but it made a deep impression on my mind."

General Samuel B. Webb

was cousin to Elizabeth Webb, wife of Andrew Lockwood, whose great-uncle, Joseph Lockwood, married Margery Webb.

General Samuel B. Webb was wounded at the battle of Bunker Hill, June 17th, 1775; was aid-de-camp to General Israel Putnam, 1775; aid-de-camp to General George Washington, 1776; wounded at White Plains, New York; commended for gallant conduct at Trenton, New Jersey; Colonel the Third Connecticut Regiment, and one of the sixteen founders of the Society of the Cincinnati.

In a postscript to a letter of Major Ebenezer Huntington to Colonel Samuel B. Webb, 13th June, 1779, from Tiverton, Rhode Island, he says: "I wish you to bring with you the amounts of money rec'd. from Mr. Lockwood, due to the soldiers," etc.

James Barrell wrote from Boston, 12th August, 1779, to Col.

S. Webb, addressing him as "My dear Brother," saying, "I shant write Bro. Joe by this Post, as I wrote fully yesterday by Mr. Lockwood, tho' I observe what he says in his favor of the 9th."

In the list of names invited to a turtle feast at Wethersfield, August 26th, 1779, given by Colonel S. B. Webb and others, Mr. James Lockwood was an invited guest.

Major Benjamin Tallmadge, from Wethersfield, in a letter to Colonel S. B. Webb, says, March 6th, 1780, "Since you left us we had an agreeable hop at Mr. Lockwood's. A choice collection of ladies attended. As usual, the number was rather too great."

In Lieut.-Colonel Ebenezer Huntington's letter to General Webb, dated "August 30th, 1780," from "Camp Ten Eyck, four miles from Hackensack, two from New Bridge, opposite Fort Washington," after relating the particulars of a foraging party of the right wing of General Greene's army, and describing how the army was starving, etc., says: "Make my love to Mr. Webb and family, Peter Colt, etc., James Lockwood, etc., and believe me to be yours, etc., EBEN. HUNTINGTON."

STATE OF NEW YORK, }
CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW YORK, } ss.

On the 2d January, 1838, personally appeared in the Marine Court of the City of New York, George Lockwood, now of said city and late a resident of Greenwich, Fairfield County, Connecticut, aged 86 years, and stated that he was born in Greenwich. In 1775 enlisted in an artillery company. He remembers the following persons in said company, to wit: Millington Lockwood, Heth Peck, Timothy Knapp, and Elnathan Lockwood.

He remembers that Millington Lockwood had belonged to the same company with him in the early part of the war, but that he afterwards deserted and went to the enemy, and that by acting as leader to parties of the enemy who made incursions at various times, he occasioned very great mischief in and about Greenwich. That said Millington owned a house on Mianus Neck, where his family resided after he went to the enemy, and he used occasionally to visit his family by means of boats from Long Island. That on one occasion information was given that said Millington was at his house, and declarant with others of his company went over to the Neck to take him, but some of said Millington's party got off in two boats before declarant's party reached the shore. That the boat in which said Millington was, not having escaped beyond gun-shot, was fired on by declarant's party, and said Millington received a severe wound in the head, from which he never wholly recovered, and fell as if dead. That his boat's crew then surrendered and were taken prisoners, and declarant helped to guard them all night after they were taken at the house which had belonged to said Millington and where his family resided, but which declarant purchased, the same having been confiscated.

That at the time when General Putnam escaped down the great hill at Horse Neck from a party of the enemy, declarant was under arms about two miles eastward of the Hill, and deponent saw him pass on towards Stamford, where he obtained recruits and returned in about two hours with some very rough recruits, some of whom were old men, and some boys, and some very indifferently mounted. That on the return of General Putnam declarant and his party ascended the Hill, and made a charge on the enemy, who continued skirmishing until they were driven to Bryam Bridge; it then rained hard and was very muddy, and orders were given to return to Horse Neck—that a number of prisoners were taken, and some deserted on that day from the enemy, and some of the enemy were found very drunk.

That declarant was one of a body that attacked a party of De Lancey's Corps, which went as far as Captain Isaac Lockwood's in Stamford, and took a great many cattle and some prisoners—that his party drove the enemy down as far as Byram Bridge and got some of the cattle back—he thinks he was then under Captain Timothy Lockwood.

Second Wife's.

823. MEHETABLE MEAD,	m. ——— Marshel.

GENERAL JOHN MEAD, OF GREENWICH.

Son of John and Elizabeth (Lockwood) Mead.

He spent his early life with his father on the farm. Before the Revolutionary War, he was commissioned "in good old Colony times," and had command of a company. After the war had commenced, he was promoted to Colonel, and for three years commanded the American lines at Horseneck, and for several miles either way from it, saw some active service. He was with our troops when New York was given up, and his regiment was the last to leave the city. He was subsequently promoted to be Brigadier-General. He was short of stature, and very fleshy. After the close of the war, he was employed a greater part of the time in public matters. He built several vessels, some of which were purchased by the Government for war-ships. He was for nineteen consecutive years, and to the close of his life, a member of the Connecticut Legislature, and was at the time of his death Judge of the Court of Probate.

338. MARY JOHNSON (Robert,[1] Jonathan,[2] Still John,[3] Susan[4]), born died ; daughter of Capt. John and Susan (Lockwood) Johnson ; married first, Joshua Ferris ; married second, Thomas Peck ; married third, Nathaniel Ferris, born March 27th, 1746, in Greenwich, Conn. ; sixth son of Samuel and Ann (Lockwood) Ferris, grandson of Gershom and Ann (Millington) Lockwood, great-grandson of Robert and Susannah ( ) Lockwood.

CHILDREN VI. GENERATION.

833. GIDEON FERRIS, born January 13th, 1795; m. Caroline Betts.

It is probable, Samuel Ferris was born in the same place his son Nathaniel was, "Greenwich old Society," the location was called Greenwich Point. Nathaniel Ferris often told his children that his grandfather was brother to the Ferris that settled Throg's Neck; that he visited his brother coming all the way on the ice when the Sound was frozen over.

The title of the Ferris of Throg's Neck was direct from the Crown, George II. (so said). Samuel Ferris and his wife Ann are interred in the old burying-ground, marked by tombstones.

Ann Ferris died July 2d, 1789, aged 76. Samuel Ferris died April 25th, 1786, aged 81.

Nathaniel Ferris married the widow Peck, whose maiden name was Mary Johnson.

857. DANIEL LOCKWOOD, m. Sallie Glass.

359. HENRY LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] Ezekiel[4]), born July 25th, 1752, Horse Neck; son of Ezekiel Lockwood.

This Henry Lockwood is said to have had four wives, but no one can inform me of any of their names; a letter from his great-grandson, dated September 10th, 1888, the very last letter received, so states. (From O. F. Lockwood, Saratoga Springs.)

CHILDREN VI. GENERATION.

858. ZEPHANIAH LOCKWOOD, born November 2d, 1772, m Mary Wortman in Dutchess County, now part of Putnam County, N. Y.

858½. ELEIZUR LOCKWOOD, born October 16th, 1774.

Henry Lockwood came from Connecticut. Moved to Dutchess County, afterwards to Steuben or Yates County in the western part of the State of New York, where he married his fourth wife, by whom he had one son named James Lockwood. This James was born about 1795, is about two years younger than my father (James Lockwood, born 1793, and living 1888). He was living somewhere in Allegany County about a year ago (say March, 1887). (Letter of Oscar F. Lockwood, April 3, 1888.)

"Samuel Devine was charged with ill conduct, and among the affidavits filed with the Committee of Safety of New York was the following, 'Ulster County, Henry Lockwood, of full age, being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelist, this 4th day of January, 1776, saith that on his way from Newburgh homeward he met with some persons, among whom was a certain Samuel Devine, who then asked him if he did not know there was a reward for taking up a Committeeman and sending him on board a man of war; who then threatened to take said defendent, he being of the Committee of New Marlborough precinct, and that he could have £40 in cash or fifty acres of land for delivering a Committeeman on board the man of war, and further saith not.'

"HENRY LOCKWOOD.

"A true copy of the oaths, given under my hand,

"CAPT. JOHN WISNER."

Henry and Joshua Lockwood were among the voluntary signers to the Association in New Marlborough, New York, for defense, etc.

"NEW YORK, CONGRESS, JUNE 3D, 1776.

"A certificate was filed of Henry Lockwood and D. Ralge, Sr., two of the Committee of New Marlborough precinct, certifying to the election of David Ostrash as 2d Lieutenant." (From Force's Annals, vol. vi., 4th series, p. 1357.)

360. JOSEPH LOCKWOOD, JR. (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] Ezekiel[4]), born Greenwich, Conn., died in the fall of 1786; "son of Ezekiel late of Greenwich;" made his will February 28th, 1786; inventory, April 6th, 1787. "His widow, Elizabeth Heninge, Right of Dower."

P. 1040. "Richard Lockwood was Justice of the Peace, December 5th, 1771, and March 8th, 1777, and was among the last appointed under the authority of the Duke of York (in 1771), as the territory soon after passed to Penn." (Scharf's Hist. of Del., 1888.)

Scharf's History of Delaware, 1888, vol. 1, p. 235. Richard Lockwood, of Kent County, was a member of the Convention which assembled at New Castle, August 27th, 1776, "to order and declare the future form of Government for this State," and each member took an oath to "support and maintain the independence of this State, as declared by the honorable the Continental Congress," and also as follows: "I do profess faith in God the Father and in Jesus Christ his only Son, and in the Holy Ghost, one God blessed forevermore; and I do acknowledge the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament to be given by Divine inspiration."

Richard Lockwood was also present at the Council held October 29th, 1777 (p. 247), when but few members were present because of the alarming condition of affairs, when it was decided "to raise six hundred militia to defend the State."

Page 1663. The first church owned by the Methodists in Dover cost $2,000, and the lot of ground was donated to Trustees, of whom Richard Lockwood was one, on June 1st, 1782. (Scharf's Hist. of Del.)

"The Historical Society of Delaware was presented with three Continental notes," which were issued according to an act of the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, made in the year 1776, and bearing date May 1st, 1777, and signed

(N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 29, p. 123.)

The Pennsylvania Historical Society in 1888 also had a Continental note signed by Richard Lockwood.

363. ARMWELL LOCKWOOD, JR. (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Richard,[3] Armwell[4]), born April 28th, 1738, died January 30th, 1806; son of Armwell and Mary (Holland) Lockwood; m., January, 8th, 1761, Gertrude Monsey, born January 4th, 1743, died February 5th, 1818; daughter of "Thomas Monsey, who came from Long Island, in the State of New York, and settled in Kent County, State of Delaware; he died in 1802, in the 86th year of his age." Mrs. Monsey's maiden name was Eunity Lowber.

CHILDREN VI. GENERATION.

887. THOMAS LOCKWOOD, born April 12th, 1762, died April 9th, 1824, m. Eunity Virden.
888. ISAAC LOCKWOOD, born February 4th, 1764, died December 30th, 1814.

896. MARGARET LOCKWOOD, born February 8th, 1785, died August 19th, 1833, m. Rev. John Derbrough.

364. JOHN LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Richard,[3] Armwell[4]), born September 30th, 1742, in Kent County, Delaware. He appears to have resided for a time in Virginia, and had several daughters and perhaps only one son. He died July 14th, 1773. Was son of Armwell and Mary (Holland) Lockwood, both of whom were born in Maryland. I have not been able to ascertain the name of John's wife.

CHILDREN VI. GENERATION.

Several daughters whose names were not sent me.

897. BENJAMIN LOCKWOOD, born about 1770, in Virginia.

CAPTAIN BENJAMIN LOCKWOOD, 1797.

"Benjamim Lockwood was a Lieutenant of Capt. Alexander Gibson's rifle company, under the command of Gen'l Anthony Wayne."

In 1794 was in the campaign to operate against the Indians at Fort Pitt, on the Ohio River, and at Hamilton, on the Miami River, and elsewhere, which company was ordered "to proceed in advance and protect the road-cutters," and was promoted to the rank of Captain 10th of July, 1797.

He died at Fort Adams, on the Mississippi River below Natchez, in 1807, and his widow, Mrs. Mary Anne Lockwood, afterwards married Capt. John Clercs Symmes, the author of the theory of "Concentric Spheres." He had at that time (f. 241) five daughters and one son.

They were brought up and educated by Capt. Symmes as his own family, and were all married from his house except two, who remained single.

Capt. Lockwood was a Virginian by birth; entered the army in 1792 as Lieutenant, and owned a section of land in Brown County when he died, which was taken care of, taxes paid, etc., by Capt. Symmes, and at their maturity was turned over to his children.

Capt. Symmes lectured in the Eastern States with his step-son Anthony W. Lockwood in 1825, on his theory of "Concentric Spheres." (McBride's Pioneer Biography, vol. 2, p. 139.)

Benjamin Lockwood, of Virginia, was Ensign of Faulkner's Company in Gibson's Regimental levies of 1791, under General St. Clair, against the Indians on the Miami. Was Lieutenant of Infantry 7th March, 1792; and in 4th Sub-legion in December, 1792; was in 4th Infantry November, 1796; Captain, July, 1797; retained April, 1802; Captain 2d Infantry; transferred September, 1802, to 1st Infantry; died 29th July, 1807, at Fort Adams, Mississippi. (Gardner's Directory of the Army of the U. S. 1853.)

Benjamin Lockwood (Virginian) Ensign Faulkner's Company of Gibson's Regiment levies of 1791, under Major-General St. Clair, against the Indians on the Miami; Lieutenant of Infantry March, 1792; in 4th Sub-legion December, 1792; in 4th Infantry, 1796; Captain July, 1797; retained April 12th; Captain 2d Infantry; transferred September 12th to 1st Infantry; died July 29th, 1807, at Fort Adams, Mississippi. (Gardner's Directory of the Army.)

366. DEACON DANIEL LOCKWOOD, JR. (Robert,[1] Ephraim,[2] Daniel,[3] Daniel[4]), born January 5th, 1734–35, Stamford, Connecticut; the 3d generation of same name; died November 28th, 1807, in 73d year; appointed executor of his father's will; son of Daniel and Mary (Webb) Lockwood; m.,-March 17th, 1754, Mary Bellamy, died 1810, aged 73.

See Will.

He joined the Congregational Church in 1774, and the records of the baptisms of each of his ten children are found in Stamford.

CHILDREN VI. GENERATION.

898. SARAH LOCKWOOD, born February 27th, 1755, m. Ebenezer Jones.

A Story of the Revolutionary War.

We find the following incident of the Poundridge fight, of 1779, related in a manuscript memorandum book, kept by Ezra Lockwood, of Poundridge.

"Jared Hoyt, a brave soldier, in the rear of Sheldon's command, was hard pressed by Tarleton's advance and within striking distance of his assailant, received a blow from the heavy cutlass of his pursuer on the head. The blow only cleft the skin and hair from the side of his head. Hoyt instantly returned the blow back-handed, which struck his assailant directly in the mouth, nearly separating the top of the head from his body."

"Jared Hoyt was born May 20th, 1762." (Hoyt Genealogy, p. 439.)

LAMBERT LOCKWOOD.

History of Stratford and Bridgeport, Connecticut.

P. 495. "In 1794, Lambert Lockwood, merchant, came from Wilton, Conn., to Bridgeport, Conn., and lived on the north side of State Street. He was of full stature, fine presence and affable manner."

* William Selleck was brother of Hannah Selleck who married William Lockwood. (See No. 977.)

P. 507. "Lambert Lockwood was first clerk of the Bridgeport and Stratford Burying Ground Association in 1811."

P. 592. "Lambert Lockwood and J. S. Cannon built a store and wharf at Bridgeport, about 1792, and had a dry-goods and general store, and ran a packet sloop the 'Juba,' to New York, sailed by Capt. John Brooks, Senior."

P. 597. "The Bridgeport Bank was incorporated in 1806, and Lambert Lockwood was a subscriber, and elected a Director February 3d, 1807."

P. 602. "Lambert Lockwood was a public-spirited man, connected with the Congregational Church. His house was a home for visiting clergymen. He was a pew-holder in the old church in 1835. Rev. Peter Lockwood, a Presbyterian Minister, and Roe Lockwood, of New York were his sons."

Lambert Lockwood.

"The enemy entered the town of Danbury, Connecticut, on Saturday the 26th of April, 1777, at about three o'clock in the afternoon; about 2000 men from New York under Gov. Tryon. Nineteen dwelling-houses, a meeting-house, twenty-two stores and barns with all their contents were consumed. From the best information which can be obtained, there were 3000 barrels of pork, more than 1000 barrels of flour, several hundred barrels of beef, 1600 tents, 2000 bushels of grain, and other articles of value were burned amounting to £15,862, 9*s.* 7*d.* lawful money.

"Col. Cook appears to have been in the command at Danbury at the time it was burnt. Receiving some notice of the landing or approach of the enemy, he immediately dispatched a messenger by the name of Lambert Lockwood with a letter to Gen. Silliman, informing him that there was no ammunition in the place, and requesting orders. The messenger, before he was aware of it, came up with the British troops in the vicinity of Reading Church, about eight miles below Danbury. He attempted to flee, but was fired upon, wounded, and taken prisoner.

"Tryon, it appears, had, a few years previous, broke down in his carriage while passing through Norwalk. Mr. Lockwood, being then a clerk in a store in that place, rendered Tryon some assistance, and being recognized by him, on account of his services on that occasion, Tryon, on his leaving Danbury, intended to give him a furlough; while he was writing it, one of Tryon's officers came in, exclaiming, 'The d—d rebels are upon us, we must be off.' Tryon threw down his pen, and left his prisoner to take care of himself." (Barber's His'l Collections of Connecticut, pp. 365, 366.)

British attack on Danbury, Connecticut, April 26th, 1777:

"On hearing of the approach of the enemy Col. Cook sent to Gen. Silliman for arms and ammunition. The messenger was Lambert Lockwood, who, coming suddenly upon the British troops near Reading Church, was made a prisoner. Governor Tryon at once recognized him as a young man who had given him aid when his carriage broke down while passing through Norwalk, and on that account took Lockwood under his protection, but in his hasty retreat from Danbury left him to take care of himself. Tryon was writing a protection for him when he heard that the Americans were coming, when the Governor dropped his pen and seized his sword, and the protection remained unwritten." (Lossing's Field Book of the Revolution, vol. 1, p. 403.)

Captain Lambert Lockwood was Assistant Deputy Quartermaster General in the Revolutionary War. He was of Bridgeport, Conn. His widow applied for and received a pension at the rate of $600 per annum. She stated, March 1st, 1843, on oath that she was aged 72 years.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT, }
FAIRFIELD COUNTY. } ss.

NORWALK, November 22d, 1839.

At a Court of Probate holden at Norwalk within and for the District of Norwalk, in said County and State, being a Court of Record: personally appeared before said Court Daniel Hoyt of said Norwalk, who being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is (80) eighty years of age, was well acquainted with Lambert Lockwood, who formerly resided in said Norwalk; and is now deceased, and well remembers that on the first day of November, 1775, said Lambert Lockwood entered the service of the United States in said Norwalk, in Capt. Matthew Mead's Company, in Col. David Waterbury's Regiment, and was marched to the city of New York under General Lee, and was there stationed, and was in said service in heaving up breastworks and forts until the middle of April, 1776; the deponent belonged to the same Company and was in the same service at the time said Lockwood served as a private.

The deponent also remembers that said Lambert Lockwood, on the 1st of May, 1776, entered the service of the United States in said Norwalk with Lieut. James Betts, under Genl. Waterbury, and was marched to the North, and was gone, according to his best recollection, six months. The deponent also remembers that said Lambert Lockwood was wounded and taken prisoner in the battle when Danbury was taken and burnt by the enemy in the year 1777, after which said Lockwood entered into the Commissary or Quartermaster's Department.

In the Diary of Christopher Marshall, kept by him in Philadelphia and Lancaster during the American Revolution, the original of which is in the Historical Society, Philadelphia, and extracts from which were published in 1877 by William Duane, is pasted an original printed copy of an "Extra" published in Philadelphia, and another copy of this Extra is in the Ridgway Branch of the Philadelphia Library; which reads as follows:

PHILADELPHIA, April 26th, 1775,
Wednesday, 12 o'clock.

By an express just arrived, we have the following: (P. 19.)

(Then follows the letter of James Lockwood hereafter given in full.) A first express had reached Philadelphia from Watertown on April 24th, so that the letter of James Lockwood was the 2d Express. The Extra issued in Philadelphia immediately after receiving the letter, is on a sheet of paper about size 3 x 5 inches.

From the original papers, owned by Dr. R. W. Gibbes, of Columbia, S. C., published in 1885 in the Documentary History of the American Revolution, pp. 82 to 91 inclusive. Hon. Wm. A. Courtenay, of Charleston, S. C., writes E. Dunbar Lockwood in February, 1888, that this paper was burned in February, 1865, when Dr. Gibbes' house was destroyed by fire at Columbia, S. C.

WALLINGFORD, Monday morning, April 24th, 1775.

DEAR SIR.—Col.* Wadsworth was over in this place most of yesterday, and has ordered twenty men out of each company in his regiment—some of which have already set off, and others go this morning. He brings accounts, which come to him authenticated, from Thursday in the afternoon. The King's troops being reinforced a second time, and joined, as I suppose, from what I can learn, by the party who were intercepted by Colonel Gardner, were then encamped on Winter Hill, and were surrounded by twenty thousand of our men, who were entrenching. Colonel Gardner's ambush proved fatal to Lord Percy and another general officer, who were killed on the spot at the first fire. To counterbalance this good news, the story is that our first man in command (who he was I know not) is also killed. It seems, they have lost many men on both sides. Colonel Wadsworth had the accounts in a letter from Hartford.

The country beyond here are all gone off and we expect it will be impossible to procure horses for our waggons; as they have or will, in every place employ themselves all their horses. In this place, they send a horse for every sixth man, and are pressing them for that purpose. I know of no way, but you must immediately send a couple of stout able horses, who may overtake us at Hartford possibly; where, we must return M. Noy's and Meloy's, if he holds out so far. Remember, the horses must be had at any rate.

I am in the greatest haste, your entire friend and humble servant,

JAMES LOCKWOOD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26, 1775.

Wednesday 12 o'Clock,

By an Express just arrived, we have the following.

Wallingford, Monday morning, April 24, 1775.

Dear Sir,

COL. Woodworth was over in this place yesterday, and has ordered 20 men from each company in his regiment, some of which have already set off, and others go this morning. He brings accounts which came to him authenticated as late as Thursday afternoon. The king's troops being reinforced a second time, and joined as I suppose from what I can learn by the party who were intercepted by Col. Gardiner, were then encamped on Winterhill, and were surrounded by 20,000 of our men, who were entrenching.

Colonel Gardiner's ambush proved fatal to Lord Piercy, and one other General Officer, who were killed on the spot the first fire.---To counterballance this good news, the story is, that our first man in command (who he is I know not) is also killed-- It seems they have lost many men on both sides.---Col. Woodworth had the account in a letter from Hartford.---

The country beyond here, are all gone off, and we expect it will be impossible to procure horses for our waggons, as they have or will in every place employ their horses themselves. In this place they send an horse for every sixth man, and are pressing them for that purpose. I know of no way but you must send immediately a couple of able horses who may overtake us at Hartford possibly, where we must return Mr. Noy's and Meloy's, if they hold out so far. Remember the horses must be had at any rate. I am in great haste.

Your entire friend, and humble servant,

JAMES LOCKWOOD.

P. S. Col. Gardiner took 9 prisoners, and 12 clubed their firelocks, and came over to our party.---Colonel Gardiner's party consisted of 700, and the Regulars of 1800 instead of 1200, as we heard before.---They have sent a vessel up Mystick river as far as Temple's Farm, which is about half a mile from Winterhill.---These accounts being true, all the King's Troops, except 4 or 500, must be encamped on Winterhill. At the instance of the gentlemen of Fairfield just departed, this copy is taken verbatim from the original, to be forwarded to that town. ISAAC BEARS.

The above is copied and authenticated by the several Committees, through Connecticut, New-York, and New-Jersey.

Printed by W. and T. BRADFORD.

N. B.—Col. Gardner took nine prisoners, and twelve clubbed their firelocks, and came over to our party. Colonel Gardner's party, consisted of seven hundred, and the regulars eighteen hundred, instead of twelve hundred, as we heard before. They have sent a vessel up Mystick River as far as Temple's Farm, which is about half a mile from Winter Hill. These accounts being true all the King's forces, except four or five hundred, must be encamped on Winter Hill. At the instance of the gentlemen of Fairfield, just departed from hence, this is copied verbatim from the original, to be forwarded to that town.

* No signature appears here for New York, and it is accounted for in this manner. Mr. Lockwood's letter, and all the signatures after it down to Baltimore, are written in one handwriting on a sheet of paper; hence it is probable, the papers with the original subscribers, were withholden at Baltimore, and were copied there on that sheet of paper; in doing which, they omitted inserting the subscribers at New York. From Baltimore, inclusive, the subscriber's names to the papers are in their own handwriting.

In a letter of General David Wooster to General Schuyler, dated at Montreal, January 14th, 1776, he says:

"The four fusils taken by Major Lockwood, are put up in a box according to capitulation and are now at St. John's ready to be sent over the Lakes." (Ib., p. 852.)

In another letter from Gen. Wooster to Gen. Schuyler, from Montreal, January 27th, 1776 (Ib., p. 869), he writes:

"Major Lockwood and Capt. Rensselaer desire me to present their respects to you."

The following spicy correspondence appears in a letter from Gen. Wooster to Gen. Schuyler, dated Montreal, January 19th, 1776.

"Major Campbell told Capt. Benedict at Chambly, that I was a damned old scoundrel, and had broke faith with him for that he was promised both by Gen. Montgomery and me, that he might remain in this town through the winter. Truth is, that Gen. Montgomery just before he left this town made out an order for Major Campbell and some other prisoners to leave the town immediately, which order he gave to Major Lockwood to see executed," etc. (Ib., p. 1004.)

"As I find the return of stores which has been made from St. John's is an imperfect one, I shall to-morrow send Major Lockwood to St. John's in company with Major Ogden," etc. (Ib., vol. vi., 4th series, p. 454.)

"The four fusils taken by Major Lockwood, are put up in a box according to capitulation and are now at St. John's ready to be sent over the Lakes." (Ib., p. 852.)

In another letter from Gen. Wooster to Gen. Schuyler, from Montreal, January 27th, 1776 (Ib., p. 869), he writes:

"Major Lockwood and Capt. Rensselaer desire me to present their respects to you."

The following spicy correspondence appears in a letter from Gen. Wooster to Gen. Schuyler, dated Montreal, January 19th, 1776.

"Major Campbell told Capt. Benedict at Chambly, that I was a damned old scoundrel, and had broke faith with him for that he was promised both by Gen. Montgomery and me, that he might remain in this town through the winter. Truth is, that Gen. Montgomery just before he left this town made out an order for Major Campbell and some other prisoners to leave the town immediately, which order he gave to Major Lockwood to see executed," etc. (Ib., p. 1004.)

"As I find the return of stores which has been made from St. John's is an imperfect one, I shall to-morrow send Major Lockwood to St. John's in company with Major Ogden," etc. (Ib., vol. vi., 4th series, p. 454.)

This seems to have been the extent of his field service. On September 24th, 1777, he was appointed recruiting officer of the First Connecticut Militia Brigade. After the war Major Lockwood went to Philadelphia and engaged in business.

He is said to have died in Wilmington, N. C., August 24th, 1795. ("Yale in the Revolution," 1888, H. P. Johnson, p. 249.)

James Lockwood.

(Bookseller) of New Haven, Conn.

"Among the members of the Governor's Guards" who went to Lexington on hearing of the skirmish was Mr. Earl, a portrait painter, and Amos Doolittle an engraver. Mr. Earl made four drawings of Lexington and Concord, which were afterwards engraved by Mr. Doolittle. The plates were 12 x 18 inches in size and executed with great dispatch, for in the Connecticut Journal of December 13th, 1775, is the following advertisement:

"This day published

"And to be sold at the store of Mr. James Lockwood, near the College in New Haven, four different views of the battles of Lexington, Concord, &c., on the 19th of April, 1775.

Plate I. The battle of Lexington.

Plate III. The battle at the North Bridge, in Concord.

Plate IV. The south part of Lexington, when the first detachment was joined by Lord Percy.

"The above four plates are neatly engraved on copper, from original paintings taken on the spot.

"Price: six shillings per set for plain ones, or eight shillings colored."

"A copy of this print is on p. 524 of Lossing's Field Book, etc., vol. 2." (Field Book of the Revolution, Lossing, vol. 1, p. 421.)

"From 1768 until about the year 1775, James Lockwood dealt largely in books, at New Haven, Conn." (Amn. Antiquarian Soc., vol. 6, p. 234.)

"James Lockwood, of the Class of 1766, served in the Revolutionary Army." (Hy. Yale College, p. 206.)

"When the news of the Lexington affair reached New York (April 23d, 1775) through James Lockwood's letter, measures for stopping all vessels in the harbor sailing for Quebec and other ports where there were British troops, were taken." (Dunlap's Hy. New York, edition 1840, p. 215.)

"On June 21st, 1775, a communication was received from the Provincial Congress of New York, dated New York, 17th of June, 1775, and signed by Peter V. B. Livingston, President, and certified as follows:

"The above is a true copy of a letter just received from the Provincial Congress of New York and forwarded by Express." (Jour. Prov. Cong., Mass. edition, 1838, p. 373.)

By order of GENERAL WOOSTER,
JAMES LOCKWOOD,
Secretary.

NOTE.—This express was forwarded from New York to Massachusetts on the day of the Battle of Bunker Hill, and of course they knew nothing of it in New York.

NOTE.—"Capt. McNeil took command of the Frigate Boston, 24 guns, in 1777." (Life of Commodore Samuel Tucker, p. 51.)

This was Cap'n Hector McNeil, who was officially addressed the previous year by Major James Lockwood.

"From the original, in the collection of Jeremiah Colburn, Boston, Mass., Col. James Lockwood." (N. E. H. and G. Reg., vol. 30, p. 333.)

The James Lockwood second express, first appears in "Documentary History of the American Revolution," from originals in the possession of the editor and other sources by R. W. Gibbs, M.D., published by Appletons, 1855; some others are given in Drayton's Memoirs and will be deposited in Archives of South Carolina by A. R. Drayton, President Charleston College.

NOTE.—No signature appears for New York and it is accounted for in this manner. Mr. Lockwood's letter and all the signatures after it down to Baltimore, are written in one handwriting on a sheet of paper; hence it is probable, the papers with the original subscribers, were withholden at Baltimore, and were copied there on that sheet of paper; in doing which, they omitted inserting the subscribers at New York. From Baltimore inclusive, the subscribers' names to the paper are in their own handwriting. (P. 84.)

Abstract of a letter of Robert Crafton, to Franklin, from Montreal, January 8th, 1776.

"Last week our troops under General Montgomery and Col. Arnold, attempted to storm Quebec, etc. The city was alarmed, etc., and General Montgomery killed, and his aid de camp, and Captain Cheeseman wounded; Captain Lamb wounded and a prisoner, with most of the party. Wounded Colonel Arnold in the leg, and killed and wounded 150 of his riflemen, and taken about 500 of his men prisoners, etc. Major Lockwood is likewise a prisoner." (Mass. His. Soc. Coll., vol. 10.)

"The General Assembly had directed that a recruiting officer to enlist men for the Continental Army and to take up and secure deserters should be appointed in each of the Brigades of Militia in the State; and the Governor and Council appointed Major James Lockwood, for the First Brigade, September 24th, 1777." (Rev. R. B. Hinman, His. Coll. of the part sustained by Connecticut during the Revolutionary War, p. 489.)

"May 2d, 1778. This assembly do appoint Thomas Fitch, Jr., Esq., to be Lieutenant-Colonel of the 9th Regiment, in this Colony, in the room of Lieutenant-Colonel James Lockwood." (Vol. 13.)

481. Moses Lockwood (Robert,[1] Ephraim,[2] James,[3] Rev. James[4]), born September 26th, 1749, at Wethersfield, Conn.; son of Rev. James and Mary (Dickinson) Lockwood; m., September 9th, 1773, Sarah Bunce, per Rev. Burrage Merriam. Moses Lockwood enlisted in the 2d Company of Colonel Huntington's 8th Connecticut Regiment, July 12th, and was discharged December 10th, 1775, and was in the same regiment, at New York, in 1776 (Connecticut in Rev., pp. 86 and 103); he also enlisted in Captain Lee's Company, December 16th, 1776, for three years, and was discharged July 1st, 1780, being then Sergeant in Col. John Durkee's Regiment. (Pension Office Records.)

Probate Court, District of Norwalk, May 1st, 1833.

Personally appeared the within named James Lockwood, and being duly sworn in open court, according to law, depose and say, that in explanation of his declaration herein set forth, that on the first of October, 1776, I inlisted as herein stated, under Cornet Caleb St. John (the Captain of the Company, Samuel Belden, being a Tory, we would not serve under him), Major Starr, Colonel Silliman, and was marched to Coventry, in this State, and was on guard and in active service over two months. Our Company was immediately ordered, and we marched under General Wooster to Fort Independence, near King's Bridge, State of New York, and was then on guard, and in active and constant service three months.

* Lieutenant, orig. file.

On the first of March, 1777, I inlisted as sergeant in the aforesaid Company, under Capt. Caleb St. John, Major Starr, Colonel Silliman, and was in the battle when Danbury was burnt, and at Ridgfield and near General Wooster when he was killed, and was on guard, at Norwalk, and on the lines at Horse Neck, until the first of December next following, in actual service nine months. In February, 1778, was ordered on guard at Norwalk, under Capt. Caleb St. John, and was guard at Norwalk, and on the lines at Horse Neck, Rye and at Fishkill under General Silliman and General Poor, and was on constant and active service as sergeant, eleven months.

On the first of March, 1779, I continued in the same service, in the same Company, under Capt. Caleb St. John, was in the battles when Fairfield and Norwalk was burnt, and was on guard at Norwalk, Horse Neck, and at Bedford, and was in constant, continual service as sergeant, nine months.

On the first of March, 1781, I again entered said Company and served as a sergeant under Capt. Abraham Gregory, Col. Stephen St. John, General Silliman, and on guard at Norwalk, and on the lines, and actually served for more than six months.

James Lockwood

Sworn and subscribed in open court, the day and year aforesaid.

BENJAMIN ISAACS,
Judge.

I was born in said town of New Canaan, on October 25th, 1746, recorded in my father's bible, and the record produced in court, and have always lived in said town, never received any written discharge and have no documentary evidence.

SERGEANT JARED LOCKWOOD.

STATE OF NEW YORK, }
ALBANY COUNTY. } ss.

On the 7th December, 1836, personally appeared Betsey Lockwood, of the City of Albany, aged 72 years, doth declare that she married Jared Lockwood, at Stamford, Connecticut, where they then resided, in December, 1780; that her husband fought in the battles of Flatbush and Brooklyn, when the British Army advanced on New York, 1776, and at the battle of White Plains in the same year. That he fought at the battle of Monmouth in June, 1778. The 3 years preceding the summer of 1780, he had been Orderly Sergeant in the Artillery Company under Captain Ebenezer Stevens, Col. Lamb's Regiment of troops raised by the States of Connecticut and New York, attached to, and forming a part of the regular Army of the United States. He was discharged in the summer of 1780. Subsequent to our marriage my husband was constantly engaged in various war services: in cruising in the government arms boats in Long Island Sound, and the East River, reconnoitering within the enemies lines, and in communicating with our friends within the enemies posts. He was in an engagement at a place called Horse Neck. He was in a battle in the eastern part of the Town of Stamford. That he was engaged with a party of the enemy, who in the summer of 1782, having landed and secreted themselves, surrounded on a Sunday afternoon the Meeting House in which the Rev. Moses Mather was preaching, and took Minister and Congregation prisoners. She also declares that Betsey Skelding mentioned in the annexed marriage certificate is one and the same person with Betsey Lockwood the deponent. And that she has resided at Albany ever since the death of her husband.

Generally called Betsey, though now written Elizabeth.

Elisabeth Lockwood

Jared Lockwood and Betsey Skelding were married by Charles Webb, Esq., Justice of Peace for Fairfield County on December 23d, 1780. The foregoing is a true copy of Record,

LUCY HOLMES' GRAVESTONE INSCRIPTION IN THE OLD BURYING-GROUND, GREENWICH, CONN

A virtuous wife, a mother kind,
A saint indeed, a friend sincere;
In this cold mansion lies enshrined,
Remembered often with a tear.

Her soul prepared, to God is fled,
Her flesh in dust resides alone;
Till Christ shall raise it from the dead,
A glorious body like His own.

These remains were removed from the First Baptist Church burying-ground, in Gold Street, New York, the 20th March, 1837.

597. DRAKE LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Jonathan,[2] Robert,[3] Samuel,[4] Samuel[5]), born in Greenwich, Conn., August 10th, 1763, died March 7th, 1839, in 76th year. (Gravestone.) STATE OF CONNECTICUT } ss.
COUNTY OF FAIRFIELD. }

PROBATE DISTRICT OF STAMFORD.

On the 30th day of August, 1832, personally appeared, in open Court before the Court of Probate for said District, now sitting, Enos Lockwood a resident of Greenwich, in the County of Fairfield, and State of Connecticut, aged sixty-nine years, who being first sworn according to law, doth, on his oath, make the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the act of Congress, passed June 7th, 1832: That he entered the service of the United States under the following named officers, and served as herein stated, viz.: In the year 1780 and in the month of March as he thinks he enlisted in a company of Connecticut State troops called Town Guards or Coast Guards in said Greenwich, commanded by Capt. Timothy Lockwood, and Lieutenant Oliver Jervis, both of whom are now dead, enlisted for nine months and served the whole nine months in said Greenwich in doing guard duty. His enlistment was either the last of March or first of April. During the time we had a clever skirmish with a party of the enemy one night. They had landed on the point below us, and had taken three of the guard prisoners, which we retook. Drake Lockwood of said Greenwich was in this service, though he was not in this skirmish. After this and until the conclusion of hostilities declarant was, with the exception of nine months, constantly in service in said guards under the Land Officers mentioned above and under enlistment, but he cannot now recollect the times of his enlistments, nor any particular circumstances connected with them. In said term of nine months Capt. Harry Waring, now deceased, had command of said Guards in Greenwich, and declarant during this period did not belong to them—but all the rest of the time from the expiration of his said first enlistment as aforesaid while hostilities continued he belonged to the guards as aforesaid and constantly did duty therein. Declarant cannot say from his recollection with certainty how much time State services amounted to; but he thinks to a little more than two years including his first enlistment, for he received according to his recollection forty shillings Connecticut currency ($6.67) per month, and that his whole pay for services was fifty-one or fifty-two pounds Connecticut currency—from which his services must have been twenty-five or six months. He has had in his possession papers showing this amount of pay, and kept them for many years, but they have been lost for some years. The time when Capt. Waring had charge of the guards, commenced as declarant thinks about April, 1782. He feels confident that after his first enlistment, he enlisted twice, and could a few years ago have told the particulars; but they are gone from his memory now, and he cannot state the particulars now, but he thinks one enlistment was a longer time than the other—one duty was in guarding the sea-coast and repelling petty invasions and incursions which were very frequent—we lived in a region greatly exposed and harassed by the enemy.

Declarant was born in said Greenwich, March 1st, 1763, his age is recorded in a book which declarant received from his father, and which has for several generations been used as a family record—resided in said Greenwich at all times when he entered the service, and has ever resided there up to this time; enlisted voluntarily—cannot state the names of either officers or regiments, or the circumstances more particularly than he has done, to any useful purpose. General John Mead (formerly Col. Mead) had command on the lines—one company of guards was not embodied with any other to declarant's knowledge—declarant was out in his company against the enemy when they came to Horse Neck and assisted in driving them back.

Declarant has on other occasions been in skirmishes with the enemy—never received a written discharge. Said Oliver Jervis used to be our paymaster. There has not been for many years past a settled clergyman in that part of said Greenwich where declarant resides—only occasional preaching—and he can find no clergyman who knows anything of his services or that he is reported to have been a soldier of the Revolution—he therefore refers to the persons whose depositions accompany this application, to prove his character for truth and their belief or knowledge of his services as a soldier of the Revolution. Upon further reflection thinks that a small portion of what pay he received as aforesaid (possibly three or four pounds) was a commutation for rations—but his services according to his recollection and what has ever been his impression, covered altogether about two years.

The said guards were not of the regular militia of the State, but distinct separate corps.

The said Enos Lockwood hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity, except the present, and declares that his name is not on a pension roll or the agency of any State.

Enos Lockwood

Sworn to, and subscribed, the day and year aforesaid.

CHA'S HAWLEY,
Judge.

And the said Court do hereby declare their opinion, after the investigation of the matter, and after putting the interrogatories prescribed by the War Department, that the above named applicant was a Revolutionary Soldier, and served as he states. And the Court further certifies, that it appears to them that Messenger Lockwood and Drake Lockwood who have signed the preceding certificates or depositions are residents in the town of Greenwich in Connecticut and are credible persons and that their statement is entitled to credit.

CHA'S HAWLEY,
Judge.

I, Samuel Lockwood, Clerk of the Court of Probate for the district of Stamford, in Connecticut, do hereby certify, that the foregoing contains the original proceedings of the said Court in the matter of the application of Enos Lockwood for a Pension.

IN TESTIMONY whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal of office, this 30th August, 1832.

{STAMFORD SEAL PROBATE.} Samuel Lockwood,
Clerk.

COUNTY OF FAIRFIELD. } ss.

PROBATE DISTRICT OF STAMFORD.

On this 30th Day of August, A.D. 1832, personally appeared before the Court of Probate in and for said District, Messenger Lockwood of Greenwich, aged sixty-seven years, who being first duly sworn according to Law doth on his oath in open Court depose and say that he well knows Enos Lockwood who has subscribed and sworn to the foregoing declarations—his age is sixty-nine years—his character for truth is good—in the Revolutionary War in the year 1780 deponent well knows that said Enos was an enlisted soldier of said county in a company of Town guards or Coast guards in said Greenwich, commanded by Captain Timothy Lockwood and Oliver Jervis Lieutenant, both of whom are dead. He enlisted in the early part of the season, but cannot tell the precise time—he served the season through as much as nine months as deponent thinks. Deponent did not at this time belong to said guards but he lived then on the spot and knows the facts above stated.

Deponent also well recollects that said Enos was an enlisted soldier and did duty in said guards from this time till the guards were disbanded on the cessation of hostilities, except that deponent believes he was not in the guards for a time while Capt. Waring had command, for he has no recollection of his being in the guard then. Deponent entered said guards in the spring of 1781, and continued in service in them till the company was disbanded and drew wages and provisions.

Messenger Lockwood

And on the same day before said Court personally appeared Drake Lockwood of Greenwich in said district, who being first duly sworn doth on his oath in open Court depose and say that he well knows Enos Lockwood of said Greenwich, who has subscribed and sworn to the foregoing declaration, believes his age to be sixty-nine years—his character for truth is good. In the Revolutionary War in the year 1780, Deponent and said Enos were both enlisted soldiers in a company of Town Guards (Connecticut State Troops) in said Greenwich, commanded by Capt. Timothy Lockwood now deceased and Lieut. Oliver Jervis now deceased; one enlistment was for nine months, and began not far from the first of April; we both served the whole term of nine months, one in said Greenwich in doing guard duty and occasionally had small skirmishes with the enemy.

General John Mead of said Greenwich (long since dead) had command along the lines; after this and till Capt. Harry Waring now deceased took command of the guards in Greenwich, said Enos and this deponent continued under fresh enlistments in said guards under the same officers. Waring took the command as deponent thinks in the spring of 1782. After the first enlistment stated above there was as deponent thinks, two enlistments and for different terms, but deponent cannot state the particular times and lengths of these enlistments. He well recollects the first of these; afterwards he and said Enos were constantly in the service in land guards, till the time when Waring took command as aforesaid, making two years in the whole. Deponent in the year 1782, served nine months under Waring, but said Enos did not serve then. During all the time aforesaid Enos as deponent well knows was constantly in service as aforesaid—during the whole war petty invasions and incursions were very frequent in Greenwich.

Drake Lockwood

Sworn and subscribed by the said Messenger Lockwood and Drake Lockwood respectively, the day and year abovesaid.

CH. HAWLEY,
Judge.

Abigail Lockwood

Messenger Lockwood[618] entered the Town or Coast Guards at Greenwich, about January, 1781 (Capt. Timothy Lockwood commander), and again for nine months ending April 1st, 1782, and was employed guarding homes and towns from the British and Tories.

Testified September 9th, 1833, in addition to his oath of August 30th, 1832, that he has recently conversed with his brother Enos Lockwood and others who were with him in the service and from their recollection and his own, is well satisfied and therefore testifies that his first enlistment in 1781 was for only a part of a six-months term of duty, which commenced about the 11th January of that year. He again enlisted in the guards for nine months ending April 1st, 1782, or within a day or two of that date; and he faithfully served out both enlistments. These guards were regularly enlisted troops, ordered into the service by the public authority of Connecticut. His officers were Capt. Timothy Lockwood and Lieut. Oliver Jervis.

During all this time declarant was in service in the field in guarding the homes and towns from the British and Tories who molested that quarter from Long Island and the mainland constantly, as declarant's services were rendered in the immediate vicinity of his home, he could occasionally do a little chore at his home; but was constantly under arms, on duty.

The service in Greenwich was extremely harassing.

He was pensioned $30 per annum.

MESSENGER LOCKWOOD.

Sarah Lockwood aged 84—appeared September 15th, 1854, before the Probate Court, widow of Messenger Lockwood, late of Greenwich, Connecticut, who served in the Revolutionary War. She married Messenger Lockwood in October, 1796. That she was married by Col. Charles Webb, of Revolutionary memory, who was a Justice of the Peace and resided in Stamford near her father's residence. That her marriage took place at the house of her father, James Ferris, in said Greenwich.

I, Peter Lockwood, of the Town of Greenwich, in the County of Fairfield, and State of Connecticut, do testify and say that I was 84 years old on the 12th day of instant September, 1854.

I always well knew the late Messenger Lockwood of said Greenwich now decd. having during my whole life lived in the Society of Old Greenwich, in said Town of Greenwich in which he lived and died, and I have always known his wife, now his widow—her maiden name was Sarah Ferris, daughter of James Ferris, who lived and died in said Society in said town; a great part of my life I have lived within one mile of them all, indeed, within half a mile of them, and have never lived at a greater distance from them than about one mile. I have known said Messenger and his said wife from my youth up, at all times until said Messenger died and have well known his widow since. She now lives in said Society where her husband died. I recollect well the marriage of said Messenger and Sarah. They were married by Col. Charles Webb, who was also a Justice of the Peace. He married me also to my wife. They always at all times sustained the best of characters for virtue and correct deportment. Soon after their marriage they came and lived in my family for some three or four months while said Messenger was building his house. He was older than myself, but I was married before he was. My family Bible records my own marriage, August 15th, 1795.

An Anecdote of the Revolution.

"During the Revolutionary War, the British with their Tory friends, went to the home of Mr. Nathaniel Reynolds, in Stanwich, within the township of Greenwich, Conn., near Long Island Sound, to drive away his cattle, when his daughter Sarah, unterrified by the presence of marauders, ran out of the house and drove the cattle back to their quarters. In a few days the enemy, having apparently recovered their courage, made another raid upon the cattle, when the dauntless girl, Sarah, again came to the rescue, whereupon the leader of the band commanded her to leave or he would fire upon her. 'Fire then!' replied the Connecticut girl, when he turned to his men and said, 'Let her have them.' Her courage and intrepidity having secured her father's property from further molestation." DAVID LOCKWOOD, A WONDERFUL HISTORICAL AFFIDAVIT.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT, }
COUNTY OF FAIRFIELD, } ss.

Stamford. Be it known that on this 20th day of February, A.D. 1837, before me, Simeon H. Minor, a Notary Public, in and for said State and County, personally appeared William Waterbury, of said Stamford, who being first duly sworn on his oath, says: That he is 70 years of age, and is only child left by the late Brigadier-General David Waterbury, deceased, late of said Stamford, that his father, the said David Waterbury, at his death, left, in the possession of this deponent, many of his military documents, which this deponent still retains. He has his commission dated the first day of May, 1775, signed by Jonathan Trumbull, Governor of the State of Connecticut, and countersigned by George Wyllys, Secretary, by which his said father was appointed, and made Colonel of the 5th Regiment, of the inhabitants enlisted and assembled for the special defense, etc. He has also his said father's "orderly book of 1775," on which are the muster rolls of the ten companies belonging to his regiment. The Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Major, each, had his company with subalterns under him.

His late father's muster-roll embraced himself as Colonel; Sylvanus Brown, as Captain-Lieutenant; Jonathan Whiting, Lieutenant; Samuel Hait, Ensign; Charles Webb, Adjutant; one clerk, four sergeants, four corporals, and eighty-six privates, and amongst the latter are the names of David Lockwood, Jr., late of Stamford, deceased, and Squire Dan, who is still living in said Stamford. This deponent well knew said David Lockwood, who after the Revolutionary War, lived in a part of Stamford, called New Field, where he carried on the trade of a blacksmith.

William Waterbury

DAVID LOCKWOOD.

Hannah Lockwood was his widow, of Stamford, Conn.

FAIRFIELD COUNTY, } ss.

Be it known that on January 26th, 1837, personally appeared Hannah Lockwood, of Stamford, and states under oath, that she is in the 78th year of her age. That she was born in Stamford, and has ever resided there; that November 7th, 1779, she was lawfully married to David Lockwood, of said Stamford, who was then David Lockwood, Jr., by the Rev. Mr. Moses Mather, a Presbyterian minister, in Middlesex, then a part of the town of Stamford. That said David was in the service of the United States, before and after their intermarriage. That he served under Captain Brown for three months. Her husband enlisted into a Company of Artillery, stationed at Stamford, and served nine months. That said David Lockwood, died in said Stamford, September 6th, 1825.

HANNAH LOCKWOOD.

December 9th, 1836, Squire Dan says, he enlisted April 15th, 1775, in a Company commanded by Col. David Waterbury; Capt. Sylvanus Brown; Lieut. Jonathan Whiting; and Ensign Samuel Hait; that with this Company, deponent went to the northward, and served through the season, at least seven months, and was present at the taking of St. John's; after which he went to Montreal; and was there discharged. This deponent knows well that David Lockwood who afterwards pursued the trade of a blacksmith, in a street called Newfield, in said Stamford, was a regular enlisted soldier in said Company, and served therein seven months, and was discharged at Montreal, and then returned to his home in Stamford.

I was one of the persons employed to take said David Lockwood across the lake on their return home.

SQUIRE DAN.

DAVID LOCKWOOD.

November 29th, 1836, Samuel Dean says under oath, before the Hon. Simeon H. Minor, that he was well acquainted with David Lockwood, late of said Stamford, deceased, and with his wife Hannah Lockwood, who is an applicant for a pension.

Said David Lockwood served 7 months or more, at the Northward, under Capt. Sylvanus Brown, in the year 1775. David Waterbury was the Colonel of the Regiment, and the succeeding year, was appointed a Brigadier-General.

In 1776, another Company was raised, and David Lockwood and myself served seven months in it; during this latter period of this service, David Lockwood was in the engagement at White Plains.

In 1780, on the first January, said David Lockwood joined the Company, of which this deponent was a member. We were messmates. We were on the lines at Horseneck, and Byrams.

In the course of the winter, Captain Keeler commanded a Company, that went into the enemy's camp and took off Colonel Hatfield, and all his officers and made them prisoners. This deponent and David Lockwood were of this party.

David Lockwood afterwards joined an Artillery Company, in said Stamford, and served six months therein.

SAMUEL DEAN.

David Lockwood and Hannah Holly, were married by Rev. Moses Mather, on November 7th, 1779.

The above is certified by

SEYMOUR JARVIS,
Town Clerk.

DAVID LOCKWOOD.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE, HARTFORD, CONN., June 8th, 1837.

I certify that the name of David Lockwood, Jr., appears on a pay roll, in this office, headed as follows, to wit:

"Pay Roll of Col. David Waterbury's Company in the Regiment of forces of the United Colonies under command of Col. David Waterbury, raised in the Colony of Connecticut, commencing on the day in which they entered said service and ending with the time of their dismission, including time for the discharge to get home," and he is credited for service from May 3d, to December 13th, a period of 220 days.

The name of David Lockwood, further appears on a return of Colonel Waterbury's Company, for back rations commencing 26th June, 1775, and ending 29th November following, and he is named as being discharged November 28th.

The Name of Seeley.

"Obadiah Seeley was early a resident here, as several entries in the records show. In 1651 he acknowledged payment of a debt due him from John Lareson. He died in 1667, and his inventory taken December 24th, 1667, by William Newman and Robert Usher, mentions his widow Mary and his sons Obadiah, Cornelius and Jonas. His widow Mary had been the widow also of John Miller, of Stamford. He was probably a son of Robert Seeley, of Watertown, who settled afterwards in Wethersfield, and became quite famous as a Lieutenant in the Pequot War, and still later of the New Haven force under Sedgwick and Leverett against the New Netherlands. This name has been well represented in all its generations in the town." (Hy. Stamford, Connecticut, p. 61.)

Joseph, Jr., and Hannah (Close) Lockwood; m. (as his 2d wife) Thaddeus Hoyt, born January 26th, 1742–43, son of Abraham and Hannah Hoyt. He lived in Stamford, Conn., and died October 3d, 1826. Earmark at Stamford May 25th, 1767. (Hoit or Hoyt Gen'y, p. 363.) He was in the Revolutionary War, became a man of influence and wealth.

"Thaddeus Hoyt was in the Revolutionary Army in New York City in 1776. Was on a committee to supply the Commissary with clothing in December, 1777, and was quite noted as a scout against the Cow-boys. He became a man of influence, and, for the age in which he lived, of quite considerable wealth." A foot-note is given about "Uncle Thad." Tells of his athletic frame, and reckless and successful daring, and his active patriotism. He was so much hated by the Tories, and so much exposed was he in his house by night, that he often retired in the evening with his gun and blanket to a neighboring clump of cedars which afforded him safer shelter; and a description then follows, of how Sam. Lockwood, a Tory neighbor, was a leader in these depredations, and how once he grappled with him, etc., etc. He was too much for Samivel. (Hoyt Gen'y, p. 363.)

1415. ALBERT LOCKWOOD, born January 23d, 1799, died January 5th, 1868.
1416. LEWIS LOCKWOOD, born September 5th, 1804, died February 11th, 1870.

Hon. Ezra Lockwood, who filled the offices of Supervisor, Justice of the Peace, member of the Legislature, Surrogate and Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, was a brother of Horatio. They were very unlike, however. Ezra was a man of studious habits and well educated, but he lacked the elements of popularity, which his brother possessed. He was an ardent Whig, and at times party spirit ran so high that the two brothers would not speak, although they lived opposite to each other.

Ezra Lockwood, son of Major Ebenezer Lockwood, was born at Poundridge, Westchester County, New York, June 27th, 1777. He married Sally, daughter of David and Rebecca (Brown) Weed, of Stamford. He lived in the village of Poundridge during his whole life, occupying a residence directly opposite to the old homestead where he was born.

Ezra was well educated, and was of a studious disposition. For some years he taught a private school at Poundridge. He was a Justice of the Peace of his town and represented it in the Board of Supervisors from 1807 to 1819. He also represented Westchester County in the State Legislature in the year 1806, and was Surrogate of the County 1808–10, and 1811–13. He was also for many years one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas for Westchester County.

695. Hon. Horatio[6] Lockwood (Robert,[1] Jonathan,[2] Joseph,[3] Joseph,[4] Ebenezer[5]), born September 6th, 1779, at Ridgefield, Connecticut, and died in Poundridge, Westchester County, New York, November 5th, 1853, aged 74. 2. 0; son of Major Ebenezer and Hannah (Smith) Lockwood; he was for several terms a member of the General Assembly of the State of New York, 1833–1842; m., March 25th, 1808 (Robert,[1] Jonathan,[2] Joseph,[3] Joseph,[4] Joseph,[5] Solomon,[6] Bethia[7]), Bethia Close Lockwood, born June 21st, 1791, and died May 14th, 1863, aged 71. 10. 23, daughter of Solomon[6] and Mary (Close) Lockwood, granddaughter of Capt. Joseph, Jr.,[5] and Hannah (Close) Lockwood, great-granddaughter of Joseph[4] and Sarah (Hoyt) Lockwood. Horatio was cousin to his wife's father.

1424. Catharine Lockwood, born February 20th, 1823, m. Le Grand W. Keeler, of Wilton, Connecticut.

Hon. Horatio Lockwood.

The subject of this sketch, was the son of Major Ebenezer and Hannah (Smith) Lockwood. On the 3d of July, 1779, a detachment of British troops, under the command of Col. Tarleton, made a sudden descent upon the village of Poundridge, Westchester County, New York. One of the objects of the attack was the capture of Major Ebenezer Lockwood, for whom a reward of forty guineas had been offered. During the skirmish which followed, the house of Major Lockwood was burned, and his wife sought a refuge at Ridgefield, Connecticut; about nine miles distant. While thus temporarily at Ridgefield, Horatio was born, on the 6th of September, 1779. It was this circumstance of Tarleton's raid which was the cause of his being born away from his father's home. Major Lockwood's family soon returned to the homestead in Poundridge, where Horatio lived during the rest of his life. He was named after General Horatio Gates, but he never used the name Gates. When he became a man, he succeeded to a portion of the large estate owned by his father, and lived in the house which was erected upon the site of the one which was burned by the British. He followed the occupation of a farmer and a dealer in cattle. Being in comfortable circumstances, and with good family connections, he soon acquired a prominent position in his town and county.

He represented the town of Poundridge in the Board of Supervisors, of Westchester County, during the years 1820–1823 and 1825–1839. He also represented Westchester County in the Lower House of the State Legislature during the years 1833–1836, 1841 and 1842. In politics he was a Democrat, but being very affable in his manner, and a lover of fun, he was popular with all parties.

He also acquired a considerable reputation as a practitioner in the courts of the Justices of the Peace, a position in those days which was frequently filled by laymen, and one which required not such an intricate knowledge of legal lore as of good common sense and an ability to impress a jury.

In his day the periodical circuits of the Supreme Court, and the sessions of the County Court, were the occasions of a general gathering of the well-known men of the county, as well as of members of the bar.

At such times the General, as he was called, was a conspicuous figure, and many anecdotes have been handed down in which he was the chief actor.

On the 10th of August, 1851, while at Ellicottville, Cattaraugus County, New York, where he had gone to purchase cattle and horses, Horatio received a stroke of paralysis.

He was brought home, and although he lived until November 5th, 1853, he never afterwards engaged in active business. He died at the age of seventy-four years, and was buried in the old burying-ground at Poundridge. Horatio married Bethia Close, a daughter of Solomon Lockwood, of Poundridge, who, with five daughters and one son, survived him.

From Wm. T. L., N. Y.:

Horatio Lockwood, of Pound Ridge, was, among his other professions, quite a pettifogger; was once called to defend a case brought before a jury in a Justice's court, and his opponent was a lawyer named Reynolds of Sing Sing. After the case had been heard and all evidence in, Lawyer Reynolds summed up for his side in words of great eloquence. Lockwood arose, book in hand, saying: If it please your Honor, and gentlemen of the jury, the learned counsel having given his views of this case in a very able manner, I will now read to you what the law says. After apparently reading two or three pages (stating his views), says: Now, gentlemen of the jury, I leave the case in your hands, and sat down. Up jumps Counsellor Reynolds, saying: If it please your Honor, I would like to know where the learned gentleman finds the law he has just read. Lockwood's reply was, tut, tut, the d—l, find your own law, d—n you; and won his case.

696. Lewis Lockwood (Robert,[1] Jonathan,[2] Joseph,[3] Joseph,[4] Ebenezer[5]), born December 18th, 1783, at Poundridge, New York, and died there March 9th, 1816, in his 33d year; son of Major Ebenezer and Hannah (Smith) Lockwood; was a lawyer and licensed as an attorney in 1806. RESIDENCE OF EPENETUS WEBB LOCKWOOD, AT ASHTABULA, O., FROM 1832 TO 1843, AND WHERE HE DIED.

Epenetus Webb Lockwood.

In 1887, a few days before his death, Stephen H. Brooke, of Philadelphia, requested his former partner, William L. Rehn, to examine a chest of old letters, and destroy those of no value. As Mr. Brooke had been a partner of Elon Dunbar, over forty years before, Mr. Rehn found, among his papers, some addressed to Elon Dunbar. As E. Dunbar Lockwood was Mr. Dunbar's executor and trustee, he requested him to look them over, and to his surprise he found among them a letter from his own father, dated forty-five years before, and alluding to himself, and one from Leander Hall, of Ashtabula O., dated October 1st, 1843, announcing the death of Epenetus Webb Lockwood, the father of William E., Charles L., and E. Dunbar Lockwood, and one of October 19th, 1843, confirming the same.

The letter from E. W. Lockwood was dated April 12th, 1842, and after alluding to a draft enclosed for $227.36, and some business matters, says: "We are all enjoying good health at this time, and trying to do the best I can; our little Dunbar has been very sick with a fever, it was thought for some time that he never would be any better, but he is now quite well. We should be pleased to see you and your family here this summer, and make us a visit. Yours, respectfully,

E. W. Lockwood

Mr Elon Dunbar

The letter from Leander Hall, Esq., announcing the death of Epenetus Webb Lockwood, said:

ASHTABULA, October 1st, 1843.

"DEAR SIR: It is with trembling nerves and aching heart that I attempt to communicate to you, the sad and mournful intelligence of the death of Mr. E. W. Lockwood, who died yesterday afternoon, at about half past three o'clock, with that painful disease, the dysentery and bilious affection. The case was an obstinate one, and seemed to defy the power of medicine, etc.

"His wife was at Buffalo, on a visit (to her mother), when he was taken, was sent for, and arrived in time to see him alive and in his right mind, etc.

"It was his last request, that you should come to Ashtabula, if you could not stay but two days."

To Elon Dunbar, Philadelphia, Pa.

On October 19th, 1843, not having any reply, he again wrote to Mr. Dunbar, saying he had not heard from him, and so wrote

Mrs. ELIZABETH WEBB LOCKWOOD,

NOTE.—Mr. Dunbar, August 30th, 1845 m. Mrs. Lockwood, widow of Mr. E. W. Lockwood; she died September 27th, 1884.

"Elon Dunbar died July 31st, 1877, aged 75 years. He was born at Plymouth, Conn., December 20th, 1801. He came to this city about 1830, and engaged in business in Market Street, near Fifth, as a dry goods merchant. He was afterwards a member of the firm of O'Brien & Dunbar, and of Dunbar, Brooke & Dunning. After he retired from the latter firm, he was out of business for a time, but resumed it as a member of the dry goods commission house of Dunbar & Welling. He retired from active pursuits in 1847. He was a leading member of St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, and one of the founders of the Holy Trinity P. E. Church, at 19th and Walnut Streets." (Philadelphia Sunday Dispatch, August 5th, 1877.)

ELON DUNBAR.

"Mr. Dunbar, whose death at his residence in this city, No. 1822 Chestnut Street, on Tuesday morning, July 31st, was announced in our columns yesterday, was born in Plymouth, Conn., December 20th, 1801, and came to Philadelphia more than 50 years ago. He was in early life engaged in the dry goods jobbing business as a member of the firms of O'Brien & Dunbar, and Dunbar, Brooke & Dunning, and then retired from business for a few years, when he again went into active life, and, forming a connection with Mr. Charles H. Welling, established the commission house of Dunbar & Welling.

"This business has since been carried on under successive firms for thirty years, and is now conducted by the firm of Coffin, Altemus & Co. Mr. Dunbar retired from business altogether in the year 1847, with a competence, which has since been largely increased by accumulations and investments. He was for many years a member of St. Andrew's Church, under the rectorship of Rev. Dr. Stevens, and was one of the original members of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Nineteenth and Walnut Streets, where he had been a constant attendant ever since the opening of that church. Mr. Dunbar was a man of untiring industry and energy, and of the most urbane disposition and cheerful temper, and of the strictest integrity in all his dealings and intercourse with his fellow-men. He married for his second wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Lockwood, with whom he lived thirty years, and who survives him. His own children by his first wife are all dead, and he leaves two grandchildren, a son and daughter of the late Richard Price, Jr.

"In his long sickness, Mr. Dunbar was an example of Christian patience, never complaining, but always cheerful, and more thoughtful of others than of himself."

LEVI HANFORD (1759–1854).

He remained with his father on the farm and in the mill till the year 1775, when he was sixteen years old, the age at which young men were subject to military duty. The fighting at Concord, Lexington, and Bunker Hill roused the public mind to a state of great excitement. Young Hanford, moved by the common feeling, and stimulated by the impulses of his own patriotic spirit, enrolled his name in a company of minute men, commanded by his maternal uncle, John Carter, Captain. In the spring of 1776 he volunteered, under General Lee, to defend the city of New York, and worked on the fortifications at Governor's Island.

In October he enlisted in a company of Light Horse, under Captain Seth Seymour. March 13th, 1777, he was taken prisoner at Old Well and carried to Huntington, L. I., thence to Flushing and to New York, where he was incarcerated in the old prison and ships, suffering everything but death; he was finally exchanged.

834. ABRAM LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] John,[4] Jabez[5]), born at Poundridge, N. Y.; son of Jabez and Ruth (Underhill) Lockwood; lived a few years since at Croton Valley, a place ten miles northeast of Sing Sing. About two years ago (1834) he got married and moved to Scipio, N. Y. Since that he has moved still farther west and is supposed to be now (1836) somewhere in the western part of the State of New York. (Taken from a letter dated New York, April 6th, 1836, written by Townsend N. Underhill.)

835. ISAAC LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] John,[4] Jabez[5]), born 1775, at Poundridge, Westchester County, New York, and lived there and in New York City until 1818; son of Jabez and Ruth (Underhill) Lockwood. In the spring of 1818 he removed to Princeton, Indiana, and died there soon after. M., 1797, Phebe Walters, she was connected with the family of Mayor Walters, of New York City, she died 1818, was daughter of Anthony and Ruth ( ) Walters.

NOTE.—Mrs. Phebe (Walters) Lockwood was sister to Dr. Stephen Walters and Dr. Daniel Walters; also to Ruth Walters, who married Dr. Merritt, and to Sarah Walters, who married Elias Wheeler.

ISAAC LOCKWOOD

(son of Jabez) (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] John,[4] Jabez[5]), whose father and Dr. Stephen Walters and Elias Wheeler, his uncles, removed from New York to Princeton, Indiana, in the spring of 1818, going through Philadelphia, over the mountains, to Pittsburgh; thence by flat boat, down the Ohio River, to Evansville, Indiana; thence to Princeton, Indiana. Not a steamboat to be seen on the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Evansville. His parents and grandparents were Quakers. Mr. L. thinks his grandmother was of Westchester County, New York, and that he has a number of relatives in New York City, descendants of Dr. Merritt and Dr. Walters. Dr. William A. Walters, a first cousin, was President of the Medical Board of New York about 1840. He has been in the banking business since 1864, and is President of the First National Bank of Mt. Vernon, Indiana; and on April 24th, 1881, was 72 years of age, and had been married 47 years, being 25 years old when married. Owing to his father's Bible being burned some twenty years ago, he cannot furnish dates.

HULDAH, mentioned by C. W. L., grandson of Reuben.

"It is with much pleasure that I note my grandfather's remarkable piety. He was a Methodist and an active member of his church. Some years since I was in the locality where he lived, and heard many allusions to his devotion and Christian character, 30 years after his death." (C. W. Lockwood's letter, November, 1878, Rockford, Illinois.)

STATE OF CONNECTICUT, }
COUNTY OF FAIRFIELD. } ss.

On this 3d day of August, 1832, personally appeared before the Court of Probate now in session at Weston in and for the District of Weston, in the County aforesaid, in open court, it being a Court of record, Reuben Lockwood of the Town of Weston in the County and State aforesaid, aged 70 years and a few months, who being first duly sworn according to Law, doth on his oath make the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the Act of Congress passed June 7th, 1832, namely:

That in the latter part of the month of August, 1778, he entered the service of the United States under Captain Peter Sturges of the Town of Norwalk, in said County as a substitute for one Gideon Lockwood of said Weston, in the team service for the term of four months, that said Lockwood who is now dead had enlisted himself and entered his team and this declarant went into the service as his substitute, and actually served four months, and was discharged about Christmas following the time he entered the service; that he took said Lockwood's team and went to Danbury in said County, when the team was apprized by order of Major Starr who was over the Commissary department in that place: that there were ten teams under the command of said Peter Sturges, and the team which this deponent chose and took charge of was one of them, he drew the same pay and received daily the same rations from the public stores as were drawn and received by an enlisted soldier, that he was employed in transporting provisions for the army. That he, with the team which he drove, was chiefly employed in transporting provisions from said Danbury to Peekskill on the Hudson or North River; when he with other teams carried provisions or liquors, they were generally allowed a guard, a corporal and six men, one time when he and others went to Peekskill they guarded themselves and took their turns in standing sentry every night. That during said four months service, he and the other teams in said company of teams, was ordered to go to Boston to carry clothing for the army, and all the ten teams, including this deponent, started for Boston; when we arrived at Hartford in said State we found the army, and did not go any further, we remained at Hartford about three weeks and carted wood for the army; the soldiers cut it. General Gates was at Hartford in command a part of the time, that he saw him the morning he started for the south. General Putnam he believes was left in command, though he does not recollect of seeing him; after they had been in Hartford about three weeks the teams, and the one he drove among the rest, were ordered back to Danbury, and we brought back to Danbury pressed hay which we took in at Wethersfield near Hartford; soon after our return to Danbury, General Putnam with several Regiments came to Redding and went into Winter quarters. And he further says that during all the time he served as aforesaid, he was subject to the orders of said Captain Sturges, and he Sturges received his orders from the aforesaid Major Starr; that at one time when he was in said service, he was ordered to go with the team he drove and one other team also with him, after a regiment which marched through Danbury towards Peekskill, we followed them and overtook them at Pine's Bridge, so called, in or near Larned's Town in the State of New York, the other team which was with him was then unloaded and returned, we were both loaded with provisions for the regiment—that he continued with the team he drove, on as far as Peekskill, when he unloaded; there were other teams with us, the two referred to were taken from the ten which were under Captain Sturges; and when he, the deponent, went as last aforesaid, he was put under the order of the Captain of the other teams, and when he arrived at Peekskill, he well remembers that he was detained about two weeks at Peekskill, the Captain to whom he was subject would not permit him to return; that he was much troubled to obtain his rations, through the obstinacy of the Captain, he refused to permit him to have his rations until he threatened to go with his complaints to headquarters and then he complied. That in performing the service aforesaid he was, at all times subject to go wherever he was ordered; and was at all times subject to the same punishment for disobedience of orders, as any enlisted soldier in the United States service would have been, and it was not a service in any sense, under a mere contract, which we could have broken at any time, and been subjected to the payment of damages only. He could neither abandon his plan nor disobey his orders without subjecting himself to a court martial.

And he further says that after he was discharged from the service aforesaid and when he belonged to a Company of Connecticut State Militia commanded by Capt. Daniel Godfrey, to wit: in the year 1780 (he believes), he was drafted into the service of the United States and entered a Company of Connecticut State drafted troops to go to Stratford in said County to guard the coast; was drafted for the term of two months and went to said Stratford under the aforesaid Capt. Daniel Godfrey, one Odle was the Lieut. and Jonathan Squier of said Weston was Ensign; that he accordingly went and served about three weeks at Stratford aforesaid, and was then ordered to Bridgeport in said County, where he served about three weeks more, and then he and the rest of the Company to which he belonged were ordered to Green's Farm, in said Fairfield, where he served the residue of the two months for which he was drafted as aforesaid.

That all the time during which he was drafted and served as last aforesaid, he was employed in guarding the coast, and that he actually served under said draft the term of two months.

In regard to the aforesaid team service he recollects that when his time was out, but order from Major Starr, the team he drove was again apprized and valued at $20 less than when it entered the service, and this $20 was allowed by the Government to said

Gideon Lockwood, for whom he served as a substitute; a chain was lost during the service and said Lockwood was allowed and paid for it by the Government.

I was born April 17th, 1762, at Weston.

December 2d, 1844, personally came Rachel Steenrod, resident of Meade Township, Belmont County, State of Ohio, and says: I am the sister of David Lockwood deceased, late a pensioner of the United States. I was present at the marriage of my brother David to Rebecca Thomas, who is now here present in court with me, and has made the preceding election. They were married in Washington County, in the State of Pennsylvania, by the Rev'd John McMillan on the 5th of April, 1792. I have often seen in their possession the family Bible, from which the paper annexed to the declaration of Rebecca Lockwood has been this day taken. I know that paper to be the genuine and original family record. The names there written "David LeWood" and "Rebeka LeWood" are intended for David Lockwood and Rebecca Lockwood, the L being an abbreviation of the word Lock, as often used by my brother David. My brother David Lockwood died in November, 1840, and Rebeka Lockwood, who has made the foregoing declaration, is his widow.

RACHEL STEENROD.

842. JOSHUA LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] John,[4] Ephraim[5]), born in New York State; son of Ephraim and Susannah (Lockwood) Lockwood. He was probably unmarried.

In the burying-ground adjoining the Presbyterian Church in Goshen, Orange County, New York, is a monument with this inscription (see Barber and Howe's His. Coll. of N. Y., 418):

> "Erected by the inhabitants of Orange County 22d July, 1822, > Sacred to the memory of 44 of their fellow-citizens, who fell at the battle of Minisink, 22d July, 1779."

Among the names of the 44 is that of Joshua Lockwood. The Americans were attacked by the Tories and Indians under Col. Brandt, and a fearful fight took place on the banks of the Delaware River near Minisink. (Vol. 3, p. 61, and also see History of Battle of Minisink, by C. E. Stickney, p. 103–4, N. E. H. G. Soc. Reg.)

In Spoffard's Gazetteer, article "Minisink," is the following: "In 1822 the citizens of Orange County collected the bones of the gallant band who were cut off by the Indians at Minisink, and which had been exposed to the suns and snows of forty-three years."

In Stone's life of Brant, pp. 415–419, a full account is given of this fight at Minisink, which is about ten miles west of Goshen, in the County of Orange, New York, on the Narisink River and among the Shawangunk mountains. The Wallkill rises in this town.

"1779, July 22d, a party of sixty Indians and twenty-seven whites led by Brant, attacked the Minisink settlement in Orange County, New York, burning ten houses, twelve barns, a fort and two mills, carrying off considerable booty and several prisoners.

"The remains of forty-four persons were found and publicly interred. The line of procession was led by the Cadets from West Point and extended about a mile.

"Major Poppino, who bore a distinguished part in the battle, though at this celebration ninety-six years old, walked in the procession and was one of the pall-bearers.

"In the burying-ground adjacent to the Presbyterian Church in Goshen is a monument with this inscription:

> "Erected by the inhabitants of Orange County, 22d July, 1822, > Sacred to the memory of forty-four of their fellow-citizens, > who fell at the battle of Minisink 22d July 1779."

The fourteenth name is that of Joshua Lockwood. (N. E. H. G. Reg., vol. 3, p. 61.)

844. MICHAEL LOCKWOOD, JR. (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] John,[4] Michael[5]), born March 13th, 1771, died August 8th, 1812, aged 41. 4. 26; son of Michael and Abigail (Adams) Lockwood; m. Joanna Rusco, daughter of John Rusco, of South Salem.

858½. ELEIZUR LOCKWOOD (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] Ezekiel,[4] Henry[5]), born October 16th, 1774, in New York, on the Susquehanna River; son of Henry Lockwood.

The following statements concerning him are taken from "The Fire Lands Pioneer," vol. vi., p. 21, in the Archives of the Historical Society, at Norwalk, O.

Eleizur Lockwood.

"Eleizur Lockwood, born October 16th, 1774, was a refugee from Canada; who left that province during the war of 1812, rather than take the oath of allegiance to the British Government. He left, in 1813 or 1814, and probably came from Winters, and was one of the first pioneers of Perkins, O. His daughter, Mrs. Polly Ann Tayler, relates, in 1865: He was from New York State, and born on a branch of the Susquehanna River, October 16th, 1774, and had three wives, and at fifteen years of age, moved to Canada, and had born Eleizur, Amanda and Semantha. Amanda died in Sandusky, and Samantha in Perkins township. He first settled in Sandusky County, Riley township, and there Nancy and Betsy were born. Then moved to Bloomingville. By the second marriage he had: William, Amanda, James, Morgan. She died in ten years, and so he married for the third time, widow Cannady, and had eight children.

1. Polly Ann, m. Lyman Tayler.
2. Robert.
3. Rusha.
4. Lucy.
5. Lucretia.
6. Bigelow.
7. Orra.
8. Amelia.

"Mr. Lockwood had a farm of 600 acres, or a mile square, was a farmer, and great shot, etc., and shot two or three deer before breakfast."

Eleizur Lockwood.

From "The Fire Lands Pioneer," published by the Historical Society, at Norwalk, O., vol. 6, p. 21.

"As Mr. Eleizur Lockwood was the first settler in Perkins, O., a narrative of his pioneer life may be interesting to your readers.

"I am chiefly indebted to his daughter, Mrs. Polly Ann Tayler, for the following facts. He was a native of New York State, and born on the Susquehanna River, or one of its tributaries, which run up into that State from Pennsylvania. He was born the 16th of October, 1774. He had in all three wives, the third is still (1865) living with her daughter in Illinois; she is very healthy for an old lady of her age. When he was fifteen years of age he moved to Canada, he lived there until he was nearly thirty-five. He had born there one son and two daughters, viz.: Eleizur, Amanda, and Semantha. The two girls are both dead; Amanda died in Lower Sandusky, and Semantha died in Perkins township. When he came to Ohio, he first settled in Sandusky County, Riley township, and while there had two children born to him, Nancy and Betsey.

"They then moved to Bloomingville and stayed awhile, and then moved to Perkins, on the farm now owned by Charles Converse. His wife was taken sick in about a week after their removal, and in a short time died. There was no house on the farm, but with the aid of his sons they soon erected a comfortable house. The county then was very sparsely settled and neighbors few and far between. There was but one building in Sandusky and that a log cabin. In a short time he was again married. He had by his second marriage four children; William, Amanda, James, and Morgan. He lived with his second wife some ten years, and then after a brief illness followed his life partner to the last resting place. But as the demands of a large family were numerous, and thinking himself incapable of attending the place of both father and mother, he again married in about three months.

"He married the widow Cannady, after which he was blessed with eight children; Polly Ann, Robert, Rusha, Lucy, Lucretia, Bigelow, Orra, and Amelia. Two of these are deceased (1865), the rest are living in different parts of the United States. Polly Ann, the eldest daughter, is the only one of the children living in Perkins. She married Lyman Tayler, uncle Joseph Tayler's youngest son. They now live on the northwest corner of the old homestead. Mr. Lockwood purchased his farm of John Beatty, consisting of over six hundred acres, or a mile square. A portion of it was prairie, and the rest very heavily timbered. He paid Mr. Beatty ten shillings an acre for the land. He was a farmer by occupation, but could take his gun and shoot as well, if not better, than some of the more experienced hunters; he depended entirely upon his trusty rifle for the replenishing of his winter larder. The woods were nearly an unbroken thicket. Game of all kinds was very abundant; bears, wolves, panthers, deer, coon, mink, otter, and wild turkey. The deer were so abundant when he first came into the country, that you could almost catch them. It was thought nothing strange for a person to go out before breakfast and shoot two or three. He went out hunting one day, and being overtaken by night, he camped out. He was awakened along about midnight, by a rustling among the leaves, and looking up saw a couple of lurid spots, and, thinking them the eyes of something that had no business there, fired. It proved to be an enormous panther just in the act of springing upon him as he fired. It sprang forward with a yell and dropped dead at his feet.

"When living in Riley township, Sandusky County, he one day went to mill, with a grist, leaving his wife alone with the children.

"She was expecting him home at night and had prepared a large kettle of mush; it was sitting on the hearth to keep it warm, when all at once a huge form darkened the door.

"It came through a hole in the back part of the chimney which Mr. Lockwood had been intending to repair, but had not got about it, and, without as much as 'How do you do,' stuck his nose into the kettle of hot mush, and began to munch it down. It proved to be a bear; he soon devoured the pudding, and then, without so much as a look at Mrs. Lockwood, made a hasty exit. Mr. Lockwood would often be gone a week at a time, at a distance of from twenty to thirty miles.

"One day while on a hunting expedition, he saw a large bear running off with a little pig in his mouth. Piggy gave utterance to his distaste for the whole affair by an occasional squeak and spasmodic jerk of the heels; but it was plainly evident that Bruin had never heard of the 'golden rule,' as poor piggy's weakened tones began to testify. Mr. Lockwood immediately put a 'quietus' to the whole affair by sending the never-failing lead into Bruin's shaggy sides.

"When Mr. Lockwood was a babe but two weeks old, his mother was taken prisoner by the Indians, but being in poor health could not keep up with the long strides of the dusky warriors. Some wanted to kill her, others said she would die anyhow if left alone, so they finally concluded to let her go. She reached a friendly Dutch settler's cabin, and they kindly assisted her in reaching home.

"Mr. Lockwood sold his farm in 1852, and moved to Illinois, and died in Indiana while on a visit. He was eighty-seven years old. Thus sank to rest the oldest settler of Perkins township, and to whose energy of character, indomitable will and Christian example, we of this township owe much."

Mr. Lockwood* was one of the refugees from Canada, who left that province during the war of 1812, rather than take the oath of allegiance to the British Government. He left the provinces probably in 1813 or 1814. Probably he came from Winters. This Eleizur settled in the fourth section in 1810, and was doubtless the first settler.

865. Hon. James H. Lockwood (Robert,[1] Joseph,[2] Joseph,[3] Ezekiel,[4] Ezekiel[5]), born December 7th, 1793, in Peru, Clinton County, New York; died August 24th, 1857, at Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin; son of Ezekiel and Sarah (Bockran) Lockwood; m. Julia Warner in the summer of 1824. He was twice married, but died s. p. His second wife lived with and was cared for in her old age by Mrs. Ralph Smith, whose maiden name was Sarah Ann Lockwood, a niece of Hon. James H. Lockwood, and daughter of John Sherrod Lockwood.

Judge James H. Lockwood.

From Wisconsin State Historical Society's Collections.

Hon. James H. Lockwood, of Prairie du Chien, Crawford County, Wisconsin, wrote an article for the Historical Society, it is 99 pages long and printed in Vol. 2 of that Society's publication in 1856, and frequently referred to in the various other volumes of the Society's collections, and by a number of later writers. It commences on page 98, and is entitled "Early Times and Events in Wisconsin," in which he says, "I was born in Peru, Clinton County, New York, December 7th, 1793, and lived in the woods most of my days. My father being a farmer moved to Jay, Essex County, but subsequently, in 1803, got the 'Ohio fever' and determined to go there, but the later reports caused him to change his mind and settle in Champlain, Clinton County, N. Y., in 1805." In Vol. 6, p. 303, he is mentioned among "the early settlers who were conspicuous for their intelligence." His portrait hangs in the picture gallery of the Society.

Judge Lockwood was a clerk with a sutler in the army in 1814, and was one of the founders of Green Bay, and Prairie du Chien, where he settled in 1819. He then declined a judgeship, was appointed a Justice of the Peace. In 1823 he declined clerkship of Court, studied law, and in 1824 was appointed Postmaster under President Monroe. In 1826 he erected the first framed house in Prairie du Chien; he was subsequently appointed Associate Judge, and in 1836 he represented Crawford County in the first Territorial Legislature.

Judge Lockwood gives an account of "Red Bird's" disturbances; he came to his house with two other Indians, and entering the cellar kitchen loaded their guns in the presence of the servant girl, and went up through the hall into Mrs. Lockwood's bedroom, where she was sitting alone. The moment the Indians entered her room, she believed they came to kill her, and immediately passed into and through the parlor and crossed the hall into the store to her brother, a young man of sixteen years, who was there with others, and the Indians finally left, etc.

"The first Sunday-School established was by my first wife, Mrs. Julianna Lockwood, who was raised among the Presbyterians and Congregationalists of New England, and early imbibed the strong prejudices of those people against the Roman Catholics, etc., etc., which afterwards wore off."

"We were married in the summer of 1824 and came to Prairie du Chien in the autumn."

A sketch of Judge Lockwood is published in Vol. 3 of the His. Soc. Coll's, published in 1857, and says he was born December 7th, 1793, and was then "the oldest Anglo-American settler in Wisconsin," and on p. 508, of same volume, his death is announced. He died at Prairie du Chien, Monday, August 24th, 1857, in the 64th year of his age (63. 8. 17).

"In 1842 or '43 Mr. Lockwood united with the Episcopal Church at Prairie du Chien, of which he continued a member until his death."

"On Tuesday his funeral was attended by Rev. Alfred Brunson, who delivered a very feeling eulogy on him," etc.

Vol. 4, p. 166. "It is stated that he was attorney for the plaintiff in the first jury trial at Green Bay, Wis., and gained the suit. The defendant in the case was a Frenchman. He and his friends were outrageous in their denunciations of the d——d Yankee court and jury. He was also the first lawyer that practiced west of Lake Michigan" (p. 175). On p. 305, Vol. 4, it is stated that "the only house of any pretensions there in 1836, was the one occupied by Judge Lockwood."

Like many others of the sons of the town during the last half century, he commenced his life as a seaman. He soon abandoned his sea-life, returned to Stamford and settled down, on what was then the old turnpike, in the old Lockwood homestead. Here he spent the rest of his days. He was soon found ready and efficient in aiding forward every needed enterprise of the town, and rose rapidly to his place among the first citizens. At the beginning of this century, no man stood higher than he in the public esteem. For nineteen years he did good service as one of the selectmen of the town, and represented the town in eight sessions of the State Legislature. He was characterized for his promptness and punctuality. It was a proverb that Captain Lockwood's rambling pony was the best timepiece in the town, never failing to appear with her rider at the post-office at the appointed time. Was a worshipful master mason, and right worshipful brother and high priest. (History Stamford, p. 403.)

He was interested in the Spanish War, one of the Carlos was his champion, he rode daily to the P. O. to get the latest news. A short, stout man. Headquarters with Hubbard & Close, where the Methodist Church now (1878) stands.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT, }
FAIRFIELD COUNTY, } ss.

Stamford Probate District.

On this 20th day of July, 1832, personally appeared in open court, before the Court of Probate, for said district, now in session, Isaac Lockwood, Esq., a resident of Stamford in said State, county, and district, aged sixty-nine years and upwards, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth on his oath make the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the act of Congress, passed June 7th, 1832, viz.: "That he was born in Stamford, in said State, County, and District, on the 4th day of November, 1762. That his birth is recorded on the Town Records, of said Stamford. That on the 1st of April, 1778, he enlisted into a Company, commanded by Capt. Jesse Bell. His Lieutenant was John Barre, who took charge of the artillery, for the term of one year, and served out his time and was discharged at the Guard House in the village of Stamford, on the 28th of July, 1781, he again enlisted into a Company called the Town Guards commanded by his father of the same name, and served until the 28th of August, of the same year, when his father sent him home to take charge of the farm. I have always resided in Stamford from my birth, but have been many years at sea in the time, my home, however, has at all times been at Stamford, that I was living in said Stamford, when I enlisted as aforesaid, that the companies to which I belonged were attached to no Regiment, they were companies of State troops, of the State of Connecticut. That I never received any other than verbal discharges, I refer to Simeon H. Minor, Esq., of Stamford, Isaac Quintard and Reuben Mead, of said Stamford, as persons who well know me, and who can testify to my character for veracity and their belief of my services as a soldier in the Revolution.

He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present, and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any State.

Sworn to and subscribed the day and year aforesaid.

Isaac Lockwood

CHARLES HAWLEY,
Judge.

I, Samuel Lockwood, clerk of the Court of Probate, in and for the district of Stamford, in the State of Connecticut, do hereby certify that the foregoing contains the original proceedings of the said court and the matter of the application of Isaac Lockwood of said Stamford, for a pension.

IN TESTIMONY whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal of office, this 24th day of July, A.D. 1832.

Church Taxes for Ministerial Support.

For five years, ending with 1806, quite a list of unpaid taxes had accumulated, and the next year Augustus Lockwood is appointed a special collector, with instructions forthwith to levy upon the estates of such as failed to meet the arrearages. In the prosecution of his duty he seized a horse of Wm. Waterbury 4th, and sold it under the ordinary warrant. The defendant turns plaintiff, and institutes a suit against the collector for the recovery of his horse. The society stand by their agent, as appears from the following vote of December 6th, 1809:

"Voted, unanimously, that this society will indemnify Augustus Lockwood, in the suit that William Waterbury 4th has commenced against him, which is now pending in the Superior Court, on account of horse which said Augustus Lockwood took from said Waterbury, by virtue of warrants for society taxes, of which said Augustus was collector."

In 1811 we find a heavier tax than usual levied—five cents on a dollar—and the excess over the usual rate, which had been about two and a half cents only, seems to have been charged to the above suit. The vote states that it "is granted for the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses of the society, and for discharging the demand Augustus Lockwood has against said society." (Hy. Stamford, p. 304.)

REV. PETER LOCKWOOD

and Matilda, his wife, celebrated their golden wedding, October 2d, 1872, at Binghamton, N. Y. (History Stamford, pp. 369, 370; Huntington Genealogy, p. 97; Stoddard Family, pp. 145, 185; Barber's Historical Collections, Connecticut, pp. 403, 404, and other sources.)

Rev. Peter Lockwood, born February 9th, 1798, at Bridgeport, Conn., was the third of five children, of Lambert and Elizabeth (Roe) Lockwood.

He told a story as told by his mother, of the escape from Ireland, in 1641, of John Roe, one of his ancestors, whom they hid in a closet with soiled clothes, etc. He married October, 1822, Matilda, daughter of Hon. John Davenport, of Stamford, and settled as pastor, at Peekskill and Binghamton, N. Y., and Cortlandt, N. Y., and Berkshire, Tioga County, and died in Binghamton, November 16th, 1882, aged 85.

Rev. J. P. Gulliver, D.D., his successor, writes:

"I had always regarded Mr. Lockwood, since I knew him, as a very remarkable man. His force of character seemed to press up into view on all occasions and in all directions, as if from an inexhaustible fountain. His simplicity and artlessness were even more remarkable, as it seemed to me. Happy shall we be if we can bear such a record." (P. 895.)

REV. MOSES MATHER, D.D.

The most extensive invasion of the town of Stamford, Connecticut, by the British and their loyal abettors, occurred Sunday, July 22d, 1781. The service had commenced. Rev. Dr. Moses Mather was in the pulpit which he had occupied for nearly forty years, and it was undoubtedly his earnest patriotism which had led to this attack. Its object was to capture that fearless preacher of treason. Suddenly the house was surrounded and the summons to surrender was issued, in the well-known voice of their tory neighbor, Captain Frost. The men and older youths of the congregation were drawn up two by two in marching order, and tied arm to arm. The pastor was ordered to the front, alone, to lead the march.

Dr. Dwight's Travels has the following account of the sufferings to which Rev. Dr. Mather was subjected during his imprisonment:

"This venerable man was marched with his parishioners to the shore, and thence conveyed to Lloyd's Neck. From that place he was soon marched to New York and confined in the Provost Prison. His food was stinted and wretched to a degree not easily imaginable.

"His lodgings corresponded with his food. His company, to a considerable extent, was made up of a mere rabble, and their conversation, from which he could not retreat, composed of profaneness and ribaldry. Here, also, he was insulted daily by the Provost-Marshal, whose name was Cunningham—a wretch remembered in this country only with detestation. This wretch, among other kinds of abuse, took a particular satisfaction in announcing from time to time to Dr. Mather that on that day, the morrow, or some time at a little distance, he was to be executed. But Dr. Mather was not without his friends, however, who knew nothing of him, except his character. A lady of distinction, having learned his circumstances, and having obtained the necessary permission, sent to him clothes and food, and comforts with a liberal hand." (Hy. Stamford, pp. 210–212.)

Rev. Dr. Mather was grandfather of the venerable Mrs. Nathan Lockwood, whose portrait is given in this work. She is now (1888) living, and well, in Darien, Connecticut, in the 95th year of her age, and 63*d year of her widowhood.*

"From Personal Memoirs written by Mrs. Daniel Gibbs, of Norwalk, Ohio, she says she left Norwalk, Conn., January 24th, 1816, and reached our habitation in the wilderness April 30th, being over three months' travel." "Eight of us were leaving good homes for a home in the far west; a home procured by our father, who had been on before us." "My brother Henry, his wife and their little Henry, my husband, self, and our Eliza (of five years), and David (three years), with Mr. L. Keeler, who drove our baggage wagon, composed our company," etc., etc.

"My father, S. Lockwood, accompanied us ten or twelve miles at the start." "It was our determination not to travel on the Sabbath." "Our own 'home,' then, was a substantial wagon, covered with oil cloth, lined with blankets, carpeted, spring seats, very comfortable and decent, and drawn by heavy bays. We had every article of clothing comfortable for the season (winter), blankets (our cloaks with hoods were lion skin cloth, except that no such thing as buffalo or lion robes were known) and furs and foot stoves to warm us, so that with our 'provision chest' containing chickens, hams, hard biscuits, pies, doughnuts by the bushel, tea, coffee, pickles, dried fruit and preserves, and all necessary articles, we were 'well to do' in the world. At Clinton we spent a week with a sister, Mrs. Mason, etc.

"My brother's child, of eighteen months, died on the way, and 'our little D.,' died, after lingering twelve days." ("The Fire Lands Pioneer," by the Hist. So. at Norwalk, Ohio, vol. 1, pp. 25–29.)

(Robert Lockwood,[1] Ephraim Lockwood,[2] James Lockwood,[3] Hannah Lockwood,[4] Hannah Rogers[5]), born July 31st, 1763, in Frederickstown,* Putnam County, State of New York, among the Highlands of the Hudson, near the borders of Connecticut. He died at New York, December 12th, 1847, aged 84. 4. 12, member of the Protestant Episcopal Church; son of Moses and Hannah (Rogers) Kent, grandson of Rev. Elisha Kent, a clergyman from Connecticut, grandson of Dr. Uriah and Hannah (Lockwood) Rogers; m. 1785, Elizabeth Bailey, born 1768.

NOTE.—Mr. Chancellor Kent's full-length portrait is in vol. 11, p. 39, of the American National Portrait Gallery.

CHILDREN VII. GENERATION.

2017. WILLIAM KENT, born in 1802, was prominent as a lawyer and judge in New York, and in 1846–47, was Professor of Law in Harvard University. He died in Fishkill, New York, January 4th, 1861.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New York, and for nine years Chancellor of that State, and author of the celebrated Commentaries on American Law. "For a long series of years he was the unquestioned head of American Jurisprudence, and in private and domestic life noted for all those qualities which characterize the Christian gentleman."

A reply to an inquiry, kindly furnished by his son, Hon. Judge William Kent, of New York, mentions memoranda among his father's papers, in which the Chancellor says that, "When he was five years old, he was sent to Norwalk to school, and lived with his grandfather Rogers four years, going to an English school during that time." He adds, "The government of my grandfather was pretty strict, and the manners of his family were orderly, quiet, and religious." (New Eng. His. and Gen. Reg., vol. 13, p. 61.)

* Frederickstown was subsequently called "Kent."

Chancellor James Kent.

Born July 31st, 1763, married April, 1785, Miss Elizabeth Bayley. In an article published years ago, it is stated that "Chancellor Kent enjoyed for the last 25 years of his life a sort of intellectual and moral supremacy in this our republic rarely paid to any man, and never, as one of his personal friends writes, 'was any one so wholly unspoiled by it.'

"His remains were followed to the tomb on December 15th, 1847, by perhaps the largest assembly of men of intellect and learning ever witnessed in that city" (New York). (National Portrait Gallery, p. 13.)

Chancellor Kent, the Nestor of the American Bar.

In a letter from Chancellor Kent to a friend, October 6th, 1828, telling the story of his life (he was then 65 years old), he says:

"I was educated at Yale College, and graduated in 1781," etc. "I was admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court in January, 1785, at the age of 21, and then married without one cent of property; for my education exhausted all my father's resources and left me in debt $400, which it took me two or three years to discharge. Why did I marry? I answer, at the farmer's house where I boarded, one of his daughters, a little, modest, lovely girl of fourteen, gradually caught my attention, and insensibly stole upon my affections; and before I thought of love, or knew what it was, I was most violently affected. I was 21 and my wife 16, when we married; and that charming and lovely girl has been the idol and solace of my life, and is now with me in my office, unconscious that I am writing this concerning her," etc., etc. "We have three children, one son and two daughters," etc. (New Eng. His. Gen. Reg., vol. 3, p. 1.)

Hon. James Kent, LL.D.

An American jurist, born in Philippi, Putnam County, New York, July 31st, 1763, died in New York, December 12th, 1847. His grandfather, the Rev. Elisha Kent, whose family was early established at Suffolk, Connecticut, became in 1740 the Presbyterian clergyman of Philippi. His father, Moses Kent, Esq., was a lawyer, and for some years Surrogate of Rensselaer County. His maternal grandfather was Dr. Uriah Rogers, whose wife was Hannah Lockwood.

James Kent graduated at Yale College in 1781, studied law, was admitted in 1785 as an attorney, and in 1787 as a counsellor, and commenced the practice of his profession in Poughkeepsie. He soon became remarkable for his legal learning and literary attainments. Mr. Kent became an active and leading federalist, attracting the notice and confidence of Hamilton and Jay. He served in the legislature of New York. Gov. Jay nominated him in 1798 a Judge of the Supreme Court of New York. He was Chief Justice from 1804 to 1814; in the latter year he was appointed Chancellor. "His Commentaries on American Law" have passed through many editions, and have acquired a world-wide celebrity. The work has assumed in the United States the position long held in England by Blackstone's "Commentaries on the Laws of England." (Extracts from Am'n Cyclopædia, vol. ix., pp. 794–796.)

Copied in U. S. Pension Office, by F. A. H. The above, put in evidence to show that Betsey Lockwood, called also Elizabeth, was entitled to a pension, being widow of Charles Lockwood.

Abram Clock, of Darien, Fairfield County, Conn., born April 13th, 1792, testified in Court, at Stamford, September 28th, 1848, that the abovenamed Charles and Elizabeth (Waterbury) Lockwood "had other children with whom he was acquainted," viz:

5. Mary Ann Lockwood.
6. Nancy Lockwood.
7. Phineas Lockwood.
8. David Lockwood.
9. Jared Lockwood.

Before Judge William T. Minor, who has since been Governor of Connecticut. (U. S. Pension Office Records, F. A. H.)

Charles Lockwood, born May 8th, 1766, died September 13th, 1834, or August 23d, 1834.

I find two dates among the papers, I think August 23d, 1834, is correct.

Being quite young, he was accepted in the Town Guards, of Greenwich, Conn.; enlisted for nine months, in 1782, under Capt. Henry Waring, of said Greenwich. Charles Knapp was sergeant; Oliver Ferris was quarter-master; John Hensted was steward, and dealt out the rations. His enlistment expired about Christmas; was then discharged. He again enlisted, joined regiment under Gen. David Waterbury; went to Morrisania and as far as Mamomonk, where we were ordered to return.

COUNTY OF NEW YORK, CITY OF NEW YORK, } ss.
STATE OF NEW YORK,

Know all men, that David Lockwood, of said city, personally appeared and said: That on the 12th day of July, 1848, I called on the pastor of the Methodist Society, at Rhinebeck, in this State, and by him was instructed to call on Mrs. Garretson, widow of the late Freeborn Garretson, the minister who married Charles Lockwood to Betsey Waterbury (now the widow of said Charles Lockwood); that she (Mrs. Garretson) informed me that she was the sister of the late Chancellor Livingston of this State; that her husband was a minister of the Methodist persuasion, that she is now (96) ninety-six years of age, and resides at Rhinebeck, aforesaid.

David Lockwoode

Sworn to before me this 13th July, 1848.

The name of Minor was first borne by Henry the miner, who lived in the reign of Edward III., of England, at Mendippe Hills, Somersetshire, England, and died A.D. 1359. The name was given by the King with a coat of arms, thus honoring his trade or occupation by making it a surname, in acknowledgment of his loyal service and prompt efficiency in furnishing him an escort, as he embarked on that famous invasion of France, in which he won the battle of Crecy, against so great odds.

Hon. Simeon Hinman Minor, born in 1777, at Woodbury, Connecticut. He descended from the above-named Henry, who died in 1359, through that Thomas Minor, born at Chew Magna, England, April 23d, 1608, and came to New England in 1630. He settled in Stamford, Connecticut, in 1831, was admitted to the bar, and resided there until his death, August 2d, 1840. He held a prominent position at the Fairfield County bar.

The Stamford Advocate, printed at the time of his death, paid a high tribute to his professional ability:

"Possessed of a strong mind, and sound, legal judgment, no member of the Bar commanded a larger share of practice, until his health began to fail him, than he. For fourteen years he discharged the duties of the office of State's Attorney.

"He represented his town six sessions of the Legislature, and was Judge of Probate several years. In the discharge of all his official duties, he was prompt and efficient." (Stamford Advocate, August, 1840; Stamford Register; Hy. Stamford, pp. 370, 371; Hy. Woodbury, p. 1443.)

OBITUARY.

Hon. Samuel Drake Lockwood was born in Poundridge, Westchester County, N. Y., on the 2d day of August, 1789.

When he was ten years old his father died, and his mother was left with three young children and with but slender means for their support. By this event his plans for a liberal education were broken up and he was thrown very much upon his own resources.

In 1803 he went to Waterford, N. Y., to live with his uncle Francis Drake, a lawyer in that place, and remained in his family as errand boy and law student until February, 1811, when he was licensed to practice law, and opened an office in Batavia, N. Y. The next year he removed to Auburn, and continued in the practice of law there till the fall of 1818, holding during a part of that time the office of Master in Chancery. At that time his constitution (never very strong) seemed so broken down by disease and constant application to business that his physician advised him to give up his profession and engage in some out-door employment, as the only way of regaining even his former degree of health.

This advice, together with the glowing accounts of the great "far west" then prevalent, induced him to change his residence and seek his future home in the new State of Illinois. On October 19th of that year, in company with the late William H. Brown and others, he started on his western trip.

At Olean Point, N. Y., they purchased a flat boat, on which they floated down the Allegheny and Ohio rivers to Shawneetown, reaching that place on December 15th, and making the trip in fifty-seven days.

After remaining a few days in Shawneetown, Lockwood and Brown started for Kaskaskia on foot, a walk of 120 miles. The next year Mr. Brown was appointed Clerk of the United States District Court, and their arrangement for a law partnership being thus broken up, Mr. Lockwood removed to Carmi as a more favorable point for the practice of his profession.

At the second session of the Illinois Legislature, which was held at Vandalia in 1821, Mr. Lockwood was elected Attorney-General of the State, and his acceptance of this office rendering another change of residence necessary, he chose Edwardsville for his future home.

In 1823 he was, very unexpectedly to himself, nominated by Governor Cole to the office of Secretary of State, but soon after accepting that office he was greatly surprised by receiving from President Monroe a commission appointing him receiver of public moneys at the land office in Edwardsville. This commission was, in itself, as undesired as it was unsought, the salary of Secretary of State was small and payable in depreciated currency, while the salary of receiver was liberal and payable in gold, and had attached to it a percentage on receipts. These considerations induced him to resign the office of Secretary and accept that of receiver.

At the next session of the State Legislature, 1824–5, he was, against his expressed wishes, elected Judge of the Supreme Court, which office he accepted and held until the State Constitution of 1848 went into operation, under which new judges were elected by the people.

In 1826 he was married to Miss Mary Virginia Nash, of St. Louis County, Mo., the amiable and excellent wife that now mourns for him, and whom we have so long loved and admired.

In 1829 he removed from Edwardsville to Jacksonville—in 1853 from that place to Batavia, Kane County, where he died. He was sent from Morgan County as delegate to the Constitutional Convention of 1848, and in that convention was chairman of the committee on the executive.

In 1851 he was appointed by the Legislature trustee of the land department of the Illinois Central Railroad, which office he held at the time of his death.

The position which he has held in the history of our State is indicated by the offices which have been conferred upon him. Having a natural distaste for everything like office-seeking, and never putting himself forward for any official position, he has still been kept in offices of high position and trust for over fifty years.

In the anti-slavery controversy over the question of a State convention in 1823, he took an active part and contributed materially to the support and editorial efficiency of the Edwardsville Spectator, one of the two papers that took decided ground for freedom in this State.

Though never an active partisan, he was fully identified with the Whig party till 1855, when he with most of that party helped to form the Republican party. Many of the offices he has held were conferred upon him by administrations with which he was not in political sympathy.

In Gov. Ford's History of Illinois are found the following notices of Judge Lockwood: In 1820 was fought the first and last duel in Illinois. One of the parties fell mortally wounded, the other was tried and convicted of murder and suffered the extreme penalty of the law by hanging. Judge Lockwood was then the Attorney of the State and prosecuted in the case. To his talents and success as a prosecutor, the people are indebted for this early precedent and example which did more than is generally known to prevent the barbarous practice of duelling from being introduced into the State.

In 1826–7 Judges Lockwood and Smith presented to the Legislature a revision of the laws of the State, prepared by them in accordance with the instructions of the preceding Legislature, and these laws have been standard laws in every revision since.

In his chapter on a somewhat bitter controversy that occurred between the executive and judicial departments of the State in 1840, Gov. Ford says: "It is due to truth to say that Judges Wilson and Lockwood were in every respect amiable and accomplished gentlemen, and commanded the esteem and respect of all good men for the purity of their conduct and their probity in official station."

Judge Lockwood was an excellent lawyer, a man of sound judgment, and his face indicated uncommon purity, modesty and intelligence, together with energy and strong determination. His face was the true index of his character. Any account of Judge Lockwood's services to the State which should fail to notice his connection with its educational, benevolent and religious interests, would come far short of doing him justice. As early as his residence in Auburn, he was so identified with the religious interest there as to be appointed one of the trustees of the Presbyterian Church.

In 1815 was formed the Cayuga County Bible Society, the first organized in the State of New York, two years before the organization of the American Bible Society, and Judge Lockwood's name appears as one of the originators and directors of that organization. Of the twenty-four first directors of that society, he was the last survivor. The stand he thus took, as indicated by these incidents, he maintained through life.

Judge Lockwood, with others, started in this State the movement which resulted in the establishment of the Illinois College. His influence and liberality secured its location in Jacksonville, and while able to attend to the duties he held the position of president of its board of trustees.

He took an active part in planning and organizing each of the three State institutions now located in Jacksonville, the Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb, the Blind and the Insane, and was on the first board of trustees of each of those institutions. And in every place where he has resided in the State his influence has been a strong, steady and reliable power for good, always on the side of freedom, temperance, morality and Christianity.

For the last twenty-one years Judge Lockwood has had his residence in Batavia, in an honored old age enjoying his quiet home on the pleasant bank of our river, and rejoicing in everything that tended to advance the material or moral prosperity of the State he had loved so long and served so faithfully. On the 23d of April, 1874, he passed away from us in a death as quiet and peaceful as his life with us has been.

Hon. Samuel Drake Lockwood.

From the letters of Governor Ninian Edwards, of Illinois, we learn that Judge Samuel D. Lockwood was proposed for United States Senator from Illinois, in 1822, and in a letter from Governor Edwards, dated September 17th, 1822, he speaks in the highest terms of Judge Lockwood, "whom he esteems very highly." And on December 8th, 1822, John Reynolds also alludes to him in a published letter, saying, "Some members want Lockwood to offer for Senator. I want to harmonize with Lockwood and his friends." There are also a number of other references in the book, giving the details of the fight for United States Senator, and alluding to Judge Lockwood. Alsop was married November 22d, 1836, to Mary E. Reynolds, daughter of Gideon Reynolds, of Cross River, N. Y. When about 21 years of age he engaged in the mercantile business at Poundridge, which he continued until about the year 1853. He took considerable interest in military matters, and was Colonel of the 38th Regiment Infantry (N. Y. State Militia), receiving his commission from Governor William L. Marcy in 1836. He was also Supervisor of Poundridge, 1844–1853 and 1856–1868. In the fall of 1852 he was elected Sheriff of Westchester County, which office he held three years. At the termination of his service as Sheriff, he settled upon the old homestead at Poundridge, having acquired the same from the other heirs of his father and having retired from business as a merchant. In 1864 and 1865 he was elected to the State Legislature from Westchester County, serving two terms. With the Hon. William N. Robertson he was also a Commissioner, representing Westchester County, in the construction of the bridge over the Harlem River, at the terminus of Third Avenue; it being the first iron bridge erected across the Harlem River.

In 1871 he sold the old Lockwood homestead, which had been in the possession of his family since the first settlement of Poundridge—early in the eighteenth century.

Alsop died in New York City December 8th, 1874, and was buried in the White Plains Rural Cemetery.

John Lockwood was born December 3d, 1814, at Ballston Spa, Saratoga County, State of New York. He was the son of Stephen and Catharine (Groshon) Lockwood and grandson of Solomon Lockwood, who with his son Stephen emigrated from Greenwich or Horseneck, Conn., settling down in Ballston Spa.

The subject of this sketch spent his minority at the place of his birth and at Troy, in Rensselaer County. In 1844, he removed to Cincinnati, O., and soon thereafter engaged in the business of erecting gas works for the purpose of lighting up cities and towns with gas, making his headquarters at Cincinnati until the year 1852, when he removed to Milwaukee, Wis., for the purpose of erecting gas works, and becoming pleased with the location and beauty of the place, decided to locate there, and investing largely in real estate, soon became interested in the welfare of the State, taking quite a prominent part in politics. He was elected in 1859 as a member of the Common Council, during his term he became satisfied that peculation was being carried on by city officials; he asked for a Committee of Investigation, and as its chairman succeeded in getting some twenty indictments for forgery, and embezzlement against the city comptroller and city clerk, placing them both in prison. He was a member of the State Central Committee, a member of the Congressional Committee, President of the Farmers and Millers' Bank, of Milwaukee, and in 1861 was appointed postmaster of Milwaukee, by President Lincoln. He was a director in the Milwaukee & Prairie Du Chien Railroad Co., and was contractor for the building or extension of the same road from Madison to Prairie du Chien, a distance of 100 miles, costing some $2,500,000. He also organized and was President of the St. Croix and Lake Superior Railroad Co., with a land grant of about 2,000,000 acres of land belonging to it. He located the line, starting from the City of Hudson on Lake St. Croix, thence to Bayfield and Superior City, put the line under contract just in time for the panic of 1857 to arrest its progress. Was a Congressional delegate for the organization of the Texas & Pacific Railroad.

As a gas and hydraulic engineer, his business has necessarily carried him to many parts of the country, as the following list of works he has erected will show:

Frankfort, Ky.; Dayton, O.; Columbus, O.; Zanesville, O.; Sandusky, O.; Chilicothe, O.; Newport, R. I.; Dallas, Tex.; New Albany, Ind.; Madison, Ind.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Janesville, Wis.; Milwaukee South Side, Wis.; West Troy, N. Y.; Jefferson City, N. O., La.; Fort Worth, Tex.; Steubenville, O.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Kings County, N. Y.; Staten Island.

He is now engaged in the City of New York, at a plan for the introduction of salt water for fire and sanitary purposes; a few extracts from the New York Herald will give somewhat of an idea of it.

FROM THE NEW YORK HERALD.

How to fight flames, a ponderous scheme for the protection of property. Fire engines displaced. The water comes from a tank 350 feet above the ground. The recent disastrous fires that have occurred in this city have drawn the attention of the Board of Underwriters more closely to the question of the extinction of conflagrations by some more efficient means than at present in use. But the cost of the present system in the inability to cope successfully with large conflagrations, the consequent loss of millions of dollars, and the waste of water, rendered a new plan necessary. At last a plan has been projected which it is thought will obviate the defects of the present system for extinguishing fires.

Its originator, a hydraulic engineer (John Lockwood, Esq.), has given the subject many years' study, and has at last perfected a system which he claims is infinitely better than the present one. The specifications and plans are accompanied by a certificate from the civil engineer, Mr. J. McAlpin, the most eminent in his profession of any in the United States, who says the scheme is the best that can be devised. The details of the work to be done are on such a gigantic scale that one not acquainted with engineering would condemn them at first sight. But every item has been carefully figured out by an expert mathematician and the work declared to be easy of accomplishment. The first requisite of the project is a tower situated in the vicinity of Union Square, 100 feet in diameter and 350 feet in height above tide water. This tower is to support a reservoir containing 2,000,000 gallons of water, to be kept full by means of large pumping apparatus, three in number and equal to 1750 horse-power. The plan contemplates 4000 fire hydrants and 100 miles of pipe, distinct and separate from the present Croton system, 272 streams of three inches in diameter can be brought to bear on any fire, with hose not exceeding 1000 feet in length, the motive force of the jet of water from the ends of the hose will be simply the tremendous impetus given to the water by its vertical fall of over 300 feet in the reservoir tower. The weight of the tower of masonry and of the iron reservoir when full of water and the floors and roof, will be about 20,000 tons.

Mr. Lockwood has never sought or desired public office, but has been active for the general good, and served in the following positions:

In 1864, as an active member of the Committee on Labor, Income, and Revenue, of the "Great Central Fair," for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission during the Rebellion. This Committee raised $247,500 of the $1,010,976.88 contributed. (The Great Central Fair, C. J. Stillé, 1864.)

One of the Committee of Fifty appointed at a mass meeting, held at Independence Hall, Philada., on March 16th, 1874, "to raise sufficient money to erect the Centennial Buildings." (Phila. newspapers, March 17th, 1874.)

One of the six representatives from Pennsylvania to the Fifth Avenue Conference of Republicans, held in 1876, and presided over by Ex-President Woolsey, "of those who desired to bring about reformation in national affairs," and among his colleagues were the late William Welsh and Henry Armitt Brown.

Chairman of the Committee on Membership of the Union League of Philadelphia, during 1876 (Centennial Year), 1877, and 1878. (Union League Reports, 1876, 1877, 1878.)

Originated the movement in the Union League, in March, 1877, to sustain President Hayes when the U. S. Senate hesitated about confirming Messrs. Evarts and Schurz as members of his Cabinet.

Member of the Committee of Twelve, composed of members of all parties, formed by the late William Welsh, in February, 1877, "to assist the proper authorities of the city of Philadelphia, in protecting the ballot-box from frauds, and to aid in securing the conviction of every person who may attempt to perpetrate such frauds." At this election the Mayor was a Republican and candidate for re-election, and the Sheriff a Democrat, and both had officers at the polls and a collision was feared. Mr. Welsh and Mr. Lockwood were the sub-committee that looked after the notorious Fourth Ward on this occasion, where most of the disturbances were expected.

One of the Committee of Six appointed to take charge of President and Mrs. Hayes, and his Cabinet and their families, during their three days' visit to Philadelphia, in 1877, and subsequently, a member of the Committee of Five that waited upon President Hayes, and presented the name of Hon. John Welsh, as Minister to England, which appointment was made shortly afterwards.

Chairman of the Committee of Citizens opposed to the erection of open iron bridges over the streets crossed by the then new elevated branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Broad Street, and in favor of brick arches. (Pamphlet of remarks before Committees of Councils, September 12th, 1879.)

Issued the call for a meeting of citizens of Philadelphia to form a "Committee of One Hundred," in November, 1880, which meeting was held at his office. Was the founder of that committee and Vice-Chairman of the Executive Committee, Chairman of the Committee on Nominations, and a member of the sub-committees which investigated and exposed the frauds in the Almshouse, Gas Trust, and Tax Office. Also Chairman of the committee which represented the Committee of One Hundred before the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and secured the passage of six of the eight reform bills affecting the city of Philadelphia, and is now Chairman of the Committee on the Annual Reunions of the Survivors of the Committee (1888). (History of the Committee of One Hundred, G. M. Vickers. History of Philadelphia, Scharf & Westcott, vol. 3, p. 2006; vol. 1, pp. 838, 849, 850, 852 C. History of Philadelphia, Allinson & Penrose, p. 262. Also Ledger, Times, Press, Evening Telegraph, Inquirer, Star, and other newspapers, from November 15th and 27th, 1880, continuously for several years.)

A member of John C. Bullitt's Committee to prepare "An Act for the better government of the city of Philadelphia" (known as the Bullitt Bill), which draft, after various amendments, was passed by the Legislature of Pennsylvania in 1885, and took effect in 1887, and under which Philadelphia is now governed. (Philadelphia from 1681 to 1887, Allinson & Penrose, p. 267.)

Chairman of the General Mortgage Bondholders Committee of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad during the reorganization proceedings. (See Philadelphia papers, 1885, 1886, 1887, and printed paper-book, Robinson vs. Philadelphia & R. R.R. Co., U. S. C. C.)

One of the compilers of the Lockwood Genealogy and Colonial and Revolutionary History in 1887–1888.

THE REV. HENRY LOCKWOOD (MISSIONARY),

Who was among the last of those who received the rite of confirmation from the hands of the great Bishop Hobart shortly before his death, was encouraged by Doctor, afterward Bishop, Whitehouse to become a clergyman. "In 1831, under the direction and encouragement of Bishop Whitehouse, he entered the General Theological Seminary in New York. It was during his three years' course here, and particularly near the close of it, that his mind became strongly influenced on the subject of the claims of foreign missions. It was a subject in which many of the students felt a considerable interest, and it was increased by an association which they formed among themselves for gaining missionary information and zeal." (Bishop Smith, in Churchman, February 14th, 1880.)

The Right Rev. William Bacon Stevens, D.D., of Pennsylvania, wrote an article which is published in the History of the Episcopal Church, pp. 245 and 471, as Monograph IV., in which he alludes to the fact that on the 14th of July, 1834, the Rev. Henry Lockwood was appointed Missionary to China, and the following February the Rev. F. R. Hanson was associated with Mr. Lockwood in this work, and quotes the following remarks of Bishop White, of Pennsylvania, in addressing Rev. Messrs. Hanson and Lockwood, the first missionaries of the Episcopal Church in China in 1835, when he said:

"In the tie which binds you to the Episcopal Church, there is nothing which places you in the attitude of hostility to men of any other Christian denomination, and much which should unite you in affection to those occupied in the same cause with yourself," etc. (Bishop Perry's Hy. of the American Ep. Ch., pp. 245 and 471.)

John Caleb Lockwood, son of John Lockwood and Priscilla (Blackiston) his wife, grandson of Richard Lockwood and Margaret (Jackson) his wife, was born in Kent County, Del., August 25th, 1811.

While in his infancy his father died, leaving his mother with a large family and limited means. By strict economy she managed to provide for their real necessities and gave her children the benefits of a common school education. After an apprenticeship of six years in a village store, he pursued the mercantile business, first in Middletown, Del., during which time he was married June 1st, 1835, to Susanna Wilson Mitchell, of Philadelphia, Pa. Removing west in 1842, he continued the same business in Illinois and Iowa. In 1854 he was elected from Louisa County as a representative in the Legislature of Iowa, on the "Anti-Nebraska" ticket as opposed to the extension of slavery in the Territories. In 1855 he was elected by the State to the office of Register of the Desmoines River Improvement.

In 1862 he enlisted in the Union army as quarter-master of the 30th Regiment, Iowa Volunteer Infantry, and with his son Edwin J., of the 11th Iowa, served through to close of the rebellion (was with Sherman's army on his grand march to the sea), and the "boys" of his regiment bear testimony of having received the benefit of their "savings money," by the issue to them of luxuries, sanitaries, etc., not furnished in government rations. His first wife died during his absence in the army, January 26th, 1864; his second marriage was with Mrs. Nancy A. Coburn, at Burlington, Ia., December 5th, 1867, with whom he settled in Kirkwood, Ill.

He united with the M. E. Church in 1829, and served it in various official capacities over forty years.

CAPT. ISAAC LOCKWOOD HOYT.

The son of Thaddeus, Jr., and Rebecca (Lockwood) Hoyt, named for his maternal grandfather, Capt. Isaac Lockwood, a leading man in the town of Stamford, Connecticut, was born in that part of the town which has since been incorporated as Darien. On the breaking out of the late war he cheerfully entered the Union service, though at great personal sacrifice.

In his first term of service (three months) he won for himself the love and confidence of the entire company. Though not in command, it is not too much to say that he was the man in the company to whom they had cause to look for advice and help; and under whom they would gladly trust themselves, if the country should again call them to the field.

He accepted the command of a company in the 10th Connecticut Regiment, was in the famous Burnside expedition into North Carolina. But he was not long to command his company. The local fever seized upon his healthy frame and he was forced to yield. His death occurred on board the New Brunswick, at Newbern, North Carolina, March 20th, 1862. He was buried in the pleasant cemetery at Darien, Connecticut.

This patriot son of Stamford went to his grave amid the sincerest tokens of sorrow which a grateful people could pay to his honored and cherished memory. (Extracts from His'y Stamford, Conn., pp. 397 and 398.)

was a man whose whole heart and best endeavors were given to the building up of Christ's kingdom. Wherever he chanced to be, he labored to establish mission-schools, and to make the most of the Sunday-school, for he loved little children. He was one of the pioneers in the starting of mission-schools in the "Five Points" of New York, when that famous plague spot was a terror to the city, and when a respectable man took his life in his hand when he entered its precincts. But although we that loved him used to be terror-stricken when he went alone and unarmed about his Master's work in that terrible place, he never knew what fear was. His life was threatened over and over again, but he never flinched nor feared. (His daughter's letter, March, 1888.)

Le Grand Lockwood.

An address was delivered at his funeral in the South Reformed Church, on Tuesday, February 27th, 1872, by the Rev. E. P. Rogers, D.D. A feeling tribute by his pastor, who had been on intimate terms with the deceased for ten years. He spoke of his great business capacity, his intellectual and poetical tastes, enlarged by extensive foreign travel, and of his crowning qualities as a Christian gentleman, and his great liberality.

This Funeral Address of twelve pages was printed for private circulation, together with the following resolutions of condolence passed by several corporations of which Mr. Lockwood was a member, regretting the loss of so valuable and useful an associate, and extending their sympathies to the family of the deceased in their great bereavement.

New York Stock Exchange,
New York, February, 26th, 1872.

Mrs. Le Grand Lockwood.

Madam,—At the First Session of the New York Stock Exchange, held this day, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the members of the New York Stock Exchange have heard, with unaffected sorrow, of the death of their late associate, Le Grand Lockwood.

Resolved, That by the death of Mr. Lockwood, the Stock Exchange loses one, who, for a quarter of a century, has been prominently identified with its history; and who, by unfaltering integrity, enterprise, and tireless energy, has won for himself a name inferior to none. Generous in his impulses, devoted in his friendships, kindly and charitable in his nature, he gave freely, and in secret. A devoted father and husband, we mourn, with inexpressible sorrow, his death.

Resolved, That we heartily sympathize with the family of the deceased in their great bereavement; and as a tribute of respect for the memory of our late associate, we will hold no session of the Board on the day of his burial.

Resolved, That a copy of these Resolutions be transmitted to the family of the deceased.

With great respect,

B. OGDEN WHITE,

Secretary.

DANBURY AND NORWALK RAILROAD,
DANBURY, CONN., February 27th, 1872.

Resolutions of the Directors of Danbury and Norwalk Railroad Company, on the death of Le Grand Lockwood, Vice-President of the road.

Resolved, That as a Board of Directors, we hereby express our sense of the great loss we have sustained in the death of our associate and Vice-President, Le Grand Lockwood, Esq., both to the interests of the Railroad Company, in a business relation, and also as individuals, as a gentleman of the most engaging social qualities, of the highest integrity and unblemished reputation.

Resolved, That our sympathies are hereby extended to his bereaved family in their great loss, and can only offer to them those consolations which are found by trusting in Him, who does not willingly afflict nor grieve the children of men.

Resolved, That this Board attend the funeral of the deceased in a body, and that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the family of the deceased, as a token of our sorrowful respect, and published in the Norwalk Gazette and Danbury News.

(Attest), H. WILLIAMS,
Secretary.

OFFICE OF PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY,
59 and 61 Wall Street,
NEW YORK, February 28th, 1872.

At a Special Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, held at the Company's office this day, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, in the providence of God, the death of Le Grand Lockwood has deprived us of one of our most valued and esteemed members; and whereas, in the loss thus sustained, our hearts go out in sympathy to the bereaved family, and the many friends who are called to mourn his loss; Therefore,

Resolved, That the character of our deceased associate, marked as it was by so many virtues and so few faults, is a worthy example of conscientious fidelity, pure motives, and generous impulses, both in public and private life.

Resolved, That in the death of such a man the community, as well as private individuals, have suffered the loss of one who, in his daily walk and conversation, gave encouragement to those with whom he associated, and strengthened them in the course of duty and those goodly virtues so manifest in him.

Resolved, That while we, as directors, mourn our loss, and as individuals are filled with sorrow, at this great affliction, we offer our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Resolved, That the foregoing preamble and resolutions be spread on the minutes, and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

(Attest), THEO. T. JOHNSON,
Secretary.

NORWALK, CONNECTICUT, March 2d, 1872.

TO MRS. LE GRAND LOCKWOOD AND FAMILY.

MADAM,—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the New York and Eastern Railway Company, held at their office this day, the following resolution was unanimously passed by the Board, and a vote recorded to send a copy thereof to the family of our deceased friend. In accordance therewith, I hereby transmit to you a copy of said vote.

Resolved, That in the death of Le Grand Lockwood, Esq., late of Norwalk, we recognize and deplore the loss of an eminent citizen, and an excellent man; that it especially becomes us as members of this Board, to express our sincere respect for his memory, and our appreciation of his private character, and of his generous and noble efforts, amongst the most prominent and ardent promoters of the enterprise in which we are engaged.

That we tender to the family of our deceased friend, our earnest sympathy, and our condolence with them in their irreparable loss.

Respectfully yours,

S. E. OLMSTEAD,
President (pro tem.).

ALFRED H. CAMP,
Secretary (pro tem.).

OFFICE OF THE SECOND AVENUE RAILROAD COMPANY, Second Avenue, corner 63d Street,
NEW YORK, March 5th, 1872.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Second Avenue Railroad Company, held this day, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, since our last meeting, Le Grand Lockwood, a member of the Board of Directors of this company, has, in the providence of God, been removed by death; Therefore be it

Resolved, That this Board, in recognition of his great personal worth, and of his faithful services as one of the Directors of this Company, hereby expresses its deep regret and sorrow at this painful event. In all the qualities which enter in the character of the wise and upright man, and which are essential to the able and successful administration of the office of a director in a company like this, Mr. Lockwood was pre-eminently endowed, and by his death this company has sustained a loss which it will be difficult to supply.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered at length in the minutes, published, and a copy thereof sent to his family.

HENRY B. C. WOODS,
Secretary.

Inscription on Her Gravestone.

"Dearest Daughter thou hast left us,
Here thy loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis GOD that hath bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal."

2150[a]. Reuben Lockwood (Robert,[1] Gershom,[2] Abraham,[3] Abraham,[4] William,[5] Benoni[6]), born January 9th, 1783; son of Benoni and Mary (Williams) Lockwood.

"Reuben Lockwood was a resident of St. George, Vt., for nearly sixty years. He was possessed of a well balanced mind and sound judgment. Being scrupulously honest and exact in all his dealings, he had the undivided confidence of all his neighbors, while his quiet and unobtrusive manners, secured the friendship and respect of all who knew him. No man, perhaps, ever did more for the town or was actuated by a more unselfish motive. The town was prompt in acknowledging his virtues, for they often bestowed upon him all the honorable positions which were within the gift of the town. He represented the town at the age of twenty-eight, and was subsequently re-elected nine times; held the office of Lister twenty-five years, and that of Selectman twenty-nine years. Was elected Town Clerk in 1833, and continued in that office twenty-two years; and in 1842 received the appointment of Postmaster which he resigned in 1846. He removed to Irasburgh, Vt., in 1856." (Vol. I. p. 853.)

St. George, Vt., eight miles from Burlington, Vt., was settled in 1784 by persons from Connecticut, and in 1785 Nathan Lockwood and others came there, and in 1813 the town was organized and Reuben Lockwood was a "first selectman." (Vol. I. p. 852.)

John Murray Corse, soldier, born in Pittsburgh, Pa., 27th April, 1835; graduated at United States Military Academy in 1857, but immediately resigned and entered the Albany Law School. As soon as he returned to Iowa, he was nominated by the Democrats for Lieut.-Governor. He entered the United States service as Major of the 6th Iowa Volunteers, in August, 1861; served under Gen. Fremont, and then as Judge-Advocate and Inspector-General on the staff of Gen. Pope, but after the victories of Island No. 10 and Shiloh, preferring actice service, joined his regiment and became its Colonel. He commanded a division at Memphis, and was commissioned a Brigadier-General on 11th August, 1863. He served in the Chattanooga campaign, distinguished himself at Chickamauga, and was wounded at Missionary Ridge. In Sherman's march to the sea he commanded a division of the 15th Corps. When after the evacuation of Atlanta, the Confederates crossed the Chattahoochee and destroyed the railroad, Gen. Corse was ordered from Rome to the relief of Allatoona, where large commissary supplies, guarded by 890 men under Col. Tourtellotte, were threatened by an infantry division of the enemy. Gen. Corse arrived with 1054 troops before the Confederates; but when the latter came up, being greatly superior in numbers, they closely surrounded the position. To the summons of the Confederate General (French) to surrender and avoid a needless effusion of blood, Gen. Corse returned a defiant answer. The Confederates, numbering 4000 or 5000, attacked the fortifications furiously, 5th October, 1864, but were repeatedly driven back. Gen. Sherman, who had despatched a corps to attack the Confederate rear, signalled from Kenesaw Mountain, where he heard the roar of battle, eighteen miles away, for the commander to hold out, as relief was approaching; and when he learned by the sun-telegraph that Corse was in command, he said "He will hold out; I know the man." Gen. Corse's ear and cheek-bone were shot away during the engagement, but he continued to direct his men. At the approach of the relieving force, the assailants retired. Gen. Sherman made the brave defence of Allatoona the subject of a general order, emphasizing the principle in warfare that fortified posts should be defended to the last, without regard to the strength of the attacking force. Corse received the brevet of Major-General, 5th October, 1864. After the war, Gen. Corse was for two years (1867–9) Collector of Internal Revenue, in Chicago, Illinois. He then spent four years in Europe, and on his return engaged in railroad contracting, and built several hundred miles of road in the neighborhood of Chicago. In 1881 he removed to Massachusetts, residing in Boston and in Winchester, where he settled in 1882, after marrying for his second wife a niece of Franklin Pierce. He was a vigorous opponent of Gen. Butler in his political campaigns, and became Chairman of the Executive Committee in the Democratic State Central Committee. On 9th October, 1886, he was appointed postmaster of Boston. 3690. VIOLET LOCKWOOD LOCKWOOD, born January 2d, 1886, in Baltimore, Md.

NOTE.—Mr. Lockwood writes as follows: "I am a veteran of the New York Seventh Regiment, a member of the Union League Club of New York, and Baltimore Cricket Club, also am a Free Mason. Was member of the New York Stock Exchange for a few years; but for the last ten have devoted most of my time to orange and raisin culture in southern California. I accompanied the late Dr. J. J. Hayes, the Arctic explorer, to the Arctic regions in 1869, in the ship Panther."

"Casa Blanco," is the name of Mr. Lockwood's place of residence in southern California. When he purchased the property in 1878, it was bare as the centre of a travelled road; it now has long stretches of bearing orange groves and raisin vineyards. He sent the writer three views of his home estate; they are beautiful as fairy land; his success has been wonderful, and he has a right to feel proud of this high state of cultivation, as every tree, shrub and vine was planted under his personal supervision, and many with his own hands.—EDITOR, 1888.

John L. Lockwood served in the late war as a Captain in the Thirteenth New York Cavalry. The following statement is copied from a war publication:

"The only cavalry that crossed on ice during the war was a detachment of four hundred men of the Thirteenth and Sixteenth New York Cavalry, under command of Major A. P. Green, supported by Major Bosworth, Captains Hatch, Lockwood, Dougherty and Revel, on the night of February 2d, 1865. It was sent to capture Mosby's guerillas, near Leesburg, with orders to swim Goose Creek, where it enters the Potomac, if not otherwise passable. Luckily, the ice was thick, and the detachment crossed in safety. It was said to be the coldest winter in that neighborhood for many a year, and to keep from freezing to death the men continued on the march, with flankers out, stealing snatches of sleep in the saddle."

JOHN WILLIAM LOCKWOOD

sailed from New York January 28th, 1849, in the ship South Carolina, in company with four men for the purpose of gold mining, as per agreement, according to the laws of the State of New York, via Cape Horn for California. They stopped ten days at Rio de Janeiro for supplies, and at the Island of Juan Fernandez for water, arriving at San Francisco, July 3d, 1849, having made the voyage in five months and six days.

As the head of the little organization Mr. Lockwood was requested to dispose of supplies, etc., on hand. He sold one Jersey dirt-wagon, which cost the company in San Francisco, including freight, $60, for $750; one barrel of assorted tin ware, costing less than $10, sold for $240; one barrel cucumber pickles sold by count for 25 cents each, and one keg salaratus, costing 7 cents per pound in New York, for $12 per pound.

A few days after their arrival a party of them chartered a small schooner to take them to the spot where Sacramento City now is, a distance of about 150 miles. It was the first voyage made by the captain and crew, and two weeks' time was consumed in the trip. They landed in a forest, and found themselves several weeks too early for their purpose—surface mining—on account of the swollen condition of the streams. They looked about for work, glad of any by which they could turn time into money.

One of Mr. Lockwood's earliest feats was to dig the first well at Sacramento, and the firm, Gillespie, Jerrold & Co., who employed him in this work, needing a business sign, he, with one of his party who had some knowledge of lettering, undertook to supply the demand. Securing a board from the vessel, and stretching cotton cloth over it, they marked the same with letters, designating firm and business, and thus produced the first sign of any description ever put up in Sacramento. This sign led to another order of the same kind to designate what was then known as Washington Market No. 1, and the non-payment of the charge for this last production was the cause of the first lawsuit—"Lockwood versus Smith"—held in Sacramento. This lawsuit was held under a tree, the day following the election of the first Alcalde, in which Gen. Sabrinsky acted as counsel for Mr. Lockwood. The Alcalde appointed the general's nephew Sheriff to collect the debt, and, proceeding to do so, was ordered off the premises with cleaver and revolver. Being unarmed he retired to return in a short time reinforced by both Gen. Sabrinsky and his father, Doctor Sabrinsky, well armed and ready to carry the point at all risks. Before reaching the market they met Mr. Stout, of the firm of S. Brannen & Co., the original Mormon traders of the place, who placed the matter so forcibly before the debtor's eyes, proving to him so conclusively that his market, in which the inhabitants had promised him support, would be cleaned out and thrown into the river, if this first judgment of the newly elected Alcalde was not complied with, that the gold dust was weighed, handed over to the Sheriff, and the matter amicably settled without bloodshed. An account of this suit was printed in full in a newspaper then published by the Mormons.

Mr. Lockwood carried out his original intention and located at Mormon Island, on North Fork River, where he turned his attention to surface or river mining. Here, with another company of fourteen men, he superintended the digging of a canal, building a dam, thus draining the river dry in the hope of finding large deposits, but failed to do so. He then removed to Beale's Bar, on the American fork of the North Fork River; obliged to abandon the original purpose of mining for trading, when he contracted a low intermittent fever, and, by the advice of his physician, returned to New York in preference to a voyage to the Sandwich Islands.

(Booth) Lockwood.

LIEUT. JAMES BOOTH LOCKWOOD, ARCTIC EXPLORER, SECOND IN COMMAND OF THE GREELEY EXPEDITION, DISCOVERS "LOCKWOOD ISLAND," THE FARTHEST POINT NORTH YET REACHED.

Was a son of Gen. H. H. Lockwood, born at United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., 9th October, 1852, died at Cape Sabine, Arctic regions, 9th April, 1884. Was sent to a private school at Bethlehem, Pa., and later to St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.

Was commissioned 2d Lieutenant in 23d United States Infantry, 1st October, 1873, and served in the West seven years, and became proficient in the ordinary military duties and also in surveying, telegraphy and phonography.

He volunteered for duty with the Lady Franklin Bay Expedition under Greeley; and as second in command, was intrusted with the most important field-work of the expedition, and also assisting in the magnetic observations.

In preliminary sledging he was in the field twenty-two days after the sun had left for the winter, and six days before its return. In March, 1882, Lieut. Lockwood, with a dog-sledge, made a few days' trip across Robeson Channel to Newman Bay, in temperatures ranging from 30° to 55° Fahrenheit below zero.

On 3d April, 1882, he started on the successful journey that fixes his fame as an Arctic explorer. Using a dog-sledge and assisted by eight men, he reached Cape Bryant, on the north Greenland coast, on 1st May, and thence he sent back the man-sledges, and with dog-sledges, accompanied by Sergt. Brainard and the Eskimo Christiansen, started northward. The party reached Cape Britannia on the fifth day's march, and thence-forward travelled along land before unknown, discovering. "Lockwood Island," in latitude 83° 24′ N., longitude 40° 46′ W., the most northerly point on land and sea that ever has been attained by man, which was reached on the 13th of May, and two days were spent in observations, etc.

Fort Conger was again reached on 17th June. In sixty days Lieut. Lockwood travelled 1069 statute miles and experienced temperatures as low as 49° below zero.

His discoveries extended the boundary of known lands 28 miles nearer the north pole, and added 125 miles of entirely new coast-line to Greenland, and the farthest point seen by him on the Arctic Ocean was within 350 miles of the north pole.

In 1882 Lieut. Lockwood crossed Grinnell Land, and in 1883 at Camp Clay, in that terrible winter bore his part bravely.

His remains were brought to the United States by the relief expedition under Capt. W. S. Schley, and buried in the grounds of the Naval Academy. APPENDIX.

Edmund Lockwood, freeman of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, May 18th, 1631. (Records of Mass., vol. 1, p. 366. John Farmer's Gen'l Reg., p. 181.)

Was of Cambridge in 1632. (John Farmer, Gen'l Reg., p. 181.)

November, 9th, 1630.

A Jury impannell for the Tryall of Walter Palmer, concerning the death of Austin Bratcher:

Mr. Edmond Lockwood,	Rich. Morris,
Willm Rockewell,	Willm Balston,
Christopher Conant,	Willm Cheesborgh,
Willm Phelps,	John Page,
Willm Gallard,	John Balshe,
John Hoskins,	Laurence Leach.

The Jury findes Walter Palmer not guilty of manslaughter, whereof hee stoode indicted & soe the Court acquitts him. (Records of Mass., vol. 1, p. 81.)

Mr. Willm Pelham & Mr. Edmond Lockewood hath pmised to pay to the Court the some of V*l.* (five pounds), for Nich. Knopp, before the last Court of May nexte. (Records of Mass., vol. 1, p. 83.)

May 9th, 1632, Mr. Edmond Lockwood was chosen Constable of New Towne for this yeare nexte ensueing and till a newe be chosen. (Records of Mass., vol. 1, p. 96.)

In Paige's History of Cambridge, Mass., 1632, on p. 32, the same eight names are mentioned on p. 8, as being the first eight inhabitants of New Town, and in both lists Mr. Edmund Lockwood's name appears third, i.e., only two before him, viz.: Deputy Governor Dudley and Secretary Bradstreet.

Mass. Col. Rec. i., 95, 96, May 9th, 1632. "Mr. Edmond Lockwood was chosen Constable of New Towne for this yeare next ensuing, and till a newe be chosen." On the same day "It was ordered that there should be two of every plantacon appointed to conferre with the Court about raiseing of a publique stocke." "Mr. Lockwood and Mr. Spencer for Newe Towne," were so appointed.

P. 20. November 3d, 1634. "James Olmstead is chosen Constable for the year following, and till a new be chosen in his room, and presently sworn."*

P. 8. Dr. Holmes says, "the Deputy Governor (Dudley), Secretary Simon Bradstreet, and other principal gentlemen in the spring of 1631, commenced the execution of the plan" (i.e., building New Town). No list of inhabitants is found until after the "Braintree Company" arrived in the summer of 1632, except this memorandum on the title page of the Town Records: "The Towne Book of Newtowne. Inhabitants there—Mr. Tho. Dudley, Esq., Mr. Symon Bradstreet, Mr. Edmond Lockwood, Mr. Daniell Patricke, John Pool, William Spencer, John Kirman, Symon Sackett."†

"But this Book of Records was not commenced until 1632, several months after Dudley and Bradstreet performed their promise "to build houses at the New Town." Whether more than the before named eight persons, and indeed, whether all these resided in the New Town before the end of 1631, I have not found certain proof. The number of inhabitants in that year was doubtless small, yet there were enough able-bodied men to be specially included in an order of Court passed July 26th, 1631, requiring a general training of soldiers in all the plantations."

* "Edmund Lockwood had been appointed Constable by the Court, May 9th, 1632, and John Benjamin, May 29th, 1633; but James Olmstead was the first person elected by the inhabitants to fill that office, which was then of great honor and importance."

† These eight persons laid the foundation of New Town. Edmund Lockwood, having the prefix of "Mr.," was appointed by the General Court Constable of the New Town at its organization May, 1632; and at the same session was selected as one of the two inhabitants of the town "to confer with the Court about raising of a public stock." He died before March, 1635.

P. 20. "Edmund Lockwood had been appointed Constable by the Court, May 9th, 1632, and John Benjamin, May 29th, 1633, but James Olmstead was the first person elected by the inhabitants to fill that office (November 3d, 1634), which was then of great honor and importance." (Paige's History of Cambridge, p. 20.)

May 9th, 1632. Mr. Lockwood & Mr. Spencer of Newe Towne appointed to conferre with the Court about raiseing of a publique stocke. (Records of Mass., vol. 1, p. 95.)

March 3d, 1634–5. It is ordered, that Ruth Lockwood, Widd, shall bring all the writeings that her husband lefte in her hands to John Haynes, Esqr., & Simon Bradstreete, on the third day of the nexte weeke, whoe shall detaine the same in their hands till the nexte Court, when they shall be disposed of to those to whome they belonge. (Records of Mass., vol. 1, p. 134.)

April 7th, 1635. It is refered to the church of Waterton, with the consent of Robte Lockwood, executr of Edmond Lockwood disceased, to dispose of the children and estate of the said Edmond Lockwood, gyven to them, to such psons as they thinke meete, wch if they pforme not within foureteene dayes, it shall be lawfull for the Gounr, John Haynes, Esqr, and Simon Bradstreete, to dispose of the said children & estate as in their discrecon they shall thinke meete, as also to take an accompt of the said Robte Lockwood, and give him a full discharge. (Records of Mass., vol. 1, pp. 143, 144.)

June 2, 1635. In the cause of the children and widdowe of Edward Lockwood, (the elders and other of the church of Waterton being prsent,) and vpon consideracon of the order of Court in Aprill last made in the case, wch was found not to have bene observed, because the estate was not computed and apportioned, it is nowe ordered, with consent of all ptyes, vz*t*: the Church of Waterton, the widd of said Edmond lyveing, and the executr haveing consented to the former order, that the present Gounr and the Secretary shall have power to call pties and witnesses for findeinge out the true estate, and haveing consideracon of the vncertainety of the will, and the debts, and other circumstances, to apporcon the remainder of the estate to the wife and children, according to their best discrecon; and then the Church of Waterton is to dispose of the elder children and their pcons as shal be best for their Christian educacon and the preservacon of their estate.—(Records of Mass. vol. i. p. 151.)

Edmund Lockwood. He died before 3d March, 1634–35. Of his children only one name appears on the record of births, etc., viz.: John, born November, 1632.—(His. of Cambridge, Mass., p. 599, by Rev. Lucius R. Paige.)

In matters of revenue, at least, it was found necessary that the people should have a voice, and hence this provision for a sort of House of Representatives.

Mr. Lockwood and Mr. Spencer for Newton.

May 9, 1632.—(Drake's His. and Antiq. of Boston, p. 139.)

In Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of New England, vol. iii. p. 104, he says: Edmund Lockwood, Cambridge, came probably in the fleet with Winthrop, as he requested, 19th October, 1630, to be made free, when he bears the prefect of respect, and was admitted 18th May following, when the prefix is omitted; was a man of good repute, constable and on the Finance Committee, 1632, for the colony, died 1635, leaving widow Ruth, as reads, Mass., Rec. I. 134, when her name was Elizabeth and children (perhaps more than one), John born November, 1632, though the record calls the parents Edward and Elizabeth, "elder children" by order of court, 2d June, 1635, to be disposed of, leaves no doubt of a former wife. Perhaps the widow was daughter of John Masters, who in his will, 19th December, 1639, leaves a handsome sum to his grandchild, John Lockwood. She married Cary Latham.

Dr. Bond's History of Watertown, Mass., vol. ii. p. 854, also pp. 1003, 1011, 1017, 1022, 1025, 1028, 1037, states "Edmund Lockwood applied to be admitted freeman October, 1630, and was admitted May 18th, 1631. He was foreman of a jury appointed by the court November 9th, 1630, on a trial for murder. He, 'Mr. Lockwood,' was one of the two persons appointed by the court May 9th, 1632, for New Towne to confer with the court about the raising of a publick stock." At the same time he was appointed constable of New Towne. He died previous to March 3d, 1634–5, when his widow Ruth [? Elizabeth] was ordered by the court to place all writings left by her husband in the hands of John Haynes, etc. It is very probable that he was one of those first planters of Watertown who went thither with Sir Richard Saltonstall; that upon the planting of New Towne the next year, either he moved thither, or he had settled so far to the east as to be within the bounds assigned to New Towne, and that he was a brother of Robert Lockwood of Watertown, who was executor of his estate. This supposition is favored by the facts, 1st. That on the 31st March, 1631 (before New Towne was planted), he was a surety for Nicholas Knapp of Watertown. 2dly. On the 7th of March, 1635, the general court referred to the church of Watertown, with the consent of Robert Lockwood, executor of Edmund Lockwood, deceased, to dispose of the elder children of said E. L. and the estate given to them at their discretion. It is probable that he had two wives, the first of whom was the mother of "the elder children" assigned to the care of the Watertown church. His second wife was Elizabeth, daughter of John Masters, of Watertown, by whom he had a son John, born in New Towne, November, 1632. After his decease his widow Elizabeth married Cary Latham, of New Towne, who moved to New London, Conn., and by him she had several children (see Caulkins's Hist. of N. London, pp. 87, 306 and 312; also Geneal. Reg. ii. p. 180; iv. p. 62; also Hist. of Norwalk, Conn., by Edwin Hale, D.D., pp. 184, 203, 218, etc.). It is probable that all of the name of Lockwood in

New England are descended from Robert and Edmund, and there is not much doubt but that there is a misnomer of the widow of Edmund in the Court Records of Massachusetts Bay as printed i. p. 134 and Index.

"Not over three hundred persons were at the" New England plantation when Gov. Winthrop and the Massachusetts Company arrived at Salem June 22d, 1630.

The "Arbella" was named in compliment to Lady Arbella Johnson, and was formerly known as the "Eagle." Four vessels, viz. Arbella, Talbot, Ambrose and Jewell, set out at first, as the rest were not ready, and the "Arbella" was the admiral of the fleet. She was of 350 tons, 28 guns, and had 52 men.

"In this vessel were almost all the principal members of the company with such of their families as accompanied them. The excellent Lady Arbella Johnson, daughter of the Earl of Lincoln (now Duke of New Castle), was on board and her husband Isaac Johnson. There were also Sir Richard Saltonstall and three sons, Rev. George Phillips and wife, Wm. Coddington, afterwards Governor of Rhode Island, Thomas Dudley, Deputy Governor of the Massachusetts Colony, one son and four daughters, Gov. Winthrop and two sons."

The "Arbella" sailed from Southampton on the 2d of March and Cowes on the 29th, 1629–30, and anchored off Yarmouth, and on April 8th the voyage was finally commenced.—(Life and Letters of John Winthrop, by Robert C. Winthrop, 1630–1649, p. 25.)

On July 23d, 1630, a month after the "Arbella" arrived, Gov. Winthrop wrote to his son John as follows: "To my very loving son Mr. John Winthrop, at Groton, in Suffolk.

"My Good Son:

"The blessing of God all sufficient be upon thee ever. Amen."

After stating particulars of the voyage and the death of his son Henry, and giving various instructions, he alludes to Mr. Lockwood who was with him (probably Edmund). "If money be brought to you or your Uncle Downing for Goodman Lockwood, let Mr. Peirce he paid his bill of provisions for him and bring the rest with you."

From J. S. Barry's History of Massachusetts.

"The 'Arbella' was commanded by Capt. Peter Milborne." (p. 186.)

"Some were from the west of England, but the greatest number came from about London." (p. 189.)

"On the 6th day the Arbella came in sight of Cape Anne, and on the following day was near Naumkeag. Discharging two signal guns, a shipp was sent to the Lyon then in the harbor, and five persons came out to them."

"On landing at Salem eighty had died the previous winter; the survivors were wasted by sickness, and had scarce corn and bread enough for a fortnight's supply; and there being no food to spare, the remainder of the body of 180 servants, sent over in 1628 and in 1629, whose transportation had cost the company £16 to £20 each, were liberated." (p. 192.)

"The deaths were many and appalling." "But the loss most deeply felt and which spread unusual gloom of the colony was of the Lady Arbella, wife of Isaac Johnson, Esq., who, coming from a paradise of plenty and pleasure in the family of a noble earl into a wilderness of wants, died at Salem." (p. 194.)

Cotton Mather quaintly but beautifully said, that "She took New England in her way to heaven," and her husband followed her in a month.—(Life and Letters of John Winthrop, p. 46.)

From Savage's "History of New England," vol. i., p. 374:

In Governor John Winthrop's letter to his son John dated Charlton (New England), July 23d, 1630, addressed as follows: "To my very loving son, Mr. John Winthrop, at Groton, in Suffolk. If money be brought to you or your Uncle Downing* for Goodman Lockwood, let Mr. Peirce be paid his bill of provisions for him and bring the rest with you;" and on p. 76,

* Emanuel Downing was of the Inner Temple and related to Winthrop by the marriage of his sister Lucy, and was father of the celebrated Sir George Downing, ambassador both of Cromwell and Charles II. of Holland. (Savage, Hist. N. E., vol. i., p. 59.)

he says: "Prince II. 60, gives from the Colony records, the names of the gentlemen that formed the embryo of a parliament, etc.," and gives Mr. Lockwood as one of them.

In the addenda of Savage's History of New England, vol. ii., he gives "a catalogue of those who in February (1630) desired to come over," which is taken from a manuscript volume of Governor Winthrop's, and "of whom the greater part embarked and arrived." "It is probable the author designed by space between the columns to distinguish the passengers in the several ships, but I cannot detect his distribution perfectly."

Mr. Lockwood is the fifteenth name in the first column, which also contains the names of Governor John Winthrop and Sir Richard Saltonstall.

In the "History of Cambridge," L. R. Paige, p. 599, he says: Edmund Lockwood was among the more prominent of the first company of inhabitants. He was appointed constable by the General Court, May, 1632; and, at the same session, it was "ordered that there should be two of every Plantation, appointed to confer with the Court about raising of a public stock. Mr. Lockwood and Mr. Spencer for New Town," etc.

"It is not improbable that Mr. Lockwood removed to Watertown before his death, or that his widow removed there immediately afterwards, for by an order of court, 7th April, 1635, it is referred to the Church of Watertown, with the consent of Robert Lockwood, executor of Edmund Lockwood, deceased, to dispose of the children and estate of the said Edmund Lockwood (given to them) to such persons as they think meet, etc. Of these children, only one name appears on the record of births, viz., John, born November, 1632."

John Lockwood, Son of Edmund.

John Lockwood died in 1683. "We suppose this person to have been the son of Elizabeth, wife of Cary Latham, by a former husband, Edward Lockwood, and the same whose birth stands on record in Boston, ninth month, 1632. He dwelt on Foxen's Hill, at a place known as the Wheller homestead. In the settlement of the estate, no heir appears but Edmund Lockwood, of Stamford, who is called his brother." Caulkins's History of New London, p. 306, and on p. 87 quotes, "John Lockwood as a new inhabitant in 1654."

Vol. i., p. 181. In early records of Boston and Cambridge, copied from the Antiquarian Journal, by Dr. Pulsifer, it reads thus: "John the sonne of Edward Lockwood and Elizabeth his wife was borne (9°) 1632."

John Lockwood.

In part ii., vol. 7, "The Winthrop Papers," Mass. Historical Society," on p. 232, John Winthrop, Jr., in a letter to John Tinker, dated New London 12th, 11th month, 1659, alludes to having "partly Ingaged John Lockwood to tend the saws," and John Tinker in writing to John Winthrop, Jr., New London, 13′ 120′ 59, says: "John Lockwood, I finde a weake and vncertain fellow and canot trust to him;" and again "John Lockwood is falne of, etc.," and again 12, 1 month 16$\frac{59}{60}$. "I have made a full bargaine now with Jno. Lockwood to abide on the mill and such work as relates to it, for one yeare next after the next weeke, I think on honest terms;" and again 4th and 2 month, 1660, in a letter he says: "I am confirmed again of Jno. Lockwood's attendants at the mill, who is now gon with a purpass there to abide, which if hee doe, I hope things will goe on;" and on 17, 2 month, 60, he again writes: "All is made voyde and worse, by the folly of that simple lad Jno. Lockwood, whoe, through his want of skill and care, did vs soe much loss and spoyle as, all things considered, may be at least 5 li damage, etc."

Will of John Masters, From Records of Suffolk, Mass.

John Masters.

This is the minde and will of me, John Masters.

Item. I give to my wife all my estate for the time of her life and after her decease, I will and bequeathe unto my daughter, Sarah Dobyson, ten pounds.

Item. To my daughter, Lidya Tabor, ten pounds.

Item. To my grandchild, John Lockwood, ten pounds.

Item. To Nathaniel Masters, ten pounds; to Abraham Masters, ten shillings.

Also my minde and will is that the ten pounds I give to John Lockwood, and the ten pounds I give to Nathaniel Masters, shall be layde out upon something that may turn to the encrease of theire portions; furthermore my will is that these leagacyes shall be well and truly discharged within six months after my wives decease; these and all other, my debts beinge discharged I give all the remainder of my estate unto my daughter, Elizabeth Latham."

John Masters died 21st December, 1639, and his wife died five days after him. (N. E. H. and G. Register, vol. 2, p. 180.)

Capt. Richard Lockwood.

Capt. Richard Lockwood, of Kittery and Wells, Maine, appears to have been born about 1632. He was older than any of Robert Lockwood's children, and may have been the son of Edmund Lockwood (Watertown, 1630), who was undoubtedly an older brother of Robert, but no positive evidence of any such male children of Edmund's has been found in the records. Information was recently sought of this Richard Lockwood from the Historical Records of Maine, and the deeds and other records of York County, Maine, were examined, but nothing further than given below has been found. Richard Lockwood may have been connected with the Delaware branch, or may have been the ancestor of some of the Lockwoods in the South who are unable to give their line of descent in its lineal or collateral branches. —Ed.

The following order was made by "the Court holden at York, Maine, in 1667."

"In answer to the petition and declaration of Mr. Francis Morgan, Capt. Richard Lockwood, Ephraim Lynn, and their wives, this Court orders, that from henceforth there shall be a friendly and perfect union between the said persons; but if by any wilful act or acts, by word or deed, done directly or indirectly, tending to the making any breach or breaches of this union among the said persons, and if it do appear whether in the men or wimin, any party so offending shall forfeit £20 to our Sovereign Lord the King, being legally proved against any party herein expressed." (History of Wells and Kennebunk, Maine, by E. E. Bourne, Edition 1875, p. 157.)

Richard Lockwood, Maine, was 40 years old when he gave his evidence in 1672. (Savage, Gen'l Dict'y.)

E. D. LOCKWOOD, ESQ.:

Dear Sir:—I think the above list of (42) forty-two officers of the volunteer service, in the Rebellion, 1861–1865, shows conclusively that the martial spirit and love of country still burns brightly in the Lockwood family.

I was glad when I found I had collected so much, and think the Lockwoods may feel proud of such a record.

Yours truly,

FRED'C A. HOLDEN.

I also send you the Lockwoods, in New Jersey, during the Revolutionary War.

LOCKWOODS IN VERMONT.

Most of the Vermont Lockwoods descended from the Rhode Island branch of the family, and some few of their records are in the genealogy, but we have been unable to definitely connect the lineal descent of the parties named in the following records with their distant ancestors, largely because of the failure to answer repeated letters of enquiry.

"March 12th, 1776, Joseph Lockwood and two others were appointed a committee by the committees assembled at Manchester, Vt., to act with the other committees upon the New Hampshire Grants." (Vermont Historical Gazette, p. 201.)

J. Lockwood was a merchant at Vergennes, Vt., 1808.

Lyman Lockwood and Almira W. Lockwood resided in North Springfield, Vt.

Issue:

Jane, m. Clark Allen; deceased.

Rachel, deceased.

Hial, m. Josephine Hall; resides North Springfield; and others died young. She married 2d, Myron C. Munson.

Clark Allen, resides North Springfield, Vt.; m. 1st, I think, Jane Lockwood, and 2d, Rachel Lockwood, aunt of 1st wife. Perhaps he married 1st, Rachel (daughter of Joshua Lockwood and Lephe Taylor), and 2d, Jane Lockwood (granddaughter of Joshua Lockwood and Lephe Taylor).

Jane Lockwood and Clark Allen.

Issue:

Luna J., resides North Springfield, care Myron C. Munson.

Rachel Lockwood and Clark Allen.

Issue:

A son; died in early infancy.

Hial P. Lockwood and Josephine Hall, of North Springfield, Vt.

Issue:

Six or more; cannot give names of them.

There was an Amos Lockwood, but do not know whose son he was; in fact, know nothing of him.

I frequently observe the name of Lockwood in various papers, and should I again meet with it, will immediately inform you.

Largin Lockwood, we believe, had no children.

Of Lewis Lockwood's family, a daughter, Mrs. Gilman Wetherbee, North Springfield; Col. Lockwood, same place, a bachelor, is a son.

Of James Lockwood's children, write Ira Lockwood, North Springfield, Vt.

Of Enoch's family, address Enoch Lockwood, think, South Reading, Vt.

Timothy and Benoni Lockwood were brothers. Benoni died May 8th, 1884, in North Springfield. Address his son, J. Wesley Lockwood, North Springfield, whose wife, Rachel Ann Ellison, died November 10th, 18—. A deceased son, Cephas Lockwood, married a Glynn woman, of whom mention is made later.

Do not know anything about Timothy Lockwood's family, but am sure he left children.

Varnum Lockwood, of Cavendish, Vt., and Orrin L., were brothers. Varnum's family are somewhere in Maine.

Edmund and William Lockwood were, I believe, half-brothers. Albert H. Lockwood, of Ludlow, Vt., is a son of William.

Those whom we know of in another family were Joshua, who married Lephe Taylor, Mrs. Hiram Stanley, Mrs. Philo Blodgett, Mrs. Joe Glynn, Mrs. Tom Glynn, and Amasa Lockwood, and don't know how many more.

Of these Lockwood girls, Mrs. Hiram Stanley's family, apply to Alpheus Stanley, Spafford, Vt. Of Mrs. Philo Blodgett's family, address her son, Amasa Blodgett, or granddaughter, Mrs. Romaine A. Spafford, all of North Springfield, Vt. Of Mrs. Joe Glynn's family, write her children, Rodrick or Robert Glynn, or Mrs. Cephas Lockwood, North Springfield.

Of Mrs. Tom Glynn's children, write Isaac Glynn, Saxton's River, Vt., Windham County.

Of Amasa Lockwood, who died in fall of 1869, write his daughter, Mrs. Dr. Martin, of North Springfield, Vt.

Joshua Lockwood and Lephe Taylor lived in Norwich, Vt., and afterward in town of Chester, Vt., where both died and are buried in North Springfield Cemetery.

Issue:

1. Jonas, m. 1st, Ellison (know nothing of); 2d, Lockwood; 3d, Garfield.
2. Joshua, m. Calista Stone.
3. Alonzo, m. widow Enoch Lockwood; died July, 1886, at Ticonderoga, N. Y.
4. Lyman, m. Almira Lockwood.
5. Sumner, m. Sarah Blodgett; died 1864–5.
6. Xenophon, born July 3d, 1810, died November 16th, 1831.
7. Augustus, born August 26th, 1812, Springfield, Vt.; m. Lucinda Abigail Wade, November 9th, 1837; 2d, Mrs. Rhoda Thompson, July 29th, 1869; residence, Spafford Post-office, Vt.

8. Parker, died unmarried.
9. Daniel, m. Esther . . . .; resides North Springfield, Vt.
10. Lephe, m. Willard Dutton.
11. Rachel, m. Jerone Herrick.
12. Lenora, m. Abijah Gowan.
13. Lucy, m. Clark Allen.

The above thirteen children are not in their proper order of births, but are well as I can give them, until I shall have communicated with my grandfather Augustus, or aunt Ruth, Mrs. H. H. Whitaker (pronounced Whit-a-ker).

But two of the thirteen are living, namely: Augustus Lockwood, post-office Spafford, Vt., and Daniel Lockwood, at North Springfield, Vt.

Apply to Mrs. Cyrus Walker, Spafford, daughter of Jonas Lockwood, by first wife, Ellison; and to Mrs. Henry M. Church, Spafford, Vt., or to Mrs. Sylvester Winslow, North Springfield, daughters of second wife, formerly a Lockwood. By the third wife, Garfield, believe there were no issue.

Charles H. Lockwood, of Bellows Falls, Vt., is a son of Joshua and Calista Stone.

Francis Lockwood, of North Springfield, is a son of Alonzo and widow Enoch Lockwood.

Hial Lockwood, North Springfield, is a son of Lyman Lockwood and wife, formerly Almira Lockwood; but had better write her, she being now Mrs. Myron C. Munson, of North Springfield.

Sumner had no children.

Address Augustus Lockwood, Spafford (formerly Gassett's Station).

Write Daniel Lockwood, North Springfield.

Lephe L. and Willard Dutton, no children.

The children of Rachel L. and Jerone Herrick, don't know how many or where they are.

Lenora L. and Abijah Gowan had twelve or thirteen children; address Mr. Gowan, Weathersfield, Vt.

Lucy L. and Clark Allen had but one child, who died, breathing but few times. He, Clark Allen, of North Springfield, had by second wife, Jane Lockwood (deceased), a daughter, Luna Allen, who lives with her grandmother, Mrs. Almira Munson, the above. Jane (Lockwood) Allen was a daughter of Lyman Lockwood and wife, Almira Lockwood, Mrs. Munson.

Signed, O. L.

Easton, N. Y., Post-office, Greenwich, N. Y.

Mrs. Rev. Dr. Baldwin, of this city, was Josephine Lockwood.

Possibly you were not the party sending postals to my grandfather. My aunt, Mrs. Whitaker, of Spafford, Vt., in a letter to my mother of few days since, suggested my replying, but failed to send cards or address. Hence I procured the address I have from T. W. Lockwood, of this city, who corresponds with you, answering perhaps the same as though it were from the writer of the cards to grandfather.

Furthermore, I hope you will have no trouble or difficulty locating our family branches on the Lockwood tree, etc., etc.

Respectfully yours,

E. L. S.

SPAFFORD, VT., April 16th, 1888.

MR. HOLDEN, DEAR SIR:

Your card received April 13th, and will try and add a little to your book. My father's name was Joshua Lockwood, and my mother's name was Lepha Taylor. They were both born in Springfield, Vt., and married in Springfield, Vt., I think, although I am not certain, as I don't have the family record to refer to. I have had a family of eleven children, all born in Chester, Vt.; four sons and seven daughters.

The following is a record of their names and date of births:

Frederick Augustus, born August 21st, 1838.
Eli Addison, born October 28th, 1839.
Loradine Abigail, born November 2d, 1840.
Josephine Almira, born March 21st, 1842.
Emlaon Asenath, born August 3d, 1843.
Ruth Adela, born March 12th, 1845.
Arthur Hosea, born February 16th, 1847.
Hamlin Francis, born March 12th, 1850.
Marion Althe, born October 21st, 1852.
Jessie Rosabelle, born December 8th, 1855.
Nellie Imogene, born October 10th, 1857.

I have four grandchildren born Lockwoods.
Ernest, born in Chester, Vt.
Eva Minerva and Ervin Francis, born in Littleton, Mass.
Mabel Florence, born in Chester, Vt.

My children are all married, but I have'nt got the dates of them all, and cannot give correct record of them and will have to omit the marriage record.

DEATHS.

Eli Addison Lockwood, died in Chester, Vt., September 15th, 1860, aged 20 years, 10 months, 18 days.

Josephine Almira Lockwood, wife of J. O. Smith, died in Chester, Vt., June 2d, 1870.

Jessie Rosabell Lockwood, wife of Maurice W. Cook, died in North Springfield, Vt., June 4th, 1883, aged 27 years, 5 months, 26 days.

If these few lines are of any use, you are very welcome, and if not you can throw them in the waste-paper basket.

Yours, respectfully,

May 2d, 1888.

MR. FREDERIC A. HOLDEN.

MY DEAR SIR: Recognizing the importance of cards addressed to my maternal grandfather, Augustus Lockwood, of Spafford, Vt., eliciting information for a proposed Lockwood genealogy, I respond with records, etc., at command, which respectfully are enclosed.

For further particulars, you are referred to the several parties enumerated in the array; and more, could I be of assistance, hesitate not a moment to inform me.

Wishing that success crown your efforts, I am, dear sir,

Truly yours,

E. L. S.

No. 561 Federal Street, Troy, N. Y.

Tradition informs us that the Lockwoods of eastern Vermont emigrated originally from Connecticut; at what date we do not know, but from Fairfax (or Fairfield) County.

The town of Springfield, Windsor County, Vt., some thirty-five or forty years ago, was so well populated with Lockwoods that it was common to state then that every man in the town was a Lockwood, or his wife was a Lockwood, or he was in some manner connected with the Lockwoods—a very prolific race.

Time has changed, the entire old stock having long since passed away, while their families are diversely scattered.

Who the fathers and grandfathers were of most of them, we cannot tell; thus the interlacing threads are lost to us; but perhaps some of those whose names appear are able to give connecting links, and are well versed in the traditions.

Those whose names are most familiar, in the various families, are subjoined:

Samuel (the eldest), Ezekiel, Largin, Lewis, James, Enoch, another lived and died in Woodstock, Vt., another in northern Vermont, Lockwoods of the "old set"—and brothers.

Seymour Lockwood, of Springfield, Vt., is a son, I think, of Samuel. Mrs. Jane Demary and Mrs. William Johnson, both of Spafford, Vt., were Whitcombs, and their mother, Mrs. Whitcomb, now of Springfield, Vt., is a daughter of Samuel, and a sister of Seymour Lockwood.

Of Ezekiel Lockwood's descendants, write to his daughter, Mrs. Almira Munson, of North Springfield, whose first husband was Lyman Lockwood—a grand-uncle Dexter Lockwood, of Springfield, Vt.—son of Elijah, deceased, and grandson of Ezekiel.

NORTH SPRINGFIELD, VT., April 18th, 1888.

As I have just learned of the Lockwood genealogy which is about to be printed, I will send you my name and the names of my family.

My name: Augusta Lockwood, born in Springfield, Vt., October 30th, 1824; m. John D. Ward, May 24th, 1843. John D. Ward, born in Chester, Vt., January 23d, 1818.

Children: Mary A. Ward, born in Springfield, Vt., July 10th, 1845; Julia J. Ward, born in Springfield, Vt., September 26th, 1855.

Deaths: Julia J. Ward died September 28th, 1863, aged 8 years, 2 days; John D. Ward died June 30th, 1884, aged 66 years, 5 months, 7 days. My father was Ezekiel Lockwood.

My mother's maiden name was Sarah Bemis.

Had I known of this in time, I could have given you more about my father's family; but perhaps you may have and will only write their names.

NAMES OF EZEKIEL LOCKWOOD'S FAMILY.

Elijah Lockwood, m. Daphne Taylor, of Springfield, Vt.

Ann Lockwood, m. Henry Harlow, of Springfield, Vt.

Hoyt B. Lockwood, m. Hannah Newhall, of Boston, Mass.

Angeline Lockwood, m. Stephen C. Parker, of Newport, N. H.

Moses Lockwood, m. Esther Glynn, of Chester, Vt.

Dexter B. Lockwood, killed by falling from a tree in Newburyport, Mass., aged 24 years, nearly or quite.

Susan Lockwood, m. Lincoln Lockwood, of Springfield, Vt.

Almira Lockwood, m. Lyman Lockwood, afterwards Myron C. Munson.

Augusta Lockwood, m. John D. Ward.

Jane Lockwood, m. Pliney E. Lockwood, of Springfield, Vt.

Dean Lockwood, m. Selina L. Howard, of Springfield, Vt.

Respectfully, yours,
Signed A. W.
North Springfield, Vt.

MR. HOLDEN: Your card received and will try and answer some of the questions, but am not able to give you a correct answer to them all.

I was married to Lucinda Abagail Wade, in Springfield, Vt., November 9th, 1837; she died November 28th, 1866. I was married July 29th, 1869, to Rhoda Edson, widow of Timothy Thompson, in Weathersfield, Vt. My grandfather's name was Henry Lockwood, and he married Esther Smith. My father's name was Joshua Lockwood, and he married Lepha Taylor. I will give you a record of my father's family as well as I can. I sent you a true record of the births and deaths in my family in the letter I wrote you before, and my children can make out a record for themselves and send it to you if they wish to do so.

Joshua Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., December 15th, 1785.

Lepha Taylor, wife of Joshua Lockwood, was born in Windsor, Vt., September 16th, 1787. Following is a list of children born to Joshua and Lepha Lockwood.

Jonas T. Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., September 4th, 1808.

Xenophen Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., July 3d, 1810.

Augustus Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., August 26th, 1812.

George S. Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., March 24th, 1815.

Lenora Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., October 23d, 1816.

Lyman Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., April 23d, 1819.

Alonzo Lockwood, was born in Norwich, Vt., September 30th, 1821.

Lepha Lockwood, was born in Springfield, Vt., January 26th, 1824.

Parker Lockwood, was born in Chester, Vt., March 19th, 1827.

Rachel Lockwood, was born in Chester, Vt., May 26th, 1828.

Daniel Lockwood, was born in Chester, Vt., June 10th, 1830.

Joshua Lockwood, was born in Chester, Vt., July 2d, 1832.

Lucy Lockwood, was born in Chester, Vt., November 23d, 1835.

Deaths in my Father's Family.

Xenophon Lockwood, died November 16th, 1831.

Joshua Lockwood, died February 27th, 1836.

Parker Lockwood, died March 10th, 1850.

Lenora Lockwood, wife of Abijah Going, died October 23d, 1852.

Lepha Lockwood, wife of Willard Dutton, died October 20th, 1853.

Rachel Lockwood, wife of Jerome W. Herrick, died March 21st, 1861.

Lepha Taylor, wife of Joshua Lockwood, died January 16th, 1863.

Joshua Lockwood, Jr., died June 13th, 1863.

Lucy Lockwood, wife of Robert C. Allen, died November 7th, 1868.

George S. Lockwood, died April 5th, 1867.

Lyman Lockwood, died September 7th, 1870.

Alonzo Lockwood, died July 14th, 1886.

Jonas T. Lockwood, died in Wisconsin, June 16th, 1868.

I have written a true record of my father's family as far as I know. I have not tried to give a record of the marriages, feeling sure I could not do it right.

Hoping this will be useful in your undertaking, I remain yours as ever. Signed,

A. L.,

Spafford, Vermont.

My Dear Sir: I have just learned that my grandmother, Mrs. Augustus Lockwood, of Spafford, Vt., complied with your request, and has forwarded you all records in their possession.

Lephe Taylor, wife of Joshua Lockwood, Sr., died January 16th, 1863, aged 75 years and 4 months.

A son of Benona Lockwood died February 1st, 1863.

Joshua Lockwood, Jr., died June 13th, 1863.

"Rachel, died June 23d, 1863, of diphtheria," is an item recorded in an old diary. Think she was the daughter of Lyman Lockwood and Almira Lockwood, as they had a child of that name who died. Think she cannot be aunt Rachel Lockwood, who married Jerome Herrick.

Daniel Lockwood, I think youngest son of Joshua Lockwood, Sr., and Lephe Taylor; m. Esther A. Holt, October 14th, 1855. Their only child.

Cora N. Lockwood, born July 5th, 1858; m. Fred. W. Landon, May 18th, 1876, and resides in North Springfield, Vt.; has I am sure four children, but never saw her, or any of family.

I met on the street in Springfield, Vt., some two years ago, an elderly man and a stranger to me, who much resembled my grandfather. I asked him if his name was not Lockwood, and he replied it was, and in further conversation I found out he was my granduncle, Daniel Lockwood. I did not tell him who I was. I never saw him before nor since.

I append names in the various families:

Jonas Lockwood and first wife Ellison. Issue: Lorena, m. Cyrus Walker; resided in Spafford. Anise Maria, m. Sylvester Winslow; resided in North Springfield, Vt. Xenophon, m. Clarinda, m. Henry M. Church; resided in Spafford, Vt. Mary, m. Lowell Bemis; resided in Spafford, Vt. Achsah, m. 1st, Almeron Gowing; m. 2d, Mr. Kendall. Lorena (Mrs. Cyrus Walker), was only child by first wife, Ellison. The rest were by second wife. By the third wife, Garfield, no children. First name of one of the three wives was Gracia; presume the second, formerly Gracia Lockwood.

Alonzo Lockwood and Mrs. Josephine Lockwood (widow of Enoch Lockwood). Resided in Ticonderoga, N. Y. He died in July, 1886; she, March, 1888. Issue: Francis, m. Miss Snell; resided in North Springfield, Vt. Abbie, one other, a girl.

Joshua Lockwood and Calista Stone. He died June 13th, 1863; believe she is living. Issue: Charles, resided in Bellows Falls, Vt. Frank, m. Another son. One died young.

Rachel Lockwood and Jerome Herrick. Issue: Anna, m. ; residence unknown. Buried four.

Lenora Lockwood and Abijah Gowing. Issue: Delia, Marcia, born November 1st, 1840; Henry, Amelia, m. Mr. Bemis; Mary, Martha, Horace and others.

It is going on something like twenty-five years since my mother came this way to live, and it is impossible for her to remember the names of her numerous, many cousins, or their residences. Grandfather Augustus, his daughter, Mrs. H. H. Whitaker, or Mrs. Henry M. Church, all of Spafford, are parties for reliable information. Mrs. Myron C. Munson, formerly Almira W. Lockwood, daughter of Ezekiel Lockwood, and widow of Lyman Lockwood, would be well posted, I think.

The old cemetery at North Springfield and other burying-grounds in the vicinity contain most of our Lockwood dead; and for obtaining data it would be a grand place to go, without resorting to the tiresome work of examining seemingly endless town-records.

And again I say, should you desire additional information which I can render, you will gratefully oblige by writing me.

Very truly,
Signed E. L. S.

CAPTAIN ROBERT LOCKWOOD.

Title page. "Church Life in Colonial Maryland, by Rev. Theodore C. Gambrall, A.M. Baltimore: George Lycett, No. 44 Lexington Street, 1885."

The parish of St. James, Herring Creek, was laid out in the year 1694 (O. S.), Anne Arundel County being divided into four parts. It gives names of Councillors and Justices who did the business. It also gives "bounds and limitts." They chose a vestry, viz.:

Hon. Thomas Tench, Esq., Mr. Seth Biggs, Captain William Holland, Mr. James Rigbie, Mr. Nicholas Turrett, Captain Robert Lockwood. These names on page 64.

Subsequently Mr. William Holland and Mr. Abraham Brickhead were elected church wardens. Then follow the iron-clad oaths, the above-named vestry and wardens had to take. (I may state the book I quote from was written by the present rector of St. James's parish, called Herring Creek parish.)

P. 73. In 1701 "The vestry of this parish, taking into their serious consideration with what decorous and good order ye Blessed Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is administered both in their native country and other parts of this province, and out of a pious and godly desire to follow ye good example of their fellow christians and brethren of the church of England, and in obedience to a canon of ye same church; have unanimously voted ye buying of plate to be used at ye offertory and celebration of ye same Sacrament, and for ye purchase thereof subscribed ye severall sumes following:

"Coll. William Holland, £4; Mr. Henry Hall, £3; Mr. Anthony Smyth, £3; Mr. Chris. Vernon, £3; Mr. Seth Biggs, £4; Capt. Robert Lockwood, £3; Mr. Abraham Brickhead, £3; Mathias Clark, £1; Morgan Jones, £1; His Excellency, Governor Blackston, £5; Mr. Henry Robinson, £2; Mr. Richard Harwood, £2. A total of £34 sterling."

P. 74. "The plate at this time (1701) obtained by the fruits of this 'pious and godly desire,' is now (May 1st, 1885), with the loss of one piece, still in use in the parish."

The following conjectures are those of Mr. F. A. Holden, as made in a letter to Mr. E. D. Lockwood.

"Perhaps the above is No. 19," page 37, Lockwood printed book. You see he is called CAPTAIN Robert Lockwood in both quoted places. This title is the only one in all the names mentioned, except William Holland, who is called CAPT. in one place, MR. in another and COLL. in a third place. William Holland was the only vestryman elected warden.

Now I think it more than probable, very possible and almost certainly so, that Capt. Robert Lockwood was called "CAPT." because he came there in a vessel, perhaps his own, doubtless master.

Argument: After going down to "my Maryland," "paddling his own canoe" and becoming a settler there, he went back to the land of Nutmegs, and "transferred lands with his brother Joseph in 1699." (See Lockwood Genealogy, p. 38.)

He returned to Anne Arundel County, Md., very soon, for we find him in 1701 subscribing for the sacred vessels with which to celebrate the Holy Communion £3, a little more than the average amount of the 12 contributors, including the governors. I tell you he had a vessel! and I seem to see him slowly plowing the salt water, from Long Island Sound to Chesapeake Bay. He did a coastwise business, as they did in those days all along the shores of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, with Albany, Hartford, Baltimore, Alexandria, Va., and the opposite side of the bay. And 12 years later he is at Fairfield, making another "transfer" with Joseph Lockwood, Jr., his brother.

Again, Richard, another and younger brother, went to Maryland "about A.D. 1700, and settled in Worcester County." (See Descendants of Robert Lockwood, pp. 38, 39.)

The occurrences referred to, happened almost 200 years ago. The actors are dead. I was not present with them, but there are certain things that we can feel are correct, without being eyewitnesses. I keep no copies of the letters and memoranda I send you, but I see by reference to p. 38 Lockwood, that John Lockwood (a fourth brother now mentioned, all sons of Joseph Lockwood, and grandsons of Robert Lockwood, who was born close to 1600 A.D.), was an Episcopalian and he asked the Genl. Court of Conn. to excuse him from paying "any discenting minister" or towards building "any discenting meeting house."

The non-conformists always spoke of their places of worship as "meeting houses." And churchmen gladly availed themselves of their phraseology.

If Robert went to Anne Arundel, and became a vestryman, and if he were married and had a family, he would be very likely to record their births, etc., in the parish register where he was an officer. That is the reason we find nothing more about him in Fairfield, in my humble opinion.

He was named Robert in honor of his grandfather. His father JOSEPH, after naming his first son for HIMSELF, called his second son for HIS honored father, who died six years before JOSEPH became a freeman.

Yours, truly,

FREDERIC A. HOLDEN.

"COLONEL MACGREGOR and CAPTAIN LOCKWOOD, in a journey across Khuzistan and Baluchistan to India, made the following interesting discoveries. They passed within 40 miles of an active, snow-capped volcano, lying south of Sistan. It is the Kuh Taftan, mentioned from hearsay by Major Lovett, which is situated in the unexplored Sarhad mountains, north of Bampur and extending to the Afghan boundary. Their report confirms the existence of a great mountain range running westward of Lake Sistan, and they observed three lesser ranges parallel with the southern bend of the Helmund. The strange fact was noticed that the three rivers, the Mashkid, Lura, and Budur, become lost in depressions in the desert, called hamuns, and do not unite with one another, nor have any connection with the great Sistan swamp."

Rufus A. Lockwood, his Strange Career and Tragic End—Changes his Name—Rash Enlistment as a Common Soldier—A Longshoreman in San Francisco—A Lawyer's Janitor at Ten Dollars per Day—Leading the San Francisco Bar—Sudden Departure for Australia—Herding Sheep as a Penance for Sins—Return to this Country—Before the United States Supreme Court—A Picture by Hon. Newton Booth.

"Who is Lockwood?" inquired the banker Palmer of General McDougall and Judge Hastings, at San Jose, in 1851. The Legislature was then sitting in that town, and the great firm of Palmer, Cook & Co. was seriously concerned with the business of the session. Mr. Palmer was on hand—an influential member of the Third House. His firm being, either by ownership or claim, interested in a large slice of San Francisco, and being involved in heavy lawsuits, which called for the aid of the ablest counsel, Mr. Palmer, one night in his room, in the course of a conversation with his two visitors above named, handed to each a marginal slip from a newspaper, with the request that they would write the name of the man who was, in their opinion, the best land-lawyer who had nailed his shingle to the Golden Gate. Both general and judge, distinguished at the bar, wrote at once the name Lockwood.

"Who is Lockwood?" asked the banker, for both banker and lawyer were newcomers. "He is the man you want," they assured him. So he was, and so they found him to be.

"Who was Lockwood?" A quarter of a century has elapsed since he lay down to his final rest—upon the ocean's bed.

His life was stranger than fiction. Born under an evil star, with a noble nature to be ever thwarted, a powerful intellect to be ever set on fire by the fever of his blood, it was his destiny to wander over earth and ocean, pursued as it were by some fiend of darkness, from the outset of his career to that supreme hour when the waters of the Atlantic closed over his body, to bring, let us hope, a calm to his storm-swept soul.

On the steamship Central America, in the fall of 1857, his troubled life was ended. He was going from San Francisco to New York. A friend who knew his misfortune and who believed the proposed trip to the East was suggested by eccentricity, rather than by the demands of business or health, urged him not to go. "I will stay if you insist," he answered, "but I feel that I shall go mad if I do." He went. When the tempest was toying with the vessel, and the passengers were at the pumps, he, after doing duty some time, stopped and went up to the cabin. An officer ordered him back. He replied: "Sir, I will work no more." He died as he had lived, an enigma. Entering his state-room he closed his door upon the scene, shut his eyes upon the light of life, and went down with the wreck.

The true name of Rufus A. Lockwood was Jonathan A. Jessup. Lockwood was his mother's family name. He was born in Stamford, Connecticut, in 1811. At eighteen he entered Yale College. For about one year he was diligent in his studies and advanced rapidly. Suddenly—a step in keeping with his after life—he left college and entered as a sailor on a United States man-of-war. The vessel made a short voyage to the Bahamas, and returned to New York City. There he deserted, and there he first took the name of Lockwood. On the return voyage he had determined to desert, if possible, because one of his messmates had been tied up and flogged. Working his way to Buffalo, on the Erie Canal, he proceeded by schooner to Chicago. This was in 1830, and Lockwood was nineteen. He had no money and knew nobody. Meeting a farmer from Tippecanoe County, Indiana, he was engaged to teach school at Romney, a hamlet in that county. He taught at Romney and Rob Roy, an adjacent village, alternately for about one year, and devoted his time out of school to the study of medicine. He had some slight trouble with his patrons at Rob Roy, and without notice to any one, started one bitter cold day over an eight mile stretch of snow for Romney, where he arrived at night with hands and feet badly frozen. When he got well he resumed teaching at Romney and joined a debating society, in which his argumentative powers first excited remark. Now, also, he commenced to read law. It is said that he almost literally committed to memory the text of Blackstone. He removed to Crawfordsville, opened a school and continued his law studies. Here he had another quarrel—with the principal of a rival school. It didn't lead to much, being a newspaper controversy. He was admitted to the bar by the Circuit Court of Crawfordsville, and, though penniless, got married and went to Thorntown, Boone County, to practice. He was soon sued by his landlord, and pleaded as a set-off an unpaid tuition bill. He was his own lawyer and lost his case.

He wanted to appeal, but could not give a bond. He and his bride soon found themselves without a bed, that useful article of their scanty household goods having been sold by the constable under execution issued on his landlord's judgment. "I never knew how my wife lived at Thorntown," he said many years afterward. "I know I lived on potatoes roasted in the ashes."

He lost his second case, also, but having for a client somebody else this time, an appeal bond was filed, and Lockwood made his first appearance in the Supreme Court of Indiana. Being first examined and admitted to practice in that tribunal, he argued his cause in a style so masterly as to win the encomiums of the bench. (See Polk et al. vs. Slocum, 3d Blackford, 421.) But for several years he struggled on with little business. His home, too, if such it could be called, was unhappy. His only pleasure was in study.

In 1836, Albert S. White, a prominent lawyer of Lafayette, Indiana, offered him a partnership which he accepted. In that year he made a remarkable and successful defence of J. H. W. Frank, a young editor who had killed John Woods, a well-known merchant. The slayer and the deceased belonged to opposing political parties. They were strong partisans, and party lines were sharply drawn in the community. The difficulty grew out of a wager won by Frank. It seemed impossible to get a jury that would agree. Lockwood made an argument of nine hours, which has been pronounced "the best jury speech ever made on this continent or any other." He secured an acquittal and won great popularity. He was now only twenty-six years old, and his partner being elected to Congress, he, for the first time since he ran away from college, took a long breath in the consolation of success.

His hands were full and his mind comparatively calm for several years. This period must have been an oasis in his life.

But in 1842, a business depression, such as every now and then visits every community, came upon his section. He had invested in lands which now would not sell for enough to pay his debts. He scraped together what money he could, gave all to his creditors except a few hundred dollars, placed his son in a Catholic school in Vincennes, and struck out for "parts unknown," not even letting his family know his purpose. He went to the City of Mexico, where he was a stranger in a strange land. He studied the civil law and the Spanish language, was taken sick, could get nothing to do, and after a stay of a few months, went to Vera Cruz, which he reached with $2 in his pocket. He risked this little balance at monte and won $50, with which he went to New Orleans, thence to Natchitoches. There he resumed his true name of Jessup, and continued the study of the civil law, which was in vogue in that State, and the Louisiana Code. After a year he went to New Orleans and applied for admission to practice in the higher courts of Louisiana. He passed the examination, but just as the oath was about to be administered to him, he saw in the court-room the man who had sued him and caused his bed to be sold under execution. Before he left Indiana he had availed himself of several opportunities to wreak his vengeance upon this man, and now, fearing that his old enemy would expose his change of name, he left the room without taking the attorney's oath. A few days later a prominent lawyer of Indiana met him on the street in New Orleans very inelegantly clad. He asked a loan of $20 to redeem his trunk. The Indianian proffered $10, all he had on hand. Lockwood declined it, saying it was of no consequence. The same day he enlisted as a United States soldier, received $20 bounty, and was sent into Arkansas. Edward A. Hannegan, then United States senator from Indiana, who had formerly known Lockwood, heard of the latter's latest freak, and sent him an order of discharge signed by President Tyler. He also remitted to him $100, and urged him to go home to his family. Lockwood did so, and resumed law practice at Lafayette. His lands had been making money for him in his long absence by largely appreciating in value, and he soon paid off the balance of debt he had left behind three years before.

In 1849 Lockwood lost an important will contest. He thoroughly believed that the alleged will should not be admitted to probate, and, moreover, being a strong hater, and one of the principal legatees named in the proposed document having provoked his wrath some time before, he went into the trial with a determination unparalleled. He addressed the jury during the whole sessions of the court for three days. The verdict was against him, and when he heard it he struck his fist violently on the table, declared that he would never try another case in that court, and left the room in great excitement.

Then he turned his eyes toward California. A friend, Mr. E. L. Beard, was also looking this way. The two came—Beard, through Mexico; Lockwood, around the Horn. It would seem that when Lockwood first thought of emigrating to California the disgust which he felt over his defeat, just mentioned, made him despise his profession; for, instead of packing his law books, he determined to bring a large stock of liquor in small bottles and retail it to miners. He abandoned this notion, however. His strange record has not this blemish. Beard settled at a fine spot, the Mission San Jose, in the southern end of Alameda County. One day he heard a bugle blast! He listened and heard it again. "That is Lockwood!" he said. It was he. It had been agreed between Beard and Lockwood in Indiana, that both should provide themselves with a bugle of a certain kind, in order that when either should come upon the other in the unknown Dorado of the West, he might fittingly announce his approach. Thus met the friends at the Mission San Jose. Beard had established a comfortable home, and Lockwood looked as if he needed its hospitable shelter. He was dirty, tired, hungry, wet and sick. He had got lost on the Alameda mud flats, and had tramped all night long. He now met a friend in time of need, but was he at home?

Alas, poor wanderer, you have no home! Hot fugitive from fate, not yet is respite found! No mighty voice cries out, reprieve! Not yet, not yet, looms up the long sought goal! Rest you awhile, then journey on upon your lifelong tramp!

> "Is it true, O Christ, in heaven, that the bravest suffer most?
> That the strongest wander farthest, and more hopelessly are lost?
> That the measure of man's merit is capacity for pain,
> And the sadness of the singer gives the sweetness of the strain?"

Having recuperated, Lockwood came to San Francisco. On the ocean voyage he had studied medicine, and tried to forget the law. He did not, however, ask for a diploma. He treated himself at his friend Beard's house, the day he arrived there. He bled himself and found relief, after a regular physician had told him that if he did so, in his then condition, it would be certain death.

In San Francisco, he went into the law office of the eccentric Horace Hawes and asked for a clerkship. He was thirty-nine years old, a great genius of the law, and he wanted a clerkship! He got it. Hawes examined him, but not very exhaustively—he soon made a discovery. It was agreed that Lockwood should perform the double office of clerk and janitor—time, six months; terms, ten dollars a day, to be paid daily. Those were flush times, be it remembered. Here was an association to make men wonder, if not weep. Eccentricity was the only peculiarity common to both. Hawes was rich; Lockwood was in rags. Hawes was supremely thoughtful of self; Lockwood supremely negligent. Hawes was an iceberg; Lockwood, a pillar of fire.

Lockwood gambled off his daily wages, but faithfully performed his duties, and when his six months were passed he was offered a partnership. He refused promptly, and, in language not heard before by his employer, he expressed his disgust with his experience in that office. By this time Lockwood had come to be well known to the bar, and concluded to re-enter the ranks. He soon revealed himself. In the summer of 1851 he formed a partnership with Frank Tilford and Edmund Randolph.

These three men made as powerful an alliance as was ever effected at this bar. It was the leading firm for a time, but its time was short. While it held together, it brought the most important suit instituted here for many years—Metcalf vs. Argenti and others. The defendants were members of the Vigilance Committee of 1851, and, deputed by that body, had searched the premises of the plaintiff. The latter asked $50,000 damages. The legality and propriety of the organization and acts of the committee were involved, and, as the vast majority of the citizens either belonged to or sympathized with the committee, the trial of this cause was watched with universal interest.

The first trial of this cause was commenced on Saturday, August 15th, 1851. On Tuesday the trial was interrupted and suspended by the tumult consequent on the rescue of Whittaker and McKenzie by the Governor and Sheriff from the Vigilance Committee, which afterwards retook the men and hanged them. The evidence was closed on Thursday evening, and on Friday the jury were addressed by Mr. Randolph for the plaintiff and Isaac E. Holmes for the defendants. On Saturday morning, August 23d, Lockwood closed the argument for the plaintiff in a speech of four hours. The jury disagreed, as they did also upon a second trial.

At the close of his short partnership with Tilford and Randolph, which he abruptly terminated, Lockwood took one of the strangest steps of his strange life. Just as he had put himself at the head of his profession here, and his fame had spread over the State, he walked out of his law office and went to the water front, where for several weeks he worked as a longshoreman. A client, who needed his professional service, persuaded him to quit this new employment, Lockwood insisting that his fee should be in the shape of daily wages. Shortly thereafter he became the regular counsel for the great banking and real estate firm of Palmer, Cook & Co., before mentioned, and obtained a large practice. His receipts for a year or more were very large; but they went to the gaming table. It is said, however, that about this time he sent $10,000 to Senator Hannegan, of Indiana, in

In the summer of 1853 Lockwood took a new departure—for Australia. He knew no one there, and did not take a dollar with him. He remained about two years. He could not practice his profession because of a law requiring seven years' residence. He acted as a lawyer's clerk, a merchant's book-keeper, and a herder of sheep! From the first-named occupation he was discharged for not copying into a brief a paragraph which he said was not law.

On his return here, in 1855, he said his trip to Australia was the sanest act of his life; that he wanted to do some great penance for his sins and follies, and to put a great gulf between him and the past. Indeed, a change for the better was noticeable in him. He stopped the habit of gambling, and was calmer in thought and manner. His high sense of personal honor was strikingly illustrated by his refusal to take a large fee to defend the famous "Peter Smith titles," owing to the fact that he had once expressed the opinion that these titles were invalid.

In the fall of 1855 Lockwood went to Washington, and, in December of that year, he made a long argument in the United States Supreme Court, in the case of Field vs. Seabury. Returning in the spring, he continued practice here until the fall of 1857, when—while on another trip to the East on business—he perished, as before stated, on the steamship Central America.

I get my facts for this sketch from a most interesting and finely written notice of Lockwood contributed by Hon. Newton Booth to the Overland Monthly in 1870, and copied by the Albany (New York) Law Journal.

The volume was kindly loaned me by Hon. Stephen J. Field, Associate Justice U. S. Supreme Court; the Lib. Cong. did not have the book—it was only printed in 1888. F. A. H.

THOMAS ST. JOHN LOCKWOOD

Was noted for his immense strength and generosity; weighed 200 pounds, and well-proportioned, being very broad across the shoulders. His purse was always open to the needy. He was generous and liberal in everything, and noted in his day and generation. He once told his son, Commodore Samuel Lockwood, "Sam, I dare not strike a man, for fear I would kill him."

He was High Sheriff of Orange County, N. Y., for four years, shortly before the War of 1812, and was the intimate friend of Gov. Clinton, who had intended naming him for United States Marshal under Gen. Jackson, had the Governor survived.

His father intended to send him to Yale College, but died when he was young and he went into business in Norwalk, Conn., and then lived in Newburgh until 1822, when he moved to Sullivan County, N. Y., and advocated the building of the Delaware and Hudson Canal and branch of the turnpike intersecting the "Elmendorf" road, connecting with the Newburgh and Cochecton Turnpike Bridge at Montgomery. He then lived at Fallsburg, N. Y.

He went on a trip to the Falls of St. Anthony, and met Gen. Dodge on the boat on the Ohio River, and at his request accompanied him, and was present at the great Indian pow-wow. The Indians were amazed at his immense frame, and inspected him closely. On his return home, he caught cold while at a balloon ascension in August; was taken ill in Pittsburgh, but started for Cleveland via boat and stage, but was so sick when he landed from the boat that the hotel refused to accommodate him, and he went as far as Poland and put up at the hotel, and died in two weeks and was buried there.

Commodore Samuel Lockwood (Robert,[1] Ephraim,[2] James,[3] Job,[4] Samuel,[5] Thomas St. J.[6]), born January 24th, 1803, "on Monday about 3 o'clock, P.M.," at Norwalk, Conn.; son of Thomas St. John and Hannah (Whitlock) Lockwood. He was baptized February 13th, 1842, by Rev. Thomas R. Lambert, Rector, in Grace Church, New Bedford, Mass., and confirmed August 14th, 1842, at the same place, by the Right Rev. Alexander Vetes Griswold, Bishop of Massachusetts; and in the same place was married, on Wednesday, at 9.30 A.M., August 31st, 1842, by Rev. Thomas R. Lambert, Rector, to Maria Dunbar, who was born May 19th, 1814, at New Bedford, Mass., and was daughter of Joseph and Sarah P. Dunbar. She was baptized at Grace Church, New Bedford, Mass., June 10th, 1843, by the Rev. Thomas R. Lambert, Rector.

"General Order."

The Commander in Chief of the U. S. Naval Forces operating in the Gulf of Mexico—in congratulating those under his command upon the surrender of the City of Vera Cruz, and the Castle of San Juan d'Ulloa, to the combined forces of Army and Navy of the United States—feels himself called upon by a high sense of duty, to tender his warmest thanks to the commanders, officers and men of the squadron, for the admirable zeal and courage with which they have executed their respective duties.

Never at any period of our naval history, has the true spirit of professional gallantry been more strongly exhibited than at the present time. Though from the early surrender of the enemy the officers and men have had but few opportunities of gaining distinction, whenever occasions have occurred they have been seized upon with avidity.

LETTER FROM COMMODORE CONNER.

"PHILADELPHIA, December 10th, 1855.

"MY DEAR SIR:

"In consequence of severe pain in my face, with which I almost constantly suffer, and which unfits me for the slightest application to business, your letter has remained unanswered for a longer period than I could wish. I have a perfect recollection of the value of your services in the Petrita, in landing the horses, mules and stores of the army at Vera Cruz. In fact, your services on that occasion were of the very greatest importance to the success of the army, and were performed by you with the most untiring zeal, industry and skill, which merited and received my warmest approbation.

"Respectfully,
"D. CONNER.

Commodore Samuel Lockwood.

Commodore Lockwood relates that during the Mexican War he was Lieutenant on a steamer with nice quarters, when he was ordered to report to Commodore Conner who ordered him to take command of a small steamboat captured from the Mexicans, the Petrita, and he was constantly engaged reconnoitering and carrying dispatches with her on dark nights, in dangerous channels, etc., and frequently getting surf-boats secured. On one occasion he was ordered to have steam up at 8 A.M. the next morning, not knowing what he was to do. About that hour Gen. Winfield Scott, Gen. Pillow, Gen. Worth and Com. Conner came aboard with their staffs, and he was ordered to steam around in order to locate a place to land troops, which they did. They steamed along the coast from Antoine Lizardo to near Vera Cruz, and thirteen or fourteen shots were fired at them, and some came very near the boat, but all missed them. As all the general officers of the army but Gen. Twiggs were aboard, and she was a rickety boat, if a single shot had struck her it might have sent all these distinguished officers to the bottom of the sea.

In "The Naval History of the Civil War," by Admiral D. D. Porter, U. S. Navy, on p. 403, an account is given of the capture of Fort Macon, Beaufort Harbor, N. C., as follows:

"Among the captures made by co-operating vessels of the North Atlantic squadron was that of Fort Macon, Beaufort Harbor, N. C. A combined expedition of the Army and Navy attacked this place on April 25th, 1862, and, after a bombardment of some hours by land and sea, the American flag was hoisted over the fort.

"The naval part of the expedition consisted of the following vessels, under the command of Commander Samuel Lockwood:

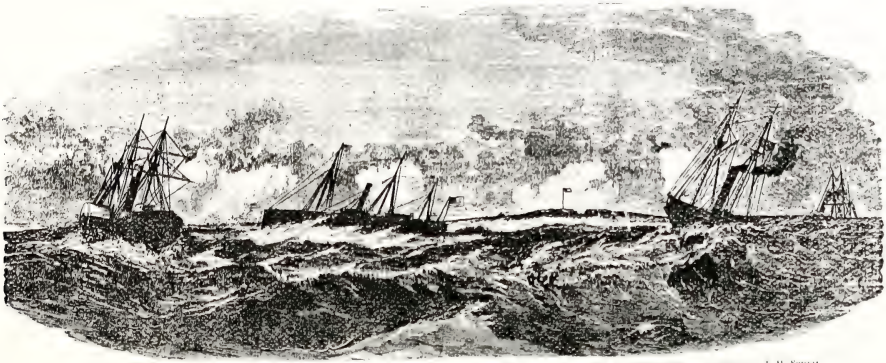
"Steamer 'Daylight," (flag-ship).

"Steamer 'State of Georgia,' Commander J. F. Armstrong.

"Steamer 'Chippewa,' Lieutenant Commanding A. Bryson.

"Bark 'Gemsbok,' Acting-Volunteer Lieutenant Edward Carendy.

"Steamer 'Ellis,' Lieutenant-Commanding C. L. Franklin.



UNION NAVAL FLOTILLA CO-OPERATING WITH THE LAND FORCES IN THE ATTACK ON FORT MACON, APRIL 26, 1862.—SKETCHED BY J. H. SCHEA

The Naval Forces were commanded by Commodore Samuel Lockwood (reproduced by permission of Admiral D. D. Porter and the Sherman Publishing Co.)

"The gun-boats attacked the fort by passing it in an ellipse and firing when abreast of it.

"Major-General Burnside commanded the land forces, and to him the fort surrendered.

"The losses were small on both sides, which was rather remarkable, as Commander Lockwood states that the interior of the fort was literally covered with fragments of bombs and shells, and many of the guns disabled.

"Beaufort was a valuable acquisition to the North Atlantic squadron, and a fine rendezvous for the smaller vessels engaged in blockading the coast. With regard to the bombardment the reports of both the army and navy are somewhat obscure, but it appears that a good deal of damage was inflicted upon the fort in spite of a heavy sea, which rendered the firing from the vessels somewhat uncertain. The gun-boats themselves suffered little damage."

On p. 402 of Admiral Porter's book is given an illustration of the "Attack on Fort Macon by the Naval Flotilla," which is reproduced in this volume by the kind permission of Admiral D. D. Porter and his publishers "The Sherman Publishing Company."

In the Personal Memoirs of General U. S. Grant, written by himself, in vol. i. p. 125, he describes a little steam-propeller dispatch-boat, which Commodore Samuel Lockwood informed E. Dunbar Lockwood, on December 5th, 1888, was commanded by himself. The article reads as follows:

"The transports with troops were assembled in the harbor of Anton Lizardo, some sixteen miles south of Vera Cruz, as they arrived and there awaited the remainder of the fleet, bringing artillery, ammunition and supplies of all kinds from the North. With the fleet there was a little steam-propeller dispatch-boat—the first vessel of the kind I had ever seen, probably the first of its kind ever seen by any one then with the army. At that day ocean steamers were rare, and what there were were side-wheelers. This little vessel, going through the fleet so fast, so noiselessly, and with its propeller under water out of view attracted a great deal of attention. I recollect that Lieutenant Sidney Smith, of the Fourth Infantry, by whom I happened to be standing on the deck of a vessel when this propeller was passing, exclaimed, 'Why, the thing looks as if it was propelled by the force of circumstances.'"

GEN. JOHN SULLIVAN'S FAMILY AND THE LOCKWOOD FAMILY INTERMARRY.

"From the two sons and three daughters of Mary Sullivan, who was a sister of General John Sullivan, and who married Theophilus Hardy, who died in 1827, aged seventy-five years;" have sprung many descendants who have INTERMARRIED WITH LOCKWOODS, Appletons, Bellows, and others, etc.

"Mrs. Hardy possessed a mind of uncommon strength, clear, discriminating and logical. It was well cultivated and stored with knowledge of the world and of human nature. Her strong understanding led her to discuss and decide questions which would be ordinarily considered difficult of solution. She had the power in a great degree of communicating her views and thoughts. No one could more effectually teach and instruct others as far as her information extended. Her stature was large, and in person she was dignified and commanding."

"Her youngest daughter, Margery, was the mother of Judge Samuel Wells, of Maine, who was also Governor of that State, and John Sullivan Wells, of Concord, N. H., who was Attorney-General and United States Senator, and Lieutenant-Governor Joseph Bartlett, of Illinois, and Ferdinand Birt, U. S. Consul, at Bermuda." (N. E. Hist. and Gen. TIMOTHY LOCKWOOD.

Timothy Lockwood alias Timothy Lock, of Hebron, in the county of Tolland, in Connecticut, and now residing in said Hebron, testifies and declares upon oath, that in the month of June, 1780, he inlisted as a common soldier during the war with Great Britain, into the Seventh Company and First Regiment in the New Hampshire line of the Continental Army, the said Company was under the immediate command of Lieutenant Howe, in Colonel Silley's Regiment and General Poor's Brigade, in which Company, Regiment and Brigade, from the sd. month of June, 1780, untill the close of the Revolutionary War with Great Britain, and untill the American Army was disbanded, he faithfully served his Country against the common enemy, and at the close of his service received a regular and honourable discharge, viz: at Newboro', in the State of New York, in May or June, 1783. But he declares that he has lost his sd. Discharge and cannot find it, and verily believes that it is not now in existence; that at the time of his inlistment as aforesd. he belonged to the State of New Hampshire, but since the Revolutionary War has removed from place to place, and is now and for some time past has been resident with his family in Hebron aforesaid. That he inlisted and served by the name of Timothy Lock, and that his name was always so returned; and he has no other evidence now in his power of his sd. services. That he is and always hath been a resident citizen of the United States. That he is poor and reduced in his circumstances in life and in need of assistance from his Country for support.

On this 16th day of November, 1836, personally appeared before Cyrus Mann, Esquire, a Judge of the Court of Probate for the district of Hebron, Mary Lockwood, a resident of Hebron, in said County of Tolland, aged 76 years, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth on her oath make the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the provision made by the Act of Congress, passed the 4th day of July, A.D. 1836. That she is the widow of Timothy Lockwood, late of said Tolland County, deceased, who was a private in the Army of the United States in the Revolutionary War, and who was a pensioner of the United States under the Act of Congress, passed in 1818. That he was inscribed on the pension list roll according to her best recollection on the 21st day of September, 1818, and she refers to the papers of file in the department of War to prove her said husband's services. She further declares and says she was married to the said Timothy Lockwood on the 9th day of June, 1780, by the Rev. James Eellis, at Glastonbury, and she knows of no one who was present at said time and marriage except herself, but believes they are all dead, and she can find no record of her marriage excepting the family record, kept by her said husband while in life, written in the family Bible between the Old and the New Testaments, where it is written in the handwriting of said Timothy, that Timothy Lockwood and Mary Lockwood were married June 9th, 1780. That her husband, the aforesaid Timothy Lockwood, died on the 4th day of February, 1832, in said Tolland County, and she has remained a widow ever since that time, as will more fully appear by reference to the proof hereunto annexed.

I, Timothy Lockwood, of Hebron, in the County of Tolland, and State of Connecticut, aged 43 years, being first duly sworn, do depose and say that I am the son of Timothy Lockwood, late of said Hebron, deceased, and late a pensioner of the United States, and am well acquainted with the handwriting of sd.

Timothy deceased, and do know that the family record kept in the Bible now owned by Mary Lockwood who has applied for a pension, is in the handwriting of said Timothy Lockwood, beginning with the record that Timothy Lockwood and Mary Lockwood were married on the 9th day of June, 1780, and is continued along withe the date of the year, month, and day of the month in which each of their children were born, which is to the number of nine, that I have seen said record as long as I can remember, and often heard my father say that it was correct and true, and written by himself. That my father, said Timothy, died as near as I can recollect on the 4th day of February, 1832. That my mother, Mary Lockwood, has lived in my family the most of the time since the decease of her husband said Timothy, and has remained single and unmarried ever since.

Dated at Hebron, the 26th day of October, A.D. 1836.

Timothy Lockwood

I, Orrin C. White, of Hebron, in Tolland County, and State of Connecticut, aged 33 years, being first duly sworn according to law, do depose and say that Timothy Lockwood, late a pensioner of the United States, lived for many years near my father while I resided in my father's family, and I have often seen his writing, and a family record kept by said Timothy while in life, having been inspected by me I verily believe it to be the handwriting of said Timothy, deceased. It begins with Timothy Lockwood and Mary Lockwood, were married June 9th, 1780; the next is Ezra Lockwood, was born January 22d, 1781, and continues to record the births of nine children; the last is that Eleazer Lockwood was born February 19th, 1801, and from the ancient appearance of the paper I believe it was written when it purports to be. I have also been acquainted with Mary Lockwood, widow of said Timothy, who has made an application for a pension, and know she has remained single and unmarried ever since the decease of said Timothy, her late husband.

Dated at Hebron, October 26th, 1836.

ORRIN C. WHITE.

June 9th, 1780, Timothy Lockwood and Meriba Simons, were married.

I certify that the above is a true copy of the church record kept by the late Rev. James Eellis, pastor of the Second Church, in Glastonbury; the writing of which was very much obscured by time. LEONARD E. HALE, Biographical Notes of Ralph Lockwood, Albert Lockwood, and Munson I. Lockwood.

Ralph, Albert, and Munson Ingersoll were the sons of Stephen and Sarah (Ingersoll) Lockwood, and were born at Stanwich, near Greenwich, Connecticut. The family, however, removed to the town of Ossining, Westchester County, New York, early in this century. There were eight children, of whom Ralph, Albert, and Munson were respectively the fourth, sixth, and last. These three children entered the profession of the law and became eminent citizens—the last two residing in Westchester and the first in New York County.

Ralph soon attracted the attention of the New York bar by his wit and eloquence. For many years he was one of the leading chancery lawyers of the State, attacking the decisions of the Court of Chancery with a vigor and fearlessness quite startling to the conservative minds of those days.

He was the author and annotator of several law books, and of numerous pamphlets; among the former may be mentioned, "Bright's Husband and Wife," and "Lockwood's Reversed Cases."

In addition to his solid learning, Ralph enjoyed a great reputation as a wit and raconteur.

He gave much time and thought to general literature, and was the author of two novels, "Rosine Laval," and "The Insurgents," the latter being dedicated to Chateaubriand, and drawing from him a very complimentary letter. The dedication to the great French author is accounted for from the fact that Ralph was a fine French scholar, visited France on two different occasions, and by his knowledge of the language was enabled to act as counsel for the leading French citizens of New York.

Ralph died in New York, April 12, 1855, aged 58 years. He was one of the founders of the New York Law Library, and of the "American Institute."

Albert, who was born November 18, 1802, likewise achieved an enviable reputation as a learned jurist, and man of the strictest probity and irreproachable character. Nature intended him for a judge, so natural, so impressive was his dignity of manner and depth of insight into human nature. He served several terms as the County Judge of Westchester, only refusing the Supreme Court judgeship on account of his unwillingness to relinquish his private practice.

Munson, the youngest son (born July 11, 1810), following the example of his elder brothers, entered the profession of the law, but his fondness for a political career prevented him from attaining the same eminence as they.

From his earliest manhood, Munson was a student of military tactics, and an ardent lover of the military profession. He was successively captain, colonel, and general, in the State militia. One of the finest military companies of the State bore his name, "The Lockwood Light Guard of Ossining."

General Lockwood gave the labor of his best years to improve the militia of the counties represented in the Seventh Brigade, of which he was commandant.

He numbered among his friends Governors Seward and Seymour, who frequently visited his military encampments.

Nor should the important rôle enacted by General Lockwood as a public-spirited citizen be passed over in silence. His active mind was constantly on the alert to devise means of making public improvements.

In this way he organized the first bank in the town of Ossining, and in 1851 he founded the Dale Cemetery, in the same township—to-day one of the most beautiful burial places in the State.

He sympathized deeply with the Hungarian patriot, Kossuth, and assisted him in collecting funds.

All of the three brothers were the intimate friends of Henry Clay.

Munson Ingersoll Lockwood died in the town of Ossining, on the 20th day of February, 1875.

He left surviving him, three sons and three daughters by his first wife, and one son by the second. The three sons by the first wife are, Henry Clay, Ingersoll, and Howard, all residents of the city of New York—the first two lawyers, and the third a publisher.

Henry C., who was brevetted Major for gallant services at the storming of Fort Fisher, is the author of a political work entitled, "Abolition of the Presidency," which has attracted much attention in both this country and Europe.

Ingersoll was, for four years, United States Consul for the kingdom of Hanover. He is well known as a lecturer and littérateur.

Howard is the founder of the "Lockwood Press," one of the most extensive printing and publishing establishments in the country, and one famous for the elegance of its work. He is the proprietor of the following publications: "The Paper Trade Journal," "The American Stationer," "The American Bookmaker," "The Mail and Export Journal," and "Lockwood's Directory of the Paper, Stationery, and Printing Trade." Many leading journals and monthlies, belonging to other proprietors, are printed at his establishment. Howard is a member of the Union League Club, "The Sons of the Revolution," "The Huguenot Society," etc.

An Election Sermon.

I. Samuel XII. 14.

If ye will fear the Lord, and ſerve him, and obey his Voice, and not rebel againſt the Commandment of the Lord, then ſhall both ye, and alſo the King that reigneth over you, continue following the Lord your God.

THE People of Iſrael were remarkably diſtinguiſh'd by the Favours of God, and the Smiles of his Providence, above all other Nations then on the Earth; and they unhappily and remarkably diſtinguiſh'd Themſelves, by their Ingratitude and Perverſeneſs; and their uneaſie, mutinous, and diſobedient Temper and Conduct. This reproachful Stigma, is juſtly left on their Character, in the Oracles of God; —A ſtiff-necked People; —A rebellious Houſe. After they had long groan'd, under their Burdens and miſerable Slavery, in the Land of Egypt; God made bare his own Arm, in a ſignal and remarkable Manner, for their Deliverance: by Signs, and Wonders, and awful Judgments; He humbled the Pride of the Egyptian Tyrant, and by a ſtrong, victorious Hand, He brought Iſrael up from the Land of Egypt, and Houſe of Bondage. He took them under his own ſpecial Protection, and condeſcended Himſelf, to become their King & political Head; and he gave them a Syſtem of good & excellent Laws, wiſely adapted to their Circumſtances: and during all their Marches thro' the Wilderneſs, He was their Shield & Defence, a wall of Fire round about them, for their Security. He commanded the Clouds from above, and opened the Doors of Heaven, and rained down Manna upon them to eat, he gave them of the Corn of Heaven;—He ſmote the Rock alſo and the waters guſhed out, and the Streams overflowed. * He caſt out the Heathen alſo before them, and planted them in a good Land, the Land promiſed to their Fathers: there he raiſed up Judges for them, to execute Juſtice and Judgment, & to lead forth their Armies to Battle: Theſe generally were occaſional & extraordinary Officers; who, like the Roman Dictators of old, were call'd to the Adminiſtration, on ſome extraordinary Exigence of State, and when that was over, their Authority expired & was at an End. And how great was the Ingratitude of this People! how perverſe their Carriage, under a long Series of Mercies and Salvations! how often did they murmur against Moses & the other Servants of the Lord! how often rebel against God Himself! and to all their other Sins & Provocations, they added this also, that they asked a King to be set over them, like the other Nations round about them; for this they applyed to Samuel, who had long judged them, in the Integrity of his Heart; and guided them by the Skilfulness of his Hands. This their Request, was highly displeasing to that good Man; who, accordingly, warmly remonstrated and protested against it, and labour'd to dissuade them from it, but in vain, they were obstinate & inflexible in their Demand; — nay, but we will have a King to reign over us. || Provoking as this must have been to God, who himself was their King, & whom they rejected, that he should not reign over them; after having expressed a suitable Resentment, and shown them their Wickedness and Guilt, He gave way to their Request and Saul the Son of Kish was Anointed King over them. Here the Form of their Civil Government, was considerably altered, yet not so, but that God still continued to be their King and civil Head, so as He was not of any other Nation in the World: and their Kings, who henceforth reigned over them, were but his Viceroys; for, their political Laws were enacted by God,

and These, their Kings were obliged to transcribe, when they enter'd upon their Government, and invariably to conform all their Administrations to them; and from Time to Time, on special and extraordinary Occasions, to consult the Oracle of God, and take their Measures thence. Ungrateful & rebellious as this People were, to their King, and their God; yet, He did not utterly forsake and abandon them; but his great Goodness and Mercy triumphed over their Perverseness and Disobedience: agreably, He tells them, by his Servant Samuel, in the Words now read; If ye will fear the Lord, and serve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel against the Commandment of the Lord, then shall both ye, and also the King that reigneth over you, continue following the Lord your God. Here is a divine Promise to Israel, of a mighty, comprehensive Blessing, on a Condition. The Condition is express'd in the former Part of the Verse; the Promise in the Close of it; in the preceding Part of the Verse, we have not a vain and useless Accumulation of Words, but these various expressions, importing much the same Thing, are heaped together, as is usual in the Sacred Writings, to intimate the great Importance of the Matter, express it the more strongly and emphatically, and the more effectually to engage our Attention and Conformity to it. Religion in general, is frequently set ſet forth by each of theſe Expreſſions ſingly, & when they are all laid together, they expreſs it with ſpecial Force and Emphaſis; or, if we are to ſeek a more particular Meaning of theſe ſeveral Expreſſions; the firſt may mean, that ſacred Reverence & holy Fear of the bleſſed God, which ought to be found reigning, in the Hearts of all his reaſonable Creatures, in Connexion with every other Branch, of a pious & religious Temper of Mind; and the other Expreſſions may ſignify, the proper and genuine Effects of ſuch a Temper, in a Life of Sobriety, Godlineſs and Righteouſneſs; and ſo it comes to the ſame Thing. Now, on Condition of their being religious and obedient, of their fearing God and ſerving him, He graciouſly promiſes them his Bleſſing and Proſperity. This we have in the Cloſe of the Verſe; Then shall both ye, and alſo the King that reigneth over you, continue following the Lord your God. To follow God, frequently Signifies, the ſame Thing with ſerving and obeying him, and conforming to his Will and Laws; but here it plainly has a different Meaning; Then shall ye, and alſo the King that reigneth over you, continue following the Lord your God. i. e. Ye ſhall be a ſecure & happy People. Tho' you have grievouſly offended, in asſking a King, yet, if ye will now fear and obey God; He will graciouſly forgive what is paſt, He will ſtill be your God and your King, He will go before you, to lead and conduct you, to defend and bless you; and under his Conduct, Protection, and Blessing; you shall be a happy and prosperous People.

The PROPOSITION obviously contained in the Words, and which may be consider'd on this Occasion, is this, Religion is the truest Interest and highest Happiness of a People: Or, 'Tis the surest and best Means, to Promote the Welfare and Felicity of a Civil Community.

This is a most important Point, in which we are all most intimately concern'd. Religion and Holiness, to fear and obey God, and to be conform'd to his Perfections, is certainly, the most excellent, the most important Thing in the World: 'tis the Beauty, the Ornament & Glory of every individual Person: 'Tis the surest, & most unfailing, the only unfailing Means of promoting their true Peace and Comfort, their Happiness and Well-being in this World; of making them Easy & Happy in themselves, & Blessings to those about them: and 'tis absolutely necessary to the Well-being & Happiness of all Persons in the World to come. The primary End and Design of all Religion, is, to rescue us from the misery and fatal effects of the Apostacy, to recover us to Holiness, and the the Favour of God, and to raiſe us to the higheſt Happineſs, & Perfection of our Natures, in the coming World; — Godlineſs is profitable unto all Things, having Promiſe of the Life that now is, and of that which is to come. † This Conſideration infers on all Perſons, the ſtrongeſt Obligations to lead holy, religious and obedient Lives: But this is not all, ſuch is the friendly Aſpect of true Vertue and Religion on Mankind; that, not only has it the moſt direct and powerful Tendency, to advance our true Happineſs & Well-being, ſingly conſidered, but, 'tis likewiſe the moſt effectual, the beſt and ſureſt Means in the World, to promote the Felicity and Welfare of a People, and Nation or Civil Community: The ſerious Practice of Religion has a bleſſed Influence on all Orders and Ranks of Perſons in the State, from the higheſt Ruler, down to the loweſt and meaneſt Subject; and to put the whole political Body into a flouriſhing and proſperous State. This DOCTRINE may be Confirmed and Illuſtrated,

I. From the Example of paſt Ages, and the Promiſes and Declarations of God's Word.

II. From the general Tendency and Influence of Religion, And,

III. From ſome particular Branches of Religion, that directly and obviouſly Subſerve the Intereſt, and promote the Felicity of a civil Community: Of these in Order.

I. That Religion is the Sureſt and beſt Means, to promote the Welfare of the State; appears from the Example of paſt Ages, and the Promiſes and Declarations of God's Word. If we conſult the Hiſtory of the Jews, which lies before us in the Sacred Writings, we ſhall find, this was apparently the Caſe of that People; they were under proſperous or afflicted Circumstances, as Religion flouriſh'd or languiſh'd among them: When their ways pleaſed the Lord, and they were obedient to his Laws, the remarkable Smiles of his Providence were upon them; but when they were diſobedient & rebellious, and Idolatry & Wickedneſs prevailed, the Indignation of Heaven Smoaked againſt them, and waſting Calamities & Judgments broke in upon them; and this was ſo conſtantly the Tenour of God's Dealings with that People, that one might pretty eaſily determine, from a Knowlege of their moral Character, and the State of Religion among them, at any given Time; how it went with them, as to their outward Welfare & Proſperity; and this was but agreeable, to the numerous divine Promiſes and Threatnings to that Purpoſe: beſides my Text, and the Words that immediately ſucceed them, you may ſee as a Specimen, Deut. 28. 1, 2. & 15. &

2 Chron.

2 Chron. 15 2. And it ſhall come to paſs, if thou ſhalt hearken diligently unto the Voice of the Lord thy God, to obſerve and to do all his Commandments, which I command thee this Day; that the Lord thy God will ſet thee on high above all Nations of the Earth. And all theſe Bleſſings ſhall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou ſhalt hearken unto the Voice of the Lord thy God. But if thou wilt not hearken unto the Voice of the Lord thy God, to obſerve and to do all his Commandments, and his Statutes, which I command thee this Day; all theſe Curſes ſhall come upon thee & overtake thee.— Hear ye me, Aſa, and all Judah and Benjamin, the Lord is with you, while ye be with Him; and if ye ſeek him he will be found of you; but if ye forſake him, he will forſake you. But the Books of Moſes, and the Writings of the Prophets are full of Paſſages to this Purpoſe; and the Dealings of God with that People, were agreable thereto, from Generation to Generation: the Bleſſings and Judgments of God were interchangeably upon them, according as they feared him and obeyed his Voice, or ſinned and rebelled againſt him; this was evidently and remarkably the Caſe of the Jewiſh Nation: and altho' God has not Strictly confin'd himſelf to Scripture Preſidents in this Matter, nor any where told us, that the Adminiſtrations of his Providence, towards other Nations and Kingdoms, ſhall, in all all Points, be conformable to the Dealings of his Providence, with his People Israel; yet, those Promises and Threats, whereby the Observation of the Laws of God and Religion, was enforc'd on that People, excepting so far, as they were specially design'd and adapted to the peculiar Circumstances of that People, and their peculiar Relation to the blessed God, may justly be applicable to other Nations, and civil Combinations of men. And if we reflect further; that the same glorious Being, who was the God of Israel and their King, is the moral Governor of all mankind; that he equally hates and abhors Iniquity and Vice all over the World, can never be the Patron of Sin, nor countenance Wickedness and Rebellion in any Nation or People; and that he universally approves Virtue and Holiness, and loves it wherever it appears; we may easily believe, since all civil Communities, are the Creatures of Time, erected in it, and will all terminate and end with it; and so are incapable, as Souls, of Rewards or Punishments in the World to come; I say, we may well conclude, that God will manifest the Holiness of his Nature, and the Equity of his Government, by frowning upon and punishing, a wicked and licentious; and by protecting and rewarding a righteous and an obedient People, in this World. The Promises, Threatnings and numerous Declarations of God's Word, with the the correſpondent Diſpenſations of his Providence, toward his People, in paſt Ages, illuſtrate and confirm the Point before us; that Religion is the true Intereſt of a People, the ſureſt and beſt means of their Proſperity and Happineſs. This important Point may be illuſtrated,

II. From the general Tendency and Influence of Religion. The great things of Religion are reveal'd & ſet before us, in the Word of God: And when we conform to that Revelation, and comply with the Demands of it; when we believe and act and live, as God requires we ſhould do in his Word, we are then Religious. The Bible is the compleat Standard and Meaſure of our Religion: There are indeed divers important Articles of Religion, concerning God, the Difference between Vertue and Vice, and our Duty and Happineſs, that are diſcoverable by the Light of Nature: But all the great Truths and Duties of Morality, are adopted by Chriſt, and incorporated into his Laws, are refin'd and purifi'd, and ſet in the faireſt and ſtrongeſt Point of Light, and raiſed to their higheſt Perfection in the Chriſtian Inſtitution. The Bible then, is our compleat Directory in Matters of Religion, this is the ſure Word of Prophefy, to which we muſt all take heed, as to a light that Shineth in a dark Place. God himſelf is the Author of this Book, here he ſpeaks ſpeaks to us, and makes known the great Things, that belong to our Peace; He ſets his own glorious Perfections in our View; the myſterious Manner of his Subſiſtence; his all-wiſe, good, and powerful Providence, without which, not a Sparrow falleth to the Ground; the primitive State of Man, as he came holy and perfect from the Hand of God; the Fall and Apoſtacy of Man from God, and the Guilt & Pollution, which in Conſequence of that Apoſtacy, have overſpread the human Race; the glorious Method of Recovery, by Jesus Christ the Mediator; the Terms and Demands of the Goſpel Covenant; all the appointed Means & Ordinances, of Life and Salvation; the amiable Rules of Holineſs, and Goſpel Obedience; Precepts and Directions, for the Diſcharge of Duty, in the various Stations & Characters of Life; and the ſtrongeſt Motives to a Compliance with our Duty, in a View of the laſt Judgment, and the Retributions of Eternity: This Sacred System of Religion, in all the various Branches of it, unitedly and harmonioufly tends, to advance and further, the Welfare and Happineſs of Mankind in general, and particularly to promote the Tranquility & Intereſt, of Nations and Civil Societies;

— As it forbids whatſoever is detrimental to the Public Intereſt;

— Requires thoſe Things, that directly conduce to its Proſperity; — Forms — Forms the Minds of Men, to a Diſpoſition to promote the good of the State;

— And as it has a particular Influence, to avert Impending Calamities; and to draw down Bleſſings and Salvations upon the State.

1. As it forbids whatſoever is detrimental to the public Intereſt. This is a Sinful, apoſtate World, in which we live; a guilty, rebellious Province of the Moſt High: it bears the ſad & numerous Marks, of Guilt & Apoſtacy, in that Wickedneſs and Vice, and thoſe Miſeries and Calamities that overſpread the Earth. Sin is the diſmal Source, of all the Evils and Calamities the World groans under: this is the fatal Door, at which Miſery firſt enter'd; and this is the accurſed Thing, that in all Ages of the World, ſeparates between God and the Soul; between God and a People, and throws open the Floodgate, to an Inundation of Evils, upon particular Perſons, & upon Civil Communities: Miſery is the natural Off-ſpring of Sin, and they are uſually found together. Now Religion tends to advance the public Good, as it utterly forbids and condemns all Sin, and Iniquity; requires us, To ceaſe to do evil; To deny all Ungodlineſs & every worldly Luſt; and to cleanſe Ourſelves from all Filthineſs, of Fleſh & Spirit: A great Deſign of the Chriſtian Inſtitution, is, — to put an End to Sin, and deſtroy the Works of the Devil, and to Suppreſs & root out, thoſe vitious & enormous Practices; that are ſo fatal to ſocial Peace, and the Happineſs of Mankind. And as civil Government is of divine Original and Inſtitution; all thoſe Practices and licentious Courſes, that are hurtful to the Public, are evil & wrong, not only in a political, but alſo in a moral and religious View; being ſtrictly forbidden by God: and the Prohibition of God in the Caſe, lays a ſolemn Tie on the Conſciences of all Sorts of Perſons, carefully to ſhun and avoid all Immorality & Vice, and every Thing that is prejudicial to the State. And as far as the Authority of God, the Supreme Ruler of the World, and the Judge of it, is regarded and reverenc'd by Mankind on Earth; ſo far, will Religion have an actual & bleſſed Influence, to ſuppreſs & root out, all thoſe unrighteous and exorbitant Practices, that are ſo fatal and ruinous to the Public.

2: As it requires thoſe Things, that directly tend to the Proſperity of the State. In a Civil Community, there is a neceſſary Subordination of Perſons; ſome are Intruſted with Authority and Power, to rule over Others, and to manage and conduct the public Affairs: whil'ſt others are in Places of Inferiority & Subjection: and the Health and Proſperity of the Community, very much depends, on the faithful Diſcharge of the Duties, incumbent on the various Members of it, reſulting from the Stations they hold in,

in, or Relations they bear to the State; and on the ſteady, chearful Practice, of the great Duties of Morality, and the ſacred Branches of practical Religion, in their ſeveral Places, Circumſtances & Relations. When the ſeveral Denominations of Perſons in the State, are faithful, diligent, & active, in their reſpective Places, to promote the Public Weal, and in all their Intercourſe and Dealings, with their Fellow Men, maintain a ſerious and ſteady Care to practiſe every relative and ſocial Duty, and to exhibit in their Lives and Conduct, a fair & amiable Tranſcript, of that perfect Syſtem of Morality, and practical Religion, the SON OF GOD came down from Heaven to Teach and Inculcate; ſuch a Community can hardly fail, in the uſual Courſe of Things, of being in a proſperous & flouriſhing State. Now, the Laws of GOD and Religion, require and enjoin, all theſe Vertues & Duties ſo apparently conducive to the Good of the Public. They oblige every Member of the State, and every Man in the World, to the ſerious, faithful Diſcharge, of all the Duties ariſing from their reſpective Relations to the Community, and to one another; — To owe no Man any Thing; — To render to all their Due; || Strictly to obſerve, in all their relative & ſocial Conduct, that ſacred Rule of Equity & Righteouſneſs — Whatſoever ye would, that Men ſhould do to you, do you even so to them. † And in a word, To do Justice, love Mercy, & walk Humbly before God. ‖ We are not left at Liberty, to practise or neglect these amiable Vertues and Duties, as we may think fit: but we are bound to the Practice of them, bound by the Authority of God Himself, which lays a direct and solemn Obligation on our Souls and Consciences.

God, who requires these Things, as he is our King and Lawgiver, so he is our constant Inspector; The Lord looketh from Heaven; he beholdeth all the Sons of Men. * His eyes are upon all their Ways; they are not hid from his Face, neither is their Iniquity hid from his Eyes. ‡ And He sees & observes all the Doings of the Children of Men; not as a regardless Spectator, but as a righteous Governour and Judge, who will bring every Work into Judgment, and every secret Thing; § And before whose righteous Tribunal, all Pretences to Religion & Godliness, where the Vertues of the Social Life, and the great Duties of Morality, so necessary, so conducive to the Peace & Happiness of Mankind, and the Tranquility of the State, have been wanting & neglected; will appear to be vain and nothing worth. Again,

3. Religion forms the Minds of Men to a Disposition, to promote the Good & Tranquility

of the State. The depraved & vitiated Temper and Diſpoſition of Mens Minds, is the true Source of thoſe guilty & exorbitant Courſes, that are ſo fatal & deſtructive to particular Perſons and to the Public. This is the Spring of thoſe open Abominations, corrupt and debauch'd Practices, which in the natural Courſe of Things, weaken & indanger the State; and if perſiſted in, will bring on a total Diſſolution and utter Ruin. When this Fountain of Iniquity is purified; this vitious and deprav'd Temper is rectifi'd, and chang'd to Holineſs, this will gently, yet powerfully lead & engage Perſons, as, to approve themſelves to God in all other Branches of Chriſtian Duty, ſo faithfully to exert themſelves in their Places, to advance the Welfare of the Public. Now, the Goſpel and Religion of Jesus, is admirably deſign'd & calculat'd, to produce this bleſſed Effect, and this bleſſed Effect it does & will actually produce, wherever it is cordially and ſincerely entertained, and ſubmitted to. Hence we are ſaid, To be ſanctifi'd by the Word; || To be born again, not of corruptible Seed, but of incorruptible, by the Word of God which liveth and abideth forever. † The Goſpel of Christ, attended by the ſacred Influences of the divine Spirit, is the powerful Means, of rectifying the ſinful Nature of Man, and forming it to

Purity

Purity & Holineſs, and a governing Diſpoſition to pleaſe & obey God in all Things. As the Laws of Religion requires, the univerſal Practice of Vertue and Holineſs; they that are truly religious chuſe to obey God & lead holy Lives; there is a bleſſed Agreement & Harmony, tho' not a perfect one, between the Temper of their Minds, and the ſacred Laws of Religion: they are not only aw'd & Influenc'd, by the Authority & Command of God; but they find an inward Propenſity & Diſpoſition, to devote & approve themſelves to God, not only in the Duties of Piety & Godlineſs, but in the Performance of all relative & ſocial Duties, and to exert themſelves in their Places, to promote the welfare of Mankind, and the Tranquility and Happineſs of the State. A good Man indeed may labour under Miſtakes, as to the true Intereſt of the Public, as he may in other Matters, & ſo from wrong Apprehenſions may fail of his Duty; he may likewiſe be wrought upon, by Temptations from within, or from without, to neglect his Duty in particular Inſtances; but theſe Things, I hope, are no Parts of his Religion; they are ſo many Inſtances of his Want of Religion, or the Imperfections of it. Religion in it's native and genuine Influence makes men better, more uſeful & greater Bleſſings, in the various Relations and Characters of Life, and forms them to a prevailing Diſpoſition poſition to pleaſe and Honour God in all their Ways, and to further and promote the public Intereſt and Happineſs. No good Man will live in the habitual, known neglect of his Duty to the Public: his own Heart, and the Ruling Temper of his Mind, will excite and prompt him to honour and obey God, and to do good to Men.

4. Religion is the Intereſt and Happineſs of a People, as it has a particular moral Influence to avert impending Calamities, and to draw down Bleſſings & Salvations upon the State. Practical Religion, that Temper of Mind, & that courſe of Life, the Goſpel is intended to form Mankind to, has evidently a particular moral Tendency & Influence, to ſkreen & ſhelter a People from public Calamities, & to draw down public Mercies and Salvations: This renders a People acceptable and dear to God, whoſe alwiſe, good and powerful Providence, orders & over-rules all the Affairs of this lower World. The mighty Influence, Holineſs, Devotion and fervent humble Prayer have, to ſecure & Protect a People, and to engage the ſpecial Bleſſings of God upon them, is apparent thro'out the Bible. How often did Moſes and the other Servants of God, by their fervent Prayers avert those waſting Judgments which an angry God ſeemed ready to inflict on rebellious Iſrael? Thoſe wonderful and ſurprizing Words of

God

God to Moses, in Deut. 9. 14. may ſerve to illuſtrate the Point; and ſhew, how mighty & prevailing an Influence, the Piety and fervent Interceſſions of his People have to promote the Security and Happineſs of the Public—I have ſeen this People, and behold, it is a ſtiff-necked People, let me alone that I may deſtroy them, & blot out their Name from under Heaven. So God would have ſpared Sodom and Gomorrah, upon the noble, humble Interceſſion of Abraham, if but ten righteous Perſons had been found there. And God, in all Ages of the World, is a Prayer-hearing God, and his Ears are ever open to the humble Cries of his People. But, this Point may be further illuſtrated,

III. From ſome particular Branches of Religion, that directly and obviouſly ſubſerve the Intereſt, and promote the Felicity of the civil Community. The Particulars I ſhall adduce for this Purpoſe are ſuch as theſe;

1. Faithfulneſs in Rulers. Whatever diſtinguiſhing Model of Civil Rule, a Community may be caſt under, 'tis of great importance to it's Welfare; that they, who are prefer'd to Places of Truſt and Power, be wiſe and good and faithful Men; theſe are great Bleſſings to the Public. now, 'tis Religion that adorns Rulers with their moſt valuable Qualifications: this, I know, is not the only Qualification, lification, nor is every good Man fit to rule over Others: there are divers other and inferior Principles, that may Influence and prompt Persons, to do considerable Good, in their Places; tho' Holiness and a true Principle of Religion, should not be found prevailing, and bearing Sway in their Hearts: but Gospel Holiness, is the most valuable Ingredient, the divinest Touch, in the Character of Rulers. When the Supreme Love of God, and of Christ his Son, and a fervent Charity & Benevolence to Mankind, are ever glowing in their Hearts, & Religion is planted deep there; This Sacred, this powerful Principle, tends to awaken and animate all their Powers, to Promote the Peace & Welfare and Felicity of their People; to protect & skreen them on every Side, to guard & secure their valuable Rights and Privileges: This determines them, to a firm and steady Adherence, to the Rules of Justice & Equity, in all their Administrations; and to that Plan of Government, which fixes their own Powers and Prerogatives, as also, the Rights and Privileges of the People; carefully avoiding all guilty Reaches, after despotic & Arbitrary Rule, on the one Hand, & equally careful they don't tamely suffer their Authority and Laws to be insulted and trampled upon, on the other. This leads them, to consult and study the true Interest of the Community; that they may be Miniſters of God to them for Good; — may frame ſuch Laws, as are wiſely deſign'd and calculated to advance their beſt Intereſt — that breathe forth Terror, to the Workers of Iniquity; but Praiſe & Encouragment to thoſe that do well.

It diſarms Temptations of their Power and Influence, or renders them Proof againſt them, and victorious over 'em; — Temptations from within, from the Luſts & Corruptions of their own Hearts; and from without, from the Flattery or Bribery of Others, or from popular Uneaſineſs & Clamour; — Inſpires them, with a noble Fortitude and Reſolution, with a firm and ſteady Hand, to carry the Laws into Execution; to check and bridle, the unruly and licentious, and to chaſtiſe the Workers of Iniquity; to ſuppreſs Immorality and root out Vice, that Juſtice & Judgment may run down the Streets, as a River, & Righteouſneſs as a Flood that overflows: This will fill their Hearts, with a paternal Affection for their People and a tender Concern for their Well-being and Proſperity — Inſpire them with the noble Ambition, of approving Themſelves, Fathers to their Country, & Benefactors to Man-kind; will animate their ardent Prayers, to the great Father of the Univerſe; that He would Shower his rich and numerous Salvations upon them. The Light and Purity, of their amiable Life, and and pious Example, will have a happy and powerful Tendency, to put Iniquity Itſelf to the Bluſh, and to Shame the wicked and profane from their ungodly Courſes; or to allure and charm them, into the Paths of Holineſs & Righteouſneſs. The happy and direct Influence of ſuch Rulers to promote the Intereſt of the State, is obvious to all.

2. Another Branch of Religion, that Immediately promotes the Welfare of the State is, Submiſſion and Loyalty in the People. As Rulers are raiſed up by God, not for their own Sakes, but the People's; there is the higheſt Reaſon, they ſhould be treated with Reſpect, Honour and Submiſſion. For People to treat their Perſons or Characters, with Rudeneſs and Diſreſpect; to ſlight & vilify their Laws, or raſhly cenſure their Adminiſtrations; to cheriſh uneaſy and mutinous Diſpoſitions, or give into Seditious & riotous Practices, is very inexcuſable; — This is to counteract the great, and good, and beneficial Deſign, of civil Government; and is highly injurious to the Public: on the Contrary, to treat them with a Deference and Reſpect, ſuitable to the Dignity of their Places; freely to Submit to their Authority & Laws, and chearfully to afford them (as in Point of Juſtice & Equity, they are bound to do) a ſuitable and honourable Maintenance, according to the Rank they hold in the State, and the Importance and Dignity of their Character; and to bow the Knee before God, the Father of Lights, from whom cometh down every good and perfect Gift; that He would bless their Persons, and prosper and succeed their Administrations: this, 'tis apparent, has a direct Tendency, and is very necessary, to the public Weal and Tranquility. Now, the Laws of Religion indispensably exact, and a Principle of it prevailing in the Heart, will lead and dispose People, to a chearful Yielding all due Honour, Submission and Loyalty, to their civil Rulers. These are the Laws of Christ; Let every Soul be Subject unto the higher Powers. For there is no Power but of God: the Powers that be are ordained of God. ‡ *Submit yourselves to every Ordinance of Man for the Lord's Sake. For this Cause, pay you Tribute also: for they are God's Ministers, attending continually upon this very Thing. Render therefore to all their Dues.† —I exhort therefore, that first of all Supplications, Prayers, Intercessions & giving of Thanks be made for all men; for Kings, & for all that are in Authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable Life in all Godliness and Honesty. For this is good and acceptable in the Sight of God our Saviour. ||

3. Truth and Justice, directly subserve the Interest of the State. To be perfectly just and true,

true, is the Prerogative of the moſt high God; to be ſincerely ſo, and to practiſe thoſe divine Vertues, as far, as human Frailty & Imperfection will admit, is the Beauty & Glory of Man; and 'tis no ſmall Part, of the ſtrength and ſecurity of the Body politic. Where Unrighteouſneſs & Falſhood have a general Spread among a People, & Deceit, Treachery & Lies are prevalent; and People give their Tongues aLooſe to Detraction & Slander; and are falſe to their Promiſes, Engagements and Contracts; and where Diſhoneſty, Knavery and Oppreſſion are commonly practiſ'd: Theſe Things, beſides their moral Influence, to kindle the Wrath of Heaven, which may ſet them on Fire on every ſide, and bring on a ſpeedy Diſſolution; they have a direct and diſmal Influence, to enervate the State, to depreſs and ruin a People: for if they thus delude, bite and devour one another, (the Caſe is plain) they will be conſum'd and devour'd, one of another. But, when Truth and Equity, are the Character and Complexion of a People; and they deteſt and ſhun the baſe and vile Arts of diſſimulation and Fraud, and all injurious Treatment of their fellow Men, in their Perſons, Property and Characters; and in all their Traffick and mutual Commerce, in all their Words and relative Behaviour, they render to every one his due, and pay a ſteady Regard to the Rules of Juſtice, Integrity and Truth; this,

this, naturally and Immediately conduces, to the Well-being and Happineſs of Man-kind, and to the Peace and Proſperity of the State. Now ſuch an upright & amiable Conduct, the Laws of God indiſpenſably require. The righteous Lord loveth Righteouſneſs. || To do Juſtice and Judgment, is more acceptable to the Lord than Sacrifice. † That which is altogether Juſt ſhalt thou follow. * And the Rectitude of a pious Mind, or Religion bearing ſway in the Heart, naturally leads & diſpoſes Perſons, to the Practice of Truth and Equity, in all their various & important Branches.

4. A quiet and peaceable Behaviour, directly conduces to the Tranquility of the State. Peace and Unity and mutual Harmony, in Oppoſition to unchriſtian Animoſity, Strife & Contention, are of vaſt Importance to the Welfare of the State. When Perſons are peeviſh & litigious, and ready to take Fire on the ſlighteſt Provocation, are apt to put the worſt Conſtruction, on the Words and Actions of others, and by artful, malicious Inſinuations, or inhuman & barbarous Comments on their Imperfections, they foment Jealouſies & mutual Averſions; when ſuch a Temper prevails & becomes common, 'tis no Wonder, if the ſacred Bonds of Peace are burſt aſunder, and conſumed; and the Body politic is thrown into Diſorders, unnatural & fatal Convulſions, vulſions. Contention & Strife is an inteſtine Malady, that preys upon the vitals of a State, and naturally tends to its Ruin & Deſtruction: now, Religion is deſign'd to heal the vitious Diſpoſitions of Men, to ſuppreſs & root out, thoſe Luſts, & evil Qualities, which are the unhappy Sources of Contention & Strife; and to unite Man-kind in the ſtrongeſt Bonds of Love and Peace. It requires, that we make it our Study and Endeavour, to live in Love, in Unity, and Harmony with our fellow Men. Let all Bitterneſs, & Wrath, & Anger, & Clamour & evil ſpeaking be put away from You, with all Malice. And be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Chriſt's ſake hath forgiven You. || I therefore — beſeech You that ye walk, — with all Lowlineſs and Meekneſs, with Long-Suffering, for-bearing one another in Love; endeavouring to keep the Unity of the Spirit in the Bond of Peace. * Peace and Unity, are peculiarly agreeable to the Spirit of the Goſpel: It is called the Goſpel of Peace, not only, becauſe it is the appointed Means, of our Peace and Reconciliation with God; but alſo, becauſe it is deſin'd, and moſt wiſely adapted, to reconcile Men to one another, and to unite them in a ſacred and laſting Peace. It breathes Love and Good-Will, Peace and Harmony to the Sons of Men; and in Conformity to the Deſign & Spirit of it, 'tis the Duty of all its Profeſſors, eſpecially thoſe of the ſame Community, whether ſacred or political, to cultivate Benevolence, Charity and Peace. Every Breaſt ſhould be inſpir'd, with gentle & peaceful Diſpoſitions; every Member of a Community, chearfully move onward, in their appointed Spheres, and attend to their proper Buſineſs, without jarring, without interfering, in perfect Peace, Amity & Harmony. Mutual Benevolence & Love ſhould warm & unite every Heart, and render all the Parts of their Conduct conſiſtent, peaceful and harmonious. This is the Genius, this the Tendency of Religion; and how much it is the Beauty, the Strength and Glory of the State, is open to all.

5. A public Spirit, and ſubordinating our private Views & Intereſts to the Common Good, directly conduces to the public Tranquility. A narrow, contracted & ſelfiſh Spirit, is pernicious to the State. Nothing can give a People a more gloomy Proſpect, than the general Prevalence of ſuch a Temper: The common Good will be neglected, and Perſons will little regard, how it fares with the Public, ſo they can but graſp the World to themſelves, and fill their own Coffers: in that ſordid & deſpicable Point, all their Views, Schemes and Deſigns will center. And when Perſons in Authority, and Places of Eminence, are under the Influence & Controul of of ſuch a Spirit; the Aſpect upon the State, is peculiarly threatening & baleful: now, the Religion of the Goſpel, is deſign'd & calculated, to cure this mean, this ſordid Temper, and to produce & cheriſh a public, a noble & generous Spirit. "It ennobleth & enlargeth the Mind, " beyond any other Profeſſion or Science " whatſoever. Upon this Scheme, while the " Earth, and the tranſient Enjoyments of this " Life, ſhrink into the narroweſt Dimenſions, " and are accounted as the Duſt of the Ba- " lance, the Drop of the Bucket, yea, leſs than " Nothing; the intellectual World opens wi- " der to our View; the Perfections of the " Deity, the Nature & Excellence of Vertue, " the dignity of the human Soul," the Redemption of the World by Jeſus Chriſt, and the Solemnities of the laſt Judgment, "are " diſplay'd in the largeſt Characters." The " Mind of Man ſeems to adapt Itſelf to the " different Nature of its Objects; it is contrac- " ted and debaſed, by being converſant in little " and low Things, and feels a proportionable " Enlargement, ariſing from the Contemplation " of theſe great and ſublime Ideas." Religion greatens our Views, and opens our Hearts, to the most noble & generous Sentiments; it leads us to conſider all Mankind as Brethren, and to extend our benevolent Regards to them all; to bear on our Hearts the Intereſt of the Public, and to endeavour to promote it; to regard the Happineſs of the Community, to which we belong, as our own Happineſs; and to take a noble Satisfaction, after the Example of God, in advancing the Welfare of Mankind, & diffuſing Felicity all around us. Under the Influence of this excellent Spirit, Moſes, Samuel, David, Nehemiah, &c., were rich & diffuſive Bleſſings in their Day; and all the noble Patriots & Benefactors of later Date, having ſerved their Generations by the Will of God, have merited immortal Honours, and embalmed their Memories to all Poſterity.

6. Diligence and Induſtry, directly conduce to the Weal of the Public. The ruling Providence of God, has aſſign'd us all, our particular Stations and Callings in this World; in which, 'tis our Duty, diligently & induſtrioſly to employ Ourſelves: nor will any Pretences to a public Spirit, warrant, our breaking over the Boundaries of our particular Province, and becoming Buſy-Bodies, in other Men's Matters. Sloth & Idleneſs, or a ſlack & dozing Attendance to the Duties of our Callings, is branded in the holy Scriptures, with Reproach & Infamy; and condemned, as iniquitous & criminal; but Induſtry & a diligent Application to the Buſineſs of Life, is recommended & urged. As the Door turneth upon its Hinges, ſo doth the Slothful upon his Bed.||

Go

Go to the Ant thou Sluggard, consider her Ways, and be wise. † — Study to be quiet, and to do your own Business. ‖ And a Compliance with these Precepts of Religion, is beneficial, not only to particular Persons, but to the State: 'tis a happy Means of preventing many other Vices, that are detrimental to the Public; — Extravagance and Intemperance, Disorders and Contentions, which are the natural Off-spring of Idleness, and an Aversion to Business: and 'tis the appointed Way, for Persons to thrive in the World, and acquire Wealth & Riches. He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack Hand, but the Hand of the diligent maketh rich. * Now, the Wealth of particular Members, is the Riches & Strength of the Community: and where Idleness and its natural Consequents are generally avoided; and Industry & Frugality are the Character of a People; such a Community is, so far, in a prosperous & flourishing State. The Laws of Religion, indeed forbid Covetousness, and an unreasonable & immoderate Desire of Riches; and 'tis for the Benefit of the Public, they do so; for such a Temper of Mind, frequently proves a Snare and a prevailing Temptation to Injustice & Oppression, and it renders Persons, selfish and close-fisted, and so no good Members of a Community: but the Laws of God require, that we diligently apply Ourſelves to our particular Callings; that we may acquire an honeſt and comfortable Subſiſtance, for Ourſelves and Families, and be in a Capacity, to do Good to others & to promote the Intereſt of the Public.

7. Another, and the laſt Thing I ſhall here mention, that evidently ſubſerves the public Intereſt, is, the religious Education of Children and Youth. On this, under God, depends the Propagation of Religion, and the true Intereſt & Happineſs of a People, to future Generations: were all thoſe important Branches of Religion, that have been mentioned, generally attended to, and put in Practice in a Community; tho' we may well ſuppoſe, they would, for the preſent, be a happy People; yet, if the riſing Generation were neglected, and little or no Care taken, to form them to Civility and Vertue, to the Duties of Righteouſneſs and the ſocial Life; the Welfare & Tranquility of ſuch a People would be but ſhort-liv'd, and in the natural Courſe of Things, would expire and die with them, and be buried in their Graves: and in the next Generation, Ignorance, Barbariſm & all manner of Vice would break in like a Flood, & bear down & overwhelm the public Peace & Tranquility: to prevent this, & to render the civil, as well as religious Intereſt of a People, a durable & laſting Thing; the Laws of God require, not only, that we attend to Religion as the one Thing needful, ourourſelves; but that we teach & tranſmit it to our Poſterity, and train up our Children in the Nurture & Admonition of the Lord. Beſides the other methods God has appointed, for the Continuance & Propagation of Religion in the World; it lies as a Duty upon Parents, to teach & recommend it, to thoſe under their Care, & faithfully to exert Themſelves, in the Uſe of all ſuitable Means, to form them to Holineſs and practical Religion; agreeably the pious Iſraelites were reſolved, to declare the wonderful Works of God, to their Children; That the Generations to come might know them, even the Children which ſhould be born: who ſhould ariſe & declare them to their Children: that they might ſet their Hope in God, and not forget the Works of God; but keep his Commandments. † 'Tis the gracious Intention of God, that Chriſtianity ſhould be perpetuated in the World, and handed down from Father to Son, to the lateſt Poſterity: and he has made it the indiſpenſable Duty of Governors of Families, to take Care, that they who are to come after them, may know and practice it; that Religion may live when they are dead, & flouriſh in all ſucceeding Ages to the World's End. As the Civil State, as well as the Churches of Chriſt, is furniſhed with Members from private Families: if the Governors of theſe little Communities, were faithful to the great Truſt repoſed in them, and Family-Religion & Diſcipline were thoroughly, prudently & ſtrictly maintain'd & exercis'd, and all due Pains taken, to engage Children & Youth in the Intereſt of Religion, and early to form them to Holineſs, and all the Vertues of the ſocial Life; it would afford, a fair & bleſſed Proſpect, that the Generations to come would fear and ſerve God, and that Religion, and as nearly connected therewith, the Civil State, would proſper and flouriſh from Generation to Generation. In fine; a firm & inviolable Adherence to the Laws of Chriſt, & the genuine, benevolent Genius and Spirit of the Goſpel exerting and diffuſing itſelf, among all Ranks & Orders of Men, and animating and ſwaying the Body-politic; and a pious Care to tranſmit Religion to Poſterity; this, if any Thing, will render a People flouriſhing, happy and glorious; will eſtabliſh their Peace as a River, and their Tranquility as the Waves of the Sea.

What now remains, is ſome IMPROVEMENT of this Subject. And here,

I. Hence ſee, how nearly connected the Proſperity of the State is, with the ſpecial Means of Religion, particularly, the Chriſtian Miniſtry, & public Schools of Education and Learning; and how much it concerns a chriſtian State, to ſee they are ſuitably Encouraged and Supported.

That

That Sacred Volume that contains our Religion came down from God, and is attended with ſuch apparent Marks & Evidences of its divine Original, as powerfully recommend it to all Mankind: and as the Religion of the Goſpel is moſt wiſely contriv'd, and powerfully conduces to the Tranquility of the State; if the Matter be conſider'd in this Light, 'tis plainly incumbent on the Rulers of a People, as they would promote the Peace & Happineſs of the Community, which is the End and Buſineſs of their Office, to ſee that the Miniſters of Religion are ſuitably encouraged & ſupported. The public Means of Education likewiſe are to be regarded, as public Means of Religion, and as ſuch, to be tenderly cheriſhed & liberally ſupported. As the Chriſtian Miniſtry is a principal Means of keeping religion alive in the World, and promoting the Intereſts of it, and ſo is nearly connected with the Proſperity of the State; the public Seminaries of Learning, are the Sources of ſuch a Miniſtry. "It was "chiefly if not altogether upon religious Con- "ſiderations, that Princes, as well as private "Perſons, have erected Colleges, and aſſigned "liberal Endowments to Students and Pro- "feſſors; upon the ſame Account, they meet "with Encouragement and Protection from "all Chriſtian States, as being eſteemed the "neceſſary Means, to have the ſacred Ora-

"cles----

" cles — preſerved and underſtood. And it " is well known, that after a long Night of " Ignorance and Superſtition, the Reforma- " tions of the Church and that of Learning " began together, and made proportionable " Advances." When the Chriſtian Faith was firſt publiſhed to the world, the divine Author of it miraculouſly furniſhed its Diſpenſers to their great Work: but after Chriſtianity had ſpread and gotten Footing in the World, that extraordinary Interpoſure of divine Providence was diſcontinued; and in the ordinary Methods of Education & Inſtruction, Perſons are to be trained up and furniſh'd for the Chriſtian Miniſtry; and it is a Duty incumbent on every Generation of Chriſtians, and every Chriſtian State, to make Proviſion for a Miniſterial Succeſſion in the Churches: This is not an indifferent Matter, but the Providence of God ſeems evidently to devolve it upon Them as indiſpenſible Duty; and to conſtitute them Truſtees, to provide in this Regard, for the Generation to come; ſo that it highly behoves them, as to erect, ſo liberally to endow and ſupport Seminaries of Learning. But for our Colleges in this Land, what would become of our Churches? — What of Religion? The Flocks of Christ muſt diſperſe; or find none, but illiterate & unqualified Perſons to feed and conduct them. And for our College in particular, ticular, it was founded with the Approbation, & has grown & flourish'd under the Smiles of the Government: and the noble End of its being founded,—the Propagation of the Christian protestant Religion,& the furnishing these Churches with a learned, pious & orthodox Ministry, has been so far answer'd, as justly to demand our sincere & grateful Acknowlegements to the most High. But, as the People & Churches in the Land, are grown numerous; 'tis evidently necessary, the College should be put under the best Circumstances; in Order to its continuing fully to answer the great and good Ends of its Institution: and it naturally and rightfully looks to the Government, for Encouragement and Support: and the near Connexion of the most valuable Interests of the Government, with the Prosperity of that Society; the rich and diffusive blessing it has prov'd already; the fair & animating Prospect we have, it will prove much more so; the firm and steady Adherence of its Overseers & Governors, (in a fluctuating Age) to the peculiar, distinguishing Doctrines of the Gospel — Doctrines, which the pious Planters of this Land, and the venerable Founders of the College, justly apprehended of sacred Importance, — and Doctrines, which, to the Honour of the Churches of this Colony, and of New-England, they still own & profess; these Views, happily concur, to place that Seminary, in a favourable Point of Light; and powerfully to recommend it, to the moſt cordial Patronage, and generous Regards of the Government.

II. We ſee hence, in Proportion as Vice and Immorality prevail, the foundations of a State are weakned, Its Felicity impair'd, and the juſt Judgments of offended Heaven, may reaſonably be fear'd. As Vertue & Religion raiſe a People to Honor & Felicity, Sin tends to ſink and ruin them, and it raiſes the Indignation of the moſt high God, and expoſes their moſt valuable Intereſts to be ſwept away by his deſolating Rebukes. In this View of the Caſe; what Reaſon — what abundant Reaſon have we, to reflect on the State of this Land, of this Colony in particular, with a trembling Concern! For, how is this Land degenerated from its primitive Purity and Holineſs! — ſtain'd & contaminated with Iniquity & Vice! That Vine, that noble Vine, that was planted here by the Hand of Heaven, Does it not bring forth Grapes of Gall and Cluſters that are bitter? Our holy and pious Anceſtors now with God, were they to return to this Earth, how would they weep over their apoſtate Children? — their polluted and guilty Off-ſpring? How is that Reliſh for ſerious Godlineſs, and ſtrict Religion, which render'd them, the excellent and honourable of the Earth, vitiated among their Children?

Children? And what Vice, what Immorality almoſt can be named, but 'tis practis'd among us? Injuſtice, Oppreſſion, Falſhood, Detraction, Uncharitableneſs, Uncleanneſs, Intemperance and Prophaneneſs, to mention no more — Theſe tend, in the natural Train of Things, to ſink and ruin us: but that is not all; they ſtir up the Indignation of God againſt us; they break down the Wall of his protecting Providence around us, and throw open the Flood-gates, to all Manner of Evils & Calamities to ruſh in upon us. How long it may pleaſe a long-ſuffering God, to bear with a rebellious People, or how ſoon, he will whet his glittering Sword, and his Right-Hand will take hold on Vengeance, we know not; but this we well know, that it infinitely concerns ſuch a People, without Delay, to repent of their Sins, reform their Lives, and return obediently to God and their duty. But, 'tis Time to proceed, in the,

III Place, to a particular Addreſs, agreeable to what has been deliver'd, to the ſeveral Orders of Men here preſent,

— The Civil Magiſtracy;
— The Chriſtian Miniſtry; and
— The Body of the People.

1. Let me addreſs myſelf to our CIVIL RULERS; particularly to the Honourable the GOVERNOR, the DEPUTY-GOVERNOR, and to the Reſt of the Honourable Gentlemen of the General Aſſembly of this Colony, in their preſent Convention.

Honoured Fathers, I doubt not, 'tis with Satisfaction and Pleaſure you reflect; that the Holy Religion we all profeſs, with unſearchable Wiſdom is deſign'd and calculated by the divine Author of it, not only to anſwer & attain, its primary and great Deſign, the Happineſs and Salvation of Men in the coming World; but, likewiſe, ſo ſuited, in the beſt Manner ſuited, and directly tends, to further and advance the Welfare and Felicity of civil Communities on Earth. For, after all that has been ſaid, or can be ſaid, by the ableſt Statesmen and wiſeſt Politicians, nothing certainly ever enter'd into the Heart of Man, that is ſo powerful, ſo effectual a Means, of making a People happy, great and flouriſhing, as Religion. And as the Providence of GOD has raiſed You, to your respective Places of Eminence and Trust, to promote the Tranquility and Peace of this People; you will permit me, ſince the ſame Providence has called me into this Deſk, on this Occaſion; with all the Reſpect, your diſtinguiſhed Characters demand; with all the Freedom becoming a Miniſter of GOD; to recommend recommend Religion to You, as the moſt amiable and excellent, the moſt important and neceſſary Thing in the World. As You are Men, and the subjects of God and his Son, your higheſt Intereſt, your Peace and Comfort and Tranquility in this World, and your Happineſs and Well-being in the next, are depending on this Point: and as You are the Rulers of this People, your Intereſt & Proſperity are nearly concern'd in it. 'Tis therefore of the utmoſt Importance, that in all your Conduct, & all your Adminiſtrations, Religion be your prevailing, your governing Principle: under the bleſſed Influence thereof, you are ſteadily, vigorouſly to exert yourſelves, to promote the Tranquility & Welfare of this Government; by framing ſuch Laws, as are requiſite, for the ſuppreſſing and rooting out of Immorality and Vice, and the promoting Righteouſneſs and every ſocial Virtue; by lodging the executive Authority and Power, in the Hands of faithful Men — Men that fear God and hate Covetouſneſs; and effectually providing, if it be poſſible, that the Laws of the Colony, be faithfully, thoroughly executed; by protecting and cheriſhing the Miniſters and Churches of Christ; and by extending your conſtant, generous Regards to the School of the Prophets. This laſt is a Matter of ſo great and general Importance, (as any one will the more eaſily perceive at ſuch ſuch a Time, when ſo many Flocks of CHRIST are deſtitute, and as Sheep without a Shepherd, and are looking and crying thither, in vain crying for a ſupply;) as might well juſtify a Warmth and Importunity of Addreſs, which in a Matter of little Moment, would be quite inexcuſable, before an Audience, I ſo highly, ſo juſtly revere: but I chuſe rather to take it for granted, that You are fully ſenſible of the Importance of the Caſe, and that your Fatherly Protection, your conſtant Smiles, and generous Support, will chearfully be afforded to that Seminary.

Further, Permit me to recommend it, as of the biggeſt Importance, that You be careful to promote Religion, and ſo the Welfare of the State, by animating your People to every Thing that is laudable and praiſe-worthy, by your own Example, Countenance and Influence; by frowning upon the vicious, the licentious and unjuſt; by Scorning the Scorner, after the Example of GOD, and ſhewing Grace and Favour to the lowly and virtuous; by ſetting Religion in all its Beauty & captivating Charms before our Eyes, in the Holineſs and Sanctity of your own Converſation. "Evil Rulers "have ever been able to render Vice reputa- "ble; and cannot the righteous do as much "for Virtue? is Virtue (the greateſt of all "earthly Bleſſings! the faireſt and the loveliest

" of all human Accomplishments!) the only " Thing, which Power cannot render ho" nourable? Which Majesty cannot manifest " to be lovely? nor Courts, becoming? Can
" the highest Examples only influence to Evil?
" God forbid? this were to strip Grandeur " of its noblest Prerogatives, as well as its " truest and richest Interest. Let our Rulers " hear the Advice of a Ruler, (the wisest
" of all earthly Rulers) upon this Head;"
Take away the Dross from the Silver, and there shall come forth a Vessel for the Finer: take away the Wicked from before the King, and his Throne shall be established in Righteousness. —
" Remembering always, that it is the noblest " Prerogative of a King that sitteth on the " Throne of Judgment that he scattereth away
" all Evil with his Eyes; That he is then,
" truly the Substitute of the supreme Sove" reign, when the Righteous are honoured in " his Presence, and the Vile contemned.

My honoured Fathers, May that glorious Being, who standeth in the Congregation of the Mighty, and judgeth among the Gods; by whom Kings reign and Princes decree Justice, scatter Light into all your Paths; direct all your Counsels; and prosper all your Labours, to promote the Virtue and Religion; the Tranquility and Happiness of this People: And after you have been rich and lasting Blessings, ſings, in your elevated Stations; may You all meet the gracious Approbation, and tranſporting Euge of the ſupreme Sovereign; well done good and faithful Servants; enter ye into the Joy of your LORD.

II. Permit me, with all Humility, to addreſſ myſelf to the Miniſters of CHRIST, conven'd on this Occaſion.

Reverend Fathers and Brethren, We are not only Members of Civil Society in Common with Others, and as ſuch, under Engagements to promote its Welfare, and to do this, in thoſe Ways and Methods, Religion dictates and preſcribes; but, we are by Divine Deſignation and Appointment, the Miniſters of Religion; and as ſuch, under peculiar Obligations to advance its ſacred Intereſts. You will permit me therefore, on this Occaſion humbly to urge You, as well as myſelf, to exert all our Abilities in ſo noble, ſo glorious a Cauſe; — a Cauſe, in which the Honour of the bleſſed GOD, and his Son JESUS CHRIST, and the preſent and eternal Well-being and Felicity of Mankind are nearly concern'd: The End of our Office is, to promote the Deſigns of redeeming Love, in recovering ſinful, guilty, miſerable Men, to the favour & Image of GOD, in bringing them to a Life of Holineſs, and the Practice of all the amiable Duties of Obedience, and and building them up to a Meetneſs for the heavenly State. Senſible of our own Inſufficiency for theſe Things; looking to, and humbly depending on Chriſt and his Grace; animated by a tender Compaſſion and fervent Love to Immortal Souls; let us take Heed to Ourſelves, and to the Flocks of Chriſt over which the Holy Ghoſt hath made us Overſeers; — preach the Word, be inſtant in Seaſon and out of Seaſon, reprove, rebuke, exhort with all Long-Suffering and Doctrine. As our Commiſſion extends to the whole Counſel of God reveal'd in his Word, and is limited and bounded by it; let us keep back Nothing from our Hearers, that may be profitable to them, but give to every one a Portion in due Seaſon. And as we are ſet for the Defence of the Goſpel, let us prudently, faithfully caution and guard Our Hearers againſt the Errors and falſe Doctrines of a degenerate Age; and endeavour to confirm and eſtabliſh them in the great and important Truths of the Goſpel; — repreſent in the Courſe of our Miniſtry, the whole Syſtem of Chriſtian Doctrine, and the various Branches of it, in their due Connexion and mutual Relation; and ſet them, at once, in the moſt natural and eaſy, the ſtrongeſt and moſt convincing Light. We muſt likewiſe explain and Illuſtrate, the various Precepts of Morality, and Rules of holy Living, and place them in their native and amiable Light, and enforce them on the Minds of Men, by the ſtrongeſt and moſt engaging Motives; ſuch eſpecially, as are peculiar to the bleſſed Goſpel, than which, none can be more ſtriking and powerful.

Reverend, Reſpected, You well know, 'tis the plain, ſerious, affectionate Preaching of CHRIST crucified, and his unſearchable Riches, the Merit of his Croſs, the Prevalence of his Interceſſion, and the Power of his Grace, and the other peculiar Doctrines of the Goſpel, that are nearly connected therewith; GOD has been wont eſpecially to own and bleſs; and we may chearfully expect, he will ſtill own and bleſs to the producing of Faith towards our Lord JESUS CHRIST, and Repentance from dead Works, and all the excellent Fruits of Righteouſneſs and Holineſs, in Life and Converſation. And if we thus plant, thus water, (ſtill enforcing all our Miniſtrations in the Houſe of GOD, by the ſanctity and exemplary Obedience of our own Lives) and GOD ſhall pleaſe to give the Increaſe; we ſhall be the happy Inſtruments of promoting the moſt important and valuable Intereſt of our fellow-men; of forming them to Loyalty and Subjection to Civil Authority, not for Wrath, but for Conſcience Sake; and to the diligent Practiſe of the various Duties and Virtues of the Chriſtian and Social Life; and ſo of rendering rendering them uſeful and Bleſſings to the Public, in their reſpective Stations and Places: and what is more, infinitely more; we ſhall be the happy means of plucking miſerable Sinners from the Jaws of Ruin and Deſtruction; of reſcuing them from the Slavery of Sin and Tyranny of Satan, and of reſtoring them to the Favour of God, and of making them his loyal Subjects, and of raiſing them to the higheſt Happineſs and Protection of their Natures in the coming World. And when we conſider the ineſtimable Worth of immortal Souls, committed to our Care; the Danger, the amazing Danger, many of them are in, of periſhing and being miſerable forever; the gracious Proviſion made in the Goſpel for their Salvation; and the ſtrict and ſolemn Account, we muſt quickly render to God the Judge of all, of our Conduct in the Miniſtry; ought not theſe affecting Views, to quicken and animate all our Powers to advance the Kingdom and Intereſt of the Redeemer, in the World; and the Happineſs and Salvation of our Fellow Men? May Christ Jesus our divine Maſter, who purchas'd the Church, here on Earth with his own Blood, and being return'd to his Throne in the Heavens; has committed the Care of it to his Miniſters; ever afford us his gracious Preſence, — make us wiſe to win Souls, and faithful in our Lord's

Work, and crown our Labours with abundant Succeſs; that ſo the Bleſſing of many Souls ready to periſh, may come upon us, who may be our Crown and our Joy, in the great Day of the LORD:

III. In the laſt Place, let me addreſs myſelf to the numerous Aſſembly here preſent. Be perſwaded all, to contribute your Parts, to promote the Welfare and Felicity of this Government, by the ſerious Practice of Religion, in all the amiable and important Branches of it. As You are Members of this Community, You are bound to ſeek its Welfare, and to endeavour, in your Places, to advance its Peace and Proſperity. Be it your firſt, your great Cōncern, to do ſo, by a ſpeedy Reformation of whatever is amiſs, by repenting of your Iniquities, and parting with them. and by Lives of Holineſs, Virtue and ſtrict Religion. There is great Need of a Reformation: the Sins and Abominations to be found among us, are ſo many and ſo great; that we may well fear the angry Reſentments of the Moſt High, and the fearful Rebukes of his Providence: and how ſoon it will pleaſe the Judge of all the Earth, provok'd by our numerous Tranſgreſſions, by our Impenitence, our Contempt of the glorious Goſpel, and the Means of it, to pour his Indignation on a thankleſs Land, and inflict his Vengeance Vengeance on a polluted guilty People; we know not: be ſure, if you continue incorrigible and unreform'd, You muſt expect, ſooner or later, that Wrath will overtake You; and that the deſolating Judgments of Heaven will light upon You. It infinitely concerns You, Sirs, that without Delay, You repent and return to God and your Duty. See to it, that Religion be planted deep in your Hearts, and that it has a prevailing, Sovereign Influence on your Lives; — that you live in the ſteady Practice of all the amiable Duties of it; of ſerious Devotion and Piety toward the bleſſed God; of Loyalty and dutiful Submiſſion to our Civil Rulers; or Juſtice and Equity, of Truth and Faithfulneſs in all your Dealings; of Temperance and Sobriety, and of Diligence and Induſtry in your ſeveral Callings; ſtudying the Things that make for Peace, and the Things, whereby You may edify one another; and adorning the Doctrine of God our Saviour in all Things.

This is the appointed Way, and a Way which in its own Nature tends to promote the public Welfare & Happineſs: and to this, you are all bound, moſt ſolemnly bound, as You have named the Name of Christ, and taken upon You the Profeſſion of his holy Religion.

But

But to have done; Religion, not only ſubſerves the Intereſt of the State, but the cordial, thoro' Practice of it, is the direct Courſe, the only Courſe, to ſecure and promote your future Well-being, and your Happineſs to all Eternity. If you approve yourſelves to GOD the ſupreme Ruler of the World, in the ſincere Practice of Holineſs and Goſpel Obedience; and walk humbly, fruitfully and obediently before Him; This will be Matter of Support and unſpeakable Conſolation to You, when You come to leave the Society of Mortals here on Earth, and to lay down your Heads in the dark and ſilent Grave; This will enable You, to look up with Confidence and holy Boldneſs, in that great Day of the Lord; when all the civil Diſtinctions that obtain, among Men ſhall be no more; when all the tranſitory Scenes of Time ſhall diſappear; when the Kingdoms and Empires of the Earth ſhall melt away; and CHRIST himſelf ſhall deliver up the Kingdom, to GOD even the FATHER, and GOD ſhall be all in all.

Sorrowing moſt of all----that they ſhould ſee his Face no more.-----

THE Relation ſubſiſting between a Miniſter of CHRIST and the People of his Charge, is ſacred and endearing: And when he has prov'd a burning and ſhining Light among them, and his Labours have been ſignally bleſs'd, to the Advancement of their ſpiritual and eternal Intereſt; and they have been led to make all proper, grateful and affectionate Returns, and a mutual Amity and Friendſhip has been ſtudiouſly cultivated, by all proper and engaging Methods; the Diſſolution of that Relation, or the Removal of their Miniſter from them, muſt be a very intereſting and affecting Providence. This Remark is illuſtrated in the Words of my Text: Saint Paul was now at Miletus, a Sea-Port, Town on the Aſiatic Continent, a little South of Epheſus: 'Tis now in the Poſſeſſion of the Turks, and by by them called Melas. There was another Miletus in Crete, or on a little Isle adjoining, and so appurtaining to Crete, where Saint Paul left Trophimus sick, 2 Tim. iv, 20. But this Place was Miletus in Asia, where Saint Paul touch'd in his Voyage to Syria. He had spent much Time in these Parts before, testifying the Things that related to JESUS CHRIST, and preaching his Gospel and unsearchable Riches; and his Preaching had been attended with a rich and plentiful Success. Many had been persuaded to embrace the Gospel, and become Christians; who, as the Care of all the Churches very much devolv'd upon him, were the People of his Ministerial or Apostolic Charge; between whom, and himself there subsited an ardent and dear Affection. And being now bent on Speed, and hasting if possible to be at Jerusalem the Day of Pentecost. From Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the Elders of the Church; and having given them proper Exhortations, Cautions and Directions; and addressed himself, in a proper, tender and edifying Manner to the whole Multitude of Christian Converts, conven'd on this Occasion; § he takes his final Leave of them All, in a very solemn and affectionate Manner; concluding that they among whom he had gone preaching the Kingdom of GOD, should see his Face no more. His affectionate Hearers were deeply struck and impress'd, with a Sense of their inexpressible Loss;--that their spiritual Father, their Apostle and Minister

§ I here suppose, that there was conven'd on this Occasion, besides the Ephesian Elders, a considerable Number of Christian Converts, to visit their Apostle, pay their grateful Acknowledgments to him; receive Instructions from, and take their Leave of him: And the Supposition is so natural, the Thing itself so highly probable, and there being, as I apprehend, such plain Intimations of it, in sundry Parts of the Apostle's Discourse, though address'd more particularly to the Elders of Ephesus, that I think it can hardly be doubted of.

Miniſter, ſhould be finally taken from them. When they conſidered what he was, what he had been to them, and what their Loſs muſt be, in his Removal from them,--not for a ſhort Seaſon, with a View to Return,--but in his final Removal from them, their Hearts were fill'd with Sorrows, and their Sorrows burſt from their Eyes in Floods of Tears. They wept ſore, and fell on Paul's Neck and kiſſed him. If Affection and Tears could have detain'd him, they had longer, much longer been edified and built up in their holy Faith, by his Preſence, Preaching and miniſterial Labours among them. Saint Paul, tho' in his extraordinary Character, he was an Apoſtle of JESUS, in his ordinary One, the Miniſters of CHRIST, to the End of the World, are his proper Succeſſors; and the Extraordinaries of his apoſtolic Character excepted, the Work and Duties of his miniſterial Office were the ſame, with thoſe of the other Miniſters of CHRIST; and the ſorrowful and paſſionate Reſentments of an affectionate People, at the Loſs of a faithful Paſtor, may well be ſuppoſed, to bear ſome Reſemblance of what is here expreſs'd: Sorrowing moſt of all,--that they ſhould ſee his Face no more. Apprehending the Words a proper Foundation of a Diſcourſe on the preſent Occaſion, my Intention is, by Divine Aſſiſtance,

I. Briefly to delineate the faithful Miniſter of CHRIST,

II. Set in your View the mournful Providence, of an affectionate People bereav'd of ſuch a Miniſter.

III. Point you to the Springs of their Sorrowing, or ſhow you, wherefore they mourn under ſuch a Providence.

IV. Make ſome Application, agreeable to the preſent, mournful Occaſion. Of theſe in Order,

I. I am briefly to delineate the faithful Miniſter of CHRIST. Such an One, by Way of Eminence, and high Diſtinction, was Saint Paul, whoſe Removal from from them, was ſo affecting to, and ſo mournfully reſented by, his Aſiatic Hearers. Now this ſacred and important Character, ſuppoſes or compriſes,---Proper Qualifications,--- right, evangelical Views and Aims,---A ſuitable Application to, and Diſcharge of the various Duties of the Office,---And Perſeverance therein, with unſhaken Reſolution and Conſtancy.

1. The faithful Miniſter of CHRIST is furniſhed and adorned, with the proper Qualifications for that holy Office. And theſe, the more material of them, are, ſuitable Attainments in Knowledge, and real Piety. The Work of the Goſpel Miniſtry is a difficult and arduous Undertaking, and ſuperior Degrees of Knowledge are requiſite, to the faithful and advantageous Diſcharge of it. Long Study and Application to Books, an Acquaintance with the learned Languages, eſpecially thoſe, in which the Oracles of God were delivered; a competent Acquaintance with human Nature, and the liberal Arts and Sciences; with a View, that they may all, unitedly contribute their Aſſiſtance to the Study and Knowledge of Divinity, cannot but be thought needful. Accordingly the Man of God, that he may be thoroughly furniſhed to every good Work, and to all the Duties of the paſtoral Office, makes Divinity the Subject, the principal Subject of his diligent and prayerful Study. The Oracles of God; thoſe ſacred Repoſitories of divine Truth, lie open to his View: Theſe he revolves and ſearches, with his Heart to Heaven for divine Illumination and Guidance, and the Aſſiſtance of ſuch human Compoſitions, whether ancient or modern, critical or practical, as are ſuited and adapted to aid his Searches and Diſquiſitions into thoſe holy Writings, and to bring him acquainted with the whole Circle of Divinity. Hence he is furniſhed with ſuch Degrees of divine Knowledge, and Acquaintance with with the Truths, Doctrines and Duties of the Gospel, as the Difficulty and Importance of his Office demands. He gives himself to Reading, Meditation and Prayer, that his Profiting may appear unto All; and the Word of CHRIST may dwell richly in him, and he may be able and apt to teach Others; and from the various and rich Treasures of a well furnished Mind, he may feed the Church of GOD, which he has purchased with his own Blood.

BUT Grace in the Heart, as well as Knowledge in the Head, is likewise necessary.----This is an essential Ingredient, into the Character of a faithful Minister of CHRIST. He is a Man of GOD, his Heart is divinely chang'd and fix'd for GOD; enriched and beautified with the sacred Graces of the Gospel, and conformed, in some good Degree, to the holy Image of CHRIST, his Lord and Master. And he exercises himself unto Godliness, and follows after Holiness, that Holiness without which no Man shall see the LORD. Such a Sense of GOD, prevailing and ruling in the Heart, and such a Conviction of his Dependence upon, and Obligations to Him, as shall engage him to make it his Care and Choice to please and honour GOD, in all Things, is essential to the Character of a faithful Minister of CHRIST; competent Attainment in Knowledge and real Piety, are the requisite, and more material Qualifications for that holy Office. Another Thing, and nearly connected with this, is,

2. Right, Evangelical Views and Aims.

WITH these he enters upon,--with these he goes thro' the whole Work and various Duties of his Office. He takes the Oversight of the Church of GOD, not by Constraint, but willingly, not for filthy Lucre but of a ready Mind,‡--not meanly courting the empty Applause of the Populace; but satisfied with the gracious Approbation bation of his divine Maſter---not coveting the withering Wreath of Diſtinction and honour among Mortals, but content with that Honour which cometh from God;--nor yet lured, by the guilty Imagination of carnal Eaſe and Indulgence, but willing and deſirous to ſpend and be ſpent, in the Service of Christ and for the Good of Souls. His Views are grand and noble: His Aims ſacred and divine. His governing End is the ſame with that of the bleſſed Goſpel itſelf; which is, to bring higheſt Glory to God, and his Son--make a bright and illuſtrious Diſplay of the divine Perfections, in recovering fallen, guilty, ruined Man to the Favour and Image of God, and bringing him to final Happineſs and Salvation. This is the Deſign of the Goſpel, and the Miniſtry of the Goſpel: And this is the ruling View of the faithful Miniſter. With a Heart glowing with Love to God, and Christ, and the Souls of Men, 'tis his great Deſign, to advance the declarative Glory of God upon the Earth,--to ſpread the Honours and Triumphs of the Redeemer among Mankind;---to build up the Church and Kingdom of Christ in the World; ---to reſcue poor periſhing Sinners from Guilt, Death and Ruin, and build them up in Faith and Holineſs, and to promote their higheſt, their ſpiritual and eternal Intereſt. With theſe laudable and evangelic Views

3. He applies himſelf to the Diſcharge of the various Duties of his ſacred Office---Takes Heed to himſelf, and the Miniſtry which he has received in the LORD, to fulfil it; and to all the Flock, over which the HOLY GHOST hath made him Overſeer; to feed the Church of GOD, which he hath purchased with his own Blood: Having heartily and ſolemnly devoted himſelf to Christ, in the Work of the Miniſtry; he watches for Souls, as one that muſt give an Account.

As

As an Ambaſſador of CHRIST, and in his Name, he beſeeches Sinners to be reconciled to GOD, thro' the Mediation of his SON. He preaches the Word, is inſtant in Seaſon, and out of Seaſon, reproves, rebukes, exhorts with all long-ſuffering and Doctrine.—Speaks the Things which become ſound Doctrine, in all Things ſhewing himſelf a Pattern of good Works; in Doctrine, ſhewing Uncorruptneſs, Gravity, Sincerity, ſound Speech that cannot be condemned; giving no Offence to any, that the Miniſtry be not blamed; but in all Things approving himſelf a Miniſter of GOD, warning every Man and teaching every Man in all Wiſdom, that he may preſent every Man perfect in CHRIST JESUS. He keeps back nothing, that may be profitable to his Hearers, but faithfully delivers the whole Counſel of GOD. The whole chriſtian Syſtem, or the various important Branches of the Goſpel Revelation, in the Courſe of his Miniſtry he repreſents; inſiſting principally on thoſe Things, that are moſt plainly reveal'd, moſt frequently inculcated, and on which the greateſt Streſs is laid, in the Word of GOD; and endeavours to ſet them in a true and juſt, a clear and convincing Light; and to impreſs the Minds of Men, with a deep and lively Senſe of their Truth and Certainty, and their vaſt and unſpeakable Importance: And like a wiſe and faithful Steward, he endeavours to give to every One a Portion in due Seaſon. The Diſcipline of Chriſt's Houſe, and the Sacrament of the new Teſtament likewiſe he adminiſters, to the meet Subjects: And daily, ardently he pours out his Supplications before GOD, for the People of his Charge: And to the various Duties of his holy Calling he endeavours to apply himſelf, with Diligence, Engagednes of Spirit and holy Zeal----with that Uprightneſs and Integrity of Heart----with that exact and univerſal Impartiality, Wiſdom and Prudence, Care and Watchfulneſs, Courage and Reſolution, that a Work of ſuch ſacred Moment and Importance demands : Still enforcing all his ſacred Miniſtrations and paſtoral Labours, by the exemplary Sanctity and Holineſs of his own Life and Converſation, and adorning the Goſpel of God his Saviour in all Things. I might add,

4. He perſeveres in the faithful Diſcharge of his holy Office, with unſhaken Reſolution and Conſtancy.

Many and well known are the Embarraſments, and Hardſhips, the Difficulties and Diſcouragements, that are wont to attend Thoſe, who are faithfully engaged in this holy Service : But none of theſe Things move the faithful Miniſter of Christ----don't ſhake his Reſolution, nor quench or damp his Zeal ; neither counts he his Life dear unto himſelf, ſo that he may finiſh his Courſe with Joy, and the Miniſtry which he has received of the Lord Jesus, to teſtify the Goſpel of the Grace of God : But relying on the Arms of Christ, and his unfailing Promiſes ; he rather riſes, or ought to do ſo, by the Difficulties and Oppoſitions he meets with, to freſh Endeavours, warmer Zeal, and more vigorous Efforts, to advance the Glory of his God---to build up the Church and Kingdom of his Saviour, and to promote the Welfare and Salvation of precious Souls. And like the unwearied Sun in the Firmament, he holds on his ſacred Courſe, and is ſtrong in the Lord, and in the Power of his Might ; and with unſhaken Conſtancy and Reſolution, he proſecutes the Duties of his holy Calling, thro' all Difficulties and Dangers. thro' all Oppoſitions and Reproaches, 'till his Lord and Maſter ſends him a Diſmiſſion : For Christ the great Head of the Church, who inſtituted the Goſpel Miniſtry, and ſends his Miniſters among a People to watch for their Souls, and

ſerve them in their beſt, their ſpiritual and eternal Intereſts; when he pleaſes, orders their Diſmiſſion and final Removal from them. And ſo I am prepared in the

II. Place to ſet in your View the mournful Providence, of an affectionate People bereaved of a faithful Miniſter.

The Relation between a Miniſter and People, tho' intimate and endearing, far from being indiſſoluble, is not uſually of very long Continuance: It may be diſſolved, during the Continuance of his natural Life: His Voice may be ſilenced, and he may be cut off from all the Duties of his Function, among his People, by the Hand of Violence: As when a Storm of Perſecution ariſes, and beats upon the Church of Christ; and Hundreds, Thouſands ſometimes are ſilenced at once; and their People at once are deprived of their miniſterial Labours and Services: Or, he may be call'd in Providence to labour in ſome other Part of the Vineyard, or he may be tranſlated to ſome other Station, of ſuperior Service, and more extenſive Uſefulneſs. Or, however this be, if the Relation ends not 'till Death, that will ſoon put a Period to it. The faithful Miniſter is a mortal Man, and muſt die as well as Others: And every ſuch an one, may well adapt Saint Peter's Words, in 2. Peter i. 14. Knowing that ſhortly I muſt put off this my Tabernacle, even as our Lord JESUS CHRIST hath ſhewed me: And thence with Peter, be quickened to the important Duties of his Office, while Time and Life laſt, and he has Opportunity for them: See Verſe 13 and 15. Yea I think it meet as long as I am in this Tabernacle, to ſtir you up, by putting you in Remembrance—moreover I will endeavour, that you may be able, after my Deceaſe to have theſe Things always in Remembrance. The Miniſter of Jesus ſprung from the Duſt, and muſt return thither, as well as Others. The Treaſure of the Goſpel Miniſtry, is committed to Earthern Veſſels, eaſily broken and daſhed to Pieces: In Common with the Reſt of human Kind, he muſt yield to the Stroke of Death, and leave his Work and all his Enjoyments upon the Earth. How richly ſoever he is furniſhed for the Duties of his ſacred Truſt; how bright and illuſtrious ſoever his Character may ſhine; how uſeful and important ſoever his Continuance among his People, may be apprehended to be; and how dear ſoever he may be to them: Yet when the great Head of the Church and Ruler of the World ſees fit, he muſt die; the Relation between them muſt be diſſolved: The burning and ſhining Light muſt be put out in obſcure Darkneſs. All conquering Death ſeizes upon the Man of God, takes him from the ſacred Deſk, cuts him off from all the Duties of his Office, and Miniſtry, lodges him in the ſilent Grave.

Striking and awful Providence! Let us with Humility and Reverence, enquire into the Reaſons, of ſuch heavy, bereaving Viſitations. And here it may be ſuggeſted,

1. The Miniſters of JESUS are included with Others, under the common Law of Mortality.

Man in his original State of Purity and Perfection, was not liable to Death: And had he perſiſted inviolably in his Allegiance to his Maker, Death had been a Stranger to the Earth. But Man being ſet in Honour abode not. By one Man Sin entered into the World, and Death by Sin, and ſo Death paſſes upon all Men, for that all have ſinned.† The fatal Conſequences of the firſt Apoſtacy, are univerſally propagated among Mankind.

Duſt thou art, and to the Duſt ſhalt thou return; ſaid the righteous Judge, to Adam, and in him to all his Race; and this, agreeably to the Threatning ning and Tenor of his broken Law: And the Sentence of Death which was pronounced upon Man on his Fall from God, has been carrying into Execution ever ſince. Excepting two Perſons, in the firſt Ages of the World, who by an extraordinary Diſpenſation, were taken up to Glory without dying; and Thoſe who ſhall be found alive, when Christ ſhall return from Heaven to judge the World: Death has, or will ſeize upon, the whole human kind. It is appointed unto all Men once to die: and there is no diſcharge in that War:§ This is a Doom from which none of us are exempted. The greateſt and beſt among Mankind, as well as the meaneſt and worſt, without fail must die.

None of the human Race are free from Sin, and Death which is the Wages of Sin, reigns over all. The holy Prophets of God and Apoſtles of Jesus are dead: The wiſe and holy Magiſtrate, the pious and faithful Miniſter, all the Excellent of the Earth, All of every Character and Degree are alike ſubject to the Law of Mortality: All muſt die. This is the Order of God the rightful and ſupreme Governor of the World.

2. Hereby GOD diſplays his ſovereign Dominion over all. Our God is a mighty King, his Throne is eſtabliſhed in the Heavens, and his Kingdom and Dominion extend over all. He acteth according to his Pleaſure, in the Armies of Heaven, and among the Inhabitants of the Earth, and none can ſtay his Hand. Yea, the Holy Scriptures teach us to ſay, that all Power and Authority is put into the Hands of Christ the Mediator, and that he is Head over all Things. Empires and civil Combinations of Men—the Church and World are under his Juriſdiction and Government.

And

And what abundant Reaſon have the Children of Zion to be joyful in their King? But alas! how apt are weak and ſhort-ſighted Mortals, to diſtruſt the Wiſdom and Sufficiency of Christ's Government; and to lay out and plan the Methods of Adminiſtration. The great Affairs of Church and State, muſt be conducted in ſuch a particular Manner; and their Management committed to ſuch or ſuch Instruments, or all will go to Confuſion. But are they wiſer than God? It may be, whilſt in the Fulneſs of their own Wiſdom, and forgetful of God, they are laying their Schemes, and raiſing their Expectations; the ſupreme Ruler in the Courſe of his Providence, rebukes their Incredulity and Vanity, diſconcerts their Meaſures, and daſhes their Schemes to Pieces; and thoſe excellent and uſeful Inſtruments, on whose Wiſdom, Sanctity, Vigilance and Application, they raiſed their Expectations and Hopes, are taken from their Places of Eminence and Uſefulneſs, and lodged in the ſilent Grave. And thus God teaches the Children of Men, that the Government of the Church and World is in his own Hand, and that he can adminiſter it without the Help of their Plans and Politicks, and without ſuch Inſtruments as they may imagine the moſt uſeful and neceſſary: and in ſuch Ways and Methods, as his own unſearchable Wiſdom ſhall direct. By taking away the Uſeful and Excellent of the Earth, either from the Church of Christ, or the civil State, the moſt High manifeſts his own All-ſufficiency to carry on the great Affairs of his Government and Church, and to accomplish his own Deſigns, in ſuch Ways, and by ſuch Inſtruments as ſeemeth good to himſelf, and aſſerts and diſplays his own independent, ſovereign Dominion over All.

3. Hereby

3. Hereby GOD opens the Way, for the Displays of his Goodness, in raising up Others to serve his Churches.

The Church of Christ is founded on so stable a Basis, that the Gates of Hell shall never prevail against it: It shall subsist amidst all Dangers, and shall live thro' all Storms; for her King is in her. The Gospel of the Kingdom must be preached and the Gospel Ministry continued, so long as there is a Sinner upon the Earth to be converted from the Error of his Ways, or a Saint to be built up in Holiness and Comfort. The Care and Faithfulness of the great Head of the Church is visible, in upholding this Order of Men, for the Edification of the Church in all Ages. Tho' his holy Sovereignty, and absolute Dominion over all, is awfully manifest in his calling off his faithful Servants in the Ministry from their Stations of Usefulness, and depriving the Churches of their further Labours and Services; yet, these afflictive Visitations, in the Course of his Providence, make Way for the rich Displays of his Mercy and inexhaustable Fulness, in raising up Others to fill their Places, and serve the Churches. The Residue of the Spirit is with him, and 'tis he that gives these precious Gifts to the Children of Men. He that inspired Bezaleel with Wisdom and Understanding, upon the Decease of one faithful Minister, can raise up another, furnish and adorn him, with a happy Concurrence of ministerial Gifts and Graces, spirit him to the sacred Service, and give him a rich Ascension-Gift to his Church and People; And thus the Frowns of Christ in calling Home his faithful Ministers by Death, introduce the bright and illustrious Displays of his Goodness, Grace and unchangeable Care and Faithfulness to his Church, in all Ages.

4. They may in Mercy be taken away from the Evil to come.

When a People are become remarkably corrupt and wicked, when they have abuſed and miſimproved the richeſt and and moſt ſuitable Means, for their Repentance and Reformation, and ſtill go on frowardly and incorrigeably in their wicked Ways; and the Indignation of Heaven burns hot againſt them: When the Aſpects of Providence are gloomy and threatening, and God ſeems to be *coming out of his Place to puniſh the Inhabitants of the Earth for their Iniquities; he is ſometimes pleaſed remarkably, graciouſly to diſtinguiſh his faithful Servants, and to call them Home to Reſt, that they may not live to ſee all the Evils he is bringing on a ſinful People; nor be involved in the Miſeries and Calamities that are to be inflicted. So God in Way of gracious Diſtinction, may diſmiſs his faithful Miniſters from their Stations of Uſefulneſs, and take them to Manſions of Peace and Tranquility, when a Storm of Wrath is coming down on a ſinful People. See Iſaiah lvii, 1.

5. The faithful Miniſters of CHRIST are now in a State of Trial, and they die that they may give up their Accounts and receive their Reward.

They with the reſt of the World are now Probationers for Eternity: A great and important Work lies upon their Hands. Their general Buſineſs, and Calling as Chriſtians, is the ſame with that of Others---to repent of their Sins, believe in the Son of God, and lead Lives of Faith, Holineſs and Obedience, and grow up in Christ to the Meaſure of the Stature of perfect Men; But as Miniſters of Christ, they are appointed to watch for Souls, as thoſe that muſt give an Account.† 'Tis a difficult and arduous Employ, the various Parts of which are diligently to be attended to; Diſmal may be the Conſequences that may enſue upon their Unfaithfulneſs, with Reſpect to the People of their Charge: and on this Suppoſition,

But 'tis of those Ministers of Christ we are now speaking, who obtain Mercy of the LORD to be faithful. They are now labouring, faithfully labouring in the Vineyard of Christ, and diligently watching for the Souls of Men: But the Time is hastening, when they shall be dismissed from all their Labours and Trials, Difficulties and Temptations. Their present State of Trial will not be perpetual; and 'tis a reviving Consideration to them, that it will not: But their Lord and Master, by and by will call them home; and 'tis their daily solemn Concern, that they may be able to render up their last Accounts with Comfort and Joy; and may meet the gracious Approbation of their divine Master, and receive from his Hand the Reward of faithful Servants. See Dan. xii. 3. They that be wise, shall shine as the Brightness of the Firmament, and They that turn many to Righteousness, as the Stars, for ever and ever. 'Tis not fitting they should always be in a State of Trial, and they die that they may be taken home to Rest and Reward.

6. Hereby GOD, in his Providence, calls aloud to All around to prepare for Death.

When we see Others die, can we avoid the Reflection, that We ourselves must die too? When we see Mankind around us, resigning their Breath, bidding adieu to all Things here below--dropping into the Grave--and entering the eternal World; can we but turn our Thoughts upon Ourselves, and reflect, that we also are of the same dying Race; and must quickly make our Bed in Death? The meanest of the Species, when, under our View, or within the Compass of our Observation, they are called away by Death, are a Warning and Admonition to us, to get ready with all Speed for for our Departure hence: But when Perſons of Eminence and Diſtinction, in Church or State, and who have been remarkably uſeful in their Generation, are called off the Stage, and numbered to the gloomy Manſions of the Dead; the awful and alarming Providence, like ſeven Thunders utters its Voice, to Survivors all around, be ye alſo ready. When a faithful Miniſter of JESUS is not ſuffered to continue by Reaſon of Death; there is a loud Voice in the Providence: The Voice ſays and cries,--All fleſh is Graſs, and all the Goodlineſs thereof is as the Flower of the Field‡. The Voice cries to the Miniſters of CHRIST around, to ſhake off Sloth, and apply themſelves zealously, to the Duties of their Office; to trim their Lamps and prepare to give up their Accounts. It cries to the bereaved, afflicted People, to conſider wherefore GOD is thus contending with them to humble themſelves under his holy Hand, and to make all ready for Death without Delay. In this Day of Adverſity, they ought in all Reaſon to conſider, 'Tis a mournful Providence, a touching, affecting Diſpenſation, to an affectionate People; Their Hearts are fill'd with Grief, and their Eyes run down with Tears. Sorrowing moſt of all that they ſhould ſee his Face no more. But it's time to proceed, and in the

III. Place, Point you to the Springs of their Sorrowing, or ſhow you wherefore they mourn, under ſuch a Providence.

THEY mourn, that their Miniſter is taken from them--their Paſtor, their ſpiritual Guide and Head, and the Friend of their Souls--taken from them, and lodged in the dark and ſilent Grave; and that they muſt ſee his Face no more. They mourn, not for him: He needs not, and is beyond the Reach of their Tears; having left the Earth, he is gone to Heaven; Being abſent from the

the Body, he is preſent with the LORD§. This Region of Darkness, Guilt and Tribulation, he has exchanged for Habitations of Purity, Light and Joy. His Clog of Fleſh, and every Infirmity drop'd; all remaining Corruption and Sin completely purg'd away; cloſing his Eyes on all below the Sun, he ſhines out in the ſpotleſs Image of the Son of God, and paſſes to the Fountain Head of Felicity and Joy. Every Wiſh is gratified, and every Deſire perfectly fulfill'd in thoſe calm and ſacred Abodes--that bliſsful, everlaſting Reſt which remains for the People of God. For him therefore they need not mourn; but they mourn for themselves, and their Children, and the People and Church of Christ, on the Earth. They mourn the great Loſs ſuſtain'd in his Removal—Themſelves and the Church of God, deprived of ſuch a Bleſſing, Ornament and Honour. They ſhall ſee his Face no more--enjoy his entertaining and inſtructive Converſe no more--have Acceſs to him, for Counſel and Direction, in their ſpiritual and Soul Concerns no more--enjoy his paſtoral Watch and Viſitations no more--have the Benefit of his pious and Inſtructive Example and his further fervent Prayers and Interceſſions with Heaven for them no more. They ſhall ſee him in the ſacred Deſk no more, wreſtling with Heaven in their Behalf, and pouring out the Fulneſs of his Heart, for a Bleſſing; with the Myſteries of the Kingdom, and ſacred Doctrines of the Goſpel upon his Lips; managing and carrying on a Treaty of Peace between God and them, and beſeeching them in Christ's *Stead to be reconciled to GOD. They ſhall enjoy his Preſence no more; and his paſtoral Labours among them, and his living Uſefulneſs to the Churches, are all over and at an End. The Light that ſhone with ſo amiable and beneficial a Luſtre, in the golden Candleſtick is is put out. The Steward who with a ſkilful Hand diſperſed the Proviſions of CHRIST's Houſe to them, is diſmiſſed from his Office. The painful Labourer in CHRIST's Vineyard, is retir'd Home. And he that watch'd for their Souls has left them and is gone. And when they conſider what he was, and what their Loſs is, Tears guſh from their Eyes, and they break out into Lamentation and Mourning.

Again, They mourn under the bereaving Viſitation, as it is an awful Frown of Heaven upon them. When the moſt High GOD is angry with, and his Indignation burns againſt them; when the Brow of Heaven is covered with a Cloud, and the Countenance of GOD is drawn into Frowns, his People may well mourn:— Mourn under the awful Rebukes of GOD, and his chaſtiſing Rod, laid heavy upon them. When the GOD of Heaven frowns, and his Indignation ſmokes, it well becomes his People, who by their Sins, have drawn down the Tokens of his Anger, to tremble and be afraid, to humble themſelves in his Sight, to lament their Sins in his Preſence, and to repent in Duſt and Aſhes.

Further. Such a People may well mourn, under the Bereavement, from a fearful Apprehenſion of the Conſequences that may enſue. As the Righteous are ſome Times taken away from the Evil to come; ſo, have they not Reaſon to fear, the bereaving Providence, may be a Preſage of further Calamities and Judgments of Heaven that are coming upon them? Now their Man of God and Interceſſor with Heaven is gone, who was wont to ſtand in the Gap and plead for the Land, and for them; have they not Reaſon to fear the Judgments of Heaven will light upon them? It may be, Many among them have perverſly abuſed rich and diſtinguiſhing Means, perſiſted incorrigeable in Sin and Impenitence, and rejected the Grace and Salvation of GOD against themſelves; and may they not now fear, that they ſhall be left to ſpiritual Judgments, to Blindneſs of Mind, and Hardneſs of Heart and final Impenitence; and after their Hardneſs and impenitent Hearts to treaſure up Wrath againſt the Day of Wrath, and the Revelation of the righteous Judgment of GOD. † Or, that they may be ſuffered to fall a Prey to Seducers, and their plauſible ſubtil Artifices, and to be drawn away and inſnared by hurtful and deſtructive Errors, toſſed to and fro, and carried about with every Wind of Doctrine, by the Sleight of Men, and cunning Craftineſs whereby they lie in Wait to deceive.—Or, that they may be left to run into angry Parties, and unChriſtian Animoſities and Contentions among themſelves, to the Deſtruction of all ſocial Peace and Comfort; renting the Body of CHRIST, and turning his Church almoſt, in a literal Senſe, into an Army with Banners—Or, That God will withdraw his protecting Preſence from them, break down the Hedge from around them, and the awful, deſolating Calamities and Judgments of Providence will ruſh in upon them? What Reaſon, I ſay, have a People, upon the Deceaſe of their faithful Paſtor, to be ſadly apprehenſive of the Conſequences that may enſue?—to fear, but not to deſpond,—no, but in all proper Ways to guard against all ſuch unhappy and terrible Conſequences, and to look and cry to Heaven for Preſervation and Security. And when they conſider what their Danger is, and what Cauſe they have for boding Apprehensions of Evils coming upon them: What Reaſon have they, to gird themſelves with Sackcloth, to weep and lament!

AND ſo I proceed to ſome APPLICATION of my Subject, agreeable to the preſent mournful Occaſion. A mournful Occaſion truly the present one is, and the Application of what has been ſaid, to it, is ſo eaſy and obvious to moſt of my Hearers, I preſume preſume, have been beforehand of me, in making it. The faithful Miniſter has been briefly deſcrib'd; ſuch an One, the great God, in his holy and awful Providence, has been pleaſed to take from You,—The affecting Providence, of a People bereav'd of ſuch a Miniſter, has been ſet in your View; ſuch is your preſent mournful Situation. The Reaſons of their Sorrow and Mourning, have been briefly pointed out; thoſe Reaſons obtain with you. But ſome Thing further muſt be ſaid.

My dear Friends and Hearers, of this Church and Congregation, the Hand of God, lies heavy upon you: Your worthy and excellent Paſtor is taken from you, and you muſt ſee his Face no more. He has been for many Years, a burning and ſhining Light in this Candleſtick; but the Light is put out in obſcure Darkneſs. He was happily furniſhed for the miniſterial Office and Work, by the Gifts and Endowments of Nature, his Acquirements in Learning, Acquaintance with Men and Things; particularly with the Oracles of God, and the ſacred Branches of Religion and Divinity; by his Soundneſs in the Faith, and firm and ſteady Adherence to the peculiar, diſtinguiſhing Doctrines of Chriſtianity; and by the Piety and Devotion of his Heart, and it's being fixed for God and Religion, and ardent in Love to Christ and the Souls of Men.

And did he not proſecute the holy Work and Duties of his Office, with upright, evangelical Views; that God and Christ and Goſpel Grace might be glorified, and precious and immortal Souls might be ſaved? And did he not apply himſelf to the various Duties of his Function, with Diligence, Induſtry and unfainting Perſeverance?—Was a plain, ſerious, evangelical Preacher—fed you with Knowledge and Underſtanding; and ſhun'd not to declare to You the whole Counſel of of God. In Prayer, and his Addreſſes to Heaven, he was a Man of God, excelling and admir'd. And he liv'd the Goſpel as well as preach'd it. His Life, his Walk before You, and his good Converſation in Christ, and his ſteady Practice of all the amiable Duties of the Chriſtian Life, was a perpetual living Sermon, adapted to make Iniquity bluſh and hide its Head, and to charm Mankind into the Paths, the amiable Paths, of Goſpel Holineſs and Obedience.

But his diſcriminating characteriſtic Excellencies were,—An uncommon Humility, Meekneſs, and Tenderneſs of Spirit,—Serenity and Sweetneſs of Temper,—Peaceableneſs, Caution, Steadineſs, and great Prudence,—and an ardent Benevolence, Good-Will and Charity: His placid and ſerene Aſpect, his almost every Action, Geſture, Air, correſponded and harmonized with the ſacred Tranquility of his inner Man,—was ornamented and enriched with that Wiſdom which is from above, which is pure, peaceable, gentle, eaſy to be entreated, full of Mercy and good Fruits, without Partiality and without Hypocrisy. Religion in him, ſeemed to appear, in its native Beauty, its amiable and attractive Charms; and he had the ſacred Art of recommending it to Others, in the moſt advantageous Manner, by making it appear in his own Life and Conduct, not only, that it is praſticable, but that it is truly ornamental, and divinely excellent. He preſided in the Church of God, and managed the ſacred Affairs of it, in a calm, tender and prudent Manner—fed you according to the Integrity of his Heart, and guided you by the Skilfulneſs of his Hands; * — was gentle among you, even as a Nurſe cherifheth her Children; and being affectionately deſirous of you, he was willing to ſpend and be ſpent in the Service of your Souls.—Was given to Hospitality; his Houſe, his Hand, and his Heart were open, to every friendly and chriſtian Office. He opened his Mouth with Wisdom, and in his Tongue was the Law of Kindness.‖ The Blessing of the Peace-Maker, we doubt not, is come upon him. As it was his Disposition, to live in perfect Peace, Amity and Harmony with All: So he had an uncommon Talent, at composing Differences, and restoring Peace where it was broken, whether between particular Persons, or in the Churches of CHRIST. How often have some of Us seen him, heard him, when call'd with Others to adjust Differences in neighbouring Churches, and the contending Parties began to grow warm, and their Passions to rise, with his pacific, reconciling Air and Manner, and a few well chosen Words, like Apples of Gold in Pictures of Silver, calm down the swelling Passions, and sooth the litigating Parties into Peace and Harmony. † He was much esteemed and prized in our Ecclesiastic Councils and Meetings of Ministers, for his Prudence, Wisdom and Conduct.

And in the Circle of his own Family, he was excelling in conjugal and parental Affection, Tenderness and Care; and a happy Talent at instructing, educating, and training up his Houshould for GOD. Exemplary likewise and amiable was he, in his Patience, and a calm and quiet Resignation to the Will of GOD, in all his Affections, Pains and Trials.

LET us now follow the Man of God to his dying Pillow; His Constitution was broken, and Nature gradually sunk, under the Attacks of a lingring lingring, obſtinate Malady: As the Time of his Departure drew nigh, it ſunk faſt—lo, now his Master calls!—All calm and ſerene, like the Regions of eternal Day, that were opening to his View; he commends his Soul to JESUS, and gives up the Ghoſt. But, oh the Loſs!—The awful Rebuke of Heaven.

THE Corporation of the College mourns under the Frown; depriv'd of his Prudence, Wiſdom and Moderation at that venerable Board. The Aſſociation of which he was a Member, is weakened and broken, and much of our Strength is departed from us. The Churches around, have loſt a Friend, an able and ready Friend and Helper; and a Lover of their Peace, Order and Purity.

But here the awful Stroke of Heaven falls, with peculiar Weight: You, my Friends, have a ſpecial Call to gird yourſelves, and weep ſore: The righteous LORD hath covered you with a Cloud in his Anger; he has taken away your Paſtor from your Head, and you ſhall ſee his Face no more. His Preſence with you, his agreeable and edifying Converſe, his holy Counſels and Advices, his wiſe and ſeaſonable Directions and Cautions, his amiable and exemplary Deportment and Walk among you, his tender, affectionate and pious Inſpection, and Watch over you, his Preaching and Prayers you will enjoy no more. You will never ſee him,—never hear him, in this ſacred Deſk more; with the Doctrines and Grace of the everlaſting Goſpel upon his Lips, beſeeching you in CHRIST's Stead to be reconciled to GOD; and pouring out his holy Prayers before the Mercy-Seat, for you and your Children. All his miniſterial Labours and Services are over, and at an End. What a deſolating Stroke of Heaven this! What an awful Frown! Weep then I truſt you will; but not for him, for bleſſed are the Dead who die in the LORD, they ceaſe from their Labours, and their Works follow them. Your Miniſter, I truſt, is freed from all Sin, and all Sorrow, and is gone into Glory; and now mingles with Angels, and aſſociates with perfected Spirits before the Throne of God. But mourn for your ſelves and your Children, in a Senſe of your great Loſs, and the awful Frown of Heaven upon you: Mourn the Hand you may have had by your Sin and Unfruitfulneſs, in his Removal from you, and the Danger you may now be in, of further Rebukes and Judgments from the righteous Hand of God. Search and try your Hearts and Ways, humble yourſelves at the Footſtool of God, under his holy Rebuke: Repent heartily of all your paſt Barrenneſs and Iniquities, and turn, without Delay to God and your Duty. With utmoſt Care and Diligence, guard againſt all unhappy Conſequences, that may enſue, upon this bereaving Viſitation.

See that you keep the Unity of the Spirit, in the Bond of Peace. Live in Peace, that the GOD of Love and Peace may be with you. Let the preſent Providence lead you, to prize the Goſpel and the Miniſtry of it higher; and to be thankful for paſt Means and Ordinances. Remember how you have heard, and believ'd, and hold faſt the Form of ſound Words, once delivered to the Saints. Recollect what your deceaſed Paſtor has ſaid to you, from Time to Time, in the Name of the Lord; conſider how he preached Christ, in his Life, as well as in the Deſk: And thus tho dead, let him ſtill ſpeak to and inſtruct you: And look and cry daily and fervently to Christ, the great Head of the Church, and with whom is the Reſidue of the Spirit, that he would cauſe Light to ſpring up to you, out of Darkneſs; be a Repairer of your Breaches, and a Reſtorer of Paths to walk in.

May

May the awful Rebuke be ſanctified, to the Miniſters and Churches around, to quicken them to the diligent Diſcharge of the various Duties of their reſpective Stations; to awaken them to trim their Lamps, and to go every Day with their Loyns girt, and their Lamps burning; waiting for the coming of their Lord.

And do we forget the diſconſolate, bereaved Family, who are girded with Sack Cloth, and mourn like Doves? * No, we cannot forget them, but dearly remember them ſtill: May the Arm of Omnipotence be underneath, for their Support under the Weight of this impoveriſhing Stroke; may they have

* Soon after the Deceaſe of the Rev. Mr. Woodbridge, it pleaſed an holy God, to call from our World his eldest Son Mr. Aſhbel Woodbridge, a young Gentleman of many deſirable and recommending Qualities, the living amiable Picture of his excellent Father; like him he was ornamented with a calm and peaceful Diſpoſition, and great Steadineſs and Sweetneſs of Temper, and diffuſive Benevolence and Good-Will to Mankind: And like him, he appeared to poſſeſs theſe amiable Qualities, divinely heightened and made ſacred to God, by the Grace of Christ and undiſſembled Piety. He was a Member of Yale-College in his third Year; had made a happy Proficiency in Academical Learning; and his Behaviour there (I underſtand) was ſuch, as did Honour to Himſelf, and was exemplary to Others; and his Death is a Frown of Heaven on that Seat of Learning, may the Members of it be quickened thence, to prepare for their own Change. For ſome Months, he had languiſhed under a confirm'd Conſumption: And all Applications for Relief proving unſucceſsful; he appeared under the laſt Languors of Nature, and in the near Views of his Diſſolution, patient, tranquil, and reſign'd to the Pleaſure of Heaven; giving very comfortable and ſatisfying Evidences of his Intereſt in a better World. Auguſt 14th 1758, he ſlept in Jesus, in the twentieth Year of hi Age. Thus it has pleaſed a ſovereign God, to deny the World, that Bleſſing they had Reaſon to hope for, from a riſing and ſo promiſing a Genius; and to bring an additional Weight of Sorrow upon the bereaved Family: May the Handmaid of the Lord be ſupported under all her Tribulations, and her Heart rejoice thro' the abundant Conſolations of the divine Spirit; may her ſurviving Children be ſpared, and grow up in Favour with God and Man, and be rich Bleſſings in their Generations.

have Beauty for Aſhes, the Oil of Joy for Mourning, and the Garments of Praiſe for the Spirit of Heavineſs. May the choiceſt Conſolations of the divine Spirit, be ſhed around their Hearts: May they ſeize the Mantle, that drop'd from the dear deceaſed, and a double Portion of his excellent Spirit reſt upon them. May they frequently call to Mind the Manner of his Life, and his pious Counſels and Inſtructions, and be animated in their Chriſtian Courſe, and a comfortable and fruitful Walk with God, all their Days. May that mighty Promiſe from the Mouth of God, be their unfailing Security and Portion, A Father of the Fatherleſs, and a Judge of the Widows, is GOD in his holy Habitation. ¶

Finally, Let All be perſuaded, to prepare without Delay for the great Change: Die 'tis certain you all muſt; and you may quickly and suddenly be taken out of the World: Yes, Sirs, you are All dying Creatures, haſtening every Day and every Hour to the Grave, and to the eternal World: And how highly does it concern You to be found ready whenever your Lord ſhall call. Look a little forward, and conſider what your Thoughts and Apprehenſions will be, when you come to lie on a Death-Bed; when all the Trifles and Amuſements of Time will flee away,—when You muſt bid a final Adieu, to all the Enjoyments of Life, and cloſe your Eyes, on all the viſible Creation:---What will your Thoughts be, if you are then found in the Chains of Guilt, and under the Sentence of Condemnation: Look a Step further, look into Eternity; with what helpleſs Conſternation will your Souls hover, on the Brink of that World, ready to take the inevitable Leap? How dreadful will it be to appear before an holy God and his enlightened Tribunal, in your Pollution and Guilt? You have now a loud Call in Providence, to prepare for Death and and Eternity: Be perſuaded to comply obediently with the divine Call. See that you are at Peace with God, through Jesus Christ, and holy in Heart and Life, and that you are found Walking in all the Ordinances and Commandments of the LORD blameleſs. Apply your ſelves with Diligence, and an holy Zeal, to work out your Salvation: Be not content with any preſent Attainments in Religion, but labour after daily Improvements therein; and ſwift Advances in divine Life: Forgetting thoſe Things that are behind, and reaching forth unto thoſe Things which are before, preſs toward the Mark for the Prize of the high Calling of GOD in CHRIST JESUS. Be ye Followers of Thoſe, who through Faith and Patience do now inherit the Promiſes. Go every Day with your Loyns girt, and your Lamps burning, waiting for the Coming of your LORD: So when CHRIST who is your Life ſhall appear, ye alſo ſhall appear with him in Glory. And when your earthly Houſe of this Tabernacle ſhall be diſſolved you ſhall have a Building of GOD, an Houſe not made with Hands, eternal in the Heavens.

A THANKSGIVING SERMON.

PSALM, L. 14, 15.

Offer unto GOD Thankſgiving, and pay the Vows unto the Moſt High. And call upon me in the Day of Trouble; I will deliver thee, and thou ſhalt glorify me.

ALL Nature is full of God: He not only inhabits Eternity, but he fills Immenſity: He is intimately preſent with all the Works of his Hands; upholding, ſuperintending, ordering and directing all Things, through the immenſe Universe: His all-ruling Providence extends to the vegetable and animal, as well as to the rational Creation; and ſo it does to all the dead Parts of Matter, thro' the whole created Syſtem; inſomuch that there is not a Motion in the natural, nor a Thought in the intellectual World, but what is ſubject to his Controul.

As 'tis a Matter of great Importance, that a deep Senſe of this ſhould be fixed upon our Minds; the Holy Writings are admirably ſuited and adapted to this Purpoſe: There is a remarkable Difference in this Reſpect, between the holy Scriptures, and human Compoſitions; the latter are wont to relate Facts and Events as they are; pointing us to the immediate Cauſes or Occaſions of them; whereas the holy Scriptures are perpetually introducing

GOD in all the Scenes of Nature, and the Affairs and Tranſactions of Men; and repreſenting Him, as the ſupreme Cauſe and Agent, "Who worketh all things according to the Counſel of his own Will; without whom, not a Sparrow falls to the Ground; and by whom the Hairs of our Heads are all numbered." At the powerful Call of his Voice, the whole Univerſe of Things ſprang into Being, into Regularity, Order and Harmony; and his own almighty Arm perpetually ſuſtains the univerſal Frame. The Laws of Nature as they are called, are no other, than certain Methods or Rules fix'd by Himſelf; agreeably to which He governs the natural World. If it rains, 'tis "God that ſendeth Rain on the Juſt and on the Unjuſt." If the ſtormy Winds ariſe, in the Language of Inſpiration, "The Lord hath his Way in the Whirlwind and in the Storms and the Clouds are the Duſt of his Feet." Nahum i. 3. If it thunders, "The GOD of Glory thundereth, He thundereth marvelouſly with the Voice of his Excellency." Pſalm xxix. 3. Job xxxvii. 4, 5. If there is an Earthquake, "GOD ſhaketh the Earth out of her Place, and the Pillars thereof tremble." Job ix. 6. And if we go on to conſider the Affairs of Men and Nations; the ſame Remark holds good. Does a Nation or Kingdom riſe, proſper and flouriſh; or, is it brought down to Ruin and Deſolation; ſtill the Hand of the ſupreme Ruler is to be acknowledged and adored. Is a Nation unſucceſsful in War; "It is GOD that poureth Contempt upon Princes, and weakneth the Strength of the Mighty." Or, does a Nation prevail in Battle, and carry on a War to a ſucceſsful Iſſue, a deſireable and happy Peace; "It is GOD that fighteth for his People; through him, they do valiantly; and he it is that treadeth down their Foes." Of every Deliverance and Salvation we receive; particular public and national Salvations; we are ſtill reminded to acknowledge and adore GOD, as the Author; and to render the Praiſe and Glory to Him. Theſe Sentiments of Piety and Religion the holy Writings unitedly tend to inſpire; particularly that Portion of them, I have now read to you; "Offer unto GOD Thankſgiving, &c.—" A careful attention to the Works of Providence, and the Operations of GOD's Hand, is ever our Wiſdom and our Duty: And as we now have a particular Call to it; it is to be hoped, our Attention will be particularly careful, ſerious and devout.

The Words may be accomodated to the particular Occaſion, of the preſent Solemnity; and be thus treated and illuſtrated.

I. We have been in Trouble.

II. We have called upon God, in the Day of Trouble.

III. GOD hath delivered us. And now,

IV. We are to offer unto GOD Thankſgiving.

V. We are to pay our Vows unto the Moſt High.

VI. And we are to glorify GOD. And then,

VII. I would make ſome Improvement of the Subject.

I. We have been in Trouble; and who among Mankind have not? Into this apoſtate ſinful World, Men are born to Trouble and Sorrow as the Sparks fly upwards: All the Individuals of the human Race, more or leſs drink of this bitter Cup. Aches and and Pains and Maladies without Number, Croſſes and Diſappointments, and heart-felt Bereavements, are but ſome of the Sorrows and Troubles Mankind are Subject to, in this Valley of Tears: And well would it be, very well, if theſe Sorrows were met and endur'd as from the Hand of GOD, the wiſe and good Governor of the World; with a calm and quiet Reſignation to his Pleaſure; and a firm and ſteady Reliance on his Providence and Grace.

And as for Ourſelves, us in this Colony, and in this Land, including our Mother Kingdom; 'tis certain we have been in Trouble, great Trouble!---- have been involv'd, for a long Time, in a bloody War with France and with the Savages of the Wilderneſs; and for ſome Time, with Spain. War conſidered in itſelf, is a ſore and diſmal Calamity; and not to be entred upon, but with good Advice, and with a View to Peace: Nor does GOD willingly afflict his People, with ſo terrible a Scourge, but their Iniquities ſeperate between GOD and them, and draw down his Judgments upon them. Sin is the Cauſe, the hated Cauſe and Origin of all the Miſeries and Calamities that overſpread the Earth. 'Tis Sin that contracts the Brow of Heaven into Frowns; and ſtirs up the Indignation of an holy GOD. We are a ſinful, guilty and degenerate People; and the GOD of our Fathers has been angry with us, and has called for the Sword of our popiſh and pagan Adverſaries, to avange the Quarrel of his broken Covenant and violated Law; and to chaſtiſe and puniſh us, for our many Land defiling Sins and Abominations.

If

If we look back to the Commencement of the late War, how illy were we prepared for it? How low was the Nation ſunk into Indolence and Lethargy? How little of a martial Spirit, and the old Britiſh Bravery was to be found among them? How ſadly did this bode, and how diſcouraging and gloomy were our Proſpects? Accordingly, ſome of the Events of the firſt Year of the War were very calamitous and diſgraceful; ſuch as will ſtain the Britiſh Annals, and muſt be reſented with Shame and Grief by every ſenſible Engliſhman.

The War opened in the year ſeventeen hundred and fifty five, with the ill-conducted and unſucceſsful March of General Braddock, againſt Fort Du Queſne; a Fort erected by the French, on the Territory of his Britannic Majeſty: This Diſgrace and Overthrow was ſomewhat qualified by the Reduction of Nova-Scotia, by Colonel Monckton; and Sir William Johnſon's Victory over a French Army, near Lake George.

The Year fifty-ſix will not be thought honorable to the Britiſh Name or Hiſtory: The ſcandalous Behaviour of Admiral Byng in the Mediterranean; and in Conſequence of that, the Loſs of the Iſland of Minorca, cannot be recollected but with Shame and Regret. And not long after this, (for I mean not minutely to trace the ſeveral Steps of the War) what a melancholly and gloomy Period followed, to Great Britain and her Provinces. At Home, what Uncertainty, Darkneſs and Confuſion attended the public Counſels? And how were they embroil'd by Diviſions and Diſtractions? Whilſt Defeat, Fruſtration and Shame attended the Britiſh Arms, in the ſeveral Quarters of the World.

Let us fix our Attention for a Moment or two on America, the original Object of the Conteſt, in which we are moſt intimately concern'd, and to which therefore, I intend principally to confine theſe Remarks. How were our Fortreſſes and ſtrong Holds demoliſhed or burnt to Aſhes? Our Countrymen and Friends captivated and butchered? Our Troops repulſed and turned back with Fruſtration and Shame? At that gloomy Period, what Trembling took hold on us, and Confuſion covered us? How did every Countenance gather Paleneſs, and the Panic ſpread through whole Provinces?

Did not the People of this Land tremble for the Ark of GOD, and all our dear Privileges? Apprehenſive, fearful, whether GOD would not permit an exaſperated Foe, elated with Succeſs and Victory, to carry the devouring Sword through the Land, attended with Deſolation and wide-ſpreading Ruin. This was a dark Day to the Britiſh American Provinces; a Day of Sorrow and Trouble; a Day, on which, we were loudly call'd upon, to look above an Arm of Fleſh----to look to the GOD of Armies, the Supreme Ruler of the World, and our Covenant God, for Protection, Deliverance and Salvation. And did we not take that Courſe? Which leads me to ſay,

II. We have call'd upon God in a Day of Trouble. "Call upon me in the Day of Trouble." In the Seaſon of our Darkneſs and Diſtreſs, we poured out our Supplications before the Moſt High. Prayer, daily Prayer to GOD, is a Duty incumbent on every every human Being, that underſtands what Prayer is: And for a Chriſtian, for one who names the Name of CHRIST to neglect Prayer, daily Prayer, is quite inexcuſable. In all our Ways we are to acknowledge GOD, and maintain an humble, holy Intercourſe with Him, through all the Tranſactions and Affairs of our Lives. The Senſe and Actings of our Hearts towards GOD, at all Times, ſhould agree & harmonize with the various Diſpenſations and Aſpects of his Providence towards us: This is to maintain and enjoy Communion with GOD, in the Deſpenſations of his Providence. Every Kindneſs and Smile of his Providence ſhould be met with correſpondent Gratitude, Thankſgiving and Praiſe: So, for every Thing we ſtand in Need of for Time or Eternity, we are humbly to call upon God. In all the Sorrows and Troubles, Dangers and Diſtreſſes we are incident to, in this World of Sin and Changes, we are ſtill to make GOD our Refuge and Dependence; deeply ſenſible, that without GOD in vain is the Help of Man; that GOD is the exhauſtleſs Fountain of all Good, of all Help---the Father of Mercy and of Lights, from whom cometh down every good and perfect Gift: And in our Seaſons of ſpecial and imminent Diſtreſs and Danger, we have a particular Call, to be very fervent and importunate in our Addreſſes to GOD: And this, I hope, was, in ſome Meaſure, the Caſe during the Courſe of the late War; and particularly at that gloomy Period above-mentioned. Did not the Churches and Congregations of GOD's People in New England---did not we in this Colony and in this Town, frequently and cheerfully meet in the Houſe of GOD, to offer up our Supplications, and pour out our Prayers before the Mercy-Seat, for Protection and Safety, for Deliverance and Salvation? How did you then ſeem to be ſtruck with a Conviction and Senſe, that if GOD did not appear for us, and his own Arm did not bring us Salvation, we were a ruin'd and undone People? How forward did you then ſeem to be to look above all created Help, to Him that governs the whole World and orders all the Affairs of it as he pleaſes, and to ſeek and cry to him for Deliverance? With what Freedom and Earneſtneſs did you croud the Sanctuary of GOD, eager to unite in pouring out your Supplications before his Throne, and to hear inſtructions from his Word? You cannot have forgotten, how cheerfully you united in ſetting apart Days for Faſting and Prayer; and Weekly Seaſons, for ſpecial and ſolemn Prayer, that GOD would mercifully appear for us and deliver us. And I hope a Conviction is left upon your Hearts, that He is a Prayer-Hearing GOD, and that it is not a vain Thing to ſeek and pray to Him.

And tho' we have Reaſon to ſuppoſe, that many Perſons did not pray, with ſuch a Senſe of their own Unworthineſs and evil Deſerts, and the Power and Wiſdom, Grace and Mercy and All-ſufficiency of GOD, and ſuch a Dependence on his Power and Grace through CHRIST, as they ought; yet, no Doubt, many Others were graciouſly ſincere and cordial in their Addreſſes to GOD. And I have thought and ſtill think, that a Spirit of Prayer and Supplication, in ſome thing of an uncommon Degree, was poured out on GOD's People in the Land: And when GOD gives an Heart to pray, He is wont wont to find an Ear to hear. And did he not hear? Did he not hearken to the Voice of our Supplications, and ſend us an Anſwer of Peace? Did he not hearken to the Voice of Men, ſinful, guilty Men? And in Anſwer to the Supplications of his People, did he not make bare his own Arm, and work Deliverance and Salvation for us? Yes, He is a Prayer-hearing GOD, and has never ſaid to the Seed of Jacob, ſeek ye my Face in vain. And ſo I am led to ſay, III. God has delivered us. "Call upon me, in the Day of Trouble; I will deliver thee." Yes, GOD has delivered us, with a Salvation never to be forgotten.

GOD might juſtly, provoked by our Sins, have given us up a Prey, into the Hands of thoſe that hated us; and doom'd us to a State of diſmal Slavery, under Gallic Chains and Popiſh Superſtition and Tyranny: But of his rich and abundant Grace he has delivered us. After a Period of Darkneſs and Perplexity; the Darkneſs vaniſhed, the Clouds ſcattered, and the Day dawn'd. "GOD's right Hand, and his holy Arm, and the Light of his Countenance, have brought us Salvation, becauſe he had a Favour for us." Suddenly the Scene changed, and our Covenant GOD, who ſeemed in a Manner to have caſt us off, appeared for us, in our Diſtreſs.

He was pleaſed to raiſe up thoſe, whom he delighted to honor, as the choſen Inſtruments of our Deliverance. In this Connection, the Patriot Pitt will not be forgotten. Unity and Harmony were reſtored to our public Counſels. The Britiſh Lion aroufed as from a Sleep. A martial Spirit and Fire was diffufed and fpread into our Fleets and Armies. Expeditions were form'd and plan'd with Wifdom and Confiftency; and carried into Execution with Firmnefs and Steadinefs; and a Spirit and Refolution that Nothing could daunt or refift. The guilty, ambitious Schemes of France vanifhed like a Dream of the Night: Our Enemies fled before us in every Climate: Our Fleets and Armies went on from conquering to conquer: The Britifh Troops triumphed in every Quarter of the World: Europe, Afia, Africa and America, beheld with Wonder our Succefs and Victories.

It would be befide my prefent Purpofe, to enumerate the great Things GOD has done in Africa, the Eaft-Indies, and Germany. Let me briefly mention a few Inftances nearer Home. Cape-Breton, Crown-Point, Quebec, Montreal, yea, the whole French Territory, almoft, in North-America, wrefted from them, was given into our Hands: Befides Guadaloupe, Martinico, &c. in the Weft-Indies; and the Havana from the Spaniards. The Spaniards! what a wretched, defpicable Figure they will make, in the future Hiftory of thefe Times! And what crowns all, the War is at Length terminated in a defirable and happy Peace. The difmal Calamities of War, which had overfpread the feveral Quarters of the Earth, are at an End. The Supreme Ruler, who fays to the proud Waves of the Sea, "Hitherto fhall ye go and no further." and who overrules the Hearts of Men, has diffufed a Spirit of Union and Harmony among the feveral contending Powers, and mercifully brought on a general Pacification fication—a Peace, by which we have acquired a mighty Enlargement of Dominion and Territory, and many Advantages—a Peace peculiarly favourable and advantageous to us, in America; even beyond our moſt ſanguine Expectations, when the War firſt opened. Theſe are the LORD's Doings, and juſtly marvellous in our Eyes. Many and ſtriking are the Demonſtrations of a divine Interpoſition, and of the Goodneſs and Power of GOD exerted in our Behalf.

Who commanded the Winds and the Seas, and ordered the Seaſons, from Time to Time ſo mercifully? Who commanded the Earth to yield her Increaſe, and furniſhed Reſources ſufficient to carry on ſo many Expeditions, in ſo many different Parts of the World, at the ſame Time? Who ſpirited the Soldiery to offer themſelves, and armed them with Patience, Reſolution and Courage? Who inſpired our worthy Commanders, by Sea and Land, with Wiſdom, Prudence and Magnanimity, ſo proportioned to their elevated and important Stations? Permit me to ſay, on this Occaſion; Who raiſed up the late intrepid, heroic Leader, the gallant Wolf; aud furniſhed him with Talents, to ſo uncommon a Degree, for the important Province he was called to? Who gave him an Head to Plan, and an Arm to execute the mighty Deſign, his Heart was ſo much ſet upon? To execute it in a Manner, that extorted the Admiration and Aſtoniſhment of his very Enemies? Who animated the Nation and it's public Councils with ſuch a Spirit of Union and Harmony, to proſecute the War with Vigor, according to the Meaſures ſo wiſely concerted?

concerted? Finally, Who excited and animated ſo many of GOD's profeſſing People, in this Land, and we truſt alſo in our Mother Country, to pour out frequent and fervent Prayers at the Mercy Seat, for the Smiles of Heaven on our military Operations? Doubtleſs, GOD is to be acknowledged and adored in all theſe Things. Yes, you may say; "The ſuperintending and directing Providence of the Moſt High extends to all Events, and without Him not a Sparrow falls to the Ground; for GOD governs the whole World." He does ſo: But then in ſome of GOD's Works, there ſeems to be more evident and ſtriking Marks of a divine Superintendency and Conduct; and the Footſteps of Deity are more plainly viſible: And here the Reſults of Battles, and the Events of War are to be ranked. Theſe depend on ſo many fickle Uncertainties as to us, and ſo many Things that are evidently beyond the Reach of human Power, as to render the Hand of GOD the more conſpicuous. When the Wind and the Weather, the various Elements and an uncommon Co-incidence of Circumſtances, have conſpired to favour our Enterprizes: When an Unjarring Harmony has ſubſiſted among all Orders of Men concern'd: When they have all united in one View, in one grand Deſign: When a martial, heroic Ardor ſeem'd to glow in every Breaſt: When, though to a common Penetration, the Difficulties attending the moſt important and deciſive Conqueſt, that of Quebec, and which was a Key to the Reſt, ſeemed inſuparable; yet the diſtinguiſh'd Leader,* by a Sagacity lent him from Above, diſcern'd the Method,

* WOLF.

Method, perhaps the only Method, in which, humanly ſpeaking, the Enemy could be overcome---diſcerned the Critical Moment, when it was poſſible to wreſt a Victory---ſeized the happy Moment, and with a ſurprizing Presence of Mind, Wiſdom and Courage that Nothing could diſconcert or daunt, ſurmounted all difficulties, and carried his Plan into Execution: I ſay, when this is the Caſe, who will not ſay, not only, that the Hand of GOD was there; but that it was a wonderful Work of his Power and Goodneſs? And when GOD has been pleaſed to vouchſafe a remarkable Series, an unbroken Chain of numerous Victories; what pious Mind can contemplate the important Events, without owning and adoring the Hand of Heaven?---without being ſtruck with a kind of Sacred Reverence of the Preſence of GOD; and his glorious Perfections, his Power, Wiſdom, Goodneſs and Mercy ſo evidently conſpicuous therein.

But that we may be the more ſenſible of the Goodneſs of GOD, and our Indebtedneſs to Him, for our late Succeſſes, and preſent happy Settlement; it may be proper to take Notice of one or two Things, which plainly determine it a great Deliverance.

Let us conſider, Firſt, the Evils, which were thereby obviated and prevented. How wretched had our Situation been, if French Plans had ſucceded, and their ambitious Schemes been carried into Execution? Had their Arms been ſucceded in Europe, according to their Deſign; what had been the Conſequence, with Regard to Great-Britain, but the overthrow of the Proteſtant Succeſſion, a Popiſh Pretender tender obtruded, and the Loſs both of civil and religious Liberty, and the Kingdom being made a Scene of Deſolation and Blood? And as to their Intentions in America, how diſmal had been our Fate had they ſucceeded? By the Chain of Forts they had carried round us, and the Air and Manner of their Operations, what leſs could they deſign, than our utter Ruin, and the wreſting from us this goodly Heritage GOD gave to our Fathers? And can we imagine to ourſelves the execution of ſuch their Deſign without Amazement and Horror?---- Their Popiſh and Pagan Armies marching into the Heart of our Country, practiſing their inhuman Cruelties without Pity?-------Without Diſtinction, butchering Men, Women and Children, in their triumphant Progreſs; involving our Habitations, Churches and Towns in devouring Flames; and deluging the Land with Slaughter and Blood; whilſt the miſerable Remnant, ſtript of all their precious Privileges, Civil and Religious, would be reduced to a State of the moſt wretched Slavery. How diſmal were ſuch a State of Things! But GOD in great Mercy has prevented it.

The Pit they were digging for us, they are fallen into themſelves: And the Miſchief they were framing for us, GOD has brought down upon their own Heads: Their ambitious, towering Scheme, is daſhed to Pieces; and their whole American Territory almoſt, is given up; and by the preſent Settlement annexed to the Britiſh Crown. So wonderfully has GOD delivered us.

Let us conſider, nextly, the Worth and Value of these Acquiſitions, thus ſecur'd to us; and the Evils

we are like to be ſecur'd againſt, for the Time to come. 'Tis not eaſy to aſcertain their Importance and value to the Britiſh Crown, and to theſe Provinces: They are, without Doubt, vaſtly valuable. The Conqueſt of all France, I imagine, would not have been equally ſo: For in that Caſe, it would be immenſely chargeable to keep it; and in the End, perhaps Britain would become a Province of France.

In ſundry Views, the Reduction of Canada, is juſtly accounted a very important Acquiſition. It directly conduces to the future Security and Peace of theſe Colonies. What a bloody Scourge have the French Settlements in Canada been to theſe Provinces, from Generation to Generation? What horrid and inhuman Butcheries have been perpetrated? How much Proteſtant Blood has been ſhed upon our Frontiers, by the blood-thirſty Savages, ſpirited and ſet on by the faithleſs French? But theſe horrid Butcheries are, we hope, likely to be forever over and at an End. *

Beſides, what an immenſe Source of Wealth may this Acquiſition prove; as it opens a moſt valuable Trade with the Natives, for a vaſt Extent of Territory round.—But to wave this, and paſs to take in another Point of View, a very intereſting and glorious one to a Chriſtian. May we not hope, that theſe Events will ſerve to give the Savages ſome Impreſſions in Favour of the Goſpel, the pure

 Goſpel,

* The preſent inhuman and cruel Out-breakings of the Savages, we truſt, will be of no long Continuance----that proper Meaſures will be concerted, for their being ſpeedily and effectually ſuppreſs'd.

Goſpel, unadulterated with popiſh Mixtures. Will not the Natives, after having conſidered and weighed theſe Things, be naturally led to ſay, as the Heathen did, with Regard to Iſrael, in Pſalm cxxvi. 2. "Then ſaid they among the Heathen, the Lord hath done great Things for them." "The GOD of Britons and of Proteſtants has done great Things for them: He is a great GOD, and a mighty King." And may we not hope, that their Minds may thence receive ſome powerful Touch in Favour of the Bleſſed Goſpel: And that a Way may be opened for the ſpreading the glorious Goſpel among them; and their being brought to a profeſſed and cordial Subjection to the Prince of Peace: That ſo, in theſe dark Corners of the Earth, where Satan's Seat from Time immemorial has been, the Churches of CHRIST may be erected, and his Goſpel and Religion taught; and Multitudes of Souls train'd up for the Kingdom of Heaven. What a bleſſed, glorious Event would this be, if CHRIST the King of Zion ſhould then take to himſelf his great Power and Reign! But I need ſay Nothing further, to give you an Impreſſion of the Greatneſs of the Deliverance and Salvation mercifully granted us of GOD. "The LORD is our Strength, and he is become our Salvation." Our Covenant GOD, and the GOD of our Fathers has done this; the GOD that brought our Fathers into this Land, and planted them here; who watched over them in the Days of their ſmall Things; who planted his Church here, and ſtill defends and cheriſhes that Vine which his own right Hand had planted. 'Tis He that has fought our Battles for us, and triumphed triumphed gloriouſly. 'Tis He that has carried us on from Victory to Victory, to the preſent happy Settlement. Let a Senſe of this ever be found warm at our Hearts, and let us feel the Obligations we are under of Love and Homage, of Gratitude, Thankſgiving and Praiſe to the GOD of all our Salvations. Wherefore,

IV. Let us offer unto God Thankſgiving, and praiſe his Name. This is the Duty we are now call'd to: Let us ſee to it, it be done aright. Our Hearts ſhould be impreſs'd with a deep Senſe of the goodneſs and ſalvation of GOD; and they ſhould act and flow out in the warmeſt and moſt cordial Gratitude to the Supreme Ruler, and our Celeſtial Benefactor. To engage us to the acceptable Diſcharge of this Duty, let us conſider,

1. This is a moſt fit and reaſonable Thing. 'Tis our treating GOD and acting towards Him, as being what he is; infinitely the beſt of Beings, and the glorious Source and Spring of all our Salvations. When we ſincerely aſcribe our public Succeſſes, our Victories and Triumphs, and in Conſequence of theſe, our preſent Settlement, to GOD; we aſcribe them to their true Source and Original. And this, together with correſpondent Gratitude and Thankſgiving to the Moſt High, is moſt reaſonable, fit and right; for unto GOD the Honor and Praiſe do belong.

Men can claim no other Honor from ſuch Events, than what belongs to moral Inſtruments, the Honor of having faithfully employed their diſtinguiſhed Talents for the Good of Mankind. In this View, our wiſe Counſellors and Politicians, our our heroic Chiefs and Commanders, and our brave Soldiers too, justly come in for their Share of Praise. A Tribute of Honor and Praise is due to them from a preserved and grateful Country. But as they were raised up by GOD, and furnished with their various Talents, and spirited and call'd forth to the Exertion of them, for the Welfare and Salvation of their Country, by GOD; so the Praise and Glory are ultimately due to him. Bless the LORD, O our Souls, and all that is within us, praise his holy Name: This is reasonable, fit and right.

2. This is delightful to serious and pious Minds. True Devotion is the most noble and delightful Exercise of a reasonable Creature. A fixed and governing Habit of Devotion, is the truest Ornament and Glory of a man: And sincere Gratitude and Thanksgiving is the most animating Part of Devotion: It warms and exalts the Soul, with noble and affecting Conceptions of the Attributes of the Deity, display'd for the Good of Mankind. And when whole Countries and Kingdoms are relieved and made happy, the more elevated and delightful must be the Views of the pious and devout, of the Goodness and Mercy, the Wisdom and Power of GOD; whence all their public Salvations result. I might add here, this Branch of Devotion is no less honorable to GOD, than it is delightful to good Men. GOD himself takes Pleasure in seeing his reasonable Creatures rejoicing in his Goodness, and in Himself the Author of all their Salvation: Yes, it is honorable and pleasing to the most high GOD, to see whole Provinces and Kingdoms kneeling before him, and sincerely ascribing the Praise and Glory Glory of all their public Salvations and Bleſſings to Him. Permit me then to ſay, as the Levites did to the Congregation of Iſrael, on another Occaſion, "Stand up and bleſs the LORD your GOD forever and ever, and bleſſed be thy glorious Name, which is exalted above all Bleſſing and Praiſe" Nehem. ix. 5.

3. Sincere and Heart-felt Gratitude, on this Occaſion, has a Tendency to make us, as a People, more virtuous and religious. It tends to meliorate the Heart, and make the Life better. True Devotion conduces to improve and ſtrengthen, in the Heart, every Principle of Virtue and Holineſs. A reverent and grateful Senſe of GOD and his Goodness, prevailing in the Heart, naturally diſcovers itſelf in a Care and Endeavour to pleaſe and honor Him. A due Senſe of the Lovingkindneſs and Mercy of the LORD, tends to melt and fill the Heart with a Senſe of our own Unworthineſs, and to prompt us, from a Principle of Gratitude, to pleaſe and ſerve the GOD of all our Salvations: So that our public Solemnities of Thankſgiving and Praiſe, if rightly attended, tend to diffuſe and ſpread a Spirit of Devotion and Piety through the Land, and to animate and ſtir up People to lead Lives of Holineſs and Obedience—to make us a better People, more virtuous, holy and religious, more careful to maintain good Works, and to do whatſoever GOD has commanded us. Let us then, with all our Hearts, offer unto GOD Thankſgiving and bleſs his holy Name. And ſo I am prepared to ſay,

V. We are to pay our Vows to the Moſt High. "Offer unto GOD Thankſgiving, and pay thy Vows unto unto the Moſt High." We are, in ſundry Views, under ſtrongeſt Obligations to make ſuitable Returns to GOD, for all his Goodneſs and Mercy.

Shall I call to your Remembrance, this Day, our ſolemn Tranſactions with GOD, in that gloomy Seaſon, preſently after Fort William-Henry was taken and deſtroyed by the French; and the Aſpects of Providence ſeemed ſo very dark and threatning: when we thought it our Duty, to ſet apart a Day for ſolemn Humiliation and Prayer before GOD: You may perhaps remember, the Words treated on, on that Occaſion, were thoſe in Judges x. 15. "We have ſinned, do thou unto us whatſoever ſeemeth good unto thee, deliver us only, we pray thee this Day." Were you not ready, in that Seaſon of Diſtreſs, to fall down before GOD; and in the Bitterneſs of your Souls to confeſs your Sin, your Guilt and evil Deſerts; and to implore Protection and Deliverance, on what Terms GOD pleaſed? "Deliver us only this Day from our Enemies, and puniſh us in what other Way thou wilt for our Sins: Send Sickneſs, ſend Peſtilence, ſend Blaſting and Famine if thou wilt; let us fall into the Hands of the living GOD, and not into the Hands of unreaſonable Men; not into the Hands of our cruel and bloody Enemies." Were you not ready to proſtrate yourſelves before the Mercy-Seat, and ſeriouſly to promiſe and vow to the Moſt High, and Covenant with Him, that if He would deliver and ſave you, you would be his faithful Servants forever; would devote yourſelves wholly to Him, to walk before Him and to keep his Commandments all the Days of your Lives: And if you did not do do ſo, were ready to own, you ſhould be the moſt guilty and inexcuſable Creatures imaginable. Well, GOD did appear for us and deliver us: He has ſaved us with a mighty Salvation; carried us with Succeſs and Victory, thro' the War, and brought us to this happy Period of it: Now then we muſt pay our Vows to the Moſt High-----our Vows of Gratitude and Love, of Homage and ſincere Obedience. The devout Pſalmiſt ſays in Pſalm lxvi. 13, 14. "I will go into thy Houſe with Burnt Offerings; And will pay thee my Vows, which my Lips have uttered, and my Mouth hath ſpoken, when I was in Trouble."

We are not to forget our ſolemn Tranſactions with GOD in Years paſt; but muſt ſtill hold them in Remembrance; and render unto GOD according to all the Benefits we have receiv'd. But, whether we formally and explicitly made Vows and Promiſes to GOD, in the Seaſon of our Diſtreſs, or not; was not ſomething like this implied, in the Solemn Prayers and Supplications we pour'd out in GOD's Houſe, from Time to Time?----And I may add, I hope, in our Families and in our Cloſets too? What was the Import and Meaning of thoſe Prayers? Was it not plainly implied, in all that Variety of Phraſe and Expreſſion, that might be made Uſe of from Time to Time?----That we humbly beg'd Deliverance, Succeſs in the War, and a final happy Settlement and Peace, at the Hand of GOD; ſenſible that GOD only could beſtow theſe Bleſſings; that if He ſhould be pleaſed to beſtow them, it would be all Mercy, rich unmerited Mercy and Grace; and that it ſhould be regarded, resented and improved by us as such; and we should hold ourselves bound and obliged to make all proper Returns to the GOD of all our Salvations? These then are the Returns we are now bound to make, to bless and praise the Name of GOD; and to express our Gratitude by Lives of Holiness and New Obedience.

Besides, we may by no Means forget, that as we are the professing People of GOD, we are under Covenant Obligations, to walk with GOD according to his Word; and to make a right Use and Improvement not only of his Word and Ordinances, but likewise of all the Dispensations of his Providence. Yes, we are under solemn covenant Obligations to improve the Salvation and Mercy we now celebrate, so as to be induced thence to consecrate ourselves, all our Powers and Faculties, our Time and Talents to GOD, to his Service and Glory. O let us not fail, on this Occasion, to answer the Obligations, we are under to GOD; and with glad and devout Hearts, to pay our Vows to the Most High. I must add in the

VI. Place, We must now glorify GOD. "I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me." No Creature can glorify GOD, by making any Addition to his essential Glory; or by making GOD any more glorious than he really is. It is beyond the Reach or Capacity of Men or Angels, to make GOD any more really Glorious than he always was, and always will be; for he is infinitely perfect, infinitely glorious, independently of all Creatures: But we glorify GOD, declaratively or manifestively, when we manifest or shew forth his Glory: When we think, think, ſpeak, act and live ſo as ſpeaks and declares GOD to be glorious: Particularly,

1. We are to glorify GOD, by entertaining high and honorable Tho'ts of Him. We muſt remove from our Apprehenſions of GOD, every Thing that implies Imperfection; and conceive of Him, as a Being of infinite Perfection and Glory. All poſſible, infinite Perfections and Excellencies muſt meet in our Idea of GOD: And we muſt conceive of Him, as the firſt and infinitely the greateſt and beſt of Beings. We think honorably of GOD, when we really think and conceive of Him to be, what he really is, infinitely glorious. Particularly, we muſt entertain very high and admiring Thoughts of thoſe Perfections of the Deity, his Wiſdom, Power, Covenant Faithfulneſs, his Pity and Compaſſion, his Goodneſs, Grace and Mercy, that have been eminently diſplayed in working Salvation for us.

2. We are to glorify GOD by proper and ſuitable Affections and Actings of Soul towards Him. By heartily believing the Revelations He has made of Himſelf in his Word; by reverencing the Operations of his Hand, in his Works of Providence; by trusting in Him, through the Mediator, for all the Bleſſings of Time and Eternity; by loving GOD, the beſt of Beings, with all our Hearts and with all our Souls; and by being effectually induc'd by all that Goodneſs and Mercy, in which he has paſſed before us, to take up our complacential everlaſting Reſt in GOD, to delight ourſelves in Him, as our Portion, and the Object of our Supreme Felicity. In a Word, every grateful and devout Temper of Mind, ſuitable and adapted to the great Things GOD has done for us, ſhould be call'd forth into flouriſhing Exerciſe, to the Honor and Glory of GOD.

3. We muſt glorify GOD, by ſpeaking reverently and honorably of Him and to Him. It is infinite Condeſcention in the great GOD, to let Himſelf down to us: And it becomes us to take his Sacred Name into our Lips, with greateſt Humility and Reverence; Eſpecially on this Occaſion does it become us, to pour out through our Lips, the warmeſt Gratitude of our Hearts to the Father of Mercy, and our great Deliverer and Benefactor, and by offering Praiſe and Thankſgiving to glorify Him.

4. We are to glorify GOD, by Lives devoted to Him. "By adorning the Doctrine of GOD our Saviour in all Things; and making our Light ſhine be-Men that ſeeing our good Works, they may glorify our Father which is in Heaven." By worſhiping and ſerving GOD according to his Appointment: By practiſing Juſtice. Love and Charity to our Fellow-Men; and by Humility, Meekneſs and Purity in all our Behaviour. We are to glorify GOD, by improving our Time and Talents well; and by bringing forth Fruit, in Proportion to the Means and Advantages we enjoy. In a Word, we are to glorify GOD, by living and conducting ourſelves in ſuch a Manner, that the natural and genuine Language of the whole Tenor of our Conduct and Deportment may be, that GOD is ſuch an infinitely glorious Being, as he has revealed Himſelf to be in His Word Let us now make some IMPROVEMENT of this Subject. And,

1. Let us ſeriously enquire, how we have been affected and and influenced, in Heart and Life, by all God's various Dealings with us, in the Courſe of his Providence, from the Time when the late War opened to the preſent Day? And be perſuaded, in Obedience to the preſent Call of divine Goodneſs and Mercy, ſpeedily to reform and amend whatſoever is ſtill to be found amiſs in us, or among us. GOD has been paſſing before us of late Years, by terrible Things in Righteouſneſs: He has likewiſe cauſed his Goodneſs and Mercy, in remarkable, wonderful Inſtances of it, to paſs before us: And by all, He has been calling upon us, loudly and long calling upon us; to conſider, to repent, to reform and turn to GOD and our Duty. And what Influence have all GOD's Calls, and all the Means He has been uſing with us, had to effect and bring about a Reformation? Are we, in Conſequence of all, become a reformed, and truly religious People? Are we in any Meaſure---in any conſiderable Meaſure reformed? Some particular Perſons, I doubt not, have repented and turned to GOD; it would be ſad indeed if none had: But has there been any Thing like a general Reformation effected, by all GOD has been doing with us? Is there not as much ---is there not more Sin in the Land, than when the War began? What one Sin is generally broken off and forſaken? Truly, I fear, not ſo much as one. Are we more pious, godly and devout than we uſed to be? Do we prize God's Word, Day and Ordinances more? Are we more ſtrict and exemplary in all the Branches of Piety, than formerly? Are we more juſt, kind, charatable, peaceful and forgiving, with Regard to Men? Has a Reformation been carried on in our Families? Is

Family

Family Religion reviv'd among us? In a Word, Do we live and conduct ourſelves more, as it becomes the Diſciples and Followers of the bleſſed JESUS, than we uſed to do? I much fear, but little of this can be anſwered in the Affirmative: 'Tis too plain we are yet a ſinful People; and there are many dark and threatning Symptoms upon us. Let us, without Delay, take our Caſe into ſerious Conſideration, and receive Conviction of the Neceſſity we are under, of a thorough Reformation. If GOD's awful Rod has not driven you; let his great Goodneſs and Mercy lead you to Repentance: And do not, after your Hardneſs and impenitent Hearts, treaſure up to yourſelves Wrath againſt the Day of Wrath, and the Revelation of the righteous Judgments of GOD. It is a dreadful Thing to remain hardened and impenitent under all GOD's various Dealings with you, for your Reformation. O be perſuaded to break off every known Sin, and to turn, with all your Hearts, to GOD in CHRIST; and enter, without Delay upon a Life of ſtrict Religion and real Godlineſs. Let a grateful Senſe of the unmerited Goodneſs of God, effectually engage you, to make all proper and ſuitable Returns to Him, and to live to the Praiſe and Glory of the GOD of all your Salvations.

2. Let us be perſuaded to the ſteady Practice of thoſe Virtues and Rules of Prudence, that are conducive to the public Welfare, Strength and Tranquility. As for the preſent Peace, may it be laſting as it is welcome, and may Generations yet unborn, rejoice in the happy Conſequences of it. And in this Seaſon of Tranquility and Repoſe, it concerns us to turn our Attention tention to ſuch Things, as tend to render us a happy and flouriſhing People. The political Precautions that may be proper at this Juncture, being out of my Province, I leave to thoſe, who have the Conduct and Management of our public Affairs: But the improvement and Cultivation of moral Diſpoſitions and ſocial Virtues, muſt always be proper to be recommended from this Place. If we conſider, how much we are exhauſted, by the Length and Expenſiveneſs of the War;----how burdened with Debts, and how many Individuals in the Colony are ſunk, or ſinking apace under the Burden: It ſeems proper to call to Mind, the Neceſſity of checking and diſcouraging, a Spirit of Prodigality and Expenſive Vanity; which in the natural Train of Things tend to ſink us into Poverty and Diſgrace: And of promoting and cultivating Tranquility, Prudence and Induſtry, and a Method of living according to our Station and Ability: This would have a happy Tendency to render us a flouriſhing People. 'Tis likewiſe of high Importance, that we apply ourſelves to the diligent Practice of all ſocial Virtues and Duties:-----That we ſtudiouſly ſhun and avoid all injurious Treatment of Mankind----all Strife and Contention; and every Thing that has a Tendency to breed mutual Alienation, Diſguſt and Ill-will; and that we practiſe Equity and Moderation, Kindneſs, Charity and Beneficence, and every proper Art of mutual Indearment; and that we live together in unruffled Peace, Friendſhip, Love and Harmony: This would be our Strength, our Beauty and our Glory. 'Tis proper to obſerve further, that hardly any Thing more directly and effectually conduces to the Strength, Firmness and Prosperity of a State or People, than a Public Spirit, and a generous Regard to the Good of the Whole; and a Subordinating our private Views and Interest to the Welfare of the Public: A Sense of this should be fixed deep in our Hearts. Permit me also to remind you, on this Occasion, of how great Importance it is to the Welfare of the Community, that a wise and diligent Care be taken of the Education of Youth; that they be trained up in the Way, in which they ought to go; that so they may become Worthy Members, not only of the Churches of CHRIST, but of the Civil State. They should be form'd betimes to a Veneration and Reverence for Laws, both Human and Divine; and for all lawful Authority in Family, in Church and State---- to Industry, Diligence and Frugality; to every social and amiable Virtue; and to every Temper and Practice that tend to render them Blessings in the World: That so, when their Fathers fall asleep, a Generation may arise, who shall shine as Lights in the World, and mark their Way through Life with worthy and laudable Actions, to another and better World.

3. Let us be persuaded, from the Occasion of the present Solemnity, to look forward with Hope and Joy and Trust in God, to that State of Purity and Peace, the Church of Christ expects in the latter Day; and to the complete and endless Purity and Peace of the Heavenly World. 'Tis painful to a pious and benevolent Mind to consider the Miseries and Calamities Mankind have groaned under, from Generation to Generation, ever since ſince the Entrance of Sin into the World. Bloody Wars and Devaſtations, and Mankind purſuing and devouring one another like Beaſts of Prey; make up a great Part of the Hiſtory of paſt Ages: And whence come Wars and Fightings upon the Earth? They come from the Ambition and Luſts of Men: And will the Ambition and Luſts of Men always prevail to ſuch a Degree, as to drive Peace in a Manner, from the Earth; and render this lower World a Stage of Calamity and Miſery, an Aceldama, a Field of Blood? Will Satan, the god of this World, always prevail, to lead ignorant, ſtupid Mankind captive to their Ruin; and, as it were, go off the Stage victorious? This can hardly be thought: No, the Prince of Peace, is the Lion of the Tribe of Judah: He has bruiſed the Serpent's Head; and led Captivity captive: And He will aſſert the Conqueſt He has gained over the Powers of Darkneſs: He muſt reign and triumph; and His Cauſe will finally prevail: His Kingdom of Truth and Righteouſneſs and Peace, will be glorioufly ſet up, on the Ruins of Satan's Kingdom. A Period, a long and happy Period of a Thouſand Years, is juſtly expected; when Satan ſhall be bound, and the Goſpel of CHRIST ſhall be univerſally ſpread over all the Nations of the Earth; and the Earth ſhall be full of the Knowledge of the LORD, as the Waters cover the Sea; and Mankind in general through the Earth, in ſome good Degree, ſhall be conform'd in Heart and Life, to the Goſpel and Temper of JESUS: The glorious Goſpel will powerfully prevail, to the diſarming their fierce Paſſions; regulating their exorbitant Deſires, and inſpiring the moſt kindly and benevolent Sentiments: Hence, once for all, they will beat their Swords into Plow Shares, and their Spears into Pruning Hooks; and they will learn War no more: But Mankind, being united in the Sacred Bands of the Goſpel Charity, will dwell together in Love, in Peace and undiſturb'd Tranquility. This bleſſed Period, 'tis probable, will not come on, till we are dead and forgotten in the Earth: Yet ought we not, by Faith in the Word of GOD, to look forward to that Day, with Pleasure and Joy; and earneſtly breathe after that Purity and Holineſs, that Peace and Joy, which will then bleſs the Earth. But eſpecially does it concern us, to look forward with Faith and Hope and Joy, to the complete and endleſs Peace and Purity of the Heavenly World: Where there will be no Sin, nor Trouble, no War nor Uneaſiness; but all will be Purity, Peace and Happineſs. This bleſſed State, if we are the faithful Servants of CHRIST, we may juſtly expect; and it cannot be far off; for Death is haſtening upon us. This is that glorious Reſt, which GOD, of his unbounded Goodneſs and Grace, has prepared for all good Men. The Holineſs, the Joy and Glory of that World, far exceed our preſent Thoughts: "Eye hath not ſeen, nor Ear heard, nor have entered into the Heart of Man, the Things GOD has prepared for them that love Him." 'Tis of much greater Importance to us, that we diligently prepare for that World; than that we attempt to diſcribe it. Let us ſee to it, that the Goſpel has it's ſanctifying and ſaving Influence upon our Hearts and Lives; that we are accepted in the Beloved; and and intitled to the Heavenly Felicity; and that we act and live, as it becomes the Candidates for ſuch a Kingdom and World; and the Diſciples and Followers of the bleſſed JESUS: That we enjoy the ſolid Evidences of the ſpecial Love and Favour of GOD, and that Peace of GOD poſſeſs our Hearts, which paſſeth Underſtanding.

Let it be our Care, to live in Peace; in our Families, in our Neighbourhood, and with Mankind around us: And that we improve and flouriſh, more and more in the divine Life; and grow up by happy and ſwift Advances to a Meetneſs for a better World; ardently aſpiring and breathing after the complete Purity, Reſt and Happineſs of that State: So when we ſhall be call'd off from these Regions of Guilt and Miſery, of War and Bloodſhed; we ſhall aſcend to thoſe peaceful, bliſsful Realms on High; where no Sin will ever pollute; no enemy will ever moleſt; but all will be Peace and Joy and endleſs Tranquility.
